6204. Transfer of summons—From county court —When ordered.]—An order had been made in the county ct. for the winding up of a co.; & the liquidator, by a motion in the winding-up proceedings which was in the nature of a misfeasance summons, charged resp. with misfeasance or breach of trust involving a large sum of money. The affidavits sworn on the motion were voluminous, & the county ct. judge could not give the case a continuous hearing. In the event of an appeal from the county ct. the appeal would be first to a divisional ct., & the appeal to that ct. would be excluded if the motion were transferred to the High Ct. On an adjourned summons in co.'s winding up issued by resp. for the transfer of the proceedings to the High Ct.:—Held: (1) the proceedings must be transferred to the High Ct.; (2) the matter should be taken before the registrar in the winding up, who should direct, that before any further affidavits were filed points of claim & defence be delivered, & lists of documents or cross-orders for discovery made.—Re VESTAL HOSIERY CO., (1922), 91 L. 6205. Hearing of summons—On affidavit evidence—Cross-examination upon affidavits.]—The liquidators of a co. which was in course of being wound up took out a summons, under 1862 Act, s. 165, seeking to make the directors liable for misfeasance & breach of trust. Numerous affidavits were filed for & against the summons. The liquidators applied to the chief clerk to have the summons entered in the list of deponents taken in ct. at the hearing; but the chief clerk made an order refusing the application. The liquidators accordingly moved to discharge that order, on the ground that it would be much more convenient to have the summons treated as a witness action; & that, if the cross-examination took place before the chief clerk, or one of the examiners of the ct., a great deal of irrelevant matter would be gone into, & much time thus unnecessarily occupied:—Held: the application to discharge the chief clerk's order must be refused; unless a special case was shown, summonses of this nature were to be heard as summonses on affidavit evidence, & any cross-examination upon the affidavits must take place before one of the examiners of the ct.; & the present case was one which ought to go before an examiner of the ct.—Re FAURE ELECTRIC ACCUMULATOR CO., LTD. (1888), 58 L. Deft., a holder of shares at the date of the winding up of a co., being unable to pay the calls in full, an agreement was entered into between him & the liquidator, with the sanction of the ct., by which a certain sum & a transfer of all the contributory's interest in the co. were to be accepted by the liquidator in full discharge of all calls, claims, etc., which the co. or liquidator had or thereafter might have against him. The agreement contained a proviso that "nothing herein contained shall in any way prejudice or affect the rights or remedies of the co., or the liquidator or the creditors thereof, against any other contributories of the co., whether as present or past members thereof or otherwise, & that the liability of such members to contribute to the assets of the co. shall remain the same as if this agreement had not been made, save only to the extent of the sum paid" under the agreement. k. List settled by the court—Is a judgment.]—An order for the winding up of a co. was made, & a list of contributories was settled by the ct. An application was subsequently made to the ct. by L., one of the contributories, to have this list amended, one ground of the application being that a call had been made by the directors which they had resolved should not be sued for, in order that all the shareholders should be placed on the forfeit list preparatory to liquidation. This call, it was contended, was ultra vires of the directors, & therefore a nullity. No decision was given on this point, & the application was dismissed upon another ground. A summons was then taken out by the liquidator of the co., calling upon certain of the shareholders to show cause, as in L.'s previous application, why the list of contributories as settled by the ct. should not be amended. The ground of this application was the same as the one previously taken but not decided, viz., that the call made by the directors was a nullity.—Held: dismissing the application, the list already settled was, in effect, a judgment of the ct., & to make a fresh list of contributories would be equivalent to setting aside the court.]—By 1862 Act, s. 38, all “past members” of a co. which is being wound up are liable to contribute to the debts & liabilities of the co., subject to the conditions imposed by three sub-sects. of that sect.; (1) that the person has only ceased to be a member within the year; (2) that the debts must have been contracted before he ceased to be a member; & (3) that the “present members” are unable to satisfy the contributions required to discharge the debts of the co.—Making a call is within the discretion of the ct.; & the call will not be made if the ct. is satisfied that there are sufficient assets in the hands of the liquidators, but it will be made if there are only outstanding assets the realisation of which is doubtful both as to amount & time.—The affidavits to satisfy the ct. that a call ought to be made, need not enter into minute details to show why the liquidators declare themselves only able to realise a certain sum, but must state reasonable grounds for that opinion of the liquidators.—Past members who deem the statements of liquidators on a winding up to be insufficient to justify calls being made on them, must not wait till after a decision has been pronounced on those statements, & has been made the subject of appeal, but must at the time of those statements being made submit them to the process of a cross-examination.—Compromises with some of the existing members of a co. under a winding up, effected by the liquidators with the sanction of the ct., cannot operate as a release to the past members. A. & B. were shareholders in a co. then being compulsorily wound up under the provisions of 1862 Act, & B. was also a creditor of the co. An agreement was entered into between them, by which A. agreed to use his influence to obtain the postponement of a call then about to be made, & to support B.'s claim, & B. in consideration thereof agreed to pay all calls made on A.'s shares. In an action by A. against B. on this agreement for not paying certain calls made on his shares, B. pleaded that the agreement was made without the knowledge of the Ct. of Ch., or the other shareholders or creditors, & with the intent to obtain a postponement of the call & payment of dividends on the whole of B.'s debt to the prejudice of the other shareholders & creditors, though A. knew that B.'s claim was disputed, & believed that only a portion of it was due:—Held: plea was good as showing that the agreement was contrary to the policy of the winding-up Acts, & therefore void: Semble: that the agreement to support B.'s claim was also void as being within the spirit of the law against maintenance.—*ELLIOTT v. 6317. ———.]—(1) Sect. 95 of 1862 Act, enables the official liquidator of a co. in course of winding up, with the sanction of the Ct., to sell the whole of the assets of the co. en bloc.

(2) Although, as a general rule, when a liquidator is proposing to sell the assets of the co. with the sanction of the Ct., it is proper to obtain a valuation of the property to be sold, yet the Ct. will, in the absence of such a valuation, sanction a sale under peculiar circumstances—e.g. when an early sale is desirable & the assets are large, in distant & different parts of the world, & of fluctuating value.

(3) When asked to sanction a contract for the sale of the assets of a co. in liquidation, the Ct. is justified in acting principally on the information of the Ct. & the liquidator in the winding up, without requiring strict proof of all the circumstances.

(4) It is a strong ground for ordering an early sale of the assets that the liquidator, by retaining possession of the assets, is, by reason of their peculiar character, carrying on a speculation which may involve the creditors in loss, or greatly diminish their chances of being paid.

(5) The judge to whose Ct. a winding up is attached has a judicial discretion as to sanctioning a sale of the co.'s assets under the above sect.

(6) Although an appeal lies from the exercise of such discretion yet the Ct. of Appeal will only interfere when the judge has decided on a matter not within his discretion; or when his assumed discretion has been exercised on wrong principles; or when some great loss will be occasioned by a clearly erroneous exercise of discretion.

(7) When the Ct. has sanctioned a conditional private contract for the sale of the assets of a co., the Ct. ought not to entertain a subsequent, even to obtain decree under Cos. Act, 1862, ss. 121, 138, against contributories who had failed to make payment of calls.—ROBERTSON v. NORTHERN COUNTIES FIRE OFFICE (1875), 3 R. (Ct. of Sess.) 17; 13 Sc. L. R. 4.—SCOT.

B. moved to have this order rescinded:—Held: although the chief clerk was right in not adopting the provisional contract with B. if a larger sum could be obtained, the order for the sale of the property by public auction could not be supported, because it dealt with the property as if sold in a suit. m. — — — — — Sale "free from incumbrances"—Outstanding claim.—Deft., L., was liquidator of D. L. Mills, which by an order of Ontario High Ct. in Jan. 1906, was declared to be insolvent & liable to be wound up. Some time before the making of this order the co. had hypothecated its principal assets, including its stock of manufactured linens to the C. Bank to secure advances, & the bank had taken possession. By order of ct. the business was allowed to be carried on as a going concern by liquidator, & advances to be procured from the bank for wages, etc., to be repaid out of the first moneys coming into his hands. While so carrying it on, he advertised for tenders for purchase of the assets, & in Apr. 1906, an agreement was entered into between deft. & T., by which the latter became purchaser of the property of the co. "free from incumbrances" & transferred the same shortly after to pltf., a new co. formed to take over the business. Deft. received $5,800 on account of the purchase-money &, by direction of pltf., & on their undertaking to hold him harmless, paid it over to the C. Bank. It appeared that the insolvent co. used to send their goods to Scotland to be bleached, & a quantity was there when the winding-up order was made. The bleaching firm wrote to deft., stating the amount of their account in respect to their goods & asking for instructions. After some further correspondence liquidator wrote them full information as to what had been done, & stating that the proceeds of sale of the assets would hardly pay the bank's claim. He ended his letter by saying: "I, as liquidator, have no objection to your disposing of the goods on the highest market, applying the proceeds of such sale on your claim & advising me accordingly." Under the law of Scotland the bleachers had no right to sell the goods to satisfy their lien without complying with certain formalities, which they did not do. Pltf. brought action against liquidator, claiming damages for conversion of the goods so sold &, at the trial, were allowed to amend by adding a claim for breach of the contract to sell the assets of the insolvent co. "free from incumbrances":—Held: what liquidator had done fell far short of a legal conversion, & a liquidator by agreement is entitled to be held harmless by pltf., & therefore they cannot compel him to pay under the circumstances; pltf. treated & regarded the goods as delivered as far as deft. was concerned, & the claim upon the contract also failed as deft.'s letter quoted above did not amount to instructions to sell, & there was no breach of contract, as the term "free from incumbrances," as used in the contract with T., was not intended to apply to the charges for bleaching, but to the mtge. on the buildings & liens on the stock.—*DOMINION LINEN MANUFACTURING CO. v. After the commencement of the winding-up proceedings application was made to the ct. by the liquidator for an order permitting him to sell & dispose of the lands of the co. free from any lien or incumbrance so far as the recorded judgment was concerned:—Held: liquidator was entitled to the order applied for, subject to the condition that judgment creditor should be paid the costs of recovering judgment & there should be no costs of the application against the judgment creditor; further, there being no facts in dispute, leave to bring an action should be refused, the only result of which would be to increase costs & delay the winding-up proceedings.—*Re McDONALD (A. o. — — — — — Sale not "subject to existing mortgage or lien"—Rights of mortgagees & lien-holders.—In a proceeding for the winding up of the co., liquidator was authorised by the ct. to sell & did sell all the assets of the co., including a ship, for $67,500, of which $5,000 was for the ship. A bank held a mtge. upon the ship, & there were wages due to seamen, for which they were entitled to maritime liens. The ship was not, as between vendor & purchaser, sold subject either to the mtge. or the liens. Some time after the sale & delivery to purchaser, the ship was destroyed. After the sale, the bank valued their security at $5,000, & claimed that sum in the hands of liquidator. The lien-holders claimed a first charge upon that fund:—Held: both the bank & lien-holders had the same rights in the fund as they had in the ship, & the latter were entitled to the first charge contended for.—Re FORT GEORGE LUMBER CO. (1913), 25 W. Sale of outstanding debts—Reduction of sale.—In the course of winding up the affairs of a joint-stock co., their outstanding debts, including a debt alleged to be due by one of the shareholders, were sold by public roup, & were purchased by a party who was one of the directors appointed to superintend the winding up, who acted as law-agent, & stood otherwise in a confidential relation to the co. In an action of reduction of

Brazil, the ct. sanctioned the sale by the official liquidator of all the co.'s assets in Brazil, & the release of all rights against contributories there, in consideration of the payment of a lump sum, it being shown that there would be great difficulty in realising the property, & that it would be practically impossible to recover any calls.—Re PARAGUASSU STEAM TRAMROAD CO., LTD. (1873), 42 L. W. entered into the arrangement on behalf of E., an officer of the co. After this the liquidators brought forward claims against E. & some of the directors, alleging that they had improvidently sold property of the co. at an undervalue, & seeking to make them liable for the loss, & also alleging that E. & some of the directors had purchased for the co. certain property, & concealed the fact that it had shortly before been bought by E. for little more than half the amount, & seeking to make them liable for the difference. The existence of these claims was not known at the time when the above arrangement was entered into. E. took out a summons to restrain the liquidators from prosecuting these claims without his consent, which application was refused:—Held: claims of this nature were "things in action" of the co. within 1862 Act, s. 95 (3), & could be assigned by the official liquidator.—Re PARK GATE WAGGON WORKS CO. (1881), 17 Ch. Subsequently some creditors & a shareholder applied to the ct. for an injunction to restrain the liquidator from acting upon the agreement, & for directions to the liquidator to sell & get in the co.'s assets:—Held: (1) the object of the agreement being merely to make the shares of value so as, if possible, to resuscitate the co., the agreement was not within 1862 Act, s. 95, which provides that the official liquidator of a co. in liquidation shall have power, with the sanction of the ct., to carry on the business of the co., so far as it may be "necessary for the beneficial winding

the sale, at the instance of the shareholder, the debt due by whom had been brought to sale:—Held: as a partner of co., as well as the party from whom payment of the debt was demanded, pursuer had a title to insist in a reduction of the sale, & it was not a valid objection that the action could only proceed with the concurrence of the co.; an approval of the sale at a general meeting of shareholders did not, in the circumstances, bar pursuer's right to challenge it; & the sale being illegal & invalid, decree of reduction must be pronounced.—*THORBURN v. Pending the agreement an order was made for the winding up of pltf. co. under the supervision of the ct., in pursuance of a resolution previously passed by the co., & liquidators were appointed, who joined the co. in assigning the benefit of the contract to another co., upon the terms that such co. should perform the stipulations by the assignors contained in the original contract. The assignees took over the repairing stations of pltf. & the staff of workmen employed by them, & were always ready & willing to execute all necessary repairs to the waggons:—Held: defts. had no defence to an action for rent, upon the ground that pltf. co. had incapacitated itself from performing its contract; for, the voluntary liquidation of the co. was immaterial, the liquidators having power under 1862 Act, ss. 95, 131, to continue the letting of the waggons; & moreover, the repair of the waggons by the co. to whom the contract was assigned was a sufficient performance by pltf. co. of its agreement to repair.—*BRITISH WAGGON CO. v. The objects for which the co. was established included the sale of perishable goods. It was asked that the order might contain a direction that the official receiver might be at liberty to carry on the business as a going concern. There appeared to be no provision for carrying on the business of a co. pending applications under 1890 (Winding up) Act, ss. 5, 12. The ct. made the usual winding-up sect. 95, to sanction him in carrying on the co.'s business for six months, & to declare that the expenses thereby incurred should be a first charge on the assets. The application stated that the mineral oil trade was in a state of severe depression, which rendered the property of the co. unsaleable except at ruinous sacrifice; & that he considered it of great importance that the mines' & works should be kept going for a time, until it was seen whether a sale could be effected on favourable terms, or a suitable scheme of reconstruction carried through. The great majority of the creditors of the co., secured & unsecured, expressed their approval of the liquidator's proposal, which was opposed by three creditors only, whose debts were of small amount.

The ct. refused the application, holding that the powers craved were not necessary for the beneficial winding up of the co.—BURNTISLAND OIL CO. (IN LIQUIDATION) v. DAWSON (1892), 20 R. (Ct. of Sess.) 242; 30 Sc. L. R. 180.—SCOT.

6342. Damages for improper forfeiture of shares.]—C., a holder of shares in a limited co., had a call made upon him in June, 1886, which he did not pay at the time appointed by the directors; & they, by a resolution of the board, forfeited the shares, without having previously given C., in accordance with one of the arts. of assocn., notice that if he failed to pay on or before the day appointed for payment they might at any time forfeit them. The directors allotted the forfeited shares to numerous shareholders. The shares were, at the date of forfeiture, at a premium. In June, 1888, the co. was ordered to be wound up. In Feb., 1889, C. applied, under another art. of assocn., to be allowed to prove in the liquidation for damages for the irregularity of the directors in ordering the forfeiture:—Held: there had been an irregularity by the directors in not giving notice to C., & he was entitled to prove for damages under the arts., & in competition with the other creditors of the co., 1862 Act, s. 38 (7), not applying to the case.—Re NEW CHILE GOLD MINING CO. (1890), 45 Ch. 6343. Contract to repair ship—Continuing breach after winding up.]—A shipbuilding co. agreed to repair a ship within a certain time. Before the repairs were executed an order was made for winding up the co. After some time an order was obtained in the winding up, with the assent of the shipowners, that the official liquidator should be at liberty to complete the repairs, which he did, & the ship was, long after the time agreed upon, delivered to the owners & sent on a voyage:—Held: (1) the shipowners were entitled, under 1862 Act, s. 158, to recover damages from the co. for the delay in executing the repairs, & these damages continued after the winding up, notwithstanding General Order of Nov. 11, 1862, r. 25; (2) under the circumstances, the shipowners could not recover damages for an injury to the ship alleged to have been done whilst she was in the possession of the co.—*Re TRENT & HUMBER CO., Ex p. Co. for 500 tons of rails at a certain price, to be paid for by three months' acceptances from the date of delivery. The managing director of E. Co. was also a director of C. Co. The rails were intended to be used in the construction of a railway which the managing director of C. Co., & not the co. itself, had undertaken to make. The rails were made, but were not delivered, in consequence of C. Co. being ordered to be wound up:—Held: the order was binding on C. Co., & E. Co. was entitled to prove in the winding up for damages occasioned by the non-acceptance of the rails, & the ct. would not sanction the giving of acceptances by the official liquidator for the price of the rails.—Re CONTRACT CORPN., EBBW VALE CO.'S CLAIM (1869), L. 6346. —.]—A co. entered into a contract with a firm of engineers for the supply of certain machines for the co.'s use. Before the machines were delivered the co. went into voluntary liquidation & the liquidator refused to accept delivery. The firm claimed to prove as creditors in the winding up for their full loss of profit. At the commencement of the winding up the articles which the co. was still under contract to buy consisted of (a) machines which the creditors had manufactured, but not delivered; (b) machines which the creditors had not commenced to manufacture. The former were altered & then sold elsewhere for a price less than that which the co. had contracted to pay. It was not proved that the creditors' works were not sufficiently ample to have enabled them to perform their contract with the co. in addition to other contracts which they actually performed for other customers:—Held: as to (a), there being no available market for the goods as originally made, the measure of damage was the whole loss of profit which the creditors had suffered, & not merely the loss on resale plus the costs of alteration; as to (b), the measure of damages was the full amount of prospective profits which the creditors had lost by non-fulfilment of their contract.—Re VIC MILL, LTD., [1913] 1 Ch. 465; 82 L. No day was fixed for the completion of the transfer of the business & offices. In fact, the transfer was never carried out; but the co. was started, & it transacted business, & L. admitted a committee of its directors to his offices, which he vacated, removing his clerks to a higher storey in the same building, where he continued to transact his business pending the completion of the contract, which he was always anxious & willing to effect by handing over books & executing legal transfers. The contract never was completed, owing to the default of the co. a director of the co., for valuable consideration in the shape of money lent & services rendered. A. afterwards surrendered the debentures to be cancelled in exchange for 500 shares in the co. of £2 each issued to him as fully paid up. No contract was ever registered in respect of the shares as required by 1867 Act, s. 25, & in the winding up of the co., A. was settled on the list of contributories & called upon to pay the full amount of the shares:—Held: there having been a breach of contract on the part of the co., A. was entitled to prove in the liquidation for damages for the full amount of the calls made against him.—*Re GREAT AUSTRALIAN GOLD MINING CO., Ex p. (2) A co. issued preference shares at a discount, the certificates declaring the shares so issued to be fully-paid shares. It was doubtful whether there was a contract to issue the shares as fully-paid shares or only a contract to issue the shares at a discount, but no contract was registered under 1867 Act, s. 25. The shares issued were not in fact fully-paid. The co. went into liquidation, & a holder of some of the shares in question was placed on the list of contributories, & paid the liquidator the amount remaining unpaid thereon. The holder claimed to prove against the co. in the winding up for damages, to the amount of the call paid by him, "for breach of contract or otherwise in relation to the issue of the shares":—Held: even assuming there was a contract to issue the shares as fully-paid, the holder of the shares was precluded, by the above principle,

Before the expiry of the above period, an order was obtained for the winding up of the co., whereupon certain subscribers claimed to rank on the assets as creditors in respect of damages alleged to have been sustained by them through the co.'s failure to supply them with books, etc., during the residue of the term:—Held: only nominal damages were recoverable, for beyond this the damages were of too speculative or conjectural a nature to be maintained, nor could any part of the subscriptions be recovered back on the ground of it being unearned.—Re PUBLISHERS' SYNDICATE (1904), 7 O. Subsequently an order for the winding up of deft. co. was made, & the liquidator sold the premises without giving pltf. an opportunity to exercise his option:—Held: the winding-up order did not in any way cut down the rights of pltf. or change his position; the liquidator was authorised to sell the premises, but only subject to the terms & conditions of the lease; & he was bound to submit to pltf., who had not waived his rights, the offer received, & not having done so, the deft. co. were liable in damages, notwithstanding that pltf. was aware that the liquidator was making efforts to sell the premises.—MCCARTER v.

e. Contract to purchase shares in consideration of appointment.—Company to repurchase on completion of service.]—Pltf. became salesman to & manager of deft. co., now in liquidation, for a period of two years at a salary of £20 per month. In consideration of his appointment pltf. took & paid for 200 fully paid-up £1 shares in the co., it being agreed that pltf. should not alienate his shares during the period of two years, & at the end of that period, if pltf. desired, the co. should repurchase the shares at par. The contract was entered into on behalf of the company by S., the managing director, who represented that he had power to enter into the contract. Table A. of Cos. Act in substance regulated the working of the co. No formal delegation of their powers was made to S. by the other directors, but in practice they allowed him to superintend the business of the co. Before the lapse of the period of two years the co. went into liquidation. The liquidators having repudiated the contract, pltf. sued them for damages based on the amount of the purchase price of the shares & salary for the unexpired portion of the period of two years:—Held: the undertaking by the co. to repurchase pltf.'s shares from putting in any proof in the winding up in respect of damages for breach of contract.

6356. Contract to carry on business with another company—Company wound up under Trading with Enemy Acts.]—In 1887 the F. Co. was formed for the purpose of selling in this country the gas mantles of a German firm. In 1906 the M. Co. was formed to manufacture the mantles in this country. Until the outbreak of war in 1914 the raw material was supplied from Germany by the German firm. After the outbreak of war the supply of raw materials from Germany ceased to be forthcoming. In Dec. 1915, a contract was entered into between the two cos. in which they made provision for the further carrying on of the business. Clause 4 of this contract was as follows: "This arrangement to endure until the expiration of six calendar months from the date peace is declared between England & Germany." At the end of 1916 an order was made under Trading with the Enemy Amendment Act, 1916 (c. 105), s. 1, requiring that the business of the M. Co. should be wound up, & conferring on the controller power to sell & power to carry on the business with a view to its winding up. In Apr. 1917, W., who was then supervisor & controller of the M. Co. & supervisor of the F. Co., sold the factory & business of the M. Co. to outside purchasers. A claim for damages for breach of contract having been made by the F. Co., the liquidator refused it. These proceedings were then instituted & it was admitted that, apart from certain special defences raised, there had been a breach entitling the F. Co. to damages. It was contended, however, that no claim for damages existed on the ground, inter alia, that the claim was one for damages for breach of an agreement to carry on the M. Co.'s business which an executive act, the order of the Board of Trade, had made it illegal to carry on:—Held: the position was no different from what it would have been in the ordinary case of a winding up by the ct. under 1908 Act, & the claim must be admitted for such an amount, if any, as upon a consideration of the evidence to be submitted to him the liquidator might consider proper.—Re BRITISH INCANDESCENT MANTLE WORKS, LTD. (1923), 129 L. was illegal & unenforceable, as it was in effect an unauthorised reduction of the capital of the co., but that it did not go to the root of the contract, which was primarily one of service, & as it was not inequitable that pltf. should be allowed to claim in competition with other creditors he was entitled to recover damages for breach of the contract of service, but not for failure to repurchase the shares.—*WOLFE v. Impossibility of performance.]—A co. entered into an absolute contract to employ A. as agent for three years from the date of the agreement, & in consideration thereof A. contracted to advance the co. certain moneys & to act as its adviser & agent during that period. For so doing he was to receive in each year a stated commission on the co.'s gross output. Before the expiration of the term of three years the co., owing to bad seasons & strong competition by another co., was carrying on its business at a loss & was forced to sell out to the opposing co. In order to carry out the sale, which was advised & carried through by A., it was necessary to go into voluntary liquidation, A., who was a member of the co., con-curring in & voting for this course. A. sought to prove in the winding up for damages, made up of the amount of commission which it was estimated would have been earned on the gross output for the period the contract had yet to run at the date of the winding up:—Held: the co. in ceasing to carry on its business acted under stress of circumstances for which it was not responsible & which for all practical purposes was irresistible, & there was no breach of the agreement by the co. By clause 5, the co. & the three directors granted appct. the right on applying to the co. therefor & paying for the same at par within one year from July 1, 1915, to acquire from the co. shares equal to one-third of the share capital issued at that date, & the directors undertook to procure an allotment accordingly. It was provided that if & when appct. acquired the shares his commission should cease, but his employment should continue for ten years from July 1, 1915, at £5 a week. He was not to part with the shares within the ten years without the written consent of the three directors. On Nov. 16, 1915, a compulsory winding-up order was made, before appct. had exercised his option under clause 5. On Dec. 3, 1915, appct. obtained employment with one of the directors who continued to carry on a similar business. He was engaged at £5 a week without commission & subject to a week's notice. On Jan. 22, 1916, appct. sent in a proof claiming: (a) arrears of salary & commission up to the winding up; (b) damages for loss of salary from the winding up to June 30, 1916; (c) damages for loss of commission during the same period; & (d) damages for loss of his option to take up shares & obtain a ten years' appointment. On Apr. 13, 1916, the liquidator admitted the proof in respect of (a), & in respect of (b), only up to the date that appct. obtained his new employment. He rejected the rest of the proof. On May 3, 1916, appct. appealed & claimed to have the proof allowed in full. Appct. admitted that his present employment, though throughout precarious, would in all probability continue till June 30, 1916, but contended that the damages ought to be assessed as at the date of the breach of contract having regard to the then probability of his obtaining full employment for the term:—Held: (1) appct. had not proved any damages under head (b) beyond what the liquidator had allowed; (2) the claim for damages under head (c) was not maintainable; (3) clause 5 implied that any application for shares thereunder must be made while the co. was in existence, & as appct. had not fulfilled the condition precedent to obtaining a ten years' appointment, he was not entitled to damages under head (d).—*Re NEWMAN (R. The manager, while the co. was carrying on business, drew bills upon them from time to time for the monthly payments of his salary payable in Chile in Chilean dollars in an amount of dollars that would at those dates, at the then rate of exchange, be equivalent to the amount of his sterling claim. These drafts were not paid by the co.; & on the co. subsequently going into liquidation the manager claimed to prove in the liquidation for the amounts of the unpaid instalments calculated in pounds sterling, the rate of exchange having fallen since the dates when the bills were drawn:—Held: the co. not having paid the manager in the manner in which he "directed" by drawing the bills, his position was that of a person whose salary, at the rate of £1,000 per annum, was unpaid; & he was entitled to prove for his unpaid salary at the sterling rate.—Re TAL TAL CHILE NITRATE CO., LTD. (1895), 73 L. 6383. — Expenses for protest for non-payment—Expenses of protest for better security.]—A bank abroad drew bills of exchange on a bank in London, which were duly accepted.

The London bank went into liquidation before the bills matured, & after the stoppage of the bank, the holders had them protested for better security, & they were accepted supra protest for the honour of the drawers by the drawers' London bankers. The bills were duly presented for payment to the acceptors & were protested by the holders for non-payment. They were then presented to the bankers of the drawers, who paid the principal money due on the bills together with the notarial charges thereon, which consisted partly of the expenses of protest for non-payment & partly of the expenses of protest for better security. The bankers of the drawers also charged the drawers a commission for accepting the bills. The drawers were admitted to prove in the winding up of the London bank for the amount of the bills, & they claimed to prove also in respect of the notarial charges & commission. This claim the liquidator rejected:—Held: (1) upon summons for leave to prove in respect of the latter claims, appcts. were entitled to prove for the expenses of protest for non-payment, as being expenses falling within Bills of Exchange Act, 1882 (c. 61), ss. 51 (2), 57 (1), but they were not entitled to prove in respect of the expenses of protest for better security nor for the commission, as, under sect. 57 of the Act, such expenses only as are "necessary" are recoverable; (2) the protest mentioned in sect. 68 (6) of the Act means the protest for non-payment which is necessary; (3) the Act not only does not give but excludes the expenses of the protest for better security.—*Re ENGLISH BANK OF THE RIVER PLATE, Ex p. He paid the proceeds into a bank to the account of a firm to which he belonged, & in his character of a member of that firm drew cheques on the account in favour of the co.; it was alleged that, out of the amounts so drawn, he actually made payments for the benefit of the co. The bill-discounter had not negotiated the bills. In the winding up of the co., the discounter asked for an inquiry, what amount of proceeds of the bills had thus reached the co., & claimed for the amount when ascertained:—Held: an inquiry must be directed as to the amount of the proceeds of the bills had been

t. General rule—Right to interest.]—Pltf. bank sued a co. in liquidation for money due under a cash credit loan bond mortgaging certain properties. One of the pleas was that pltf. was not entitled to any interest after the date on which the co. went into liquidation:—Held: as far as possible the rules of bkpcy. were applicable to liquidation matters & when a co. went into liquidation a secured creditor might realise his security & prove for any balance outstanding. The remaining assets of the co. would in that case only be liable for such principal & interest as was due on the date of the winding-up order. A secured creditor was in the case of a liquidation on the same footing as in that of insolvency proceedings. The property hypothecated was thus liable for the whole claim, principal & interest up to date of realisation & it was only the liability of the remaining assets that could be affected by the winding-up order.—*RAM CHAND v. 6394. ————.]—(1) On the winding up of a co., creditors from whose course of dealing with it there can be implied a contract to pay interest are entitled to interest on admitted debts to the date of paying a final dividend, provided there be surplus assets. This is so notwithstanding the debt is for money deposited to secure a wagering contract.

(2) The duty of a liquidator is to distribute the assets according to the rights of the parties; therefore a receipt for final dividend expressed to be in full discharge of all claims is no release of a claim for interest if the liquidator knew the question was to be raised.

(3) The amount of a debt admitted to proof is the amount at the date of winding up; therefore, if the amount has been settled by compromise under order of the ct., this does not negative a right to subsequent interest.—*Re DUNCAN (W. Bills of exchange were accepted by the E. Co., at the request of the O. Co., upon an undertaking by the O. Co. that it would provide funds to meet the bills at maturity. The bills were indorsed by the O. Co., & discounted; but before they arrived at maturity, both the E. & the O. Act, 1875 (c. 77), s. 10, which provides that in the winding up of cos. the same rules shall prevail & be observed as to debts & liabilities provable as may be in force for the time being under the law of bkpcy., does not comprise, among such liabilities, the obligations of a co. in liquidation under covenants in a lease to pay rent & not to assign without consent, no breach having taken place. A mtgee. in possession of a lessor to a co., now in liquidation, claimed to have impounded out of the assets a sum equal to the aggregate future rent, or such other sum as might be sufficient to provide for the liabilities of the co. under the lease; or, if such a sum could not be raised, to be admitted to prove for the amount:—Held: there was no privity of a contract between appct. & the co., & until breach he could not have assets impounded or be admitted to prove.—Re WESTBOURNE GROVE DRAPERY CO. (1877), 5 Ch. 6416. Whether set-off against unpaid calls due—For advances to pay debts to company.]—A joint-stock co. was formed in England for working mines in Germany, subject to the terms of a deed of settlement, which provided that the capital should be £50,000, & gave no powers to the directors to raise money except by the creation of new shares. That capital was paid up & proved insufficient for working the mines. The wages of the miners being in arrear, & other debts being due, the managing directors obtained advances from some of the shareholders for the purpose of paying those debts & preventing the mines from being seized under the law of the country. The directors also borrowed other sums on their personal guarantee from the bankers of the co., not for payment of debts, but for carrying on the business of the co. in its ordinary course, & they afterwards repaid the bankers these advances. The co. was wound up:—Held: (1) the advances made by the shareholders to pay debts of the co. might be set off by them with interest against a call; (2) although the advances made by the bankers did not constitute a debt due to them from the co., the directors having no power to borrow, the directors were entitled to be allowed the amounts repaid by them to the bankers, the directors being trustees, & in that character entitled to indemnity from their cestuis que trust against expenses bonâ fide incurred.—*Re GERMAN MINING CO., BALL'S CASE, Ex p. 6418. ——— Payment after winding up.]—A director of an unlimited co., paid to the bankers of the co., after a winding-up order, & after a call had been made, £500 in respect of an overdraft of the co., for which he had become surety. On summons asking the ct. to declare that under 1862 Act, s. 101, the director was entitled to set off this sum against £875, due from him for calls on shares, it was held that, the payment being made after the winding up, this was not a case of a co. carrying on business & incurring a debt to bankers in the ordinary way, & that the director was not entitled to set off the debts against calls. On appeal:—Held: the amount, if any, owing to the director was one which could only be ascertained by inquiry; it was not clear that the director had any claim to be repaid; & the ct., in the exercise of the discretion given by the sect., ought not to allow the set-off.—Re NORWICH EQUITABLE FIRE INSURANCE CO., BRASNETT'S CASE (1885), 53 L. due to shareholder.]—A co. while a going concern sued a shareholder for a call, & he set up a defence of set-off to an amount exceeding the amount of the call, & obtained by consent a verdict for the balance. Before this verdict was obtained, a petition for winding up the co. of which the shareholder had no actual notice was filed, upon which a winding-up order was made subsequent to the verdict:—Held: the ordinary rule applied, that a shareholder cannot, after the commencement of a winding up set off a debt due to him from the co. against a call made in the winding up.—Re SPADLER, LTD. (1904), 4 S. R. N. S. W. 619.—AUS.

f. ———.]—A co. assigned to plff. bank by way of mtge. all calls then due to the co. by shareholders & unpaid, including an amount due for such calls by debt. After the assignment, but before notice of it to debt, the co. became indebted to debt. for goods sold & delivered in the ordinary course of business, in an amount exceeding the amount due by him for calls. No statement of account was ever rendered by debt. to the co., nor by the co. to debt. in which the one amount was set-off against the other. The co. went into liquidation, & the bank, subsequently to the date of the winding-up order, gave notice of its mtge. to debt. In an action by the bank to recover the calls due by debt.:—Held: (1) Cos. Act, 1882, s. 34, would have prevented a set-off by debt. of the price of the goods sold & delivered by him to the co., even if the co. itself had been suing, & there could therefore be no set-off as against the bank; (2) apart from sect. 34, the fact that the co. was in liquidation would have prevented any set-off, although an assignee, & not the liquidator himself, was suing.—BANK

6421. Payment by surety of debt after winding up.]—Whilst it is contrary to the policy of the law to permit a debtor to an estate that is being wound up to buy up counterclaims subsequently to the winding-up order, for the purpose of making a case of set-off; yet it is otherwise where there is an actual ownership of a counterclaim, which, though arising subsequently to the winding-up order, is a consequence of some anterior matter. A co. entered into a contract for the purchase of mines which were subject to a mtge. for £7,000, & B., a shareholder in the co., was a surety to the mtgee. for the mtgor.-vendor. Part of the agreement was, that the co. should pay off the mtge. debt in May, 1862; but the co. failing to do this, handed to the mtgee. a promissory note of the co. for £7,000 at six months, dated in Sept. 1862. In Oct. following, a winding-up order was made; & in Feb. 1863, the mtgee. pressing for his money, B. induced his sister to pay off the mtge. debt, & take a transfer of the securities, including the promissory note, which shortly after fell due & was dishonoured. B. having been settled on the list of contributories, obtained a transfer of the co.'s note from his sister, giving her his own promissory note instead; & then asserted his right to set off his claim against the co. in respect of the promissory note pro tanto against the sum due from him for calls:—Held: the payment by B. to the transferee of the mtge. related back to the claim of the mtgee. anterior to the winding-up order, & B. was entitled to a set-off.—Re MOSELEY GREEN COAL & COKE CO., LTD., BARRETT'S CASE (No. 2) (1865), 4 De G. C. procured & handed to the solr. of B. two promissory notes of the co. for £500, one at 18, the other at 24 months date, in order, as the solr. deposed, to indemnify B. in respect of his liability to the co. Within eight months after the date & delivery of the notes, a winding-up order was made:—Held: B. was not entitled to set off the notes against a call due from him in respect of 250 shares.—Re MOSELEY GREEN COAL & COKE CO., LTD., BARRETT'S CASE (No. 2) (1865), 4 De G. On Feb. 25, 1880, H. assigned these debts for value to T., who gave notice on the day following to the official liquidator of the co. At the time T. was not aware of any claim or demand by the co. against H. On Feb. 5, 1880, the official liquidator took out a summons against H. for damages for a misfeasance in respect of the 85 shares. On July 28, 1880, an order was made on the summons for payment by H. to the official liquidator of a sum of £2,000. There being no mutual credit, & consequently no set-off of these two debts, the question now raised was how the claim by the F. Co. for £5,100 against the T. g. — Expenses of interpleader proceedings.]—Creditors' Relief Act, Alta., 1910 (2nd sess.), c. 4, s. 5 (4), gives creditors, contributing to the expense of interpleader proceedings in order to contest adverse claims, a special statutory preference, lien, charge or salvage as a reward for taking the risk & expense involved in the proceedings, & such preference or lien, etc., does not arise simply out of an unsatisfied execution but arises from the statute. These contesting creditors are not deprived of their statutory preference by Dominion Winding-up Act, R. S. C., 1906, c. 144, s. 84, as amended 1908, 7-8 Edw. 7, c. 75, the debtor, a limited co., having been placed in liquidation & the liquidator subsequently making a claim without having participated in the interpleader proceedings.—*Dominion Lumber Co. & Revillon Wholesale, Ltd. v. These liquidators realised the assets & removed the proceeds to the Transvaal:—Held: the liquidators in the distribution of the assets among the creditors were bound to recognise a preference to which a Cape creditor was entitled according to Cape law & should rank his claim as preferent in respect to payment from the proceeds realised from the Cape assets.—*CAPE GOVERNMENT v. The bank had notice that their customers were letter receivers, & drew cheques for Post Office purposes. 1. Whether Provincial Government claims entitled to priority.]—The effect of British North America Act, 1867 (c. 3), is not to sever all connection between the Crown & the Provinces of the Dominion, so as to make the Government of the Dominion the only Government of the Queen in North America, & reduce the Provincial Governments to the rank of municipal institutions; but the several Provincial Governments remain as Governments of the Queen within the limits prescribed by the Act, & therefore the claim of a Provincial Government in a liquidation is for a Crown debt to which the prerogative attaches, & it is entitled to payment in full in priority to other creditors.—*MARITIME BANK OF CANADA (LIQUIDATORS) v. 6465. 1908 Act, s. 209—Preferential rights against debenture-holders.]—A co. limited by guarantee was in May, 1913, ordered to be wound up compulsorily. In 1912 the co. had issued a debenture giving a floating charge over its property to secure advances made to it. These were further secured by a trust deed which comprised all the property of the co., except the sums

the goods of deft. co. for three years' taxes then due, by the representation of the principal creditor of the co. that certain arrangements were being made in reference to the taking over & continuance or winding up of the business, & that further time was desired, & that the taxes would be paid in any case. Subsequently, a petition was presented under Winding-up Act for the winding up of the co.:—Held: when the city abandoned its levy & the winding-up proceedings intervened, & general creditors' rights accrued, the city had no claim or right to priority over other creditors, except under the provisions of the city charter, as to rates & taxes for the then current year.—*HALIFAX CITY v. payable by the members of the co. under their guarantees in the event of the co. being wound up. No other debenture was issued. In July, 1913, the trustees of the deed, with the concurrence of the debenture-holder, sold the property comprised in the deed, & realised a sum which after payment of expenses was not enough to satisfy the amount secured by the debenture. Meanwhile rates became due in respect of club premises occupied by the co. The liquidator of the co. received from the guarantors certain moneys which after payment thereof of the costs of the liquidation left a balance of only £1 8s. The liquidator had no other assets of the co. in his hands. In an action by the rating authority & the co. as joint plffs. against the debenture-holder for the amount due for rates:—Held: the effect of the above sect. is that the costs & expenses of the winding up are payable out of the assets of the co. not comprised in the debenture security before any payment by the liquidator in respect of preferential debts, & the whole amount due for rates, less the sum of £1 8s., was payable by the debenture-holder out of the proceeds of the sale of the property sold by the trustee without prejudice to the debenture-holder's right to be repaid from any further moneys received by the liquidator from the guarantors.—*WESTMINSTER CORPN. v. Sect. 209 of 1908 Act deals with the winding up of a co. as one continuous process which may be commenced as a voluntary & continued as a compulsory winding up, & there is nothing to show that persons who have acquired preferential rights under the voluntary winding up are to be deprived of them if a compulsory order is made.—Re HAVANA EXPLORATION CO., LTD., NATHAN'S CLAIM, [1916] 1 Ch. 8; 85 L. B. acted as a purchasing agent & general manager, & R. not only as secretary-treasurer, but as a book-keeper, etc. When the assignment was made there was owing to B. & R. for salary, a sum in excess of three months' salary, & nothing had been paid to them for services rendered during the three months immediately preceding the date of the assignment:—Held: they were entitled to priority for wages in respect of services rendered to the bkpt. co. during the three months before the date of the assignment.

The mere fact that a director who claims priority for wages is a superior officer of a co. does not of itself deprive him of priority. The action is upon the original debt.—GUENARD v. COE (1914), 28 W. L. R. 250.—CAN.

q. — Whether liability joint or several—Ontario Companies Act, 2

Geo. V. (c. 31), s. 96.—It is not necessary to join all directors of a co. as debts. in a personal action against one or more of the directors for the payment of wages.

An action was begun within a year from debts. having ceased to be directors; & after the expiration of the year, it was discontinued against debt., K., who was resident in a foreign country. The action was for wages recovered in a judgment against the co. of which debts. were directors:—Held: debts.' liability under above sect. was several as well as joint & pltf. was entitled to sue them separately.—*REUCKWALD v. b. Lien-holders.—The holders of mechanics' liens filed against mineral claims owned by a co. which was subsequently ordered to be wound up, recovered judgment thereon in the county ct. the same day the winding-up order was made. In the list of creditors made up by the liquidator the lien claimants did not appear as secured creditors, but as judgment creditors. The winding-up order was made on the petition of H., a surveyor, who held the field notes of the survey made by him & who afterwards proposed that he advance the moneys necessary to obtain Crown grants of the claims & retain a lien on them until he was paid; the liquidator applied to the ct. for leave to accept the proposal & an order was made, without claims against the co. as if such liabilities had been originally loans specially authorised & secured by mtge. under the arts. No mtge. was executed, the resolution was not communicated to the bankers, & no charge on the property of the co. in favour of the bankers or the guaranteeing directors was registered under the 1862 Act, s. 43:—Held: in the winding up of the co., the resolution not having been communicated to the bankers did not entitle them to a charge on the property of the co.; & assuming the resolution to have created a charge in favour of the guaranteeing directors, their omission to register it disentitled them to set it up against the general creditors of the co.—*Re WYNN HALL COAL CO., Ex p. k. Whether bank can be ordered to value security—Personal guarantee of directors.]—A bank, to which the directors of a co. have given a personal guarantee, cannot be forced to value its security in the winding up of the co. & the position is not changed by a creditor who holds the co.'s acceptances for the amount of his debt also holds debentures issued to him by the co. as a collateral security for the same debt, his right of proof is limited to the sum that is due to him, & does not extend to the amount secured by the debentures.—Re BLAKELY ORDNANCE CO., METROPOLITAN & PROVINCIAL BANK'S CLAIM (1869), L. R. 8 Eq. 244; 21 L. T. 12; 17 W. R. 869.

6496. — Proof for nominal value.—The directors of a co. were empowered to issue 100 mtge. debentures at £95 for £100. Sixty of these debentures were duly taken up; the other forty were afterwards mortgaged by the directors by way of collateral security for an advance of money. The co. was afterwards wound up:—Held: the mtge. was not ultra vires, & the mtgees. would receive dividends on the whole amount expressed to be secured by their debentures, pari passu with the holders of the other sixty debentures.—Re REGENT'S CANAL IRONWORKS CO. (1876), 3 Ch. 6497. Securities deposited against general credit—Not available to holders of particular bills.—L. deposited certain securities with a co. upon an agreement that the co. might sell them & apply the proceeds in reimbursing themselves any money owing by L. to them. Subsequently the co. accepted bills for L.'s accommodation. Afterwards, before the bills were paid, the co. went into liquidation, & L. made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors. The only liability of L. to the co. was in respect of these bills:—Held: neither the bill holders nor L. were entitled to have the proceeds of the sale of the securities applied in payment of the bills.—Re NEW ZEALAND BANKING CORPN., LEVI & CO.'S CASE (1869), L. (c) Amendment of Proof.

6498. When allowed—Uncertainty as to value of security—Right to increase or diminish proof.—Mtgees. of real estate of a limited co. which had been ordered to be wound up contracted to sell part of their security under their power of sale. The deposit was paid, but the contract was not completed. The mtgees. then claimed to prove in the winding up for the whole amount of their debt & costs. Afterwards they made a fresh contract for the sale of the property, the deposit being retained as part of the new purchase-money. It being uncertain whether the contract would ever be completed & the rest of the purchase-money paid, the ct. made an order that the proof should be admitted for the whole amount of the debt less the amount of the purchase-money mentioned in the contract, without prejudice to the right of either party to increase or diminish the proof, & to the right of the mtgees. for further proof in respect of costs, charges & expenses.—Re OXFORD & CANTERBURY HALL CO. (1870), 5 Ch. App. 433; 39 L. J. Ch. 775; 18 W. R. 793, L. J.

6499. — Proof submitted under mistake of law—Future dividends allowed on amended proof—Previous dividends not disturbed.—A creditor accepted dividends on the balance of his debt after realising his securities:—Held: he was entitled out of future dividends to receive what would have been payable to him if he had originally proved for the whole amount due on the day his claim was sent in, but without disturbing dividends already paid.—Re BARNED'S BANKING CO., Ex p. BANK OF ENGLAND (1870), 39 L. J. Ch. 759; 22 L. T. 895; 18 W. R. 944.

6500. — Proof submitted under mistake of fact.—A bank, carrying on business in Bombay & London, sold to "C. & Sons," of Bombay, their acceptances for £25,000, payable in London three & four months after sight. In payment, "C. & Sons" gave the bank bills for £20,000, drawn on "C. & Co.," payable six months after sight, & £5,000 in cash, together with a further sum, by way of discount, in respect of the difference of times when the bills became due. "C. & Co." accepted the bills drawn on them, & "C. & Sons" indorsed to "C. & Co." the bank's acceptances for £25,000. The bank being unable to meet some of their acceptances, gave "C. & Co." a security for payment thereof. Subsequently the bank became insolvent, & was ordered to be wound up. Both "C. & Co." & "C. & Sons" executed assignments for benefit of their creditors. All the acceptances of "C. & Co." had been dealt with by the bank, & were in the hands of third parties, but "C. & Co." were the holders of the bank's acceptances to the extent of £19,000. The representatives of "C. & Co." acting on the erroneous assumption that the bank held their acceptances for £20,000 sent in a claim in the winding up of the bank for £5,000 only. Subsequently, upon discovering the fact that the bank had parted with all their acceptances, they claimed to be admitted to prove to the full amount of £19,000. They had in the meantime realised their security:—Held: the representatives of "C. & Co." as indorsees for value, were the fact that the directors are mtgees. of the real estate of such co. by way of indemnity, as the bank is not entitled to the benefit of such mtge.—Re HARDSTONE BRICK CO., LTD., MOLSONS BANK CLAIM, [1917] 1 W. W. R. 541.—CAN.

1. Mortgagee—Entitled to prove for whole of security due—Not merely for balance due after realising security.—In an administration suit, or a proceeding for winding up under Cos. Acts, a mtgee., although he be pltf. or petitioner, is entitled to prove for the whole amount due to him, & not merely for the balance remaining due after realising his security.

Semle: he is entitled to prove for the amount due at the time when the claim was sent in, without regard to securities subsequently realised.—FORTRELL v. KAVANAGH (1876), 10 L. R. Eq. 256.—IR.

The security turning out defective, by reason of the call moneys having been paid away partly before & partly since the letter of hypothecation:—Held: the creditor, never having assessed the value of his security, was not prevented by Jud. Act, 1875 (c. 77), s. 10, & Bkpcy. Rules, 1870, r. 101, from coming in & proving for the unsecured balance of his debt, on the terms of his disturbing no past dividend.—*Re KIT HILL TUNNEL, Ex p. 6505. May apply dividends from securities to interest since winding up.]—(1) The rule that a creditor of a co. which is being wound up is not entitled to dividends towards payment of interest accrued since the commencement of the winding up does not prevent a creditor who holds a security from receiving dividends to the full amount of the principal, & at the same time realising his security until the full amount of principal & interest has been satisfied. In such a case it makes no difference that the security is on part of the estate of the co. or that it is vested in trustees on behalf of the creditors & the co.

Solrs. employed by a limited co. recovered a claim against an estate in course of administration by the ct. The co. was subsequently wound up by the ct. Shortly after the winding-up order was made, the solrs. applied for an order charging their costs on the co.'s share of the fund in ct. to the credit of the administration action:—Held: as the charging order in this case conferred no new right but was only a cheap & speedy mode of enforcing the common law lien on the co.'s share of the fund in ct., which lien existed prior to the winding up, the ct., in the exercise of its discretion under the statute, would make the order.

The directors paid £200 on account, leaving a balance of £75 5s. 5d. due. An order to wind up the co. was obtained, & the solr. claimed a lien on the papers for his costs. D. Distribution amongst Contributories.

(a) In General.

6556. What are "surplus assets"—Amount after repaying paid-up capital & debts & liabilities of company.—The term "surplus assets," when used in arts. of assocn. providing for distribution among the shareholders on a winding up taking place, has no such recognised technical meaning that the ct. is bound to construe it as referring to the assets after providing only for debts, liabilities, & costs, without recouping paid-up capital.

The capital of a co. was £100,200 in 100,000 ordinary shares & 200 founders' shares respectively of £1 each, all of which, except one founders' share, were issued & fully paid-up. One of the arts. of assocn. was as follows: "If the co. shall be wound up, one-fifth of the surplus assets, if any, shall belong to & be divided among the holders of founders' shares, & the remaining four-fifths of such surplus assets shall belong to & be divided among the holders of ordinary shares in proportion to the amount of capital paid up on the shares held by them." Another art. had provided that the profits in each year should be applicable in or towards payment of a dividend of 8 per cent. on the amount paid up on the ordinary shares, & that the surplus, if any, should be divided, as to one-fifth among the holders of founders' shares, & as to the other four-fifths among the holders of ordinary shares in proportion to the amounts for the time being paid up thereon. The co. went into voluntary liquidation, & after providing for all debts, costs, & liabilities, a sum of about £90,000 remained for distribution among the shareholders:—Held: having regard to both arts., "surplus assets" meant the assets remaining after providing for debts, costs, & liabilities, & also recouping the paid-up capital subscribed by all the shareholders.—Re NEW TRANSVAAL CO., [1896] 2 Ch. 750; 65 L. (b) Adjustment of Rights between Contributories.

6559. Right of court to adjust—Right of transferor to sue transferee in respect of indemnity for calls not affected.—By 1862 Act, s. 109, it is provided that the Ct. of Ch. shall adjust the rights of contributories amongst themselves & distribute any surplus that may remain amongst the parties thereto:—Held: this sect. does not prevent a transferrer of shares in a co. from suing

Claimant excluded from benefit of previous distribution.—A creditor of a co. in liquidation failed to bring in his claim by the date announced by the official liquidator for claims to be made. He subsequently applied that his claim might be admitted:—Held: the creditor was not precluded from coming in at a later stage, & the only penalty for failure to come in within the time stated in the notice was that prescribed by the statute, namely, that claimant would be excluded from the benefit of any distribution made before his debt was proved.—*ISACK JESUDASEN PILLAI v. a. Assets insufficient to satisfy debentures—Liquidator not receiver for debenture-holders—Application of profits arising from book-debts & leasehold premises.—A co. prior to liquidation had issued debentures charged upon substantially all its assets, which were insufficient to pay the debentures in full. The liquidator proceeded to realise with the sanction of the debenture-holders, but he was not appointed receiver for them, nor were they in possession as mtgees. By leave of the ct. granted with the consent of the debenture-holders, certain book debts were paid in grain instead of in cash, & the grain was resold at a profit. A profit was also made from the working of leasehold premises included in the assets:—Held: the profits on resale of the grain belonged to the debenture-holders, but the profits arising from the leasehold premises were free assets in the hands of the liquidator.—*Re J. b. What are "surplus assets"—Not difference between value of vendors' shares allotted to directors & price paid for them by directors.—In a voluntary winding up of a co. the sum of £1,400 was available for distribution among the shareholders of the co. This sum had been paid to the liquidator of the co. in compliance with demands made by him, by three directors of the co., & represented the difference between £2,400, the value of 2,400 vendor's shares allotted to the directors by direction of S., & £1,000, the price agreed to be paid by the three directors to S., prior to the formation of the co. for the 2,400 shares:—Held: in the winding up of the co. S., as a shareholder of the co., was not entitled, as against the three directors, to receive any portion of the £1,400.—Re STAFFORD FELT CO. (1919), 19 S. R. N. S. W. 461.—AUS.

c. ——— Rights of second preference shareholders to share.—A municipal water co., incorporated under Ontario Joint Stock Cos. Act, sold their undertaking & franchise to the municipality, & passed a resolution providing for payment at par value to the shareholders of the stock allotted to them in proportion to the amounts paid on their respective shares & for payment of the liabilities & the costs of winding up, etc., & directed that the surplus should be distributed amongst the members according to their interest. By a bye-law of the co., holders of second preference shares were to be paid dividends at 6 per cent., & for a period of five years were not to participate further in the profits of the co. In case of default in payment of any dividend, the deficiency was to be paid out of the net profits of succeeding years, & no dividend was to be paid on the ordinary stock until such deficiency should be fully paid. Second preference shareholders also had the right, under the bye-law, upon foregoing their secured dividend of 6 per cent., to surrender their shares & receive the par value thereof, or a corresponding number of ordinary shares, in which case they would have the same rights & privileges as the ordinary shareholders; but none of them exercised this option. The bye-law also provided that, in the event of the co. being wound up, if any surplus of the capital assets of the co. was to be returned to shareholders, the holders of second preference shares were to be paid the full amount of their shares & all dividends before the return of the capital of any ordinary shares, "& subject thereto & to the first preference stock, the holders of the ordinary shares shall be entitled to such surplus of the capital assets":—Held: the second preference shareholders were not entitled to share in the surplus assets, & the surplus was divisible among the ordinary shareholders in proportion to the amount of their shares, not to the amounts paid on their shares.—*MORROW v. 6560. What rights may be adjusted—Indemnity to contributory against calls.]—Under the jurisdiction to adjust the rights of the contributories amongst themselves given by 1862 Act, s. 109, the ct. will not, under the winding up, enforce an alleged contract by the promoters to indemnify persons signing the subscription contract against all liability in respect of the shares, by directing a call payable primarily by the promoters only.—*Re BRAMPTON & LONGTOWN RY. Shortly after incorporation 100,000 shares were issued on each of which the sum of 5s. was paid up, & 25,000 further shares each of which was at once fully paid up. No calls were ever made.

6562 i. How rights adjusted—Calls on shares not fully paid—To reimburse fully-paid shares.]—A. & B., joint owners of the H. Mine, agreed to sell their interest therein to a co., which was being formed for the purpose of working that mine, for the sum of £400 cash, & 4,000 shares of the co. By clause 7 of the arts. of assocn. it was declared that those 4,000 shares should be considered as shares paid up in full, "so that no call was to be made in respect of same." The clause then provided that A. & B. should not have any greater or more extensive claim or demand against the capital or assets of the co. in respect of the 4,000 shares than the other shareholders in respect of their shares. The arts. then provided for the dissolution & winding up of the co. in the event of the mine not turning out a successful adventure; & that upon such dissolution, the property of the co. should be sold & divided amongst the shareholders "ratably according to the number of shares held by them respectively." A. & B. were two of the original members of the co. who had subscribed the memorandum of assocn. A petition having been presented for winding up the co. & the proceedings having been ordered to be had in the Ct. of Bkcy., A. & B. filed a charge claiming to be holders of fully paid-up shares, &, as such, entitled to an order that, for the purpose of adjusting the rights of the contributories amongst themselves the liquidator should make a call on the holders of partly paid-up shares, in order that they, A. & B., might be recouped the excess of capital paid up, or treated as paid up, on their 4,000 shares. The charge having been disallowed, A. & B. appealed:—Held: having regard to the provisions of the arts. of assocn. applts. were not entitled to have such a call made.—Re HOLYFORD MINING CO. (1869), 3 L. In the winding up of the co., after paying debts & expenses there remained assets sufficient to repay the holders of the 25,000 shares 15s. per share, but insufficient to repay all the paid-up capital on the 125,000 shares:—Held: a call, actual or in account, of 3s. per share must be made on the holders of the 100,000 shares, so as to make these shares paid up to the extent of 8s. per share; the amount so called must be applied in repayment of 12s. per share to the holders of the 25,000 shares, making their shares also paid up to the extent of 8s. per share, & the assets in hand would then be divisible among the holders of the whole of the 125,000 shares pro rata.—*Re ANGLO-CONTINENTAL CORPN. The shares were of £25, on which the whole £25 was paid by some shareholders & only £20 by the others. h. To surplus assets—Transfer of undertaking—Agreement for transfer containing special terms.—An art. of B. Co., formed to take over the undertaking of A. Co., provided that on winding up any surplus assets should be distributed among members in proportion to the amount paid up on their shares, & that in ascertaining what were surplus assets no deduction of any amount should be made for the repayment of capital; but the art. was to be without prejudice to the holders of shares issued under special

*p. Extent of jurisdiction—What is "proceeding"—Enforcing an execution—Whether sale by sheriff can be set aside.]—*There is jurisdiction under Dominion Winding-up Act, s. 13, to restrain proceedings in any action, suit, or proceedings against the co., even in actions or suits beyond the ordinary territorial jurisdiction of the ct.; & the enforcing of an execution is a "proceeding" within this sect.; & therefore there was jurisdiction for the ct. to make an order staying proceedings under an execution in the hands of the sheriff of the county of V., in N. B., as had been done in this case. But the sheriff having, notwithstanding, proceeded with the sale under the execution against lands of the co., & executed a deed of the same to the purchaser:—Held: there was no jurisdiction in the ct. under above Act to make an order summarily declaring the sale void, such case not coming within the classes of cases which, under the Act, may be dealt with in a sum-

It was shown that representations that the co. was perfectly solvent had been made by both the secretary & managing director to P., & P. swore that but for these representations he would have taken proceedings before he did, which might have enabled him to obtain a judgment before the wind-

Upon the happening of the said contingencies deft. co. which had gone into liquidation refused to carry out its agreement with pltf. co.:—Held: the master rightly exercised his discretion

& the contributory having become bkpt., & the liquidators of the co. alleging that they had no assets to meet such costs, the solrs. obtained an order that on giving such indemnity as the ct. should direct they might bring an action in the name of the co. against the former directors & promoters of the co. with a view to increase the assets in the winding-up, & forthwith commenced such an action; on an application by defts. in the action:—Held: the order giving leave to bring the action must be set aside, & all proceedings in the action must be stayed, on the grounds, that the giving of the indemnity was a condition precedent which had not been complied with; & that the order itself was made without jurisdiction, as the solrs. were not persons interested in the assets of the co.—*CAPE BRETON CO. v. For the purpose of founding jurisdiction, arrestment had been made in Scotland of unpaid capital on shares of the Q. co. held in Scotland. The pleadings in the Scottish action were closed in May, 1887. In Oct. 1887 an order to wind up the Q. co. was made by the ct. in Queensland, & shortly afterwards an order to wind up the same co. was made in England, & directed to be ancillary to the order of the colonial ct. The English liquidator moved to stay the proceedings in the Scottish action, & the Scottish co. made a cross-motion that their action might be allowed to proceed, notwithstanding the winding up:—Held: it was more convenient that the matter should be investigated in the liquidation than in the Scottish action, & if the Australian co. had gained any priority or security by virtue of the process of arrestment it could be preserved in the winding up; there was therefore no reason for allowing the Scottish proceedings to continue, & they must be stayed.—Re QUEENSLAND MERCANTILE AGENCY CO., LTD. (1888), 58 L. chattels, a distress under a power conferred either before the debentures were issued, or while they were a floating security & levied before the debentures ceased to be a floating security is valid against the holders of the debentures. The debentures would not cease to be a floating security for this purpose by reason of the passing by the co. of the first only of the two special resolutions to wind up, nor by reason of the making of an order in the debenture-holders' action appointing a receiver subject to his giving security, which order was never drawn up & never came to the notice of the landlord distraining.

Where the property of a co. in liquidation consisted of chemical & other works & blast furnaces which had ceased to be used for manufacturing purposes or purposes of profit, but the liquidator kept some of the furnaces alight with a view to a sale of the property & had used part of the works for the storage of plant:—Held: there was no such beneficial occupation or enjoyment of the property by the liquidator as would entitle a rating authority to payment in full of rates made subsequently to the winding up of the co.; the ct., in exercising its discretion on the matter, was at liberty to have, & would have, regard to the fact that the amount of the rates was excessive.—Re WATSON, KIPLING & Co. (1883), 23 Ch. The liquidator accordingly carried on the business in the hotel, but made no profit by it. Shortly after the commencement of the winding up a poor rate was made, & the overseers claimed payment of the rate from the liquidator in respect of his occupation of the hotel:—Held: the rate must be paid in full.—Re INTERNATIONAL MARINE HYDROPATHIC CO. (1884), 28 Ch. 6670. — — — — —.—The true test to be applied, in order to ascertain whether rates ought to be paid in full in respect of property of a co., possession of which has been retained by the liquidator, is that suggested in In re National Arms & Ammunition Company, No. 7363, post, whether there has been a “beneficial occupation” within the rating statutes.

Therefore where a caretaker is employed by the liquidator to take possession of the co.’s premises & the plant thereon to prevent trespass & injury, though the business is not carried on & there is no intention to sell it as a going concern, there is a “beneficial occupation” in respect of which rates must be paid in full.—Re BLAZER FIRE LIGHTER, LTD., [1895] 1 Ch. 402; 64 L. (d) By Mortgagees.

6674. For interest—General rule.—(1) To entitle a landlord to obtain leave to distrain under 1862 Act, s. 87, he must show, either that it is inequitable for the co. or its liquidator to insist on sect. 163 of that Act, or that the rent in respect of which leave to distrain is sought ought to be treated as part of the costs, charges, & expenses of the winding up.

"should be wound up voluntarily or by compulsion or otherwise under the provisions of any Act or Acts of Parliament." An action was brought against the co. by the debenture-holders, & a receiver was appointed. Rent being in arrear, the landlord took out a summons for leave to distrain or re-enter. After the summons had been returnable, but before it was heard, an order was made for winding up the co. The summons was then amended by intituling it in the winding up as well as in the action:—Held: by the Ct. of Appeal, according to the true construction of the proviso for re-entry, a right to re-enter accrued on the making of a winding-up order, & the title of the landlord to re-enter being clear, the ct. ought to order possession to be given to him, & ought not to put him to the useless expense of bringing an action to which there was no defence.—*GENERAL SHARE & TRUST CO. v. 6684. Enforced in foreign court—Right to retain proceeds against liquidator.]—Whilst a ship owned by pltf., an English co., was loading at Bombay for a voyage to Hamburg, her master was induced by fraud to sign bills of lading for goods which were never put on board. The bills of lading were indorsed for value without notice of the fraud to defts., an English banking co. By the law of Germany non-delivery of the goods specified in a bill of lading entitles the holder of the bill to a lien upon the vessel. The ship sailed, & whilst she was at sea a petition was presented for the winding up of pltf. co., & on the day on which the ship arrived at Hamburg a winding-up order was made. On the same day defts., who had in the meantime discovered the fraud took proceedings in the German ct. at Hamburg to arrest the ship & to enforce their lien. The German ct. ordered the ship to be sold, declared defts. to be entitled to the lien claimed, & ordered that lien to be satisfied out of the proceeds of the sale. The liquidator of pltf. co., who had not appeared in the proceedings in the German ct. brought an action in England in the name of the co. against defts. to recover from them the amount which they had received under the German judgment as money had & received to pltf.'s use, seeking to make them liable as trustees of the money for the benefit of the general body of the co.'s creditors:—Held: the judgment of the German ct. being a judgment in rem the money received by defts. under it was not subject to any trust in favour of the general body of the co.'s creditors, & the action was not maintainable.—*MINNA CRAIG S.S. The co. was subsequently ordered to be compulsorily wound up, & the liquidator having applied that the action should be transferred to the winding up judge in the Ch. Div., the judge, being of opinion that he had jurisdiction under 1909 (Winding up) Rules, r. 42 (1), to do so, although the directors were added as de'fts., ordered the action to be transferred to him. On appeal by pl'tfs. from that order:—Held: the object of r. 42 being to give to the winding-up ct. control over the whole assets of a co., the judge had jurisdiction to make the order in question, & as it was in the circumstances a proper one, the Ct. of Appeal would not interfere with the discretion exercised by the judge.—Re PACAYA RUBBER & PRODUCE CO., LTD., [1913] 1 Ch. 218; 82 L. Who may take advantage of fraudulent preference—Only general body of creditors—Not debenture-holders.]—The rule of bkpcy. law, that the doctrine of fraudulent preference can only be taken advantage of for the benefit of the general body of creditors, & not for the benefit only of any particular creditor or class of creditors, applies in the winding up of cos.—*WILLMOTT v. 6728. Construction of 1862 Act, s. 164—What bankruptcy law referred to—Bankruptcy law for time being in force.]—In May, 1878, the directors of a co. resolved that any advances then or thereafter made by directors for urgent claims should be first paid. G., S., & M., directors, had made, & subsequently made such advances. In June, 1878, the directors borrowed on mtge. of unpaid calls & applied part of the money towards repaying these advances. In July, 1878, G., S., & M. decided to pay up their shares in full, there being then directors' fees due to them, & the amount they purported to pay up was set off against their fees & advances. The co. was in an embarrassed state in June, 1878, but it did not appear that it was then in debt, except to the directors. A petition to wind up was presented by the directors in Jan. 1879, & the order made in Feb. The liquidator took out a summons to compel G., S., & M. to refund the moneys so received & set-off on the ground of fraudulent preference under the above Act:—Held: (1) the meaning of Bkpcy. Act, 1869 (c. 71), s. 92, is, that an act which would otherwise be a fraudulent preference cannot be impeached unless a bkpcy. follows within three months; (2) the above sect. refers to the law of bkpcy. for the time being, & not to the law at the date of that Act, therefore, the winding up not having commenced for more than three months after the transaction complained of, there was no case of fraudulent preference.—Re LIVERPOOL & LONDON GUARANTEE & ACCIDENT INSURANCE CO., GALLAGHER'S CASE (1882), 46 L. 6729. — Effect on Bankruptcy Act, 1883 (c. 52), s. 48—"Undue or fraudulent preference."]—1862 Act, s. 164, although it uses the words "undue or fraudulent preference," does not extend the operation of the fraudulent preference clause of 1883 Act, s. 48, which is thereby applied to cos. being wound up under the Cos. Acts.

Within three months before the commencement of its winding up a co. was indebted to H.,

& it was unnecessary to decide whether or not any property recovered in the suit would pass to the debenture-holders under their debentures inasmuch as although an official liquidator ought not to bring proceedings to set aside a transaction as fraudulent when the proceedings will only benefit secured creditors yet he has a right to do so if he sees fit.—GREGORY (ALBERT), LTD. v. NICCOL, LTD. (1916), 16 S. R. N. S. W. 214.—AUS.

& was to the knowledge of its directors unable to pay its debts as they became due from its own moneys. The chairman of its directors was personally liable on an acceptance of the co. for part of the debt due to H. In pursuance of a scheme resolved upon by the directors with the very object of relieving the chairman from his liability, debentures of the co. were allotted to H. as a collateral security for his debts:—Held: the transaction was not a fraudulent preference, & the debentures were valid.—Re STENOTYPER, LTD., HASTINGS BROTHERS v. STENOTYPER, LTD., [1901] 1 Ch. 250; 70 L. J. Ch. 94; 84 L. T. 149; 17 T. L. R. 151; 8 Mans. 203.

6730. — “Creditors” — Shareholder in industrial society.—By the rules of a co-operative society for supplying goods to its members, which was registered under the Industrial & Provident Societies Act, 1893 (c. 39), each member was required to hold a certain number of shares in the society, & was at liberty to withdraw his share capital under certain conditions upon giving notice to the manager. Applt., a member of the society, being unable owing to a strike to pay for goods supplied to him, the managing committee on four occasions debited the amount standing to his credit as a shareholder with sums due from him to the society for goods, the total amount so debited being about equal to the amount of his share capital; no notice under the rules to withdraw his capital had been given by applt. The society was in financial difficulties & was at the date of the last two transactions hopelessly insolvent to the knowledge of the managing committee; but the committee, who had adopted the same course with other shareholders, acted bonâ fide & without intent to prefer any particular shareholder. Upon a summons taken out by the liquidator of the society to set aside the transactions:—Held: the last transaction, although within three months of the passing of a resolution for winding up the society, was not void under the above sect. as an undue or fraudulent preference of a creditor, applt. not being a creditor of the society within the meaning of that sect.—*Re GWAWR-Y-GWEITHYR INDUSTRIAL & PROVIDENT SOCIETY, DOVEY v. d. Bonâ fide belief in prospects of solvency.—A co. being indebted to L. & B. in a large amount, & believing that their charter did not allow a mtge. on their property to secure an overdue debt, made an agreement to give such mtge. for an advance of a larger sum, agreeing to return the amount of the debt to the mtgees. At the time of this transaction the co. believed that by getting time from this creditor they would be able to carry on their business & avoid failure. This hope was not realised, however, as the co. were subsequently compelled to stop payment, & resps., who were also creditors, obtained judgments & issued executions against the goods secured by the mtge.:—Held: inasmuch as the co. bonâ fide believed that by giving this mtge. & getting an extension of time for payment of pltf.'s debt they would be able to carry on their business, the mtge. was not a preference of this debt over those of the other creditors, & not a fraudulent preference.—*LONG v. e. Collusion between company & particular creditor—Pressure.—T. Co. being insolvent, pltf. on Dec. 29, obtained a default judgment against it, but did not issue execution thereon. On Jan. 13, T. Co. obtained a chamber summons, signed by a judge, to set aside pltf.'s judgment as irregular & in breach of an agreement not to proceed. The summons contained the words “in the meantime let all proceedings be stayed.” On Jan. 17, the Bank of B. C. commenced an action against T. Co. by specially endorsed writ, & on the morning of Jan. 24, before the hour for the regular sitting of the judge in chambers, T. Co., by their counsel, attended without summons in the judge's private room & consented to an order for judgment thereon, which was immediately registered & execution issued. Afterwards, on the same morning, in chambers, the summons of the T. Co. to set aside pltf.'s judgment was argued; judgment was reserved, & on Jan. 27, was delivered, dismissing the application. How “three months” calculated—Voluntary winding up followed by compulsory winding up.—When a co. already in voluntary liquidation is wound up by the ct., the date which for the purposes of the above sect. is to be deemed to correspond with the act of bkpey. in the case of an individual trader is that, not of the resolution to wind up, but of the petition; & consequently the acts enumerated in the sect. must, in order to be deemed fraudulent preferences, be committed within three months, not of the former, but of the latter date.—Re RUSSELL HUNTING RECORD Co., LTD., [1910] 2 Ch. 78; 79 L. Issue of debentures—Under agreement for composition with creditors—Failure of agreement.—The directors of a co. having power to issue debentures & to borrow money on mtge. or otherwise, under an arrangement with certain creditors of the co., issued debentures in payment of existing debts due from the co. The arrangement was intended to extend to all the creditors, but certain creditors dissented therefrom & only came into its terms on the very day when a petition for winding up the co. was presented, three weeks after the arrangement was made. The co. was wound up voluntarily under supervision:—Held: the debentures were not invalidated either by reason of their having been issued in payment of existing debts, or of the arrangement with the creditors not having been fully carried out; & there had been no fraudulent preference of those creditors who had taken them in payment of their debts.—Re INNS OF COURT HOTEL Co. (1868), L. The effect of the mtge. was to delay & prejudice other creditors & give debt. a preference over them:—Held: (1) under 48 Vict. c. 26, without regard at all to any question of bona fides, pressure, or knowledge of the co.'s financial position by its officers, or by debt., the effect alone of the transaction avoided it; (2) this mtge. was not given in pursuance of any antecedent contract or promise of the co., but even if it were it could not be upheld, because it was not shown to have been given in a resolution passed by P. & his brother as directors, debentures were issued to pltf. in discharge of the debt due to him from P. At this date P. was the only creditor of the co. The co. was wound up within three months of its formation:—Held: the debentures were not void on the ground of pltf. not being a creditor of the co. inasmuch as the co. had agreed to indemnify P. against pltf.'s debt; nor on the ground that they were issued in P.'s interest, there being no conflict between his interest & the interest of the co.; nor on the ground of fraudulent preference.—*SELIGMAN v. The document provided, inter alia, as follows: "In consideration of H. undertaking the trusts created by the conditions indorsed hereon," the co. "will on demand pay to H., or other the registered holder for the time being hereof, the sum of £70,000." The co. agreed to pay interest thereon at the rate of 6 per cent per annum during the continuance of the security & charged with such payment "its undertaking & all its property present & future including its uncalled capital. This debenture is issued subject to & with the benefit of the conditions indorsed hereon, which are to be deemed part of it." Two days after the date of the above document pltf. signed judgment against the co. for £15,184 odd under R. S. C., Ord. 14. The purported debentures were duly registered as charges in the Cos. Registration Office on Oct. 8, & a week later the sheriff levied execution on the judgment signed under the Order. Notice of a claim was given under the "debenture" & interpleader proceedings followed. The master held that the document charging the assets with the payment of £70,000 & interest was an "assignment" of the whole of the co.'s property within 1908 Act, s. 210 (3), & was therefore void:—Held: the master's decision was right & the appeal must be dismissed.—*LONDON JOINT CITY & MIDLAND BANK, LTD. v. 6736. Mortgage to bankers to secure overdraft.]—A co. in difficulties but not in the immediate prospect of a winding up, deposited the deeds of some freehold property with their bankers, to secure their current account, then largely overdrawn. They afterwards continued to draw upon their account & to pay in moneys for a period of two months until the bank stopped payment. The co. resolved upon a voluntary winding up rather more than six months after the transaction. The arts. of assocn. provided that the co. might, with the sanction of a general meeting, borrow money not exceeding in amount one-half of the nominal capital, upon mtge.:—Held: (1) the mtge. was valid; (2) the express power did not negative the general power, the rule being that a co. may mtge. its property unless expressly prohibited by its arts. from so doing; (3) such security did not operate as a fraudulent preference, & the bank were entitled to the full benefit of it.—*Re PATENT FILE CO., Ex p. 6740. — Guarantee of overdraft—Agreement by company to give debenture on request—Request within three months of winding up.—The permanent director & principal shareholder of a co. guaranteed the overdraft at the co.'s bank, & in consideration thereof it was agreed that the co. would, whenever called upon by him to do so, give him a debenture charged on the co.'s property. About a year afterwards the director called upon the co. to give him a debenture in accordance with the agreement, which the co. did, & about sixteen days afterwards a resolution was passed for winding up the co.:—Held: the debenture was invalid as a fraudulent preference, the onus of showing that the delay was bonâ fide not having been discharged.—Re JACKSON & BASSFORD, LTD., [1906] 2 Ch. 467; 75 L. 6741. — Set off against amount unpaid on shares.—U., a director of a co., held shares not fully paid up, & his directors' fees were unpaid. The co. was admittedly in embarrassed circumstances. On July 21, 1891, on which day the co.'s balance at its bankers was £2 0s. 11d., U. gave to the co. a cheque for £70, the amount remaining unpaid on his shares, & received at the same time from the co. a cheque for a like amount on account of his fees, signed by himself & M., another director. Within three months a winding-up petition was presented, on which a winding-up order was made. 6742. Agreement to set off in futuro debt due to shareholder against amount unpaid on shares.—A co. owed a debt to E. Before any portion of it had become payable, it was assigned by E. to K. a shareholder. Under the arts. of assocn. the directors had power to accept money from shareholders on their shares in anticipation of calls. K. gave notice to the co. of E.'s assignment, & requested the directors to credit him with payment of his shares in full by writing off from E.'s debt so much as would be equal to the amount remaining unpaid on his shares. No call had been made on these shares. On receipt of K.'s request, the board, by resolution, agreed to the request, but no writing off ever was made in the co.'s books. At the date of the request the co. was, to the knowledge of K., in difficulties, & within a month of the resolution a winding-up order was made. No registered contract was ever filed:—Held: if this transaction had amounted to payment it would, under the circumstances, have constituted a fraudulent preference.—Re LAND DEVELOPMENT ASSOCN., KENT'S CASE (1888), 39 Ch. 6743. Payment to company's bankers — In ordinary course of business.—Three directors, who had not paid or been called upon to pay anything on their shares, made themselves liable on their personal guarantee for money advanced to the co. by a bank. The co. being in difficulties, & the bank having recovered judgment against the guarantors, a resolution was passed by the board of directors that in order to reduce the debt due to the bank the directors be recommended to pay in advance the amount of their shares. The three directors subsequently paid a sum equal to the amount of their shares, which was carried to the credit of the co. at the bank. Two days afterwards a petition was presented on which an order for winding up was made:—Held: the three directors were guilty of no breach of trust or duty to the co. in paying up their shares in order to relieve themselves of their personal liability to the bank; & the payment was a valid payment on account of the shares; & the shares must be treated as paid-up shares.—Re WINCHAM SHIPBUILDING, BOILER & SALT CO., POOLE, JACKSON & WHYTE'S CASE (1878), 9 Ch. 6747. Deeds of Arrangement Act, 1887 (c. 57)—Whether applicable to companies.]—The above Act does not apply to arrangements made by limited cos.

An agreement was made between the co. & some of its creditors, whose names were to be given in a schedule to the agreement, for the payment by instalments, through a trustee, of the debts due to them. A list of these creditors was given to the trustee; several of them signed the schedule, & nearly all assented to it. The agreement was not registered under the above Act. If all the instalments had been paid the trustee would have received £936, & the debts of the creditors mentioned in the list amounted to £933 10s. The co. paid £216 to the trustee & then made default. The debenture-holders of the co. claimed the whole, & the other creditors of the co. claimed a share of £216. The co. was not in liquidation:—Held: the Act of 1887 did not apply to limited cos.; the agreement was not void for want of registration; that its operation was not confined to the particular creditors who had assented to it; and that all the creditors of the co. were entitled to take advantage of it.—*Re RILEYS, LTD., HARPER v. 6749. English order—Whether enforceable in Scotland & Ireland.]—Security for costs will not be required of pltf. in an action in any division of the High Ct. who is resident in Scotland or Ireland, inasmuch as the judgment can be enforced in Scotland or Ireland, but that an order made on a claim in a winding up is not a judgment enforceable in Scotland or Ireland under the Judgments Extension Act, 1868 (c. 54), & therefore a claimant in a winding up resident in Scotland must give security for costs. On appeal claimant adduced evidence that he had a large amount of property in England available for costs, & the order for security was discharged, the ct. declining to give any opinion on the question as, whether

No surrender of the copyholds was made. On July 16, 1877, the bankers sent an auctioneer to distrain for £10,000 being two years' rent. The auctioneer on the same day saw the managing director of the co., gave him formal notice of distraint, & by arrangement with him employed two workmen of the co. to keep possession of the chattels distrained. On July 18, the co. requested the bankers not to proceed to an immediate sale, to which the bankers assented, & the two men remained in possession. On July 19, a petition was presented for winding up the co.; & on July 28, a winding-up order was made. By arrangement with the liquidator, the men went out of possession in Oct., & in Nov. the bulk of the chattels was sold by the liquidator without prejudice to the rights of the bankers, & realised less than £5,000:—Held: the order was not an interlocutory order; & the proper notice of appeal

The creditor allowed the time for appealing to expire. Afterwards the decision which had been followed was overruled by the Ct. of Appeal. The creditor then applied for leave to appeal against the order of the Master of the Rolls:—Held: as the fund in question was still within the control of the ct. leave to appeal should be given.—Re NORMANTON IRON & STEEL Co., LTD. (1881), 50 L. No ship was to be insured for more than three-fourths of its value, the person insuring paid a deposit of 25s. per cent. on the amount of the insurance, & in case of the total loss of a vessel, the members were to pay the loser the amount for which he had insured it ratably, according to the amounts assured to them respectively. The assocn. consisted of more than twenty members. A vessel insured by R. was lost, & the amount of the loss was referred to arbn. R. assigned his claim to his bankers, who obtained judgment in R.'s name on the award, & not obtaining payment, presented a petition to wind up the assocn., the petition stating that the assocn. consisted of more than seven members, but not stating that it consisted of more than twenty. The petition was served at the abandoned office of the assocn., which had ceased to carry on a business, & the proper advertisements were issued. On May 28, 1880, a winding-up order was made, no one appearing to oppose. SHIRE COTTONSPINNING CO. v. GREATORIX, No. 6801, post.

6799. — Books in possession of third party.

(1) The power given by 1862 Act, s. 156, of ordering inspection of the books & papers of a co. which is in course of winding up is prima facie to be exercised only for the purposes of the winding up, & for the benefit of those who are interested in the winding up, & will not in general be exercised for the purpose of enabling individual shareholders to establish claims for their personal benefit against the directors or promoters. The sect. only applies to books & papers in the possession of the co., & does not enable the ct. to decide any question of right against third parties who have the books in their possession & claim to be entitled to such possession.

(2) Seem: 1862 Act, s. 155, does not preclude a liquidator from handing over to a purchasing co., under an order directing the sale to be carried into effect, the books of the selling co., although no express direction with reference to them be given by the ct.—Re NORTH BRAZILIAN SUGAR FACTORIES (1887), 37 Ch. (b) When Ordered.

6801. General rule—Granting of order purely discretionary.—In an action by a co. against an alleged shareholder for calls under a winding-up order, the ct. will uphold the order of a judge at chambers giving liberty to deft. after plea, to inspect the registry of shares, the allotment & agenda books in the possession of the co. The granting such an order is purely in the discretion of the judge at chambers, & the ct. will not review his exercise of such discretion unless they clearly see that the order was wrong.—*LANCASHIRE COTTONSPINNING CO. v. Some of the contributories moved that the master's order should be discharged or varied, but the motion was refused.—Re ROYAL BANK OF AUSTRALIA (1851), 17 L. T. O. S. 88.

6804. On behalf of shareholders—Company largely indebted—Complicated transactions.—In the case of a co. winding up, where the debts are large, & the transactions of the co. have been complicated, the ct. will allow an inspection of the accounts by a proper person on behalf of the shareholders without any special fact being stated as a reason for the order.—Re BIRMINGHAM BANKING CO., *Ex p. Afterwards an order was made to wind up the N. co. Subsequently to this an order was made to wind up the O. co. Upon motion by the official liquidator of the N. co. that the books of that co. should be delivered up to him by the official liquidator of the O. co., it was ordered that those books should be produced at all reasonable times to the official liquidator of the N. co. at chambers.—Re NATIONAL FINANCIAL CO. (1867), 15 W. The co. had been dissolved before the application for discovery of documents was made:—Held: pltf. was entitled to inspection of the documents, as there was no interest which could be affected by their production other than the interest of the parties to the action.—*LONDON & YORKSHIRE BANK v. 6819. — — — — —.]—In determining whether the ct. should under 1862 Act, s. 167, direct a criminal prosecution at the expense of the assets of a co. in course of winding up, the ct. must consider, first, whether a prima facie case for conviction is made out; & if it is satisfied on this head, it must not allow a prosecution to be instituted for the personal profit or to satisfy the vengeance of those desiring a prosecution, but must inquire whether, if the persons at whose expense the prosecution would be instituted were not a class but a single person—an upright & honest man desirous as a good citizen to do his duty to the State—he would think it his duty to prosecute at his own expense. The assets were sufficient to pay about 5s. in the pound, & two-thirds of the creditors opposed the application. The petition was supported by the liquidator's affidavit that he was advised & believed that a prosecution would probably result in a conviction:—Held: (1) it did not sufficiently "appear" within sect. 167 that an offence had been committed; (2) inasmuch as two-thirds of the creditors opposed the application, & the costs of a prosecution would, if authorised under sect. 167, be paid for out of their moneys, the application ought, on this ground also, to be refused.—Re NORTHERN COUNTIES BANK, LTD. The meeting passed a resolution "that it had been proved to the satisfaction of the co. that the co. could not, by reason of its liabilities, continue its business; & that it was advisable to wind up the same." No meeting was ever called to confirm this resolution:—Held: this resolution was invalid as an extraordinary resolution under 1862 Act, s. 129, the notice not showing that it was intended to propose a resolution that the co. was unable, by reason of its liabilities, to continue its business, nor containing anything to show that it was proposed to pass such a resolution for winding up the co. as would not require confirmation by a subsequent meeting.

s. Validity—Sufficiency of notice convening meeting.]—Cos. Act, 1862, s. 129, enacts that a co. may be wound up voluntarily "whenever the co. has passed a special resolution requiring the co. to be wound up voluntarily." Sect. 51 enacts that a special resolution can only be passed at a general meeting, of which "notice specifying the intention to propose such resolution" has been given. A notice was given of a meeting of a co. "for the purpose of considering the present position of the co., & to consider & resolve whether under existing circumstances, the co. should be wound up, & if so resolved upon, to decide in what manner this should be done." At the meeting a resolution was carried to wind up the co. voluntarily:—Held: the notice was sufficient.—SDEUARD v. GARDNER (1876), 3 R. (Ct. of Sess.) 577; 13 Sc. L. R. 363.—SCOT.

It was admitted that at the first meeting there was a quorum as required by Art. 40, but no quorum as required by Art. 112:—Held: the requirement of a quorum different from that required for a general meeting, in the event of a meeting being called to deal with a specific matter, was not ultra vires, &

the resolution purporting to wind up the co. was not validly passed.—GRAND LODGE N. S. W. MASONIC HALL CO. v. SLY (1913), 13 S. R. N. S. W. 512.—AUS.

SUB-SECT. 4.—LIQUIDATORS AND COMMITTEE OF INSPECTION.A. Appointment of Liquidator.*(a) In General.

6842. Whether notice of resolution for appointment necessary.]—The deed of settlement of a Joint Stock Company, completely registered under 1844 Act, contained a clause, "that no other business shall be transacted at a special general meeting than the business for which it shall have been expressly called." The co. was afterwards registered under 1856 Act. After Joint-Stock Cos. Act, 1857 (c. 14), at a general meeting it was resolved that the co. should be wound up voluntarily, & liquidators were appointed. The meeting was held in pursuance of a notice, which, however, did not state the intention of the co. to appoint liquidators at that meeting. In an action to recover calls made by the liquidators so appointed:—Held: the above clause applied to a meeting held for the purpose of appointing liquidators, & no notice of the intention to appoint by the winding up of a co. voluntarily shall be given by advertisement in the Govt. Gazette:—Held: a record in writing of such resolution signed by the chairman of the meeting at which it was passed, a copy of which was sent to the Registrar General & recorded by him, & was also published in the Govt. Gazette, was prima facie evidence that all that took place at that meeting was done lawfully, & therefore, if a quorum was requisite at such meeting, that there was such a quorum present. By reason of the presumption against fraud in the carrying out of duties to be performed under an Act of Parliament, a certified copy of a printed copy of such a resolution sent to the Registrar General by the co., is prima facie evidence of a valid resolution.—MCLEAN BROTHERS & RIGG, LTD. v. GRICE (1906), 4 C. L. R. 835.—AUS.

f. ——— As disclosed by minute.]—The minute of a meeting of a co. bore that it had been resolved to wind up the co. voluntarily, & to appoint liquidators for that purpose, & that each of them so appointed may act separately & exercise every power which, by Cos. Act, 1862, is conferred on liquidators. The meeting thereupon proceeded to elect four persons as liquidators:—Held: the above minute being statutory proved itself, & no parol or other evidence could be admitted to explain or contradict the terms of the liquidators' appointment.—CITY OF GLASGOW BANK (LIQUIDATORS) (1880), 7 R. l. In regard to calls—For what purposes calls may be made.]—The purposes for which a liquidator may call up the uncalled capital of a co. are for the payment of all or any sums the ct. or liquidator may deem necessary to satisfy the debts & liabilities of the co., & the costs, charges, & expenses of winding it up, & for the adjustment of the rights of the contributories amongst themselves. An injunction will be granted to restrain a liquidator in a voluntary winding up from calling up the uncalled capital for the purpose of reducing its amount by the device of a sale to a reconstructed co., & a subsequent release of the contributories.—TERRY v. CARLTON & WEST END BREWERIES, LTD. (1896), 22 V. L. R. 33.—AUS.

m. Power to sell assets.]—The liquidator of a co. which was being voluntarily wound up under Ontario

6861. Power to sell assets—On terms that deficiency should be made good by calls.]—The A. co., being unable to realise its assets & pay its debts passed resolutions for voluntary winding up & appointed liquidators who were authorised to enter into an agreement with the U. co. for the transfer of its assets & liabilities to the U. co. One of the terms of such agreement was that, in the event of the assets not being sufficient to pay the debts, the liquidators were, so far as they legally could, to make such calls as should be necessary to raise the deficiency:—Held: there was power under 1862 Act, ss. 95, 133, to sell on the terms of the agreement, & the debt, whether existing at the date of the commencement of the winding up or not, was sufficient to support a petition for compulsory winding up by the ct.—Re BANK OF SOUTH AUSTRALIA (2), [1895] 1 Ch. 578; 64 L. 6872. ——— What are undistributed assets.]—In Dec. 1895, a limited co., being unable to pay the interest on its debentures, went into voluntary liquidation. On Apr. 15, 1896, the ct. sanctioned a scheme under the Joint-Stock Cos. Arrangement Act, 1870 (c. 104), which provided that the uncalled capital of the co. should be called up by the voluntary liquidators, & that they should thereout, by Sept. 1897, pay sums amounting to a dividend of 12s. 6d. in the pound to the debenture-holders, the balance being payable in 1902, & the interest being kept down in the meantime. Any surplus from calls, after payment of the first dividend, might be applied, according to the liquidators' discretion, for management & other expenses. The scheme also gave the liquidators power to borrow for the purpose of protecting & developing the assets. On the debenture-holders being paid off the winding up was to be stayed, & the co. was to resume business. By a trust deed executed in pursuance of the scheme the liquidators covenanted to apply the proceeds of the call in accordance with the scheme. In May & Sept. 1897, the liquidators filed with the Registrar of Joint-Stock Cos. the statements of account required by 1890 (Winding-up) Act, s. 15, but they refused to pay into the Cos. Liquidation Account the surplus of calls shown by the accounts to be still in their hands or under their control, although directed to do so by the Board of Trade. On a motion by the Board for an order to comply with its direction:—Held: the money was not "undistributed assets" within 1890 (Winding-up) Act, s. 15 (3), & the liquidators could not be called on to pay it into the Cos. On a compulsory winding up of the co. applt. sought to prove as a creditor for work done & expenses incurred by him while purporting to act as liquidator, & before he knew of the invalidity of his appointment:—Held: neither under 1862 Act, s. 67, nor on a quantum meruit was he entitled to be paid anything for services rendered as liquidator; but in so far as any work then done by him had been useful to the co. for business purposes unconnected with the voluntary liquidation, or had been used by the official receiver & liquidator in the compulsory winding up with full knowledge of the facts, he was entitled to claim reasonable remuneration.—*Re ALLISON, JOHNSON & FOSTER, LTD., Ex p. 6891. ——— Joint liquidator receiver in debenture-holder's action.]—It is undesirable that the receiver for debenture-holders should be appointed one of two joint liquidators of a co.

The creditors of a private co., at meetings held previous to the liquidation of the co., desired that the co. should go into voluntary liquidation, & that K. & M. should be appointed joint liquidators. H. had already been appointed receiver & manager for the debenture-holders in a debenture-holders' action. The co. passed a resolution for voluntary winding up, & appointed K. & H. to be joint liquidators. B. Consequences of Winding up.

6901. General rule.—D. was a shareholder in a co. having power to subscribe for or take shares in, to enter into treaty, act or unite with, buy up or absorb, any other co. having the like objects, & to sell or transfer its business & property to any other co. or individuals. The co. agreed that it would amalgamate with another, & that, to facilitate the amalgamation, it should be wound up voluntarily, & the business & assets be merged in the amalgamated co. which was to be governed by arts. of its own. A resolution was also passed that the shareholders in the original co. were to take shares in the amalgamated one, in exchange for those which they previously held. D. never in any way assented to the amalgamation or accepted the new shares:—Held: that he was not a partner or shareholder in the amalgamated co.

The terms of the deposit were that the depositor could require payment on demand of the whole or any part of the money for the time being at his credit, & interest was calculated de die in diem on his daily balance. The depositor made demand in writing for the principal sum & interest, & gave notice that unless the amount was paid on that day he would charge interest on the amount due for the time being at 8 per cent per annum until repayment. Payment was not made on that day, & the next day the co. went into voluntary liquidation:—Held: (1) there was a breach of contract on the part of the co. in not paying the amount when demanded, & damages were recoverable for its wrongfully withholding the money; (2) the amount of damages recoverable was simple interest at 6 per cent, being the rate allowed by the ct. as being the value of money.—Re COMMERCIAL PROPERTY & FINANCE Co., LTD. v. The co. went into voluntary liquidation, & the liquidators took out a summons under Companies Act, s. 189, to determine whether W. was entitled to a lien in priority to that of his covendors, the other members of the syndicate:—Held: the decree establishing W.'s lien did not entitle him to priority over his covendors.—Re CITY AVENUE Co. (1891), 12 N. on business on certain property held from debts. under an agreement for a term of three years, which provided that two quarters' rent should be always due & payable in advance if required. The co. went into voluntary liquidation on Dec. 20, 1894. On Dec. 28, debts. served on the co. a demand for three quarters' rent—namely, one quarter due on Dec. 25, 1894, & two quarters in advance up to June 24, 1895. The amount not being paid, they put in a distress. The liquidator was in possession of the property, but intended to give up possession shortly:—Held: debts. could not distrain for the two quarters' rent in advance, but were entitled to be paid rent in full from the commencement of the liquidation during such time as the liquidator remained in beneficial occupation of the property & to prove for the balance of rent due under their agreement.—*SHACKELL & Co. v. The co. granted a licence to C. for a term of years of the sole right to advertise in their tram cars. By the Bradford Corporation Act, 1901, the corpn. took over the leases of the co. on paying them compensation. The co. petitioned against the Bill, but withdrew their opposition on certain clauses being inserted in the Bill. The licensee claimed compensation in the winding up of the co.:—Held: under the circumstances, the Act afforded no defence to the licensee's claim, & he was therefore entitled to prove in the winding up.—Re BRADFORD TRAMWAYS & OMNIBUS CO., LTD., COURTENAY'S CASE (1904), 68 J. About a fortnight later A. co. was wound up voluntarily and was found to be insolvent. SUB-SECT. 9.—DISTRIBUTION OF ASSETS.

A. In General.

6938. What are “surplus assets.”]—An investment made by a limited co. on capital account having fallen in value, the amount of depreciation was, in the half-yearly accounts, debited to revenue. When the co. afterwards went into liquidation, the investment had risen again in value, & the liquidator in his accounts credited to revenue as “appreciation” the amount which had previously been debited as depreciation:—Held: that the amount credited by the liquidator to revenue as “appreciation” must be treated as income, & not as capital, it being merely a restitution to profits of what had been previously taken from profits.

Earnings by a limited co. since the commencement of its liquidation are capital & not income.—BISHOP v. SMYRNA & CASSABA RY. Co. (No. 2), [1895] 2 Ch. 596; 64 L. J. Ch. 806; 73 L. T. 337; 2 Mans. 575; 13 R. 803.

6939. ———.]—The capital of a co. consisted of 5,000 shares of £1 each, called A shares, & 5,000 shares of 1s. each, called B shares. The arts. of assocn. provided that in the event of a winding up the surplus assets should be divided into two moieties, one of which should belong to & be distributed amongst the holders of the A shares, & the other amongst the holders of the B shares, & that the profits available for distribution should be divided in the same way. All the shares had been paid in full. The co. was in voluntary liquidation. The liquidator had paid the debts of the co. & the costs of winding up & had a balance in his hands. He took out this summons for the determination of the question how the balance ought to be divided between the two classes of shareholders:—Held: surplus assets in this case meant the surplus after payment of outside liabilities & repayment to the shareholders of capital paid up. Semble: in every case where surplus assets are directed to be divided between two classes of shares without reference to the nominal amounts of the shares or the amounts paid up, there is a presumption that surplus assets means a surplus after payment of outside liabilities & repayment of capital, & it needs clear & express words to give the phrase the meaning of surplus after payment of debts & costs only.—Re RAMEL SYNDICATE, LTD., [1911] 1 Ch. 749; 80 L. 6941. — Sequestration in Scotland of deceased shareholder's estate—Sequestrator & another jointly entitled to beneficial interest—Payment to sequestrator on joint receipt.]—At the commencement of the winding up of the co. certain shares stood in the register in the name of A., a domiciled Scotchman, who was then dead. The shares were held by him as trustee. He had appointed exors. in Scotland, one of whom had accepted the office; but he had no legal personal representative in England. After A.'s death his estates were sequestrated in Scotland. The effect of this, according to Scotch law, was to vest in the sequestrator, as from the date of the sequestration, the whole of A.'s estate, including trust estates, & to divest the exor. entirely. The beneficial interest in the shares belonged to the sequestrator & another person jointly. There were surplus assets of the co. to be returned to the shareholders. The sequestrator was willing to give the joint receipt of himself & the other beneficiary upon payment to him of the proportion of the assets payable in respect of A.'s shares:—Held: the legal title to the shares was vested in the sequestrator, & the money might be paid to him upon the joint receipt offered.—Re TUTICORIN COTTON PRESS CO., LTD. (1894), 64 L. 6942. Liability of liquidator—Delay in distribution.]—KNOWLES v. SCOTT, No. 6857, ante.

6943. — Distribution before creditors provided for.]—It is the duty of the liquidator to find out from the books & papers of the co., & the statement of affairs who are the creditors of the co., & if any creditor omits to put in his claim the liquidator shall communicate with him.

1862 Act, s. 133, imposes a statutory duty on the liquidator to pay the debts of the co. pari passu, & subject thereto, to distribute the property of the co. amongst the shareholders; & whilst the liquidation continues a contributory can apply under sect. 138 of the Act, & a creditor can apply under Companies Act, 1900 (c. 43), s. 25, to the ct. for relief in respect of his rights. When the co. is dissolved the statutory remedy is gone, but the duty remains, & a contributory or creditor has a remedy at common law for injury caused to him by a breach of the liquidator's statutory duty.

A co. went into voluntary liquidation & appointed a liquidator, & its business & assets were transferred as a going concern to a purchasing co. in consideration of fully paid-up shares in the purchasing co., who covenanted to pay all the debts & liabilities of the liquidating co. The liquidator received the purchase consideration of fully paid-up shares & distributed them amongst the shareholders of the liquidating co. The assets of the liquidating co. were sufficient to pay all its debts in full, but the liquidator, beyond advertising insufficiently for creditors, took no steps to ascertain the creditors of the liquidating co. or to see that they were paid. He left everything to the purchasing co. After the dissolution of the liquidating co.:—Held: the liquidator had been guilty of negligence in the discharge of his statutory duty, & was liable in damages to unpaid creditors of the liquidating co. of whose claims he was aware and who had no notice of the liquidation until long after the dissolution of the co.—

Pltfs. were not aware of the liquidation & dissolution till a later date, & when they became aware thereof they sued defts. to recover from them as damages the price of the goods which had been supplied to the co., pltfs. alleging that defts. as liquidators had committed a breach of their statutory duty in allowing the co. to be dissolved before the co.'s debts had been paid. Pltfs. also claimed to recover from defts. the amount of the costs that had been thrown away in the action against C. & Sons, Limited, that action having abated on the dissolution of the co.:—Held: (1) defts. had committed a breach of their statutory duty in allowing the co. to be dissolved before its debts had been paid & they were liable in damages to pltfs. in respect of the claim for goods sold to the co.; (2) defts. were not in the circumstances liable for the costs thrown away in the action against C. & Sons, Limited, as the incurring of those costs was not the natural consequence of deft.'s breach of statutory duty.—*ARGYLLS, LTD. v. A question having arisen as to pltf.'s claim for the future rent he brought an action for an injunction to restrain the distribution of the assets until the liability of the co. had been provided for:—Held: the lessor was entitled to have a sum set apart which, when invested in consols would with half-yearly rests, be sufficient to produce the amount of the rent.—*OPPENHEIMER v. Costs of legal proceedings by & against company—Proceedings against company—Caused by company's wrongful opposition to claim.—F. was induced by D., who was agent of the U. co., to insure his premises in that co. D. inspected the premises & described them as roofed with slate, whereas one of the smaller buildings was roofed with felt. The premises were partially destroyed by fire, the felt-roofed building, however, being uninjured:—Held: this was not a misdescription so material as to avoid the policy, but even if it was material it was cured by the fact of D., who was agent for the U. co., having inspected the premises & given the description.

The co. having unjustly resisted the claim, & compelled the claimants to file a petition for winding up, & to bring an action at law, & having subsequently gone into voluntary liquidation:—Held: the costs of the claimants' petition & action at law were allowed priority.—Re UNIVERSAL NON-TARIFF FIRE ASSURANCE CO., Ex p. FORBES & CO. 6952. ———.]—Although 1862 Act, s. 163, making void all proceedings against a co. in liquidation taken after the commencement of the winding up, applies in terms only to cases in which the co. is being wound up by the ct., or subject to the supervision of the ct., & not to the case of a voluntary winding up, yet, having regard to the scheme of the Act, & especially to sect. 133, which enacts that, as a consequence of a voluntary winding up, the property of the co. shall be applied in satisfaction of its liabilities pari passu, a creditor who, before the resolution to wind up, has commenced an action against the co. but does not obtain judgment until after the resolution, is not entitled to enforce his judgment so as to obtain priority over other creditors for his judgment debt & costs; & if, subsequently to the judgment, a supervision order is made, the ct. may, in the exercise of its discretion under sect. 87, either stay further proceedings in the action or allow pltf. to continue them on terms.

Thus, where shortly after an action had been commenced in Scotland against an English co. for damages for personal injuries to one of the co.'s workmen at their works in Scotland, the co. passed a resolution to wind up voluntarily, & pltf. in the action, though having notice of the resolution, proceeded with his action & obtained judgment for damages & costs, but before he was able to enforce his judgment by execution against the co.'s property in Scotland, an order was made in England continuing the winding up under supervision, the ct. allowed pltf. to continue his proceedings under the judgment, but on the terms that he should have no priority over the other creditors in the winding up; & that, so far as the proceedings in the action interfered with the winding up, he should do all in his power to enable the liquidator to get in the co.'s assets in Scotland.

A creditor-pltf. in an action against a co. in voluntary liquidation is not entitled to any priority in the winding up for his costs of the action; he can only add them to his debt.—Re THURSO NEW GAS CO. (1889), 42 Ch. D. 486; 61 L. T. 351; 38 W. R. 156; 5 T. L. R. 562; 1 Meg. 330.

C. brought an action against a co. for damages for breach of contract. After a day had been fixed for the trial the co. passed an extraordinary resolution for voluntary winding up. Within a week afterwards C. wrote to the liquidator asking whether he was prepared to admit C.'s claim in whole or in part. The liquidator replied that he could not admit the claim. 6957. Dividend paid to some creditors under prior inspectorship deed.]—Under 1862 Act, s. 133, the assets of a co. which is being wound up must be applied in satisfaction pari passu of the liabilities of the co. as they exist at the commencement of the winding up. Where, therefore, prior to the winding up, a dividend had been paid under an inspectorship deed to some creditors of the co., but not to others:—Held: there being no question of fraudulent preference, those who had not received any dividend were not entitled to a dividend under the winding up in priority to those who had.—Re SMITH, KNIGHT & Co., *Ex p. Servants—Salary payable out of "profits."]—P. & V. agreed to serve a co. at a fixed salary which they were not to be entitled to draw except only out of profits (if any) arising from the business of the co. which might from time to time be available for such purposes, but such salary should nevertheless be cumulative, & accordingly any arrears thereof should be payable out of any succeeding profits. The business of the co. included the purchase & sale of shares. In the course of & for the purposes of its business the co. acquired shares & debentures in another co. The shares were sold for cash & the proceeds brought into profit & loss account. The debentures were included in the yearly balance-sheets of the co. as an unvalued asset. In the voluntary liquidation of the co. the whole of the assets were sold, the debentures realising £3,072. All the creditors, except P. & V., to whom about £8,000 in respect of arrears of salary was due, were paid in full, & all the subscribed capital was returned to the shareholders, leaving a surplus of £3,328 in the hands of the liquidator:—Held: (1) the surplus in the hands of the liquidator ought to be treated as undrawn profits arising from the business of the co. out of which P. & V. were entitled to be paid; (2) meaning of "profits" explained.—Re SPANISH PROSPECTING CO., LTD., [1911] 1 Ch. 92; 80 L. 6959. Statute-barred creditors.]—A voluntary liquidator having surplus assets available for distribution issued a summons to determine (inter alia) whether he was at liberty to pay statute-barred creditors thereof. At the hearing of the summons the statute-barred creditors contended that he was, & the shareholders that he was not, at liberty to do so. The ct. declined to answer the question specifically, but directed the liquidator to apply the assets in a due course of administration. The liquidator having subsequently paid certain statute-barred creditors the shareholders issued another summons to determine whether it was a proper payment:—Held: having regard to the shareholders' objection formally taken on the first summons, & to the order made thereon, the payment to the statute-barred creditors was improper.—Re FLEETWOOD & DISTRICT ELECTRIC LIGHT & POWER SYNDICATE, [1915] 1 Ch. 486; 84 L. 6960. As between different classes of debenture-stocks.]—A private co. in 1912 created an issue of £20,000 6 per cent debenture-stock secured by a deed-poll dated June 12, 1912, which gave the debenture-holders a right in a winding up to 50 per cent. of the surplus assets. This debenture-stock, of which £15,950 was issued, could be paid off at any time by the co. on six months' notice. In 1913 the debenture-stockholders by extraordinary resolutions sanctioned the issue in priority to the existing debenture-stock of £20,000 perpetual Prior Lien Debenture-Stock, carrying 6 per cent interest payable out of profits only & the right to one-third of the surplus assets in a winding up; & they resolved that the interest on the 6 per cent debenture-stock should only be payable out of profits & that they should be entitled only to one-third of the surplus assets in a winding up. £10,000 Prior Lien Debenture-Stock were issued accordingly. In Apr. 1920, the co. sold its principal asset, & out of the purchase-money paid off the two debenture-stocks. In Oct. 1920, it was resolved by special resolution that the co. should be voluntarily wound up:—Held: as to both debenture-stocks, the holders were entitled to share in the surplus assets, as there was nothing in the bargains inconsistent with or repugnant to the right of redemption.—Re CUBAN LAND CO., [1921] 2 Ch. 147; 90 L. The co. went into voluntary liquidation, & after paying all the debts & liabilities, the liquidator, having a considerable surplus in his hands for distribution among the contributories, paid interest at five per cent to the holders of the vendors' shares on £3 per share, up to the date of the commencement of the 6967. —.— Shares issued at discount.]—A co. was incorporated in 1857 with limited liability, by registration under 1856 Act. The capital was divided into £10 shares, & the shares issued were paid up in full cash. In 1861 the co. was in difficulties, & the market value of the shares was only £3 per share. The co. resolved to increase their capital, & special resolutions were passed, after notice sent by post to every shareholder in accordance with the co.'s regulations, to increase the capital by the creation of additional £10 shares, which, as well as the unissued original shares, were to be issued at a discount of £7 per share. In pursuance of these resolutions, notices offering the new shares for subscription were sent to all the existing shareholders, & thereupon a number of shares were applied for & issued as fully paid-up, on payment by the allottees of only £3 per share. The shares thus issued were treated for upwards of twenty years, as to payment of dividend & otherwise, in every respect on the same footing as the original shares. In 1889 the co. resolved on a voluntary winding up. The creditors were all satisfied, & there remained a surplus of £25,000 for division among the shareholders. The liquidator applied to the ct. to determine the mode in which the fund ought to be divided:—Held: the contract entered into by the holders of the discount shares was a contract as between themselves & the co. alone & ultra vires; & as between those shareholders & the old there was no contract, either express or implied, that in the event of the co.'s debts being satisfied & there being surplus assets, the new shareholders should be entitled to any priority or advantage in the distribution of those assets.—Re WEYMOUTH & CHANNEL ISLANDS STEAM PACKET CO., 6968. —.]—In the winding up of the co. all the debts had been paid & the costs of the liquidation provided for, & there remained surplus assets available for distribution among the shareholders, but not sufficient to repay them in full the amount of capital contributed by them. The capital consisted of—first £1 shares which were fully paid; secondly, £5 shares upon which £1 per share had been called up, & that amount only paid; & thirdly, £5 shares upon which the shareholders had paid various sums in advance of calls in addition to the £1 per share called up. These shareholders had been receiving interest upon the amount of their advances. The question was upon what principle the surplus assets should be distributed among the shareholders:—Held: the £5 shares must be treated as five £1 shares, with 4s. per share paid up; & the surplus must be applied—first, in repaying to the £5 shareholders who had paid money in advance of calls the amount of their advances, with interest thereon to the time of repayment; secondly, in repaying to the £1 shareholders 16s. per share; & thirdly, when all the shares had thus been brought to the level of having 4s. paid thereon, the remainder must be distributed among all the shareholders equally, the £5 shares being treated as five £1 shares.—Re WAKEFIELD ROLLING STOCK CO., [1892] 3 Ch. 165; 61 L. In ascertaining those rights in the case of co.'s constituted under the Cos. Acts, in the absence of any provision in the memorandum or arts. of assocn., the capital account must first be equalised, & the balance must be appropriated according to the nominal amount of the shares, & a clause in the memorandum or arts. regulating the distribution of dividends will not of itself govern the distribution of surplus.

In the case of co.'s not constituted under the Acts effect must be given to any clause, in the deed under which the co. was constituted, with regard to surplus assets, but a provision as to distribution of dividends does not of itself govern the distribution of surplus.

By the deed of settlement under which a co. was originally constituted losses were to be made good by the shareholders "in proportion to their respective shares," profits were to be divided amongst them "according to the amount of their respective shares," & upon a winding up the residue, after paying debts, was to be "divided between the several proprietors"—namely, shareholders—"for the time being in proportion to their respective shares." The shares were of £10 each. Some were fully paid, others were only paid up to the extent of £6 10s. per share, & some of both classes had been issued at a premium. The co. was afterwards registered under 1862 Act, Part VII., as an unlimited co. It sold its undertaking & went into voluntary liquidation, & after payment of its debts & the costs of liquidation had a surplus more than sufficient to return all the paid-up capital:—Held: (1) the surplus must first be applied in returning the paid-up capital; (2) the balance must be distributed amongst all the shareholders in proportion to the nominal amounts of their shares, & without regard to the premiums paid by any shareholders, or the manner in which dividends were payable or had in fact been paid.—Re DRIFFIELD GAS LIGHT CO., [1898] 1 Ch. 451; 67 L. The co. also made direct issues of fully-paid preference & ordinary stock for cash without going through the formality of first issuing fully-paid shares & converting them. The co. also made direct issues of partly-paid ordinary shares & partly-paid ordinary stock for cash. All the holders were placed on the register & received dividends. Many years after these issues were made the co. was wound up voluntarily, & after paying all the creditors the liquidator had a balance of surplus assets for distribution among the members:—Held: (1) having regard to the lapse of time, the irregularity in the direct issues of the fully-paid preference & ordinary stock must be treated as waived, & the holders were entitled to rank for the full amount of their holding; (2) the original holders & transferees of preference stock converted from fully-paid preference shares could only rank for the amount representing conversion at face value & not for the bonus stock, which was wholly ultra vires & must be treated as non-existent; (3) the holders of partly-paid shares were entitled to rank for the amount paid & were subject to a call for equalisation; (4) the original holders & transferees of partly-paid ordinary stock were not entitled to rank at all, as their stock was wholly ultra vires & must be treated as non-existent; (5) no call could be made on the holders of the bonus or partly-paid stock.—Re HOME & FOREIGN INVESTMENT & AGENCY CO., LTD., [1912] 1 Ch. 72; 81 L. might, in priority to any dividend, set aside out of profits such sum as they thought proper as a reserve fund for certain specified purposes, or for meeting any other contingencies of the co.; & that, subject to that provision, the entire net profits of each year should belong to the shareholders. At the date of the sale of the undertaking, the capital of the co. consisted of ordinary shares, & shares with a fixed preferential dividend. In Aug. 1887, during the currency of a financial year, the undertaking of the co. was sold at a price which, after repaying to the ordinary & preference shareholders the capital paid up on their shares, & discharging all the liabilities of the co., left a large surplus. It had been the practice of the co. to apportion a part of the annual profits to three funds—namely, the depreciation of steamers fund, the canal improvement fund, & an insurance fund—but no part of these funds was ever required for the purposes for which they were intended. In the accounts for the year 1886, the plant & debts due to the co. were estimated below, & the debts due from the company were estimated above, what proved to be their actual value:—Held: (1) the reserve funds were divisible as profits among the ordinary shareholders; (2) the ordinary shareholders were entitled to the net profits of the broken year, after paying an apportioned dividend to the preference shareholders, & in taking the accounts the actual values of the plant & debts ought to be substituted for the estimated values.—Re BRIDGEWATER NAVIGATION CO., [1891] 2 Ch. 317; 60 L. Cropper*, No. 6965, ante, that the surplus assets of a co. were divisible among all the shareholders in proportion to their nominal interest in the subscribed capital of the co., was not affected by the above clause, & there was no reason for giving the words “surplus assets” in that clause any other than its prima facie meaning, namely, all the capital of the co., including unpaid calls which might remain after the debts, liabilities, & costs of the co. had been discharged.—Re SHEPPARD'S CORN MALTING CO., LTD., *Ex p. 6980. ———.—[The capital of a trading co. consisted of £10 shares, preference & ordinary, all paid up in full, the former being entitled to a cumulative preferential dividend. The arts. of assocn. empowered the directors to set aside out of the profits such sums as they thought proper as a reserve fund. For some years the preferential dividend was paid & then for three years the business was carried on at a loss, the result being a loss of capital to the amount of £4,346. In the next year there was a profit of £1,675 on the year's trading, but the directors did not declare a dividend or make any appropriation of that sum. The co. went into voluntary liquidation, the debts were all paid, and the capital to the extent of £7 per share was returned to the shareholders. The sum of £1,675 remained in the hands of the liquidator:—Held: upon the construction of the arts. the preference shareholders were not entitled to have this sum applied in paying them dividends for the four years in which they had received none, but that it must be divided as capital ratably among all the shareholders.—Re CRICHTON'S OIL CO., [1902] 2 Ch. 86; 71 L. 6982. ———.—[The A. co., with a capital of £550,000, divided into shares of £10 each, of which 35,000 were preference shares & 20,000 were ordinary shares, & with arts. of assocn. which were silent as to how the surplus assets were to be divided between the two classes of shareholders in the event of winding up, entered into an agreement, under a power in its memorandum of assocn., to sell its undertaking & assets to the C. co.

Part of the consideration for the sale was a sum of £310,000 stock of the C. co., which was to be distributed among the holders of the preferred & deferred shares of the A. co., & accepted by them in satisfaction of their interests in the property sold; & the agreement was expressed to be conditional on all necessary resolutions of the shareholders of the A. co. being passed.

The agreement was silent as to the proportions in which the stock was to be divided between the two classes of shareholders, & so was the notice convening a meeting of the shareholders to pass a resolution approving the agreement & authorising the directors of the A. co. to carry the same into effect. A circular sent by the secretary of the A. co. with the notice stated that the purchase consideration to the shareholders of £310,000 stock was to be distributed among them in the proportion of £210,000 to the preferred shareholders, & £100,000 to the deferred shareholders. This suggested mode of distribution was referred to at the meeting, where it was also pointed out that the suggested mode was not in accordance with the legal rights of the two classes of shareholders in a winding up. There were absentees from the meeting, & only a majority of the shareholders present voted for the resolution:—Held: the ct. could not draw an inference from the facts that all the parties concerned had agreed upon a mode of distribution not in accordance with the legal rights of the two classes of shareholders, & unless successful proceedings could be taken against the A. co. or its directors, or to set aside the resolution, or all individual consents of shareholders could be obtained, the liquidators must distribute the £310,000 stock in accordance with the legal rights of the shareholders.—*Re NORTH WEST ARGENTINE RY. 6984. ———.—[There is no general rule that where preference shareholders have a preference as to repayment of capital they can have no further share in surplus assets. The question depends on the construction of the memorandum & arts. of assocn. But if these documents contain no provisions on the point, surplus assets must in a winding up be divided amongst all the shareholders, ordinary & preference, in proportion to the nominal value of the shares.

A co. incorporated in 1884 had an issued capital of 28,222 ordinary & 26,905 preference shares of £5 each; the preference shares were entitled to a cumulative preferential dividend of 10 per cent out of "the divisible profits of the co. in each year," & "a preferential right to be repaid the amount paid up thereon & interest out of the assets of the co. if the co. should be wound up." The co. never paid any dividend except in the year 1905, when they paid 3 per cent on the preference shares. In 1900 the capital of the co. was reduced by writing down the ordinary shares to 1s. per share. In 1908 the co.'s assets were sold for a sum sufficient to pay all their liabilities, repay the capital of both classes of shares, & leave a large surplus:—Held: (1) the surplus was not divisible profits of the co. & the preference shareholders were not entitled to have it applied in payment of their cumulative dividends; (2) they were entitled to have their capital repaid with interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum from the date of the winding-up order; (3) the surplus, after paying to the ordinary shareholders their reduced capital of 1s. per share, must be divided among the preference & ordinary shareholders in proportion to the nominal value of their shares.—Re ESPUELA LAND & CATTLE CO., [1909] 2 Ch. 187; 78 L. 6986. ———.—[Either with regard to dividend payable while a co. is a going concern, or with regard to rights in a winding up the express gift or attachment to preference shares, on their creation, of preferential rights, whether in respect of dividend or return of capital, is, prima facie, a definition of the whole of their rights in these respects, & negatives any further or other right to which, but for the specified rights, they would have been entitled.

Arts. of assocn. of a co. entitled the holders of its first preference shares "to receive a preferential cumulative dividend of 6 per cent per annum & no more, on the amount for the time being paid up . . . thereon, out of the profits of the co., & to the preferential repayment of the amount paid up . . . on any such shares out of the assets of the co. in the event of the co. being wound up . . . in priority to any payment in respect of the ordinary shares of the co., but to no other participation in profits."

Second preference shares were created, on an increase of capital, by resolution which provided that "the holders thereof (subject to the payment of the preferential dividend on the original preference shares)" should "be entitled to a cumulative preferential dividend at the rate of 6 per cent per annum," & that, after the ordinary shares had received 6 per cent per annum out of the profits of each year, "the second preference share & the ordinary shares shall participate ratably, according to the amounts paid up thereon in any surplus profits." The resolution also provided that "in the event of the co. being wound up, the surplus assets thereof shall be applied in the first place in repaying to the holders of the original preference shares the full amount paid up thereon, & subject thereto, in repaying to the holders of the second preference shares the full amount paid up thereon, in priority to any payment in respect of the ordinary shares."

After the first & second preference shares had been issued the co. adopted a new set of arts., one of which provided that if on winding up the "surplus assets shall be more than sufficient to repay the whole of the paid-up capital, then, subject as to any new shares to the special terms upon which they may be issued, the excess shall be distributed among the members in proportion to the capital paid . . . on the shares, other than first & second preference shares held by them respectively, at the commencement of the winding up. . . . But this clause is to be without prejudice to the rights of the holders of the first & second preference shares, and any other shares issued upon special conditions."

After the adoption of the new articles a number of unissued ordinary shares were, pursuant to a resolution, issued upon the terms that the holders should "be entitled to a non-cumulative dividend at the rate of 5 per cent per annum on the amount paid up thereon," & that, "in the event of the winding up of the co.," the surplus assets thereof should be applied first in repaying to the holders of the first & second preference shares the full amount paid up thereon, & that "such surplus assets shall next be applied in repaying to the holders of the third preference shares . . . the full amount paid up thereon."

The remaining ordinary shares were issued on the terms that when fully paid they should be converted into two classes of stock, of which one, called "preferred stock," was, as between the two classes, to carry a fixed cumulative dividend of 6 per cent per annum on the capital paid up thereon, & in the event of winding up was to rank for repayment of capital, together with a bonus of 5 per cent, in priority to the other class, called "the deferred stock," & that the deferred stock was to "confer a right to the surplus profits, & in the event of a winding up, to the surplus assets of the co. to which the ordinary shares would, but for the said conversion, have been entitled."

In the voluntary winding up of the co., after satisfaction of its liabilities, & repayment to all the share & stock holders of the capital paid up by them, & payment to the preferred stock holders of their 5 per cent bonus, there remained for distribution a surplus consisting of the remains of a reserve fund which had not been capitalised, & which, while the co. was a going concern, might have been distributed as dividend:—Held: (1) the claims of the first, second & third preference shareholders, had been satisfied by the return to them of their paid-up capital, inasmuch as in each case there was an implied negating of any right to receive more than their dividend at the specified rate up to the winding up, & a return of their paid-up capital on winding up; (2) the preferred stock holders' claims had also been fully satisfied; (3) the deferred stock holders were entitled to the whole of the fund.—Re NATIONAL TELEPHONE Co., [1914] 1 Ch. 755; 83 L. 6987. — Arrears of preferential dividend.—A co.'s capital included 15,000 preference shares of £1 each on which 15s. 6d. only had been paid. The preference shareholders were entitled to a cumulative preferential dividend of 10 per cent per annum on the amount paid up on their shares, & in a winding up to have the surplus assets applied first, in paying off their capital; secondly, in paying the arrears, if any, of the preferential dividend to the commencement of the winding up, & to have the residue, after payment of the capital of the ordinary shares, divided between the ordinary & preference shareholders in proportion to the amount paid up on their shares.

The arts. of assocn. provided that no dividends should be declared except out of profits. No dividends had ever been declared, & the last balance-sheet of the co., issued in Sept. 1914, showed a loss on profit & loss account to date of £9,000. The co. went into voluntary liquidation on Sept. 3, 1915. The co. held a large stock of antimony, & this had so risen in price that the surplus assets were sufficient to cover the loss, pay all arrears of preferential dividends, & a dividend upon the ordinary shares. The liquidator took out this summons for directions how the surplus assets were to be divided:—Held: the arrears of preferential dividends payable could not be limited to dividends actually declared, & the holders of preference shares were entitled to be paid preferentially out of the surplus assets 10 per cent per annum on the amount paid up on their shares from the date of their issue to the commencement of the winding up. Semble: it would have made no difference if the surplus assets had not included any profits, but as there plainly were profits the point did not arise.—Re NEW CHINESE ANTIMONY Co., LTD., [1916] 2 Ch. 115; 85 L. In 1919 the co. went into voluntary liquidation & there were surplus assets in the hands of the liquidators. No preference dividends had ever been declared nor profits earned:—Held: all unpaid preferential dividends were "arrears" of preferential dividends although no profits had been earned by the co., so that subject to the payment off of the preference shares the surplus assets were applicable in the first place in paying off the whole of the unpaid preferential dividends down to the commencement of the winding up.—Re SPRINGBOK AGRICULTURAL ESTATES, LTD., [1920] 1 Ch. 563; 89 L. SUB-SECT. 10.—APPLICATIONS TO COURT.

6996. Jurisdiction of court.—Under a voluntary winding up the ct. may, under 1862 Act, ss. 138, 165, do anything that it could do if the winding up were compulsory.

A member of a co. in course of voluntary liquidation, presented a petition praying that the liquidators might be removed, & that the winding up might be continued either by, or under the supervision of, the ct., on the grounds that the directors who were the present liquidators being under the influence of the solrs. of the co., had paid to them previous to the commencement of the winding up a bill of costs, in which were charged several large sums which were not properly payable out of the assets of the co., & that the accounts as presented to the shareholders were erroneous & inaccurate in many particulars. The creditors of the co. had been paid in full, & all that now remained to be done in the winding up was to distribute a sum of about £400 among the shareholders:—Held: the petition was demurrable, & must accordingly be dismissed with costs, but the costs of affidavits filed in answer to the petition & the costs of shareholders who appeared to oppose it were refused.—Re STAR & GARTER, LTD. (1873), 42 L. shareholders who had taken fully-paid shares in exchange for the property sold to the co.—PATERSON v. M'FARLANE, ETC. (1875), 2 R. (Ct. of Sess.) 490; 12 Sc. L. R. 318.—SCOT.

6992 iv. ———.]—In the voluntary winding up of a limited co., after all debts & expenses have been paid, a shareholder who has been allotted fully paid-up shares in consideration of his services as promoter of the co. is entitled to have the liquidator ordained to make a call upon the holders of shares not fully-paid, so as to equalise the actual payments made on these shares with the amount credited as paid up on the paid-up shares, & thereafter to proceed with the adjustment of the rights of the contributories among themselves.—*STEWART v. The co. afterwards wound up voluntarily, & the same directors appointed official liquidators:—Held: the question of their misconduct could not be dealt with in the winding-up proceedings, & the proper course to adopt in such a case was to file a bill against the directors; but the ct. declined to say whether the case was one in which a bill ought to be filed.—Re LONDON BANK OF SCOTLAND (1867), 16 L. An application was then made under above sect. by a workman who had obtained an award against the co., for a weekly payment as compensation for an accident, to have a commuted sum assessed in place of the weekly payment & order was made that the liquidator "do pay" the workman £100. The liquidator appealed to the Ct. of Appeal:—Held: the appeal was not an appeal under above Act, & did not lie to the Ct. of Appeal direct, but must be decided in the winding up. Semble: the county ct. judge had jurisdiction to assess the sum payable only & not to order payment.—*HOMER v. On that date witnesses were examined, & the judge decided substantially in favour of appct. with costs. No summons had so far been taken out, & on drawing up the order the registrar required a summons to be taken out in the voluntary winding up. As an originating summons had previously been taken out by the liquidator for a private examination under 1862 Act, s. 115, on which an order had been made for an examination & reserving "liberty to apply," the registrar directed that the summons to be taken out & mentioned in the order was to be an ordinary & not an originating summons. On taxation the registrar disallowed the costs of instructions for brief.—Held: as the direction for trial treated the summons as issued in a "pending cause or matter," within the meaning of R. S. O., 1883, Ord. 71, r. 1 (a), the summons was not an originating summons; & although, if Appendix N. to the Rules, item 81, was construed strictly, it referred to an issue of fact directed to be tried as such, yet on taxation substance was to be regarded, & in substance the trial was of an issue of fact before a judge. On the liquidator's applying for a stay of proceedings in the action on the ground that the co. was in liquidation:—Held: the question of the co.'s liability being a matter which was prima facie properly determinable in the ordinary way by an action & no special ground for a stay of proceedings being made out, the application should, in the exercise of the discretion of the ct., be refused.—*CURRIE v. business at D. & had its registered office at Bombay. M., was the manager at D., & he had authority to borrow money & draw hundis on behalf of the co. In Aug. 1894, the directors opened negotiations for the sale of the co.'s factory to H. & in Sept. 1894, while the negotiations were pending, a special resolution was passed to wind up the co. voluntarily. The resolution was confirmed in Oct. 1894, & A. was appointed liquidator under Indian Cos. Act, VI. of 1882, s. 177. In Dec. 1894, the liquidator agreed to sell the factory to H. for the sum of Rs. 38,000. Under the agreement, H. was to enter into possession of the factory, but the co. was to have a lien upon it until the completion of the purchase which was to take place in May, 1895. A month before the date fixed for the completion of the sale, pltf. filed a suit against M. the manager of the co., in his individual capacity & as manager of the co. His claim was professedly against the co., but he did not make the co., which was then in liquidation, a party to the suit. Subsequently pltf. applied for & obtained an order for attachment before judgment of the co.'s factory at D. No notice of the application or of the order made on it was given to the liquidator. He at once applied to the ct. to raise the attachment, contending that the ct. had no power to attach the property of the co., which was not a party to the suit. The ct. made the co. a party, & dismissed the liquidator's application, confirming its previous order for attachment. The liquidator appealed to the High Ct.:—Held: the order of attachment should be reversed; the intended sale by the liquidator, which was the sole reason for making the order, was not with intent to obstruct any decree that pltf. might obtain against the co., but was being effected by the liquidator in the course of his duty & in pursuance of a contract entered into long before the suit was instituted; pltf.'s claim, if established, would be satisfied pari passu with the other debts of the co.; pltf. was not entitled to security for

of the demised premises, & gave H. bills of exchange for rent overdue, which bills were dishonoured. After the dishonour the co. passed an extraordinary resolution for voluntarily winding up, & then the landlord distrained for the rent on the co.'s chattels. These, however, were subject to a floating security contained in debentures covering all the co.'s assets, which were insufficient in value to satisfy the debenture debt. No receiver had been appointed. The liquidators having moved to restrain the landlord from proceeding with the distress:—Held: but for the existence of the debentures, & notwithstanding ex parte Clemence (1883), 23 Ch. D. 154, which the ct. declined to follow, the landlord would have been restrained, as he had a right to prove in the winding up.—Re HARPUR'S CYCLE FITTINGS CO., [1900] 2 Ch. 731; 69 L. J. By sect. 3 "the winding up of a co. or any proceedings therein may be transferred from one ct. to another ct. & by sect. 1 both the High Ct. & County Ct. have jurisdiction to wind up companies.

The liquidator of a co. in voluntary liquidation obtained an ex p. order from a chief clerk in chambers in the Ch. The first order was drawn up, & bore the seal of the ct. The county ct. judge refused to hear the matter:—Held: there was power under sect. 3 to transfer proceedings in a voluntary winding up & even assuming that the order under sect. 10 could not be made by a chief clerk, the validity of such order could not be questioned in the county ct., but only upon an appeal against, or motion to set aside, such order.—*R. v. Sect. 161 of the Act, which does sanction such a transfer, applies only to cases where the co. is wound up voluntarily.

A scheme was proposed for the transfer of the business of A. co. to B. co.; after which A. co. was ordered to be wound up compulsorily, but was eventually wound up voluntarily under the supervision of the ct. Certain shareholders in A. co. applied for & were allotted shares in B. co. in lieu of their shares in A. co., & on the understanding that the transfer would be completed. B. What amounts to.

7056. General rule.—Neither “reconstruction” nor “amalgamation” has any definite legal meaning. Each word is a commercial & not a legal term & even as a commercial term has no exact definite meaning.

Where an undertaking is being carried on by a co., & is in substance preserved & transferred, not to an outsider but to another co., consisting substantially of the same shareholders, with a view to its being continued by the transferee co., that is a reconstruction; & it is none the less a reconstruction because all the assets do not pass to the new or resuscitated co., & all the shareholders of the transferor co. are not shareholders in the transferee co. & the liabilities of the transferor co. are not taken over by the transferee co.

To constitute “amalgamation” there must be a blending of substantially two or more existing undertakings into one undertaking, the shareholders of each blending co. becoming substantially the shareholders in the co. which holds the blended undertakings; & there may be amalgamation either by the transfer of two or more undertakings to a new co., or by the transfer of one or more undertakings to an existing co.

It is not necessary that a resolution for winding up should refer to “reconstruction” or “amalgamation” in order to constitute a “winding up for the purpose of reconstruction or amalgamation,” but the purpose of the winding up may be gathered from the whole of the circumstances which result in reconstruction or amalgamation.

The S. co. had powers under its memorandum of assocn. to amalgamate with any other co., & to sell its undertaking, or any part thereof, for shares or debenture-stock of any other co., & under its arts. of assocn. the liquidator, in the case of winding up had power to divide amongst the contributories in specie any part of its assets. Its memorandum of assocn. also gave to its preference shareholders the right in the event of a “winding up for the purpose of reconstruction or amalgamation” to a bonus by way of percentage on the par value of the preference shares.

The S. co. issued debenture-stock, constituted & secured by a trust deed under which the stock was redeemable only at a premium in the event of the security becoming enforceable by reason of a voluntary winding up of the co. for the purpose of reconstruction or amalgamation.

After the S. co. had carried on business for a short time, a rival co., the I. co., was formed, & accordingly in Feb. 1902, the A. co. was incorporated to take over the business & certain of the assets of the S. co. The memorandum of assocn. & debenture-stock deed of the A. co. gave to its preference shareholders & debenture-stock holders respectively rights to bonus & premium in the case of a winding up of that co. for the purpose of reconstruction or amalgamation.

In the same month the A. co. agreed with the S. co. to purchase the business & some of the assets of the latter for £1,000,000, to be satisfied in cash & in fully paid preference & ordinary shares & debenture-stock of the A. co. The remaining, unsold assets, of the S. co. consisted of cash, investments, & other things of the value of over £1,500,000.

In May, 1902, the C. co. was incorporated with, after an increase of capital, an ordinary capital twice the amount of the ordinary capital of the S. co., & a preference capital equal to the preference capital of the S. co.

In Aug. 1902, heads of agreement, formally entered into by an agreement of May, 1903, were entered into under which the A. co. was to sell to the I. co. the business & assets purchased by the former from the S. co. & the stock-in-trade & working capital of the A. co. The purchase consideration was to be £1,650,000, to be satisfied as follows: £1,000,000 in fully paid shares of the I. co., representing the £1,000,000 ordinary share capital of the A. co.; £500,000 in debentures of the I. co. to replace the preference share capital & debenture-stock of the A. co.; & £150,000 payable to certain firms interested in the I. co. There was no provision that the A. co. should wind itself up, but £500 was to be retained out of its assets for liquidation expenses. At a meeting of the A. co. held in Sept. 1902, a distribution on the lines above indicated was mentioned in speeches by the chairman of the co. & others.

In view of an agreement of Feb. 1903, referred to below, a meeting of the S. co. was held at which the chairman & others referred to an intended winding up of the co., & to the manner in which the shares of the C. co. were to replace the shares in the S. co.

By an agreement of Feb. 1903, the S. co. agreed to sell to the C. co. all its remaining assets, including the shares in the A. co. to which it was entitled as the consideration for the previous sale to that co., excepting assets of the value of £295,000 retained to pay the debts of the S. co. The consideration for this sale was to be the whole of the 618,000 ordinary shares, and 150,000 preference shares of the C. co., to be allotted as fully paid up.

Subsequently both the A. co. and the S. co. passed special resolutions simply for voluntary winding up, without referring to any amalgamation or reconstruction, or consideration or distribution of shares. At one of the meetings of the S. co. for passing the resolution of that co. reference was made by the chairman to the proposed distribution of the C. co.'s shares. Afterwards the S. co. passed an extraordinary resolution authorising its liquidators to distribute in specie amongst its contributories in the proportion of two shares for every ordinary share in the S. co. the 618,000 ordinary shares in the C. co. which formed part of the consideration referred to in the agreement of Feb. 1903:—Held: (1) there was a reconstruction of the S. co., & its winding up was for the purpose of reconstruction; (2) there was an “amalgamation” of the A. co. with the I. co. & the winding up of the A. co. was for the purpose of amalgamation.—Re SOUTH AFRICAN SUPPLY & COLD STORAGE CO., WILD v. SAME CO., [1904] 2 Ch. 268; 73 L. J. Ch. 657; 91 L. T. 447; 52 W. R. 649; 12 Mans. 76.

7057. "Reconstruction."—A. co. issued debentures of £100 each bearing interest at 5 per cent payable in 1896, but subject to provisions that the co. might, at any time after the expiration of one year from the date of the debenture, redeem the same by giving three calendar months' notice to the holder & paying to such holder £105 for each £100 debenture with interest up to the day of payment, & that, if the co. commenced to be wound up otherwise than for the purposes of reorganisation or reconstruction, the principal money secured by the debenture should become immediately payable. In June 1892, the co. entered into an agreement for its amalgamation with another co. & resolutions for voluntary liquidation were passed for the purpose of carrying such agreement into effect:—Held: (1) the transaction, which was that of a small co. joining with a larger co. was not a reconstruction or reorganisation of the co.; (2) meaning of the expressions "reconstruction" & "reorganisation" of a co. considered.—*HOOPER v. 7059 i. "Amalgamation."—In 1889, the city of T. entered into similar agreements with debt. cos. by which they authorised these cos. to lay down & operate underground wires & appliances for the distribution & supply of electricity, & gave them other privileges in connection with their business. By these agreements debts. were forbidden to lease to, amalgamate with, or sell out to any other co., without the consent of ptfs.; & if they did so, all rights granted thereby were to cease & determine. In 1896, the I. Co. sold out all their assets & the shareholders transferred their shares to the E. L. Co.:—Held: the E. L. Co. had not in purchasing fallen within the prohibition clause, for to hold to the contrary would be to add the word "buy" to that clause; also, what had been done was not an amalgamation of the two cos., inasmuch as the purchase was for cash & for cash only, & the I. Co. acquired no interest whatever in the assets & affairs or otherwise of the other co.—*CITY OF TORONTO v. TORONTO ELECTRIC LIGHT CO., CITY OF TORONTO v. INCANDESCENT LIGHT CO. By clause 14 of the agreement, the license was granted for 50 years, with certain rights of renewal, the syndicate paying therefor a yearly rental of $15,000 & a further sum "for each electrical horse-power generated & used & sold or disposed of over 10,000 electrical horse-power." By clause 25, the syndicate should not amalgamate with any other co. nor enter into any arrangement which might have that effect. "The Syndicate" was to be understood to mean not only the named individuals, but also their & each of their heirs, exors., administrators, & assigns. By clause 27, the syndicate agreed that, within two years from the date of the agreement, they would sell, assign, convey, & transfer to a co. having power to construct & operate the works proposed, all the rights & franchises conferred. On Mar. 25, 1903, the syndicate assigned its rights under the agreement to the E. D. Co., & the agreement & assignment were confirmed by 5 Edw. VII, c. 12 (O). On Apr. 16, 1908, an agreement was entered into between the E. D. Co. & a transmission co. & the Y. P. Co., by which the undertakings of the E. D. Co. & of the transmission co. were leased to the T. P. Co. from the date of the agreement for a term exceeding by one month the duration of the license granted & its renewal terms. In consideration of this, the T. P. Co. agreed to assume & pay the rental due to the Commissioners & to make all accruing payments upon debentures issued by the E. D. Co., & if the earnings permitted a sum which would enable that co. to pay dividends upon its preferred shares. In an action by the Attorney General & the Commissioners against the E. D. & T. P. 7068. ———.]—(1) In order to bring a transfer of the business of one co. to another co. within 1862 Act, s. 161, the circular convening the meeting at which the transaction is to be submitted to the shareholders must contain distinct notice that the arrangement is to be carried out by the liquidators under sect. 161. (2) An arrangement for the transfer of the business of A. co. to B. co., by which, in addition to having their liabilities per share raised from £50 to £100, the shareholders of A. co. can only obtain shares in B. co. upon payment of £6 premium per share, is not a valid sale or arrangement within the provisions of sect. 161. Acquiescence, to bind all the members of a co. to a bargain which there is no power to confirm, must be acquiescence by every member of the co.

If the arrangement was bad in Clinch's Case, No. 7067, ante, a fortiori it is bad here, & I do not hesitate to say that an arrangement under that clause cannot be valid if it contains a condition precedent on the individual shareholder to pay something, not towards the capital of the new co. in respect of which he is to receive profit, but by way of premium for the shares (GIFFARD, V.C.).—*IMPERIAL BANK OF CHINA, INDIA & JAPAN v. The co., at an extraordinary general meeting, passed a resolution for affixing the seal of the co. to the agreement, which was done, & A. paid the £250:—Held: the agreement was ultra vires & invalid, & effect could not be given to it under 1862 Act, s. 161, for that sect. only authorises a sale to a co., not to a person about to form a co.—*BIRD v. c. Scheme transferring assets & liabilities to new company—Option to new company to cancel arrangement—If liabilities exceed certain amount.]—A co. issued 50,000 £1 shares, of which 20,000 were fully paid & 30,000 paid up to 10s. per share. It was agreed to wind up & reconstruct the co. & a liquidator was appointed & authorised to consent to the registration of a new co. & to enter into an agreement, then approved with the new co., which was subsequently carried out. It was agreed inter alia between the new co., the old co. & the liquidator of the old co. that the new co. should purchase all the assets & liabilities of the old co. & that every member of the old

co. should be entitled to receive a fully-paid share for every share intended to have been fully paid in the old co. & a contributing share paid up to 10s. a share plus the amount of calls made & paid for each contributing share in the old co. It was also agreed that if the liquidator, to carry the sale into effect, should have to purchase the interest of any member of the old co., the new co. should pay to the liquidator such sum as by arbn. between the old co. & such member or by agreement made with him & the liquidator should be determined, but if it should be necessary for the liquidator to purchase the interests of more than one-third of the old shareholders, the new co. was to be at liberty to cancel the agreement. The agreement was carried out & filed with the registrar & consequently A. applied for 200 fully-paid shares & 2,000 contributing shares paid up to 18s. a share in the new co., being the number of shares held by him & the amounts up to which they were credited in the old co. A winding-up order was made, & the official liquidator sought to place A. on the list of contributories in respect of these shares, with a liability to pay 20s. on each share after giving credit for calls made & paid. A. had paid calls amounting to 2s. a share on the contributing shares & all the debts & liabilities of the old co. had been paid in full:—Held: the reconstruction of the old co. was not a fraud, a valid contract had been registered within Companies Act, 1874, s. 57,

A co. limited by shares cannot by its memorandum & arts. of assocn. provide as part of its constitution that in an event the corporator shall either submit to a liability in excess of the limit of liability on his shares or shall be dispossessed of his status as corporator.

Where, therefore, a limited co., which had issued 1,770,386 fully-paid shares of £1 each, acting under the powers of its memorandum & arts. of assocn. passed resolutions in general meeting approving a scheme of reconstruction & for a voluntary winding up, & by the scheme the undertaking of the co. was to be sold to a new co. to be formed for the purpose in consideration of a like number of £1 shares in the new co., credited with 17s. 6d. per share as paid thereon, & the payment of the debts & the costs of liquidation of the old co., & the liquidator was to offer the shares in the new co., credited as aforesaid, for distribution among the members of the old co. at the rate of one of such new shares for each share in the old co. held by such members, & in the event of any of the old members not accepting their due proportion of such shares within a limited time, was to use his best endeavours to sell such shares & distribute the net proceeds among the non-accepting members in proportion to the number of

To comply with sect. 192, sub-sect. 1, there must at least be a special resolution authorising the liquidator to accept shares as the consideration for the sale. In the absence of such a special resolution there would be no special resolution to which the provision relating to dissentients in sect. 192, sub-sect. 3, could apply. Semble: a special resolution passed on a show of hands, no poll being demanded, by a three-fourths majority as provided by sect. 69 of the Act, & subsequently confirmed, is sufficient to satisfy the requirement of sect. 192, & validate the sale, notwithstanding a provision in the co.'s arts. of assocn. that every special resolution should unless resolved on without a dissentient, be decided by poll.—ETHERIDGE v. of a co. contained powers to sell its undertaking for shares in another co., & to distribute amongst its members in specie any of its property. Its arts. of assocn. empowered the liquidators in its winding up, with the sanction of an extraordinary resolution, to distribute in specie amongst the contributors any part of its assets. The co. while a going concern agreed to sell its undertaking & all its property to another co., the consideration being, (a) that the purchaser co. should pay the vendor co.'s debts & perform its obligations, & keep the vendor co. & its liquidators & contributors indemnified; (b) that the vendor co. should retain a sum to pay the costs of & incidental to its winding up; (c) the allotment to the vendor co. or its nominees of fully-paid shares in the purchaser co. The agreement was conditional on its being sanctioned by an extraordinary resolution of the vendor co. before Jan. 31, 1902. On Dec. 30, 1901, the vendor co. passed by a three-fourths majority resolutions, (a) that the agreement should be adopted & carried into effect; (b) for voluntary winding up & the appointment of a liquidator, who was authorised to distribute any of the assets amongst the members in specie. At a subsequent meeting resolution (b) was confirmed as a special resolution. BUCKLEY, J., decided that the sale was properly made under the power of sale in the memorandum, & was not vitiated by the fact that it involved the co.'s immediately going into voluntary liquidation; & that it was not in disguise a sale by the liquidator upon terms not justified by 1862 Act, s. 161. To carry out that agreement, a new co. was formed in 1902, with power, by its memorandum, to pay out of its funds all expenses it might incur having regard to Companies Act, 1900 (c. 48), s. 8, including commission for underwriting shares; & clause 9 of its arts. provided that if at any time it should offer its shares to the public for subscription the directors might pay a commission at a rate not exceeding 50 per cent. to any person in consideration of subscribing or agreeing to subscribe for shares.

An agreement was then entered into between the guarantors, the original purchasers, & the 1902 co. for the sale to that co. of the undertaking of the 1898 co. in consideration of the 1902 co. allotting & issuing to the guarantors its shares, partly paid up, for distribution among the members of the 1898 co., the guarantors agreeing that they by themselves or their nominees would accept an allotment of such of the shares as should not be required by the 1898 co. or its liquidator; & as the balance of the consideration for the sale, the 1902 co. agreed to pay the guarantors £12,300 in cash. Soon after the date of that agreement the 1898 co. passed resolutions for a voluntary winding-up. No prospectus of the 1902 co. had yet been issued offering any of its shares to the public for subscription.

In an action to restrain the carrying out of the latter agreement as being ultra vires:—Held: (1) the sale of the undertaking of the 1898 co., so far as it was in consideration of partly paid-up shares in the 1902 co., was authorised by the memorandum of the former co.; (2) the additional consideration of the payment by the 1902 co. of £12,300 in cash was ultra vires on the grounds that it was prohibited by above sect., sub-sect. 2, as being commission in consideration of subscribing or agreeing to subscribe for shares; (3) there had been no such offer of shares to the public for subscription as to bring the 1902 co. within the protection of sub-sect. 1; (4) the sum of cash was not a rate within clause 9 of that co.'s arts.—BOOTH v. 7079. Scheme providing for distribution otherwise than in accordance with rights of shareholders—Under 1862 Act, s. 133.—The capital of a co. was divided into preference & ordinary shares of £1 each fully paid up, the holders of the preference shares not being entitled to any priority as regarded capital. Resolutions were passed for the voluntary winding-up of the co. with a view to carrying out a scheme of reconstruction, under 1862 Act, s. 161, whereby a new co. was to be formed with a capital similarly divided, but with 5s. per share treated as unpaid, & each preference & ordinary shareholder in the old co. was to receive respectively a preference or ordinary £1 share in the new co. An action was brought by a shareholder on behalf of himself & all other shareholders who were opposed to the resolutions, for an injunction to restrain the co. from carrying out or giving effect thereto:—Held: (1) the scheme was invalid inasmuch as it did not provide for a pro rata division among the shareholders in accordance with 1862 Act, s. 133; (2) upon the winding-up the preference & ordinary shareholders stood on an equal footing; (3) it was not competent for a majority of shareholders under sect. 161 to give a benefit to one class of shareholders over another.—SIMPSON v. two cos. for the sale of the undertaking of one co. to the other provided that the purchasing co. should pay to the selling co. the sum of £30,543 & a sum amounting to £3,250 to the directors & secretary as compensation for loss of office. Notice was given of an extraordinary general meeting of the shareholders of the selling co. for the purpose of considering &, if thought advisable of approving the terms of an agreement to be made between the A. co. of the one part, & the B. co. of the other part, being an agreement for the sale of the undertaking & assets of the A. co. to the B. co. A circular was afterwards sent to the shareholders stating the object of the agreement, & that, as the B. co. was desirous of having the management in their own hands, the directors & secretary have agreed to retire on being paid a lump sum as compensation for their loss of office. At the extraordinary general meeting a resolution confirming the agreement was passed by a large majority:—Held: (1) the agreement to pay various sums to the directors & secretary was not ultra vires, provided the shareholders approved of it; (2) as the notice of the extraordinary general meeting did not refer to such payments, it did not specify the “purpose” for which the meeting was called within 1845 Act, s. 71, & the resolution was not binding on a dissentient shareholder, & he was entitled to an injunction restraining the directors from carrying it into effect until it had been duly sanctioned by a meeting of the co. properly convened for that purpose.—*KAYE v. 7083. Sale for partly-paid shares in purchasing company—Forfeiture of shareholder's interest in default of taking up new shares.]—A co. which had power under its memorandum of assocn. to sell its undertaking & to accept in payment for the same shares of any other co., whether wholly or partly paid up, entered into an agreement for a sale of its undertaking to a new co., part of the consideration being shares in the new co. of 5s. with 4s. credited as paid up. A clause of the agreement provided that if the selling co. should go into liquidation & distribute the shares forming part of the consideration amongst its members, all shares not accepted by members within twenty-one days should be sold & applied in payment of debts & liabilities of the selling co. in relief of the obligation of the new co. under the agreement:—Held: the agreement was not justified by the memorandum of assocn. & was ultra vires, for the selling co. had no power to contract that upon a liquidation the assets should be divided amongst its shareholders, or that if a shareholder did not choose to undertake the liability under the shares in the new co. his shares should be forfeited.—MANNERS v. ST. DAVID'S GOLD & COPPER MINES, LTD., [1904] 2 Ch. 593; 73 L. J. Ch. 764; 91 L. T. 277; 20 T. L. R. 729; 11 Mans. 425, C. A.

7084. ———.]—A co. was empowered by its memorandum of assocn. to sell its undertaking

for shares in any other co., & to distribute any of the property of the co. among the members in specie. Part of its nominal capital has been issued & was fully paid. The co. was in need of further capital, &, being unable to place its unissued shares, a scheme for reconstruction was prepared, providing for the sale of the undertaking & assets of the co. to a new co. in consideration (inter alia) of partly-paid shares in the new co. of the same number & nominal amount as the fully-paid shares in the old co. & that if the old co. should go into liquidation before the shares were allotted, every member of the old co. in respect of each share therein held by him was to be entitled to claim an allotment to himself of one partly-paid share in the new co. A time limit was fixed within which members of the old co. were to exercise their option to claim such an allotment; & with regard to the proportion of the shares in the new co. which members of the old co. should be entitled to claim, but should not claim within the time limit, the liquidator was to sell the same in such manner as he in his absolute discretion should think fit, & the net proceeds of sale were to be distributed ratably in accordance with their rights & interests among the members who had not so claimed. This scheme was embodied in a draft agreement between the two cos., & a resolution adopting & authorising the directors to enter into the agreement with the new co. when formed was duly passed. On a motion by two dissentient members to restrain the co. from acting on the resolution:—Held: the agreement was a device or compelling shareholders of the old co. either to subscribe further capital or else to accept a share of the proceeds of sale of the unclaimed shares in the new co. to be ascertained under a scheme of distribution which was likely to be unfair & work injustice to the dissentient members, & was at any rate, not part of the bargain under which they had originally subscribed for their shares, & the agreement was ultra vires.—*BISGOOD v. 7086. ——— Shares not taken up to be at disposal of purchasing company.]—One of the objects of a co. was to sell & dispose of its property for such consideration as it thought fit, & in particular for shares fully or partly paid up, & to divide the consideration amongst the members of the co. This power was to be exercisable either in view of a winding up of the co. or not. Another object was to distribute any of the assets of the co. among the members of the co.

The co. agreed to sell its assets & undertaking to another co. By the agreement the vendor co. was to be wound up; part of the consideration was to consist of partly-paid shares to be allotted to the vendor co. or its nominees. The vendor co. were within two calendar months to find people to take up these shares, & if any of them were not taken up they were to be at the disposal of the purchasing co., & the vendor co. was not to be liable to take them up itself. Resolutions were passed & confirmed at meetings of the vendor co. to wind up that co. voluntarily, & that the liquidator should offer the new shares to the members at the rate of one such share for each share held by the members.

By the amalgamation scheme it was provided that the liquidator should sell shares which were not accepted by the shareholders & distribute the net proceeds of sale among such members. A shareholder in the vendor co. objected to these proposals:—Held: the proposed scheme of reconstruction was within the powers conferred by the memorandum & ought to be allowed to proceed.—FULLER v. WHITE FEATHER REWARD, LTD., [1906] 1 Ch. 823; 75 L. J. Ch. 393; 95 L. T. 404; 22 T. L. R. 400; 13 Mans. 137

7087. Re-transfer of assets to old company—On failure of amalgamation.—The M. co. was wound up & reconstructed by the formation of the M. corp., the shareholders taking shares in the corp. in exchange for their shares in the co., & the corp. taking over the co.'s assets & liabilities. The corp. failed to indemnify the co., & was itself wound up. Its capital was fully called up in the liquidation & it still owed large debts, besides the claim of the co. against it for indemnity. The co.'s capital had not been fully called up. It owed no debts, & had a balance of cash in hand. Under these circumstances an agreement was entered into between the liquidators, that the co. should take the assets of the corp., paying the creditors of the corp. 4s. in the pound, & retaining what else they might make of them. There was evidence that the assets, if realised carefully, might more than pay the co.'s claim in full. If sold immediately, the assets would probably pay about 3s. in the pound to all. On an order sanctioning this arrangement, giving dissentients the option of taking the present estimated value of their shares, certain exors. holding shares in the co. appealed from the order:—Held: order was valid.—Re MARINE INVESTMENT CO., Ex p. POOLE'S EXECUTORS (1873), 8 Ch. App. 702; 42 L. J. Ch. 620, L. JJ.

E. Effect.

(a) On Dissentient Members.

i. In General.

7088. General rule.—(1) Any shareholder, who does not approve of a scheme of reconstruction proposed under 1862 Act, s. 161, should attend at the meeting & vote against it. If he is outvoted & the necessary special resolution is passed sanctioning the liquidator entering into the agreement his next course is to dissent under the section.

(2) Where, on the voluntary winding up of a co., a reconstruction agreement is entered into, pursuant to a special resolution under 1862 Act, s. 161, between that co. & its liquidator of the one part & the new co. of the other part, for carrying out a transfer or sale of the undertaking of the old co. to the new, & providing that every holder of shares in the old co. "shall be entitled as of right" to claim an allotment of an equivalent number of shares in the new co., further provisions fixing the time within which the application for shares must be sent in to the new co., & placing the shares not applied for within that time at the disposal of the new co., are not ultra vires; & therefore a member of the old co. who is not a dissentient member within the proviso in the sect. & whose application is out of time either through negligence or accident, such as absence abroad or illness, cannot compel the new co. to allot him the shares.

Qu.: whether, on an application to sanction a proposed scheme of reconstruction containing a clause placing shares not applied for by members of the old co. within a stipulated time at the disposal of the new co., the ct. will sanction such a clause without some modification for the protection of members of the old co.—BURDETT-COUTTS v. TRUE BLUE (HANNAN'S) GOLD MINE, [1899] 2 Ch. 616; 68 L. J. Ch. 692; 81 L. T. 29; 48 W. R. 1; 43 Sol. Jo. 672; 7 Mans. 85, C. A.

7089. Cannot be forced to become shareholders in new company.—Where a deed enables the majority of a body to bind the minority by a resolution passed in a certain manner, the provisions of the deed in that respect must be strictly complied with, otherwise the minority are not bound.

The subscribers' agreement of a provisionally registered co. authorised the directors, with the consent of a majority at a meeting of subscribers, summoned as therein mentioned, to amalgamate the undertaking with any other similar undertaking. The directors agreed to an amalgamation with the D. co., & sent a circular to the subscribers, stating the terms agreed upon. A majority of the subscribers assented to the amalgamation, & took the benefit of it, but no meeting ever was called to sanction it:—Held: the amalgamation was not binding on any shareholders, who had not assented to it.—*Re DIRECT EAST & WEST JUNCTION RY. Annotation:—Mentd. Re Mercantile Trading Co., Stringer's Case (1869), 4 Ch. App. 475.

7090. — Effect of not dissenting within prescribed time.—(1) No shareholder in a joint-stock co. which is in course of voluntary liquidation is bound, in the absence of express assent on his part, to accept shares in any other co., although the liquidators may have agreed that such shall be taken, & such agreement may have been duly confirmed by a meeting of the shareholders in manner prescribed by the 1862 Act, s. 161. But if he does not express his dissent from the agreement in the manner or within the time specified in that sect., he can get no other consideration for his shares, & must submit to lose them utterly if he refuses to accept the new shares.

(2) General powers of amalgamation given to the directors in the arts. of assocn. do not authorise them to bind non-assenting shareholders to accept the new shares. Semble: no power which could be given to directors, short of express words to that effect, would enable them to do so.—Re BANK OF HINDUSTAN, CHINA & JAPAN, LTD., HIGGS'S CASE (1865), 2 Hem. & M. 657; 6 New Rep. 327; 12 L. The S. R. co. owned considerable liquid assets & also large mining claims of prospective though not present value, which it had been formed to purchase from the H. E. co. & for which in part payment it had allotted to the latter more than three-fifths of its issued shares. In 1906 the H. E. co. sold these shares to the E. corp. & procured the appointment of nominees of the latter to be the directors of the S. R. co., & these directors lent the greater part of the liquid assets to the E. corp. to enable it to complete the purchase. In 1908 resolutions were proposed at extraordinary general meetings of the S. R. co. & passed by means of the shares held by the E. corp. in spite of the opposition of nearly all the independent shareholders, for the voluntary winding-up of the S. R. co. & for the sale of its assets to a new co. which was to be formed to acquire them, & also the assets of the E. corp. & another co. All these assets were to be paid for in shares on the new co., & in fixing the values of the respective assets, & the number of shares to be paid to each co., the mining claims of the S. R. co. were wholly disregarded while the E. corp., besides being relieved of its debt to the S. R. co., was to receive so large a number of shares as to give it a great preponderance in the new co. A shareholder in the S. 7102. To whom given—Liquidator not in existence—But bound to come into existence if scheme carried out.]—The provisions of 1908 Act, s. 192 (3), are sufficiently complied with by the sending of notices to the liquidator at the co.'s offices, although the question of whether the co. is, or is not, to go into liquidation is to depend on the number of dissentients, & the liquidator accordingly will not in fact come into existence until after that number has been ascertained.—Re NEEDHAMS, LTD. (1923), 68 Sol. 7103. Time for giving—Notice given before confirmation of special resolution—Objection to notice after confirmation of resolution.]—After the passing of resolutions by a co. for voluntary liquidation, the transfer of its business, & the appointment of the co.'s secretary as liquidator, but before the subsequent confirmation of such resolutions, a shareholder served notice of dissent on the secretary of the co. The notice was not objected to until one month after the confirmation of the resolutions, & was not returned:—Held: the notice was a valid notice of dissent within 1862 Act, s. 161.—Re LONDON & WESTMINSTER BREAD CO., LTD. (1890), 59 L. 7104. Service—At London office—Registered office abroad.]—The pltf. was the holder of fully paid up shares in deft. co., which was in course of liquidation for the purpose of reconstruction. The co. was registered in 1903 under the Companies Ordinance, 1895, of Southern Rhodesia, & its registered office was in Bulawayo. By the co.'s arts. it was provided that the business of the co. should be carried on in England. At extraordinary general meetings held in London on June 18 & July 3, 1909, resolutions had been passed for the voluntary winding up of the co., & all its assets were to be taken over by a new co.

Under sect. 158 of the Companies Ordinance, 1895, which was similar to 1862 Act, s. 161, a dissentient shareholder had to give notice of dissent at the registered office of the co. within seven days of the date of the meeting. The pltf. voted against the resolutions, & on July 5 gave notice of dissent at the London office of the co. On July 6 the liquidator sent him in reply a letter in the following terms: "I am in receipt of your letter of the 5th inst., & note that you do not consent to the reconstruction of the above co." Subsequently the liquidator refused to treat the notice of dissent as valid, on the ground that it was not served at the registered office of the co., & the pltf. brought this action. Under the Companies Ordinance, 1895, the liquidator had power to do all acts in the name & on behalf of the co.:—Held: the liquidator had waived the irregularity & the notice of dissent must be treated as valid.—*BRAILEY v. 7107. Right to have interest purchased.]—A sale of the assets & business of a co. under 1862 Act, s. 161, may be made to a co. carrying on business in a foreign co. & framed under foreign law. But where a sale of the assets & business of a co. is intended to be made under sect. 161, the notices convening the meetings of the shareholders at which resolutions to that effect are to be proposed, ought on the face of them to show that proceedings are taken under sect. 161, in order that the shareholders may know that if they dissent from the proposed scheme, they will be entitled to require their interest in the co. to be paid for cash.

e. Service—By letter—No particular form of words necessary.]—The shareholders of a co. having passed a resolution for the voluntary winding up of the co., five dissentient shareholders gave notice of their dissent by a letter to the liquidators in the following terms: "With reference to the resolutions to wind up the co. voluntarily, & which were passed & confirmed, we hereby give you notice under Indian Companies Act, VI. of 1882, s. 204, & require you to purchase the interest held by us in the said co. at such price as may be determined either by private arrangement or by arbn., as we are dissentients from such resolutions":—Held: the letter was sufficient notice of dissent under the provisions of that sect. as it provided no particular form of words in which the notice is to be given but merely provided that a member who has not voted in favour of the special resolution shall express his dissent in writing to the liquidators not later than 7 days after the date of the special resolution being passed.—MOTTRAM BHAGUBHAI v. GORDON MILLS, LTD. (1888), 1 L. R. 12 Bom. 526.—IND.

f. Contents—Requisition to liquidator—Waiver by liquidator.]—A notice of dissent under Indian Companies Act, 1866, s. 175, is insufficient if it does not contain the requisition to the liquidators required by that sect. & consequently, it is open to the liquidators to have the shareholder disentitled to a dissentient's right under that sect. It is, however, resolution for voluntary winding up, with a view of disposing of its undertaking, which was carried on in France, to a French co. to be formed for the purpose; & at the same time it passed other resolutions as to the transfer to the French co., & a special resolution altering the arts. of assocn. so as to give power to carry out the arrangement without giving dissentient shareholders the option to receive the value of their shares in cash, as provided by 1862 Act, s. 161. These resolutions, except the resolution for winding up, were passed irregularly, but no shareholder dissented from them except one fully paid-up shareholder, who applied to the co. to pay him the value of his shares, which was refused. He then presented a petition praying that the co. might be wound up compulsorily, or under supervision, or that he might be at liberty to sue in the name of the co. to set aside the proposed arrangements, or that the value of his shares might be ascertained & paid:—Held: (1) the resolution to wind up voluntarily having been regularly passed, the ct. would not, on the application of a fully paid-up shareholder, interfere with it by ordering a compulsory winding up, or a winding up under supervision, against the wishes of nearly all the shareholders; (2) the winding-up resolution being good in itself, was not invalidated by being associated with resolutions which were not regularly passed; (3) leave to sue in the name of the co. had rightly been refused, as the resolutions authorising a transfer to the French co. were not ultra vires, but, although irregular, were capable of confirmation; (4) the special resolution altering the arts. while the co. was in difficulties, & as a part of the scheme for transfer to the French co., was invalid, & petitioner was entitled to have the value of his shares ascertained & paid, as provided by 1862 Act, s. 161.—*Re IRRIGATION CO. 7108. Power of liquidator—On requisition to purchase shares—Cannot release shareholder from liability to creditors—Can only purchase shareholder's interest.—A co. having resolved on a voluntary winding up, & the reconstruction of the co., with a new capital, new arts., & a new name, a dissentient shareholder gave notice to the liquidators, under 1862 Act, s. 161, requiring them to purchase his interest in the co. The liquidators accordingly took a transfer of his shares:—Held: the liquidators had no power, under sect. 161, to release the dissentient shareholder from his liability to the creditors, but only to purchase such interest as he had in the assets of the co.; & consequently, the shareholder's name must be put on the list of contributories.

Under sect. 161, does a shareholder by giving notice that he is a dissentient shareholder & that he insists either upon paying him off or discontinuing the arrangement, cease to be a shareholder so as not to be a member of the co. at the time of winding up? I find nothing in the Act of Parliament which says that a person being a shareholder ceases by virtue of that arrangement to be a shareholder (JAMES, L.J.).—*Re IMPERIAL LAND CO. Requisition to purchase interest—Form—Necessity for writing.—Where a limited co. is being wound up voluntarily, & a special resolution has been passed under 1862 Act, s. 161, for the transfer or sale of its business to another co., the requisition to the liquidators under that sect. by any dissentient member of the co. in liquidation, either to abstain from carrying such resolution into effect, or to purchase the interest held by such dissentient, must, as well as the notice of dissent given to the liquidators, be in writing, & left at the office of the co., not later than seven days after the date of the meeting at which the special resolution was passed.

of the co. to a new co.:—Held: the above clause of the arts. did not amount to an "agreement" within 1862 Act, s. 162, so as to deprive a member of the co. who dissented from the arrangements of his right under that sect. to have the value of his interest in the co. determined by arbn. Semble: the "agreement" intended by sect. 162 is an agreement between the dissentient member & the liquidator in the winding up of the co.—*BARING-GOULD v. Arbitration—Appointment of umpire.—By sects. 161, 162, of 1862 Act, on any co. being voluntarily wound up, it is lawful by special resolution to transfer the business, etc., to a new co., provided that any dissentient shareholder may require the liquidators either to abstain from carrying the resolution into effect, or to take his shares at a price, if not agreed upon, to be determined by arbn. under 1845 Act. That Act, by sects. 128–130, provides for the appointment of two arbitrators, one by each party; & the arbitrators are to appoint an umpire; but in case of their default sect. 131 only provides that if one of the parties be a railway co. the appointment of an umpire is to be by the Board of Trade. A dispute as to the price to be paid for his shares having arisen between a shareholder & a co. not a ry. co., & the arbitrators having neglected to appoint an umpire:—Held: the case was within the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854 (c. 125), s. 12, & a judge could therefore appoint an umpire under that sect.—Re ANGLO-ITALIAN BANK & DE ROSAZ (1867), L. On the footing of this amalgamation, H., who was a shareholder in C. co., applied for shares in A. co., which were allotted to him, & his name was placed on the register accordingly. Shortly afterwards H. & several other shareholders repudiated their shares in A. co., on the ground that C. co. had no power to amalgamate with another co., & that there had been misrepresentations in the circular. The repudiating shareholders acted by the same solr., & one of them, F., shortly afterwards filed a bill to set aside that amalgamation, & presented a petition to wind up C. co. A compromise was subsequently made of the suit on the terms that the amalgamation should be rescinded & the names of the repudiating shareholders should be removed from the register of A. co. This was agreed to by both cos. & sanctioned by the judge, but the name of H. still remained on the register of A. co., & that co. was also soon afterwards wound up. The agreement for compromise was signed by the solr. acting for the repudiating shareholders, who was also the solr. in F.'s suit, but there was no proof that H. had ever authorised him to agree to the compromise on his behalf, or to do any act in the matter, except to write a letter repudiating the shares:—Held: H. was liable as a contributory of A. co.—Re LONDON & COUNTY GENERAL AGENCY ASSOCN., HARE'S CASE (1869), 4 Ch. The directors of the Bank of Hindustan, without pursuing the course pointed out by the 1862 Act, ss. 12, 50, 51, but by a simple resolution passed at one meeting & confirmed at a subsequent meeting, resolved to create & issue 20,000 new shares of £100 each, for the purpose of carrying out the proposed amalgamation; their power to increase their capital under the arts. of assocn. having already been exhausted. They then issued circulars informing the shareholders in the Imperial Bank of the arrangement which had been made, & intimating to them that they had an option to take such new shares on the terms specified. Deft., a shareholder in the Imperial Bank, in consequence, in 1864, applied for & obtained an allotment of shares, paid a portion of the deposit & premium thereon, & by his letter of application engaged to pay the residue on a given day. Calls were afterwards made, of which deft. had notice; but he never repudiated his liability until an action was brought against him in 1867 for non-payment of those calls. In 1868 the supposed amalgamation of the two banks was in a suit by dissentient shareholders in the Imperial Bank, declared void:—Held: the directors of the Bank of Hindustan had no power to issue the new shares, & deft. was not by any acquiescence or conduct on his part estopped from denying that he was a shareholder in the Bank of Hindustan.—*BANK OF HINDUSTAN v. 7124. ———.]—By an agreement between two cos., one co. was to buy the business of the other co., the consideration to be paid in shares of the buying co., to be issued to the selling co. & divided amongst its shareholders. Resolutions approving of this agreement & also authorising the creation of the requisite new shares, all the shares authorised by the arts. of assocn. having been already issued, were passed at one extraordinary general meeting of the buying co., & were confirmed at a second meeting. A large majority of the shareholders of the selling co. assented to the agreement, & applied for & received what purported to be new shares of the buying co. Certain dissentient shareholders, however, filed a bill in Chancery & obtained a decision that the agreement was void. These shareholders were afterwards, by way of compromise, paid a sum of money by the official liquidator of the buying co., then in liquidation, & the suit in Chancery was stayed. Certain former shareholders of the selling co., holders of what purported to be new shares in the buying co., then applied to be repaid the money which they had paid to the buying co. for premium & on calls upon their shares:—Held: as the buying co. did really acquire, by a title which, though originally defective as against the dissentient shareholders, had been in the end confirmed, the property of the selling co., & as the shares were issued bonâ fide, the holders of the new shares could not now repudiate them.—Re BANK OF HINDUSTAN, CHINA & JAPAN, CAMPBELL'S CASE, HIPPISELEY'S CASE, ALISON'S CASE (1873), 9 Ch. 7130. Whether creditors bound.]—The reconstruction of an insolvent co. was attempted on the basis of the formation of a new co., to take over its assets & liabilities. The plan of reconstruction provided for the old co. to be wound up & the shareholders to exchange their old shares, which were of £20 each, with £10 paid up, for half the number of fully paid-up shares of the new co. of £10 each, & 6 per cent debentures to an amount equal to the amount paid up upon their shares in the old co., credited with one-half thereof as paid thereon, leaving the remaining half to be paid by instalments extending over a period of two years. The shareholders were requested to assent to the proposal by signing a form of approval containing the terms of the plan, & the plan was carried out by resolutions passed at an extraordinary meeting of the co. duly confirmed at a subsequent meeting, & by a deed to which the liquidators of the old co. & the two cos. were parties:—Held: as the creditors of the old co. were not parties to the arrangement, a shareholder who had signed the circular, expressing his assent to the arrangement, & exchanged his shares, was not entitled to treat the instalments paid upon his debentures as being in reduction of his liability to the old co.—*Re IMPERIAL LAND CO. 7131. ———.]—Where a co., in accordance with the provisions of its deed of settlement, transfers its business & liabilities to another co., such a transfer, however it may affect the rights of particular creditors, cannot prejudice the claims of the creditors generally of the transferor co.

Such a transfer, therefore, however it may affect to extinguish the shares in the transferor co., cannot as against creditors, affect the liability of shareholders to contribute to its assets in the event of its being wound up.

The deed of settlement of the B. L. Asscn. empowered its directors to purchase shares in the asscn. & provided that upon the completion of such purchase, such shares were to be extinguished for the benefit of the asscn. The deed of settlement also provided for the transfer of the business & liabilities of the asscn. to another co. as therein mentioned. A transfer was shortly afterwards effected in accordance with the terms of the deed of settlement, & in pursuance of an agreement to that effect, to the A. co. The agreement of transfer provided that, after its confirmation by the asscn. as therein mentioned, each proprietor of shares in the asscn. should be entitled either to be paid in money, the amount of all sums paid up by him upon his shares, or, at his option, in shares in the A. co., but subject to the approval of the A. co. P., the owner of 1,370 shares in the B. L. Association parted with 620 of them in manner provided for by the agreement of transfer, & was paid for the same partly in cash & partly in shares in the A. co. Both cos. were subsequently placed under liquidation:—Held: P. remained liable as a contributory of the asscn.

These bills were paid by the banking co. at maturity.

All three cos. went into liquidation. The banking co. carried in a claim in France against the estate of the B. co. for the amount of the bills so paid by it. The T. co. then wound up voluntarily, & a new co. was formed with exactly the same name, which took over the business & assets & undertook to pay the debts of the old firm. A. & Co., without notice of these circumstances, continued dealing with the new co., believing them to be the old co., & made no alterations in their books of accounts, & in Nov. 1875, the new co. owed them £1,509. The payments from time to time made by the new co., if treated as appropriated to the payment of the debt of the old co., were sufficient to pay such debts. In Nov. 1875, the new co. was wound up, & afterwards the old co. was wound up compulsorily on a creditor's petition. A. & Co. did not become aware that they had been dealing with the new co. until after the winding up of the new co. ; & then claimed to appropriate the payments made by the new co. to the debts of the new co., & to prove against the old co., for the £1,070 :—Held : (1) they could not do so, for that the payments made by the new co. must be treated as made in satisfaction of the debts of the old co. ; (3) A. & Co. were concluded by their books & accounts, which showed that, dealing as they thought with the old co., they had treated the payments from time to time made by the new co. as satisfaction pro tanto of the debt of the old co.—Re TAURINE CO., LTD., ANNING & COBB'S CLAIM (1877), 38 L. of any connections they either then had or might thereafter acquire over the lines of any other co. Shortly after the making of the agreement A. Co. sold their property to B. Telephone Co. By their charter A. Co. had power to amalgamate with any other co., & the Act of incorporation of B. Co. empowered them to acquire other telephone lines. The agreement of sale provided that C. Co. should have, by virtue of their agreement with A. Co., the use of so much of B. Co.'s lines as were acquired from A. Co. C. Co. sought to restrain the sale unless provision were made in the agreement of sale that they should have the use of the whole system of B. Co.:—Held: the bill should be dismissed; the sale & purchase being within the powers of the cos., could not be objected to, & even if it were ultra vires, pltfs. had no status entitling them to raise the question. Semble: the sale should not have been enjoined, even if B. Co. had not assumed the contract of A. Co. with C. Co.—NEW CUMBERLAND TELEPHONE Co. v. CENTRAL TELEPHONE Co. (1906), 2 E. L. R. 101; 3 N. B. Eq. Rep. 385.—CAN.

SUB-SECT. 14.—DISSOLUTION OF COMPANY.

A. Effect.

(a) On Jurisdiction of Court.

7156. To make order in winding up—On application made within three months of dissolution.]—The ct. has jurisdiction to make an order in the matter of the voluntary winding up of a co. under 1862 Act, after the expiration of three months from the date of the registration of a return by the liquidators of a meeting having been held in pursuance of 1862 Act, s. 142, if the application for such order is made before the expiration of the three months. Semble: the dissolution of a co. under sect. 143 does not deprive the ct. of its jurisdiction over such co. under the Act.—Re CROOKHAVEN MINING CO. (1866), L. 7157. Admission of claim of creditor with notice.]—Where the three months within which liquidators are to make the return required by 1862 Act, s. 143, has expired, the co. is dissolved from that date, & the ct. has no jurisdiction to admit the claim of a creditor who had notice of the winding-up proceedings.—Re WESTBOURNE GROVE DRAPERY CO., LTD. (1878), 39 L. T. 30; 27 W. R. 37.

7158. To make compulsory winding-up order.]—After the completion of the voluntary winding up of a co. under 1862 Act, & the expiration of the three months mentioned in sect. 143, from the date of the registration of the return made by the liquidators to the Registrar of Joint-Stock Companies of the holding of the final meeting under the liquidation, on the expiration of which period of three months, sect. 143 provides that the co. shall be deemed to be dissolved, a creditor, whose debt had not been paid, presented a petition for a compulsory winding-up order:—Held: (1) petitioner had assented to what had been done in the voluntary winding up, & it was not necessary in this particular case to decide whether the ct. had any jurisdiction to make a compulsory winding-up order; (2) after the expiration of the three months, the ct. had, in the absence of fraud, no jurisdiction to make a winding-up order. Semble: a voluntary winding up has a statutory force equally with a winding up by the ct.—Re PINTO SILVER MINING CO. (1878), 8 Ch. Companies under 1862 Act, s. 143, the ct. has jurisdiction against the co. in a proceeding commenced after the date of the registration, but before the end of the three months, even though the hearing does not take place till after the end of the three months.—*WHITELEY EXERCISER, LTD. v. 7162. ———.]—A solr. had originally authority to defend an action in the name of a co., but his authority was revoked by the dissolution of the co. shortly before the trial. The trial of the action was delayed owing partly to the state of the business of the ct. & partly to the pleadings being amended. The action was tried on the assumption that the co. was in existence, & judgment was given for pltf. Neither the solr. nor pltf. knew till after the trial that the co. had been dissolved; but on the day of the trial the solr. was informed that the co. had held its final meeting, & he took no steps to ascertain whether or not it had been dissolved. Upon motion by pltf. that the solr. might be ordered to pay his costs of the action as from the date of the dissolution of the co.:—Held: (1) the judgment was invalid against the co. for want of jurisdiction; (2) the solr. having originally authority to represent the co. was not liable for acting on that authority after it had been revoked by the dissolution of the co. until he knew or, by the exercise of due diligence, might have known of the dissolution; (3) on the day of the trial the solr. did not use due diligence in ascertaining whether or not the co. had been dissolved, & he ought to pay the pltf.'s costs of the action after that date as between solr. & client.—*SALTON v. 7164. ———.]—By an assignment, Sept. 1890, leaseholds became vested in a limited co. for the residue of a term of ninety-nine years. In 1896 this co. went into voluntary liquidation, & its assets were transferred to a new co.; the purchase-money was paid, the new co. was let into possession, but by inadvertence no assignment of the leaseholds was executed. The old co. having become automatically dissolved under 1862 Act, s. 143, a petition was now presented by the new co. under the Trustee Act, 1893 (c. 53), asking for the appointment of a named person, pursuant to s. 25, to be a trustee of the leaseholds in the place of the old co., & for a vesting order:—Held: as it was clearly expedient to appoint a new trustee, the ct. was justified in making the order asked for by the petition.—Re No. 9 BOMORE ROAD, [1906] 1 Ch. 359; 75 L. J. Ch. 157; 94 L. T. 403; 54 W. R. 312; 13 Mans. 69.

7165. ——— Patent.—The liquidators of a co. had agreed to sell to a purchaser letters patent, of which the co. was the registered owner, but the co. was dissolved without any assignment having been executed. The purchaser, who was unable to get himself registered as proprietor of the letters patent, presented a petition asking for an order under Trustee Act, 1893 (c. 53), s. 35, vesting them in him:—Held: when the co. was dissolved the legal interest in the letters patent, if it vested anywhere, vested in the Crown, & in that case, although the Crown did not act as trustee, it could not be said within Trustee Act, 1893 (c. 53), s. 35, that the trustee "could not be found"; if the legal interest did not vest in the Crown there was no trustee, & again it could not be said that the trustee "could not be found," because there being no trustee it could not be predicated of him that he "could not be found"; therefore a vesting order could not be made under s. 35.—Re TAYLOR'S AGREEMENT TRUSTS, [1904] 2 Ch. 737; 73 L. Ordered to be assigned under foreclosure order—Whether vesting order made—Leaseholds.—In 1912 premises were demised for a term of 99 years to a limited co. & its assigns at a yearly rent of £7 10s. The co. became dissolved in July, 1915, under 1908 Act, s. 195, without having assigned the premises in compliance with a foreclosure order obtained by the equitable mtgee. of the co.

Upon the petition of the mtgee. for a declaration that the co. at the date of its dissolution was a trustee of the premises for him within Trustees Act, 1893 (c. 53), the appointment of a new trustee, & a vesting order:—Held: the declaration asked for should be made.—Re ALBERT ROAD, (Nos. 56 & 58) NORWOOD, [1916] 1 Ch. 289; 85 L. 7174. Avoidance—Who may apply for order—Person "interested"—Who is.]—The S. co. went into liquidation for the purpose of reconstruction, & by an agreement dated Mar. 31, 1909, between the S. co. & its liquidator, & a new co. with the same name the new co. agreed to take over all the assets & liabilities of the old co. & to indemnify the old co. against such liabilities. The old co. held certain shares in A. S., Ltd., upon which there was a liability for uncalled capital, but these shares were not transferred to the new co. Meetings of creditors were held, but no notice was sent to A. S., Ltd. The final meeting in the voluntary winding up of the old co. was filed in compliance with 1908 Act, s. 195, on June 26, 1910. The old co. became dissolved, therefore, at the expiration of three months from that date. In Mar. 1911, A. S., Ltd., discovered the facts as to the winding up. In Apr. they made a further call of 1s. per share upon the shares originally held by the old co. They made persistent attempts to induce the new co. to pay the call or admit their liability, but the new co. refused. On Dec. 9, 1911, A. S., Ltd., gave notice of this motion under 1908 Act, s. 223, that the dissolution of the old co. might be declared to have been void:—Held: (1) A. S., Ltd., were persons interested within s. 223 of the Act; (2) they had not been guilty of any such laches as would disentitle them to proceed; (3) the dissolution must be declared to have been void.—Re SPOTTISWOODE, DIXON & HUNTING, LTD., [1912] 1 Ch. 410; 81 L. Upon motion by the liquidator to declare the dissolution void, the ct. ordered that the A.-G. be served with notice of the motion in order that the rights of the Crown to the money as bona vacantia might be considered. At the adjourned hearing the Crown waived its claim, & leave was given to the liquidator, after payment of the costs of all parties, to distribute the residue of the money in the usual way, submitting his accounts to the Board of Trade for approval.—Re HENDERSON'S NIGEL CO., LTD. (1911), 105 L. i. In General.

7181. General rule—Shareholder's petition.]—The existence of a voluntary winding up of a co. is not a bar to a compulsory order being subsequently made on a petition of a fully paid-up shareholder, if the ct. is satisfied that the voluntary liquidation is existing under such circumstances as are likely to prejudice the shareholders. The jurisdiction to make a compulsory order notwithstanding a voluntary winding up is not confined to cases where it is shown that the resolution for voluntary winding up was passed fraudulently & not bonâ fide, or where the petition is supported by creditors. The ct., however, will not make such an order unless it is satisfied that the shareholders will obtain some benefit by it.—Re NATIONAL DISTRIBUTION OF ELECTRICITY CO., LTD., [1902] 2 Ch. 34; 71 L. Petitioner in arrear of payment of calls.]—After the shareholders of a co. had passed a resolution for a voluntary winding up the only dissentient shareholder presented a petition for a winding up by the ct. alleging that the object of the last call was to pay the directors their fees, & that in contemplation of such calls the directors transferred the whole of their shares, except the number required to qualify them as directors, to P., who thereby acquired a preponderating influence in the co. & was in fact a trustee for them. Petitioner did not pay the call on the shares held by him, but P. paid the call on all the shares that had been transferred to him:—Held: (1) the petition was demurrable; (2) the petition could not be sustained, by the only dissentient shareholder against the wish of all the other shareholders, on mere suggestions of fraud.—*Re PETERSBURGH & VIBORG GAS CO., Ex p. 7185. Failure of substratum.]—A petition was presented by two shareholders for the winding up of the co. by the ct., on the ground that its substratum had ceased to exist. Subsequently the co. passed a resolution for a voluntary liquidation, with the secretary as liquidator. At the meeting, when the resolution was passed, 4,061 votes were recorded. Of these, 3,916 were given in favour of a voluntary liquidation, & 145 against. Of the 3,916 votes, 3,702 were given in respect of shares held by the vendor & his nominees. Circulars in favour of a compulsory & against a voluntary liquidation had been signed by the holders of 847 shares. 7190. — In favour of compulsory winding up.]

 —After a resolution has been passed for winding up a co. voluntarily, a shareholder cannot, as a general rule, obtain a compulsory order for winding up, or an order for continuing the voluntary winding up under supervision. The only exceptions to the rule are where the resolution has been passed fraudulently, or where creditors appear to support the petition.

By the arts. of assocn. of a limited co., the directors were authorised, when it should appear to them that the capital for the time being subscribed was sufficient for the purposes of the co., to allot the remaining unallotted shares among the shareholders in proportion to the number of shares then held by them, without receiving any money for them. When shares to the amount of one-fourth of the nominal capital had been allotted & paid up, the directors allotted the remaining three-fourths, as fully paid-up shares, among the existing shareholders without further consideration; & petitioner became a purchaser of some of the shares in the market. The co. passed a resolution for a voluntary winding up, & afterwards petitioner presented a petition for a compulsory winding up:—Held: the provision in the arts. was highly improper; but if it amounted to a fraud it was a fraud upon petitioner in his individual capacity of purchaser of the shares, & was not committed by or upon the co., & therefore, it was not within the scope of winding-up Acts to give relief in respect thereof. The petition for winding up was accordingly dismissed.—Re GOLD Co. (1879), 11 Ch. D. 701; 48 L. J. Ch. 281; 40 L. T. 5; 43 J. P. 652; 27 W. R. 341, C. A.; subsequent proceedings, 12 Ch. D. 77, C. iii. Prejudice to Creditors.

7197. Assignment of company's effects to director.]—A creditor had presented a petition for winding up the co., which was for hearing on May 11, but at the request of the co. he allowed it to stand over.

He was then unaware, but afterwards discovered, that the co. on Apr. 16 had executed, & on May 7 company's business do not constitute prejudice.]—A creditor who seeks to have a co. which is in voluntary liquidation wound up by the ct., must allege & prove that his rights will be prejudiced by a voluntary winding up, & the facts that go to make such a case must be clearly alleged in the petition. Where, in such case, a creditor's petition charged that he was being prejudiced by the voluntary winding up, evidence tendered of facts not alleged in the petition in support of the charge of prejudice was rejected.

Upon a creditor's—H.'s—petition to wind up "L. Ltd.," a co. then in voluntary liquidation, J., its governing director, was the holder of debentures duly registered over the whole of its assets.

In 1915, J., on behalf of "L. Ltd.," at a time when he must have known that "L. Ltd." might not be able to meet its obligations, ordered goods from H. & accepted bills for the same. Subsequently "L. Ltd." was unable to meet its bills. J. then appointed a receiver of the assets when realised proved insufficient to satisfy the debentures. There was no evidence had registered, a bill of sale of the effects of the co. to one of the directors :—Held : he was entitled to an order for a compulsory winding up.—Re LONDON & PROVINCIAL STARCH CO., Ex p. ADAMS (1867), 16 L. T. 474.

7198. Dissipation of assets—Assets originally sufficient to pay creditors—Retainer by liquidator of money due to him personally—Composition offered to creditors.]—A co. under the powers contained in their arts., issued debenture bonds to the extent of £3,500 which were made a first charge on the property of the co. A. became the holder of four of these bonds. Afterwards the shareholders duly passed resolutions that the co. should be wound up voluntarily, & two liquidators were appointed. One of the liquidators paid some of the bonds in full ; on others he paid a composition, retaining the difference between the composition & the full amount due on the bonds in satisfaction of moneys due to him in respect of business transactions between himself & such bondholders.

A. applied for payment of the amount due on his bonds, but was offered a composition of 12s. in the pound. The realised assets of the co. had, at the first, been quite sufficient to pay in full the bonds issued.

On a petition by A., under 1862 Act, s. 145 :—Held : A.'s interests were being prejudiced by the manner in which the voluntary winding up was being carried on, & a compulsory order was made.—Re CAERPHILLY COLLIERY CO., Ex p. DOLLING (1875), 32 L. T. 15.

7199. Voluntary winding up begun after presentation of petition for compulsory winding up.]—1862 Act, s. 145, enacting that a voluntary winding up shall not be a bar to a creditor's right to have a compulsory winding-up order if the ct. is of opinion that his rights will be prejudiced by a voluntary winding up, applies not only where the voluntary winding up was commenced before, but also where it was commenced after, the presentation of a petition for a compulsory winding up. Therefore the onus lies on a creditor to show that the continuance of a voluntary winding up, which is proceeding when he asks for a compulsory order, will prejudice him, notwithstanding his petition was presented before the commencement of the voluntary winding up.

A petition for the compulsory winding up of a co. was on Dec. 17, 1887, presented by M., who was a creditor of the co. in respect of a debt of £1,319 10s. 2d. When the petition first came on to be heard on Jan. 14, 1888, it was adjourned till Jan. 21, & afterwards to Jan. 28, 1888. On Jan. 26, the co. passed an extraordinary resolution for winding up voluntarily. At the hearing of the petition on Jan. 28, it was resisted by the co. on the ground that the contracts or bargains under which the alleged debt had arisen were gaming contracts. The ct. was of opinion that there was a bonâ fide dispute, & ordered the petition to stand over generally with liberty to apply, the liquidator undertaking not to part with assets except with leave of the ct., to be obtained on notice to M., who undertook to bring an action forthwith to establish his claim. An action was thereupon brought by M., but not defended by the co., & judgment was given establishing the debt. The petition then came on again for hearing. The liabilities of the co. were £5,125 13s., & the assets £2,611 5s. 2d. There was no suggestion that the liquidator appointed in the voluntary winding up would not do his duty ; but M. contended that he was entitled ex debito justitiæ to a compulsory winding up :—Held : the ct. had a discretion which it would exercise in favour of the creditors & in their interest, & in order that costs should not be incurred unnecessarily, ordered that the voluntary winding up should be continued under supervision. On appeal :—Held : the ct. would not make a compulsory winding-up order unless it was quite satisfied, that that would be the only means of obtaining payment of petitioner's debt ; there was nothing in the present case that would benefit petitioner if the ct. did make a compulsory winding-up order ; & petitioner had not shown that he would be prejudiced by the order of the ct. below.—Re NEW YORK EXCHANGE, LTD. (1888), 39 Ch. On Feb. 4, 1869, resolutions were passed by the shareholders of the M. C. co. for a voluntary winding up, & for other purposes. These resolutions were challenged as illegal, & R., a contributory of the co., & also an alleged creditor, took proceedings in Chancery to restrain the co. from acting upon them. Gold Mines, Limited, voluntarily was proposed at a general meeting of the company duly convened on Jan. 31, 1900. At the meeting the chairman declared the resolution to be carried on a show of hands, & no poll was demanded.

This was a petition by two fully-paid shareholders asking for a compulsory order on the ground, first, that the extraordinary resolution was not passed by the requisite majority, the chairman's declaration having been founded on a mistake ; & secondly, on the ground that there were charges against the directors & promoters which could be better investigated by means of a compulsory order :—Held : (1) as under 1862 Act, s. 51, the chairman's declaration that the resolution had been carried was conclusive unless challenged by means of a poll demanded by five members, the voluntary winding up was valid & not capable of being impeached ; (2) petitioners

Resolutions for voluntary winding up had been passed with a view to a reconstruction, which had, however, proved abortive at the time of the hearing of the petition. There were also matters which appeared to require investigation:—Held: a compulsory winding up order must be made & in arriving at that conclusion, the fact that the voluntary winding up was not an ordinary one, but was resolved upon with the view to a specific object which had failed, was a reason for strongly influencing the ct.—Re GUTTA PERCHA CORPN., [1900] 2 Ch. 665; 69 L. 7238. Avoidance of proceedings under voluntary winding up.]—In May, 1865, resolutions were passed for amalgamating the F. Co. with the O. Bank, & to wind up the F. Co. voluntarily for enabling the amalgamation to be carried out. The two pltfs., who had recently purchased shares in the F. co., the one the day before the resolutions for amalgamation were confirmed, the other shortly after, in the same month of May contracted to sell their shares & executed transfers thereof. On June 2 following, & before the transfers were sent in for registration, the liquidators under the voluntary winding up passed a resolution that they would not register any more transfers, except upon the terms of the transferors executing a deed by which they should guarantee the payment of all calls by their transferees. Pltfs. not being able to obtain transfers otherwise executed the deeds in Apr. 1866. In 1866 the voluntary winding up was superseded by a compulsory winding up. In July, 1868, actions were commenced against pltfs. on their deeds to recover the amounts due from them for calls & for damages, & thereupon pltfs. filed bills, alleging that the liquidation was invalid, & that the deeds were obtained from them without consideration, by misrepresentation & concealment, & praying that they might be cancelled, & the actions stayed. In another suit against the same co. it had been decided, & confirmed on appeal, that the amalgamation was ultra vires & void:—Held: (1) the liquidation proceedings were valid & could not be set aside because the amalgamation, for which they had been instituted, had been declared void; (2) there was ample consideration for the deeds, & there was no evidence of misrepresentation or concealment, & the liquidators were justified in refusing to sanction the transfers except upon such terms as they thought were for the benefit of the co.

It is not the effect of a compulsory winding-up order to nullify proceedings which have been taken under a previous voluntary winding up.—CLEVE v. FINANCIAL CORPN., WILLIAMS v. SAME (1873), L. R. 16 Eq. 363; 43 L. J. Ch. 54; 29 L. T. 89; 21 W. R. 839.

7239. — Whether distress after voluntary liquidation validated.]—Jud. Act, 1875 (c. 77), s. 10, does not import into a winding-up Bkpcy. Act, 1869, s. 34, so as to enable a landlord to distrain after the commencement of a winding up for rent due to him from the co. The appointment of a voluntary liquidator is not necessary to give effect to a voluntary winding up for the purposes of 1862 Act, s. 163. A compulsory order, which "supersedes" a voluntary winding up as from the date of such order, does not thereby entirely put an end to everything previously done under the voluntary winding up.

Where, therefore, landlords, after the commencement of the voluntary winding up of the co., but before the date of the compulsory order, distrained for rent due to them prior to the commencement of the voluntary winding up:—Held: the distress was invalid, no special grounds being shown why the judicial discretion vested in the ct. under 1862 Act, s. 87, should be exercised in their favour.—*THOMAS v. An order for compulsory winding up was made. From this order a number of the creditors, being a majority of the unsecured creditors, appealed ; other creditors supported the same view, & no one but petitioner asked for a compulsory winding up :—Held : it sufficiently appeared, without calling a meeting of creditors, that the majority of the creditors desired the voluntary winding up to be continued under supervision, & as it was not shown that this would do any injustice to the petitioning creditor, a supervision order ought to be made, a creditor not being entitled ex debito justitiæ to a winding-up order as between himself & other creditors, though he is so entitled as between himself & the co.—Re WEST HARTLEPOOL IRONWORKS Co. (1875), 10 Ch. of 1882, s. 195, the ct. has power to make an order dissolving a co. in the course of winding up, subject to its supervision, such cases must be exceptional & can only occur when the ct. has deemed it proper to carry on the winding up under supervision in a manner such as clearly to approximate to a winding up by the ct. The ordinary rule is the other way, & it is reasonable that it should be so ; as, generally, a winding up under supervision is not conducted under so intimate a control of the ct. as to put the ct. in a position to judge of the correctness of the liquidator's action

& the completeness of the winding up. So far as the ct. does not interfere, a winding up under supervision remains essentially a voluntary winding up ; but the ct. in a winding up under supervision has full authority to interfere & to exercise to any extent the power which it might have exercised if an order had been made for winding up the co. by the ct.—Re CARWAR Co., LTD. (1882), 1 L. Allegation of misconduct by liquidator.]—At a general meeting of the shareholders of a banking co. resolutions were passed for the voluntary winding up of the co., & appointment of liquidators, & for confirming an agreement for the amalgamation of the co. with the H. bank upon certain terms therein specified. The liquidators proceeded to wind up the co. upon the footing of the amalgamation, & in conformity with independent liquidator, in respect that the co. had lost £286,000 in 2½ years trading, & that the directors had declared profits & distributed dividends although instead of profits losses had accrued ; & that there was a danger in a voluntary liquidation of the interests of the minority be sacrificed in a reconstruction of the co. to those of the creditors with the largest voting power :—Held : the minority having failed to show that there was any real conflict between their interests & those of the majority, the wishes of the majority should receive effect, & a supervision order granted, but the liquidators should not take any steps towards the reconstruction of the co. except with leave of the ct.—*PATRISONS, LTD. v. To enable application to be made to the court to restrain executions.]—A petition for continuing the voluntary winding up of a co. subject to the supervision of the ct., in order that the liquidator might be in a position to apply to the ct. for orders to restrain creditors from using diligence against the co. was presented by the directors of the co. with the

1862 Act, s. 161. Two dissentient shareholders, who were abroad at the time of the meeting, presented a petition impeaching the amalgamation on the ground of the insufficiency of the notice convening the meeting, & for other reasons; & praying, first, that the co. might be wound up by an order of the ct.; secondly, that if not, the voluntary winding up might be continued under the supervision of the ct.; thirdly, that the rights of petitioners as against their co-contributories & the liquidators might be declared; or, fourthly, that they might be at liberty to use the names of the co. & the liquidators in any proceedings they might be advised to take in reference to the winding up:—Held: the order of the Master of the Rolls dismissing the petition would be discharged; & (1) in the absence of any distinct allegations in the petition of misconduct on the part of the liquidators, the ct. would make no order for continuing the voluntary winding up under the supervision of the ct.; (2) inasmuch as the voluntary winding up & the amalgamation were all one transaction, & the amalgamation could not be impeached in that jurisdiction, & in the absence of the H. bank, the petition must stand over to permit petitioners to take proceedings to set aside the amalgamation; (3) petitioners might be at liberty to use the names of the co. & the liquidators in such proceedings, on giving an undertaking to abide by such order as to costs as this ct. might make.—Re IMPERIAL BANK OF CHINA, INDIA & JAPAN (1866), 1 Ch. t. —.]—After a resolution to wind up a limited co. voluntarily had been passed & confirmed certain creditors obtained decrees in actions previously raised by them against the co. Upon these decrees charges were given, poindings executed, & warrants of sale obtained. After the execution of the poindings, but before the goods were sold, a petition was presented to the ct. by a shareholder & an unsecured creditor, in which the liquidator & a majority of the creditors concurred, to have the winding up continued under the supervision of the ct., & to restrain the poinding creditors from carrying out their diligences. It was alleged that the goods poinded were the whole, or nearly the whole, assets of the co. The ct. thinking it just that diligence should be stayed, ordered simpliciter that the winding up should continue under supervision.—GARDNER v. HUGHES (1883), 10 R. (Ct. of Sess.) 1138; 20 Sc. L. The co. had, prior to the liquidation, disputed petitioner's claim against the co., & the co. & its liquidator in their answers did not admit the claim. If established petitioner's claim amounted to about four-fifths of the whole debts of the co. c. —.]—After a petition by a creditor for the compulsory winding up of a co. had been presented, the co.

duly passed a resolution for a voluntary winding up subject to the supervision of the ct. & appointed a liquidator. Thereafter the co. & the liquidator presented a note craving the ct. to continue the liquidation under supervision & to confirm the appointment of the liquidator. A majority in value of the co.'s creditors lodged mandates in process concurring in the co.'s application. The petitioning creditor objected to the prayer of the co.'s note being granted, on the ground that the creditors lodging mandates were, or had been, officially connected with the co. & that it was inexpedient that the liquidator should be appointed on their nomination:—Held: as the majority of the creditors desired a voluntary liquidation subject to the supervision of the ct., & as it would not appear that any prejudice thereby would be caused to the co. or to the minority of the creditors, a supervision order should be pronounced & the appointment of the liquidator confirmed.—*ELSMIE & SON v. On Nov. 3 one of the shareholders presented a petition to have the liquidation put under the supervision of the ct., & to have an additional liquidator appointed, stating, inter alia, that the coal was rising in value, & that the present was an unfavourable time to sell the colliery. On Nov. 12, no answers to the circular having been returned, the liquidator advertised the colliery for sale on Nov. 21 at the upset price of £3,000. The case was put out for hearing in the summer role of Nov. 20. On Nov. 19, a minute was lodged for petitioner & certain con-

A. Appointment of Liquidator.

(a) In General.

7264. Where liquidator not appointed by company—Duty of court to appoint.]—A co. passed a resolution for a voluntary winding up, but did not appoint a liquidator. The winding up was ordered to be continued, but subject to the supervision of the ct., & a liquidator was appointed by the judge :—Held : (1) under these circumstances the ct. had the jurisdiction & the obligation to appoint a liquidator, & the appointment became a question for the discretion of the judge in the same manner as it would have been for his discretion if there had been a winding up by the ct. ; (2) as the shareholders had omitted to appoint a liquidator, they had lost the influence which the Act gives to their wishes in the case of a voluntary winding up ; & therefore, although there was a very large majority of shareholders in favour of removing the liquidator, the ct. refused to interfere with the discretion as exercised by the Master of the Rolls.

fifteen days prior to the passing of an extraordinary resolution placing the co. in voluntary liquidation, a bond was passed in favour of one of the shareholders, which was a partnership, & a partner was appointed a member of an advisory board to aid the liquidator in the winding up, in an application by a creditor in which the validity of the said bond was impeached :—Held : as the honesty of the directors was in question, the voluntary liquidation should be superseded by a winding up by the ct.—Re UNION SOAP WORKS CO., LTD., *Ex p. 7283. — Disputes between existing liquidators.]—The voluntary winding up of a co. was ordered to be continued under the supervision of the ct. in July, 1873. C. was appointed by the ct. in Aug. 1873, as an additional liquidator in conjunction with B., the original liquidator. C. quarrelled with B. as to what solrs. should be employed in the winding up, & matters having come to a dead-lock, the shareholders of the co. met & by resolution appointed a third liquidator in order to obtain a casting vote in the disputes. A notice of motion on behalf of C. for an injunction to restrain the third liquidator from acting, was served upon B. & the third liquidator, whereupon the third liquidator offered to submit to an injunction with costs up to that date. A summons was also taken out on behalf of certain shareholders, asking that the appointment of the third liquidator might be confirmed, either in conjunction with or in substitution for B. or C., or both of them:—Held: C. must be removed from being liquidator; the appointment of the third liquidator must be confirmed & he should act as liquidator in conjunction with B.—Re MONTROTIER ASPHALTE & CEMENT CONCRETE PAVING CO., LTD. (1874), 22 W. c. — Liquidator shareholder & former director.]—The shareholders of a public co. whose liability was limited by shares unanimously resolved that the co. should be wound up voluntarily on the ground of its inability to carry on business owing to its liabilities, & appointed as liquidator one of their own number, who had formerly been a director. Subsequently a petition was presented for a supervision order, & for confirmation of the liquidator's appointment. A creditor of the co. lodged answers objecting to the confirmation of the liquidator's appointment, on the ground of his connection with the co. as a shareholder & a former director. It appeared that his shares were fully paid up, & also that all the creditors of the co., except the objector, had expressed their approval of the appointment, holding that "due cause" in the sense of 1862 Act, s. 141, had not been shown for the removal of the liquidator.—*M'KNIGHT & CO., LTD. v. The liquidator presented a petition for a supervision order, which was opposed by the majority of shareholders:—Held: the claim being one arising outside the winding up, the provisions of 1862 Act, s. 138, applicable to a voluntary winding up did not meet the case, & the liquidator was therefore entitled to a supervision order, so as to obtain the benefit of the provisions of sect. 151.—Re ZOEDONE CO., LTD. (No. 1) (1883), 53 L. C. Hearing of Petition.

(a) In General.

7307. Discretion of court.]—Resolutions for a voluntary winding up of a co. & the appointment of liquidators were duly passed, & winding up proceeded with & almost completed. Shareholders then petitioned for a winding up either by or under the supervision of the ct., & for an order that directors, against whom breaches of trust & acts ultra vires were alleged, might be ordered to refund moneys misapplied by them:—Held: in determining whether an order for supervisory winding up should be made or not under 1862 Act, s. 147, the ct. will consider whether the facts presented show that, in consequence of such an order, provisions of the Act which could not be put in force under a mere voluntary winding up will become available. Allegations of breaches of trust & misfeasance on the part of the directors do not present such a case, inasmuch as they can be as effectually reached under sect. 138 of the Act, when a voluntary winding up has been resolved on.

When a voluntary winding up has been carried, the right to petition for a winding up by the ct. is given to creditors only under sect. 145, & not to contributories, who are bound by the resolutions which the co. has adopted.

A resolution for a voluntary winding up is, in the absence of proof to the contrary, to be taken as the expression of the wishes of the majority of the members within sect. 149.

Qu.: whether sect. 165 has any application at all to the case of a voluntary winding up; but if it has, there is still an absolute discretion in the ct. to put it in force or not.—BANK OF GIBRALTAR & MALTA (1865), 1 Ch. Subsequently, upon a sale of the mortgaged property, pltf. obtained an order for the satisfaction of his claim out of the purchase-money. The liquidator, however, insisted that his costs of realising the property, of preserving it, & his general costs of the liquidation, had priority to all other charges on the purchase-money, & took out a summons to effect that object:—Held: the liquidator's costs of realising the property were payable in priority to pltf.'s claim, but pltf. was entitled to be paid his debt in priority to the general costs of the liquidation ; the costs of preserving the property must be paid by the co., but in the event of the co.'s assets proving insufficient to meet such payment, the liquidator might indemnify himself for such deficiency out of the purchase money.—*Re ORIENTAL HOTELS Co., PERRY v. The debentures were a charge on the undertaking of the co. & its property present & future. On Dec. 1, 1898, the co. went into liquidation. In Jan. 1899, the receiver paid poor rate & district rate made in Oct. 1898, & water rate, which was payable according to meter. He claimed to be recouped these payments as preferential payments under Preferential Payments in Bankruptcy Act, 1888 (c. 62), & Amendment Act, 1897 (c. 19):—Held: the question being one between mtgor. & mtgee., not between successive occupiers, & the poor rate & district rate being due from the co. at the date of the commencement of the winding up, the liquidators must pay the whole amounts out of the general assets of the co. ; but the water rate was not due until the water was supplied, & must be apportioned, the liquidators paying only so much as was due at the date of the commencement of the winding up.—*Re MANNESMANN TUBE Co., LTD., VON SIEMENS v. The co. afterwards passed an extraordinary resolution for a voluntary winding up, which was continued under the supervision of the ct. The liquidators obtained the leave of the winding-up ct. to continue the action, but B. obtained judgment in the action against the co. with costs:—Held: as the liquidators had adopted the action ab initio, B. was entitled to be paid all his costs in full, & not merely the costs as from the commencement of the winding up with liberty to prove for the costs previously incurred.—Re LONDON DRAPERY STORES, [1898] 2 Ch. 684 ; 67 L. Where parties are dissatisfied with the course of proceedings taken in chambers, in obedience to an order for the voluntary winding up of a co. under the supervision of the ct., the proper step for such parties to take is to proceed by way of summons in chambers, to regulate the proceedings there, & not to present a petition for a compulsory winding-up order.—Re LONDON & MEDITERRANEAN BANK, LTD. (1866), 15 L. 7364. Subject to payment by liquidator.]—A petition was presented for winding up a co. in Mar. 1888, & a provisional liquidator was appointed, with power to carry on the business of the co. No compulsory order was made on this petition, but a resolution was duly passed on June 22, 1888, for the voluntary winding up of the co., & on the following day an order was made continuing the winding up under the supervision of the ct. Rates were levied on the property of the co. between the time of possession being taken by the provisional liquidator & the supervision order, & these rates not having been paid, the overseers, knowing the provisional liquidator was in possession, & without obtaining the leave of the ct., proceeded to levy a distress for the sum a few days before the supervision order. On the application of the liquidator, an injunction was granted restraining the overseers from proceeding to enforce their distress by sale:—Held: an injunction ought only to have been granted on the terms of the liquidator paying the amount of the rates for which the distress was put in; the liquidation commenced on the date of the resolution for voluntary winding up, & previously to that date, if there had been no provisional liquidator, the overseers could have distrained, but, knowing of the appointment of the provisional liquidator, they ought not to have distrained without asking the leave of the ct., which would probably have been given, but their omission to obtain the leave of the ct. did not deprive them of their right to the rates.—Re LONDON DRY DOCKS CORPN. Arrangement Act, 1870 (c. 104), s. 2, unless there is some thing ex facie wrong about it, or unless it is shown that there has been some great oversight or miscarriage; but the ct. ought not to sanction any scheme unless the resolution adopting it was passed by the creditors acting upon sufficient information.

(2) A scheme of arrangement provided that a new co. should be formed, & that the holders of shares in the old co. upon which £20 per share was immediately payable might receive in exchange an equivalent number of shares in the new co. upon which £25 was payable, of which half was reserve liability, & the other half could not be called up in full for some time:—Held: the ct. could insert in the memorandum & arts. of assocn. of the new co. a provision that persons who had been shareholders in the old co. should not, by transferring their shares in the new co. while not fully paid, escape their liability in respect of their shares in the old co.

(3) A scheme of arrangement under 1870 Act is an alternative mode of liquidation analogous to a liquidation by arrangement under Bankruptcy Act, 1869 (c. 71), or a composition under sect. 126 of that Act. 1. — Arrangement between company & shareholders—Extension of time for shareholder to take up shares in a new company.]—The liquidator of a co. petitioned the ct. under Joint Stock Cos. Arrangement Act, 1870, s. 2, & the Cos. Act, 1900, s. 24, to sanction an arrangement under which the assets & business of the co. were to be transferred to a new co. about to be performed. Special resolutions approving the agreement were passed by meetings of shareholders & of creditors. From the petition it appeared that the assets of the co. in liquidation considerably exceeded its liabilities. Its shares were all issued, & were fully paid up. The capital of the new co. was to be of the same nominal amount as that of the old co. Under the proposed agreement each shareholder became entitled to shares in the new co. of the same nominal amount as his holding in the old co., the shares in the new co. being issued as paid up to the extent of 10s. in the £1. The agreement further provided that any shareholders who within two weeks after the scheme had been sanctioned by the ct. failed to apply for his shares in the new co. should have no interest in the assets of the old co. nor any claim for shares in the new co.

A shareholder lodged answers to the petition, in which he stated that he had not voted in favour of the special resolution approving the agreement, & that he had left a written notice of dissent at the registered office of the co. within seven days of the date of the resolution. He maintained accordingly that the agreement ought not to be sanctioned until the liquidator had purchased his interest in the co. in terms of Cos. Act, 1862, s. 161. He stated, further, that, as his entire capital had been invested in the old co., he would be unable to take up his shares in the new co., since he could not pay the calls in respect of them; & he maintained, alternatively, in the event of s. 161 being held to have been repealed by Cos. Act, 1900, s. 24, that in the circumstances it would be inequitable to deprive him of his interest in the assets of the old co.:—Held: the agreement must be sanctioned, but subject to the modification that resp. should be entitled to apply for his shares in the new co. within the extended period of three months.—*MELVILLE COAL CO., LTD. Before the day appointed for a poll to be taken on the question of the ratification of the contracts, a letter was written by a firm holding a large number of preference & ordinary shares in the co. containing an offer to the ordinary shareholders in the event of the contracts being ratified. A. went into voluntary liquidation, & between the date of the deed & the liquidation it had incurred unpaid debts to various creditors to the amount of £498 12s. 3d. On liquidation the assets of co. A. amounted to £375, & co. B. put in its proof for its debt of £2,287 14s. 2d., claiming that it was an implied condition that its covenant to postpone its claim should be subject to co. A. continuing to carry on its business, & that such covenant would not be operative in the event of co. At the date of the meeting there was a sum due to pltf. for commission, & he approved & voted for the scheme with reference to that sum only, & not with reference to his claim under the agreement of employment for seven years. The scheme of arrangement was subsequently approved by the ct. under 1908 Act, s. 120. In an action claiming damages for breach of the agreement of employment the jury found a verdict in favour of pltf. for £225:—Held: although pltf. did not put forward a claim for the breach of the agreement under the deed of arrangement, he was not barred from claiming damages in respect of the breach & he was entitled to judgment for £112 10s., being 10s. in the £ on the amount found by the jury.—*CURTIS v. A minority at the meeting, being unsecured creditors, objected to the scheme, & upon application to the High Ct. of Griqualand by the debenture holders of the old co. for a sanction of the scheme, the minority appeared to object:—Held: the High Ct. properly refused to sanction the scheme as not being within the powers of the liquidator.—Re NORTH-EASTERN BULT-FONTEIN (IN LIQUIDATION) (1894), 7 H. 7430. ——— Whether necessary — Voluntary winding up—Matter already before court.]—A claim made against a co. which was in course of voluntary winding up, was submitted to the ct. for adjudication. After some proceedings towards obtaining such adjudication had taken place, an agreement for compromise was come to between claimant & the liquidator, subject to the sanction of a general meeting. A general meeting, under 1862 Act, s. 159, sanctioned the compromise by a large majority; but some contributories strongly opposing its being carried into effect, the liquidator applied to the ct. for directions. The Master of the Rolls was of opinion that although the compromise had been sanctioned by the general meeting, the ct. was bound to look to its propriety, & his Lordship not being satisfied of its propriety, refused to make any order:—Held: as the ct., although the winding up was purely voluntary, had seisin of this particular claim, it would not, without considering the propriety of the compromise, order it to be carried into effect because it had been sanctioned by a general meeting, but such sanction was an important element in judging of its propriety.—*Re LAMA COAL CO., Ex p. the A. co. & the other cos. were ordered to be wound up. A scheme of reconstruction was proposed for the sanction of the ct. under which the contributories of the A. co. & the other cos. were to pay certain contributions; & the assets of the A. co. & also the contributions when called up, were to be handed over to a new co., which was to take the business & pay the policies when they arrived at maturity, with a deduction of £5 per cent. on their amounts. The scheme had been accepted by a majority of three-fourths in value of the creditors present at meetings of each of the cos., & also by a large majority of the shareholders:—Held: the ct. had no jurisdiction to sanction the arrangement. Such a scheme is not a sale within 1862 Act, s. 95. The ct. has no power, under sects. 159 & 160, to sanction an arrangement by which a minority of creditors or contributories are bound to accept a compromise against their will. Considering the different value of policies of the same amount on different lives, & considering that it was uncertain in which cases there had been a novation by the policy-holders of the amalgamated cos., it was not possible to estimate the amounts of the claims of the individual creditors of the respective cos., & the ct. could not act under the powers of Joint-Stock Cos. C. was the owner of an estate, & a director of the co. He entered into a contract on the face of which he appeared to be the agent for his son in the transaction for the sale to the co. of the estate. The purchase was never completed. The co. was ordered to be wound up. A compromise of C.'s claims against it was proposed & approved of by the chief clerk. That approval was afterwards objected to by several of the largest shareholders of the co., on the grounds that the original contract with C. was an invalid one; that the shareholders had never had a proper opportunity of discussing the matter; that in fact, they were ignorant of the circumstances connected with the arrangement, but thought, if they had known them, they would not have sanctioned the compromise:—Held: under the circumstances, the compromise could not be upheld, but the ct. expressed no opinion on the validity of the original contract.—Re CENTRAL DARJEELING TEA Co., LTD. (1866), 15 L. The property belonged to the contributory & G. equally pro indiviso, & the title was a conveyance by the contributory to himself & G., the survivor of them, & the heir of the survivor, in trust for the purposes specified in a separate minute of agreement & declaration of trust. G. declined to concur in granting a conveyance of the contributory's share of the property to the liquidators, & the contributory offered instead to assign to them his interest in the trust:—Held: under the terms of the compromise he was bound to procure & deliver to the liquidators a valid conveyance of one-half pro indiviso of the subjects in question.—*CLARK v. 7449 i. When ordered—For purpose of realising assets.—A liquidator of a co. made a return to the Registrar of a meeting having been held in terms of Cos. Act, 1862, s. 142. Subsequently the co. & the liquidator presented a petition to the ct. to find that the affairs of the co. were not fully wound up, & to suspend the operation of s. 143 of that Act. They averred that since the date of the final meeting, it had come to the knowledge of the liquidator that £45,000 was due to the co. by one of its directors & that he was taking proceedings against the director to recover the same; the liquidator also petitioned the ct. for a decree against the director for the payment of the sum:—Held: the first petition was incompetent & must be dismissed.—SCOTTISH FLUID BEER CO., LTD. v. AULD (1898), 25 R. (Ct. of Sess.) 1056.—SCOT.

7449 ii. — — — — —.—A co. was dissolved after voluntary liquidation at the beginning of the year 1906. At that date it owned heritable property which it was under obligation to pay to a new co. In 1915 the new co.

acquired a formal title to the property & presented a petition craving the dissolution of the old co. should be declared void, & its liquidator should be authorised to grant the necessary conveyance. The ct. in exercise of its nobile officium, the power conferred by Cos. (Consolidation) Act, 1908, s. 223 (1), not being available since the application was made more than two years after the dissolution, granted decree as craved.—Re COLLINS BROTHERS & CO., LTD. (1915), 53 Sc. 7455. What are—Banking business carried on—Not in pursuance of settlement deed.]—The deed of settlement of a co., stated that the co. was formed for the purpose of purchasing land & erecting thereon dwellings to be allotted to members of the co., & also of raising a fund out of which sums of money should be paid to or applied for the benefit of members being allottees of land. The deed provided that the directors should from time to time, & as the funds should admit of, purchase land for the purposes of the co., to be divided among shareholders in a manner therein provided:—Semle: the fact of the business of banking having been carried on by the directors, not in pursuance of the deed of settlement, would not make it a banking co. so as to be excepted from 1844 Act.—*R. v. SECT. 4.—WINDING UP.

7468. Voluntary winding up—Whether company duly dissolved.]—A., B. C., D., & others, carried on the business of bankers, under Country Bankers Act, 1826 (c. 46), for some years prior to & upon Aug. 29, 1839, upon the terms contained in two deeds of July, 1834, & Aug. 1836, the former deed stating the circumstances under which, & the manner in which, the co. might be dissolved at an extraordinary general meeting of the shareholders, called for that purpose by a certain board of directors, of which B., C., & D. were members. In the co. A. held 100 shares of £10 each. The board called an extraordinary general meeting of the shareholders, to be held on Aug. 29, 1839, pursuant to the provisions of the deed of 1834. At the meeting so called, the shareholders present passed resolutions, in conformity with the deed of 1834, that the co. was thereby dissolved; that the winding up of its affairs should be entrusted to the then board of directors, with power to employ & pay for such assistance as might be necessary; that any three directors might act; that the assets should be realised with all convenient speed, & that the portion not required to meet the engagements of the co. should be divided amongst the shareholders ratably, in such dividends as the directors might deem fit; a dividend to be declared at least once in every six months; a copy of the proceedings & resolutions to be transmitted to each shareholder; no transfer to parties not already shareholders to be permitted. No shareholder present at the meeting was desirous of continuing the concern. Neither A. nor B. was present at the meeting, but a copy of the state of the said proceedings & resolutions was transmitted to A. & the other shareholders. From Aug. 29, 1839, the business of the co., except so far as was necessary for winding up the affairs, was discontinued, & B., C., & D., in pursuance of the said resolutions, proceeded to wind up the affairs of the co.:—Held: the co. was duly dissolved, & notwithstanding the power to wind up the concern, an allegation in a declaration that the co. had altogether ceased & determined, was correct.—LYON v. HAYNES (1843), 5 Man. & G. 504; 6 Scott, N. R. 371; 134 E. R. 661.

7469. — Power of directors.]—The directors of a projected banking co., not being able to carry out the project to its full extent, determined upon winding up the affairs & returning to appts. for shares the full amounts of the deposits made by them. Deposits amounting in the whole to two-thirds of the amount deposited had been returned to the depositors, & the remainder was in course of payment. On bill filed by purchasers of shares or intended shares, who were dissatisfied with the termination of the affairs of the proposed co.:—Held: the directors were justified in the course they had taken, it being morally impossible that the project could have been carried out in its entirety from the events which had happened.—SWITZERLAND BANK v. s. Inspection of books prior to proceedings—When granted—Necessity for disinterested investigators.]—An inspection of the books of a banking co. prior to & in view of the appointment of official liquidators in winding-up proceedings was refused where there was no reason to believe that anything unsatisfactory would be found in the books relating to the individual transactions of the persons nominated. Where there is reason to believe that the affairs of a bank have been mismanaged, & that certain persons may be civilly or criminally liable therefor, there should be an inspection of the books, & an investigation of the affairs of the bank by independent persons. It is the duty of the liquidators to make such independent investigation. The et., having reason to believe such an investigation necessary, will take care not to appoint as liquidators persons responsible for the past management of the bank.—Re COLONIAL BANK OF NEW ZEALAND (1896), 14 N. t. Competency of winding-up order—After order already made by English court—Where head office but no banking business in England.]—The O. Bank Corpn. incorporated under royal charter in England to carry on banking business in Victoria & other colonies, had its directors, board of management & head office in England & carried on the business of exchange & remittance there, but did not carry on the general business or banking in England. It had several branches or agencies in India, Victoria & other colonies & its shareholders & creditors were distributed throughout England, India & the colonies. The corpn. was not registered in England under the English Companies Act, 1862 nor in Victoria under "Companies Statute 1864" (No. 190):—Held: the corpn. could be wound up in Victoria under the latter Act on the petition of a creditor even if the English cts. had already made an order to wind it up in England.—Re ORIENTAL BANK CORPN. (1884), 10 V. L. R. 154.—AUS.

a. Effect of winding-up order—On ownership of corporate property.]—A winding-up order under Companies Statute, 1864 (No. 190) does not vest the property of the co. in the liquidator but merely enables him to recover it as a kind of agent of the co. suing in its name.—Re ORIENTAL BANK CORPN. (1884), 10 V. b. Appointment of liquidator—Necessity for notice to creditors.]—Act of 1882, c. 23, s. 24, under which insolvent banking cos. were first enabled to be brought into liquidation enacts that a liquidator shall be appointed after previous notice given to creditors, et. in the proscribed manner. Where the only notice given was one in the newspapers as provided by s. 105:—Held: this provision did not apply to such a notice but is only sufficient as to the holder of banknotes in circulation; the appointment of the liquidator was therefore void.—MOTT v. BANK OF NOVA SCOTIA, Re BANK OF LIVERPOOL (1887), 14 S. C. R. 650.—CAN.

c. Contributories—Who are—As between transferors & transferees—Of shares transferred after winding-up proceedings begun.]—Transfers of the shares were made by appts. & registered in the transfer-books of the bank after the winding-up proceedings began, but before the winding-up order was made: & for some reason, the names of the transferees & not the names of appts., were inserted in the first list in contributories prepared by the liquidator & settled by the referee in the winding up. Afterwards, upon the application of the liquidator, the referee added appts'. names to the list:—Held: appts. could not escape liability by reason of the delay, or by virtue of a supposed election of the liquidator to look to the transferees, or by estoppel, or otherwise.—Re ONTARIO BANK, MASSEY & LEE'S CASE (1912), 27 O. B., a shareholder, duly transferred his shares, & the two balance-sheets immediately preceding the transfer showed the affairs of the co. to be in a prosperous condition. Four months after the transfer, the bank suspended payment, & upwards of three years after that time an order was obtained for the winding up of the co. The person who prepared the balance-sheets deposed that there were in fact considerable losses sustained by the co. in the two years preceding the transfer:—Held: nevertheless, B. was not liable as a contributory.—Re NORTH OF ENGLAND JOINT STOCK BANKING CO., HOLME'S CASE (1852), 2 De G. An order being made for winding up the co., the master excluded B.'s name altogether from the list of contributories. The co.'s deed provided, that each shareholder should be liable to losses in proportion to his shares, & each shareholder covenanted for himself, his heirs, exors., etc., in respect of shares remaining part of his assets, to observe all the stipulations of the deed. Upon appeal, an order declaring that B. ought, either personally or as extrix., to be on the list of contributories, was affirmed.

7473. Whether valid contract within Leeman's Act.]—On Sept. 30, 1878, applt., through a broker, sold some shares in G. Bank on the G. Stock Exchange. The sale was entered in the transaction books of the respective brokers, & each entry specified the name of the broker for the other party & was initialled by him, Oct. 16 being stated as the settling day. At the time of the sale applt.'s name was verbally mentioned to the purchaser's broker, who, on the following day, informed applt.'s broker that the shares had been bought by the directors of the bank. On Oct. 2, the bank stopped payment, & on Oct. 5 the directors summoned a meeting of the shareholders to consider a resolution for a voluntary winding up. On Oct. 16 applt. tendered a deed of transfer to the secretary of the bank, but the directors refused to execute the deed or to register the transfer. At the meeting of shareholders held on Oct. 22 a voluntary winding up was agreed upon:—Held: applt. was liable as a contributory in the winding up of the co., & the directors had been guilty of no default or unnecessary delay within 1862 Act, s. 35, in refusing to execute the transfer of his shares.

Semble: there was no valid contract for the sale of the shares within Leeman's Act, s. 1.—NELSON MITCHELL v. CITY OF GLASGOW BANK (1879), 4 App. Cas. 624; 27 W. R. 875, H. L.

from all further liabilities & obligations in respect of the shares transferred, & from all further claims and demands on account of the same:—Held: shareholders who had transferred their shares bond fide & for value, should not be placed on the list of contributories, although they were still liable to the creditors of the bank, the three years from the transfer within which creditors might proceed against them under 6 Geo. 4, c. 42, s. 9, not having expired.

numbers of the shares, it not being the practice on the London Stock Exchange to specify the numbers or otherwise to comply with the above Act. By the rules of such Stock Exchange it is provided that the Stock Exchange shall not recognise in its dealings any other persons than its own members, such members, if they do not carry out contracts, being liable to be expelled from the Stock Exchange, & that no application to annul a contract shall be entertained by the committee of the Stock Exchange unless upon a specific allegation of fraud or wilful misrepresentation. Before the settling day deft. repudiated the contract, but the committee of the Stock Exchange refused to annul the contract, & therefore pltf. completed it, & paid the price of the shares. Deft. was ignorant of the usage of the London Stock Exchange with regard to dealings in shares of banking cos., & did not know that the purchasing broker was by such usage bound to perform a contract for the purchase of banking shares, though void at law under the above Act:—Held: pltf. were not entitled to recover from deft. the money paid by them as the price of the shares, since the usage of the Stock Exchange to disregard the above Act, & to recognise as valid a contract which was made contrary to that Act, was unreasonable as against strangers who did not know it, & therefore was not binding on deft.—PERRY v. BARNETT (1885), 15 Q. B. D. 388; 54 L. J. Q. B. 466; 53 L. T. 585; 1 T. L. R. 580, C. A.

7475. — — — — —.]—The jury have found that deft. did not know that these shares [which deft. had contracted to purchase in a banking co.] would be unnumbered shares. Pltf. have entered into a contract which the Act says shall be null & void, & before they have made any payment under the contract, deft. comes to them & says she will not ratify the contract. Broker employed to buy.]

Deft. employed pltf., who were stockbrokers on the Stock Exchange, to buy shares in a joint-stock banking co. He had on many previous occasions employed pltf. to buy similar shares, & on none of those occasions did the contract or advice note forwarded to him specify the distinguishing numbers of the shares purchased. Pltf. purchased the shares from a jobber on the Stock Exchange in the usual way, & forwarded to deft. a contract note in the usual form, stating that the contract was made subject to the rules & regulations of the Stock Exchange. The contract was not made with reference to any distinguishing numbers of the shares, nor did the contract note specify any numbers. It is not the practice on the Stock Exchange to specify the numbers of the shares in dealing in bank shares. Deft. before the settling day wrote to pltf. repudiating the contract, on the ground that the numbers of the shares were not specified pursuant to the above Act. Notwithstanding such repudiation, pltf. completed the contract & paid for the shares. By the rules of the Stock Exchange the committee only recognise the members of the Stock Exchange as the parties to contracts, & if a member does not carry out a contract he may be declared a defaulter & expelled from the Stock Exchange, & no application, which has for its object to annul any bargain on the Stock Exchange, shall be entertained by the committee unless upon an allegation of fraud or wilful misrepresentation. 7479. — — — — — Transfer accepted by broker—Under authority from purchaser—Liability of purchaser to indemnify vendor.]—D., having instructed his broker to purchase shares in a joint-stock bank, received a bought note from them, which, in accordance with the usual custom of the Stock Exchange, did not specify the registered numbers of the shares. Between the date of the purchase & the settling day a petition to wind up the bank was presented. Before the settling day D.'s solrs., by his instructions, wrote to the brokers formally repudiating the contract on his behalf, on the ground that the bought note was in contravention of the above Act, & warning them not to complete. On the same day D. wrote a private letter to the brokers, in which, after referring to the formal repudiation by his solrs., he in effect told them that whatever position they might have to assume with regard to these shares, he should consider himself bound to support them. D.'s name was subsequently sent in by the brokers to the vendor as the purchaser, & the money was paid by them to the vendor's brokers, & repaid with brokerage by D. A transfer was executed by the vendor to D., but not executed by D.; it was not, however, sent back to the vendor, but remained in the possession of D.'s brokers till the hearing of this action. On an action by the vendor against D. & the brokers, claiming indemnity in respect of these shares:—Held: the private letter to the brokers was in such uncertain terms as to be capable of two interpretations, & consequently might authorise the brokers to go on with or repudiate the contract as they thought best; the brokers, having by their conduct adopted the former interpretation, it was not now competent for D. to repudiate the act of his agents, & say that he intended the letter to bear the latter interpretation; there being, therefore, an acceptance by D.'s authorised agents, he must be treated as the equitable transferee of the shares, & liable to indemnify the vendor, notwithstanding the fact that he had never executed the transfer as transferee, & the transfer had not been registered.—LORING v. DAVIS (1886), 32 Ch. D. 625; 55 L. J. Ch. 725; 54 L. T. 899; 34 W. R. 701; 2 T. L. R. 645.

SECT. 1.—IN GENERAL.

7480. Power of company to enforce contract—Although not executed by company.—A contract entered into "on behalf of" a joint-stock co., within 1844 Act, s. 44, means, a contract by which the co. contracts to do something; & that sect. does not prevent the co. from enforcing against third parties a contract which is unilateral only, & which, though they are expressed to be parties to it, has not been executed by the co.—BRITISH EMPIRE ASSURANCE CO. v. BROWNE (1852), 12 C. B. 723; 22 L. J. C. P. 51; 20 L. T. O. S. 67; 16 Jur. 1157; 138 E. R. 1088.

7481. Power of company to extend business—By creation of distinct departments with distinct shares.—A co. was established for effecting life insurances & insurances against such other kinds of risk as might thereafter be determined upon by general meeting. In Mar. 1872, a general meeting resolved that fire insurance & fidelity guarantees should be added to their business. New shares, called B. shares, were issued to provide for this new branch of business, which was to form a separate department. The co. were shortly afterwards advised that this proceeding was ultra vires & the B. shares invalid; & one of the B. shareholders obtained from the Ct. of Ch. an order removing his name from the register on that ground. An arrangement was accordingly made for starting a new co. to take up the fire & fidelity guarantee business. The assets of the fire & fidelity department were to be handed over to the new co., which was to undertake the fulfilment of the contracts of that department. The new co. was to issue to the B. shareholders shares credited with the amounts paid by them respectively on their B. shares, & the B. shares were to be cancelled. Applt., who was a B. shareholder, had shares allotted to him accordingly in the new co., & on Sept. 24, 1873, his B. shares were cancelled. On Apr. 25, 1874, a resolution was passed to wind up the old co. Applt., having been placed on the list of contributories, applied to have his name removed, which was refused:—Held: (1) the issue of B. shares was not ultra vires, & the B. shareholders effectually became shareholders in the co.; (2) a corpn. or co. has, as an incident to its existence, the same power of compromising claims made against it as an individual has, & the cancellation of B. shares being made as part of a bonâ fide arrangement for compromising a dispute whether those shares had been legally issued, was valid; & applt., from the time of the resolution for cancellation of his shares, ceased to be a member of the co.; (3) as applt. had legally been a shareholder, the cancellation could not affect any rights previously acquired by creditors; & he must be on the list of contributories as a past member.—Re NORWICH PROVIDENT INSURANCE SOCIETY, BATH'S CASE (1878), 8 Ch. 7482. Power of company to alter bye-laws—To carry profits to reserve fund instead of dividing amongst policy-holders.—Resp. became a policy-holder in the participating branch of an assurance co. upon the terms that he would abide by the deed of settlement, bye-laws & regulations of the co. After distributing the profits arising from that branch among the participating policy holders for many years without deduction for a reserve fund the co. proposed to alter that practice by devoting part of the profits to a reserve fund & to alter the bye-laws accordingly. By the deed of settlement the co. had power to make alterations in the bye-laws. The policy holder having brought an action for an injunction against the co. on the ground that he had taken his policy upon the faith of a prospectus which stated the practice:—Held: there was no contract between the co. & the policy holder not to alter its practice in the distribution of profits & the action could not be maintained.—*BRITISH EQUITABLE ASSURANCE CO., LTD. v. 7489. — Issue of investment policies—Return of premiums in event of death before expiration of fixed period—Business of life insurance prohibited by memorandum.]—A co. was incorporated under the Cos. Acts. Its objects as stated in its memorandum of assocn. were “to carry on & transact every kind of insurance & guarantee business in all branches, except the business of life insurance,” & it was thereby expressly provided that “Nothing herein contained shall empower the co. to carry on the business of life assurance, or the granting of annuities within Life Assurance Companies Act 1870 (c. 61).” The co. had issued a number of investment policies which were all in one or other of two forms. The first form, called Policy Form A, was therein described as an investment policy, at a weekly premium of 6d. to secure £22 10s., namely £6 at the end of five years, £7 10s. at the end of ten years, & £9 at the end of fifteen years. The policy charged the assets of the co. with the payment to the assured or his representatives or assigns of the sums aforesaid & provided that in the event of the death of the assured before the fifth year all premiums paid would be returned in full, & after the fifth & tenth years all premiums paid since the last payment made by the co. would be returned. The second form, called Policy Form B, differed slightly from Policy Form A. The policy purported to secure the payment of a certain sum at the end of a fixed term in consideration of a weekly premium & charged the funds of the co. with its payment, & provided that if the assured should die before the date on which the sum became payable a percentage of the premiums received on account should be payable to the representatives or assigns of the assured. The co. had not deposited £20,000 as required by Assurance Companies Act, 1909 (c. 49), s. 2:—Held: (1) both forms of policies were policies of insurance on human life, & the co. was therefore carrying on the business of life assurance contrary to the provisions of the memorandum of assocn., & the issue of the policies was accordingly ultra vires the co.; (2) the co. was carrying on “life assurance business” within the meaning of sect. 1 of the latter Act, & inasmuch as it had not made the deposit of £20,000 required by sect. 2 of that Act, the policies were illegal.—*JOSEPH v. 7490. Issue by industrial society to members of share books & membership cards—Appropriation of funds for payments on death of member or wife or husband of member—No policies issued or premiums paid.]—Pltf. was a member of an industrial society, & had received from them a share book, a membership card, a purchase book, in all of which her name & address were given, & a copy of the rules of the society. By the rules as amended it was provided that the objects of the society should include power to carry on the business of insurance as provided in rule 14a. By rule 14a the committee of management were authorised to appropriate money, inter alia, “for providing a sum to be paid on the death of a member or the wife or husband of a member, such sum to be proportional to one year’s average purchase of the member from the society during the three years immediately preceding death.” The society advertised “free life assurance” as an inducement to persons to become members. Pltf. alleged that the society had paid large sums of money in respect of this life assurance, & that they were carrying on the business of life assurance within Assurance Companies Act, 1909 (c. 49), without having paid the deposit of £20,000 required by sect. 2 (1) of that Act, & brought an action to restrain them from doing so:—Held: the society had done nothing ultra vires; there had been no carrying on of life assurance business within the Act; policies must be in writing & no policy had been issued, no premium had been paid, there was no obligation on the society to appropriate any further sum to the insurance fund, & the arrangement might at any moment be terminated by a general meeting.—*HAMPTON v. The society effected an amalgamation with a life assurance co., which had accumulated out of premiums previously received a fund exceeding £100,000. There were no creditors of the society other than the policyholders, nearly all of whom had agreed to accept the liability of the co. Upon a petition by the society & the co., for payment of the deposit to the per pound, the total price per pound being 2s.

—Held: Life Assurance Companies Act, 1870 (c. 61), s. 4, was disregarded, for the 8d. per pound was not a separate sum capable of being carried to a separate fund appropriated for the exclusive benefit of the assured pensioners, as required by that sect. in the case of "a co. transacting other business besides that of life assurance," but the 2s. 4d. per pound was a contributory sum for securing two benefits, namely, the present receipt of one pound of tea, & the expectation of a future sum of money contingent upon widowhood.

(2) The co., which carried on the joint business of tea dealing & granting pensions to insured customers in case of widowhood, became insolvent & unable to pay the pensions. On a petition to wind up the co., the co. submitted, as an alternative to winding up, a scheme which involved that a new co. should sell its tea through the agents of the old co. to the insured customers, & should pay 75 per cent of the loading (6d. per pound) to the old co., which should, as between the two cos., be the insurer of the insured customers:—Held: the scheme, being a provision by which the insured customers were to enter into new contracts with a new co. & as a result, would be entitled to a reduced benefit from their contracts with the old co., was not authorised by sect. 22 of the above Act.

Seemle: although absolute arithmetical equality is not required by sect. 22, what the sect. allows is the reduction of all the contracts of the co. to the relief of the common debt, & a scheme which proceeds upon a principle of inequality of reduction is not within the Act.—Re NELSON & Co., [1905] 1 Ch. 551; 74 L. The fire assurance society having gone into liquidation, the chief clerk allowed the claim of another co. for sums due to it in respect of guarantee & treaty business. On summons by the liquidator to vary the certificate:—Held: the treaty agreements did not constitute an amalgamation between the contracting cos., nor a partnership either inter se or as regarded third persons, but were agreements of agency; further, the society having had the benefit of these agreements, the burden of proof was upon it to show that the agreements were invalid. The treaty business was insurance business, being guarantee business carried on with a very unlimited faith in the agent; it was a reinsurance contract more wide & less prudent than an ordinary contract of reinsurance, but was within the powers of the society.—Re NORWICH EQUITABLE FIRE ASSURANCE SOCIETY, ROYAL INSURANCE CO.'S CLAIM (1887), 57 L. 7516. — Company with no power to transfer—Life Assurance Companies Act, 1870 (c. 61), s. 14 not enabling Act.—A life insurance co. was incorporated in 1845 under a deed of settlement which contained no provision for the sale or transfer of its business. In 1865 the co. took over the business of an annuity co., & covenanted, by deed, in 1866, to guarantee the payment of certain annuities. In Aug. 1887, a petition for the compulsory winding up of the co. was presented, which stood over in the hopes that some scheme of arrangement might be adopted. In July, 1889, a scheme was proposed by the policy-holders for transferring the policies, en bloc, to another co., on terms advantageous to the policy holders, but involving a reduction of the amounts originally assured. The proposed scheme made no provision for the annuitants claiming under the deed of 1866. On the petition coming on again for hearing, application was made by the directors, at the instance of the policy-holders, for leave to present a petition under the above sect. to obtain the sanction of the ct. to the proposed scheme, & that in the meantime the hearing of the petition might again be postponed. The annuitants objected to the scheme, as did also the shareholders:—Held: (1) that sect. conferred no power on an assurance co. to transfer its business to another co.; (2) assuming a co. had power to transfer, the sect. only contemplated a transfer of the whole of the assurance business as a going concern without any reduction in the policies, or any fresh contracts with the policy-holders; (3) the annuitants under the deed of 1866 were "policy-holders" within the definition given by sect. 2 of the above Act, whose dissent, as representing more than one-tenth of the total amount assured, would, under sect. 14, be fatal to the scheme, & the scheme was therefore impossible, & as the co. was hopelessly insolvent, the winding-up order must be made.

Semble: the dissent of one policy-holder would invalidate such a scheme as proposed.—Re SOVEREIGN LIFE ASSURANCE CO. (1889), 42 Ch. D. 540; 58 L. J. Ch. 811; 61 L. T. 455; 38 W. R. 58; 5 T. L. R. 702.

By a private Act of Parliament, shareholders who had executed transfers were to continue liable until their transfers were inrolled in

r. What business may be transferred—Fire insurance.—The European Assurance Society, through their confidential agent, C., negotiated with the Etna Insurance Co., through their confidential agent, O., a transfer by the former of their fire insurance business & good-will to the latter, who also subsequently agreed, in consideration of £15,000, to assume their corresponding liabilities. The directors of the Etna, who had been duly authorised thereto, agreed to pay C., as a commission or bonus for his services in the first transaction, a sum of £1,000, which he had secretly promised O. to divide with him; & for the second he claimed a similar sum of £2,000, which latter having been refused, he contrived that the purchase-money to be paid by his employers should be raised to £17,000, out of which the Etna

Chancery, but were to be reimbursed out of the funds of the co. for all losses sustained in consequence thereof, nor were they to be liable for any debt for which they would not have been liable as partners, nor could anything be recovered from them which could not have been recovered if the Act had not been passed. With a view to an amalgamation with the B. Insurance Co., the greater number of shareholders in the A. Co. agreed to transfer their shares to a trustee for the B. Co. The A. Co. then ceased to carry on business. Thirteen years afterwards the A. Co. was ordered to be wound up. There were claims by policy-holders whose policies were granted before the alteration in the laws & regulations:—Held: as the deed of settlement to which the policy-holders were subject provided for making new laws & regulations, they were bound by these new laws & regulations when made.

7523. Effect of amalgamation or transfer—Right of transferee company to enforce contract between third party & transferor company.]—An insurance co. lent money on the security of a bond given by three obligors to two of the directors & of a policy effected with the co. by one of the obligors on his own life, & deposited as a collateral security. By the terms of the policy the insurance money was charged on funds & property of the co. only. The condition of the bond was for payment of the money lent, with interest, & of the premiums upon the policy. The insurance co. was dissolved, their funds distributed, & their business transferred to another co. to whom the obligees assigned the bond. One of the obligors who had not effected the insurance having died, & the policy having become forfeited for non-payment of the premiums, the assignees of the bond-debt sought to prove in the master's office under a decree for the administration of the estate of the deceased obligor:—Held: the proof ought to be admitted to the extent of an unpaid premium, which became payable before the dissolution of the co., although the dissolution took place long before the end of the year for which the premium was paid; but no proof could be admitted for any premium the time for payment of which had not arrived when the co. was dissolved.—ATKINSON

Directors privately agreed to pay him the £2,000. C. having assigned his interest in these two agreements to S., the latter on foot thereof drew three bills for £1,000 each on the Etna Co., two of which O. discounted, subsequently receiving £500 from the co. in part payment of them, together with a renewal bill for £500. Both cos. having afterwards gone into liquidation, & O. having made a claim on foot of the above acceptances for £500 & £1,000 on the winding up of the affairs of the Etna:—Held: having regard to O.'s confidential relation to the Etna Co., the first bill for £1,000 was, in his hands, only good to the extent of £500, & that sum having been already paid by the co., he could, therefore, sustain no further claim thereon; since no evidence had been adduced of the European Society's

SUB-SECT. 2.—EFFECT ON POLICY-HOLDERS.

7525. General rule.]—A. effected a policy "upon, & for twenty years continuance of, the life of himself" with an assurance co. By the terms of the policy it was provided that "the capital stock & other securities, funds, & property of the co. remaining at the time of any claim or demand unapplied & undisposed of, & inapplicable to prior claims & demands in pursuance of the provisions of the deed of settlement, should alone be liable to answer & make good all claims & demands upon the said co., or otherwise, under or by virtue of that policy"; & that no director, officer, or shareholder should be individually or personally liable, etc. The deed of settlement entitled policy-holders to participate in profits; & also contained provisions enabling the directors in certain events to dissolve the co. The directors having, not in strict accordance with their powers to dissolve the co., transferred its funds & property to another co. who were to take their liabilities, A. brought an action against the co. (his assurers), charging them with having wrongfully aliened & transferred their property, & ceased to carry on business, whereby he lost the moneys & profits he would otherwise have made from the continuance of the contract:—Held: (1) there was no implied contract on the part of the co. to continue to carry on the business; (2) if there were, there was no evidence of any breach of it, inasmuch as if the transfer was properly made, there was no cause of action, & if not warranted by the deed of settlement, it was ultra vires, & void; (3) pltf. had commenced his action before he had sustained any injury.—*KING v. policy-holders reserved in deed of settlement.]—The deed of settlement of the I. Life Insurance Co. provided that in a certain event a general meeting of the co. might resolve on its dissolution, & that in such a case proper measures should be taken for effecting such dissolution, without prejudice to the rights of the parties then insured, & thereupon the affairs of the co. should with all convenient speed be wound up, & the liabilities of the co. be satisfied or otherwise sufficiently provided for by reinvestment or by transfer to other existing & approved assurance offices. In accordance with this provision a resolution was passed to dissolve the co., & the business & assets were transferred to the E. Co. Petitioner, who had purchased an annuity on his life from the I. Co., refused to assent to the transfer of his policy to the E. Co.; but he received payment of his annuity from the E. Co. till it was wound up. He then presented a petition to wind up the I. Co.:—Held: (1) although the dissolution & transfer of the business of the I. Co. were perfectly valid, yet the words in the deed of settlement reserving the rights of the parties assured were conclusive in showing that there could be no novation of the contract with the policy-holders without their consent; (2) the acceptance of the payment of the annuity from the E. Co. was no evidence that petitioner had adopted the E. Co. as his debtors, & he was still a creditor of the I. Co.—Re INDIA & LONDON LIFE ASSURANCE CO. (1872), 7 Ch. App. 651; 27 L. T. 191; 20 W. Co., & were to transfer to that other co. a sufficient amount of the assets of the A. Co. The A. Co. was accordingly dissolved, & a portion of its funds was transferred to the B. Co., which covenanted to satisfy the liabilities of the A. Co. Full notice of this transaction was sent to the policy-holders of the A. Co.; & in the policies of that co. it had been declared that the funds & property of the co. should alone be liable to make good the claims under the policy, & the deed of settlement was also referred to. Both cos. were wound up, & came under the European Assurance Society Arbitration Acts:—Held: the A. Co. had, without the consent of the policy-holders, a right to dissolve itself & transfer its liabilities to the B. Co., & a policy-holder could claim only against the B. Co.

On such a policy the holder could not have sued the shareholders separately; nor, after the co. was dissolved, would there have been any means of compelling the shareholders to pay calls on their shares, the co. being unincorporated, & having been formed before the passing of the Joint-Stock Companies Acts & the Winding up Acts; nor had the passing of those Acts affected the rights & liabilities of the parties (MELLISH, I.J.).—Re EUROPEAN ASSURANCE SOCIETY, HORT'S CASE, GRAIN'S CASE (1875), 1 Ch. Society, it was provided that the funds & property of the society should alone be answerable for claims on the society, & there were provisions enabling the society to make over its business to another co. The society granted an annuity to D. by a deed executed by three directors, which declared that the stocks & funds of the society should during the life of D. be liable to pay the annuity. Some years after this the N. Society made over its business to the E. Society in manner authorised by the deed of settlement. Both societies being under winding up, D. claimed against the N. Co., & were to transfer to such other co. so much of the assets as should be agreed upon as sufficient to meet such claims. The I. Co. was accordingly dissolved, & a portion of its funds transferred to the E. Co., which covenanted to satisfy the liabilities of the I. Co. C. was a policy-holder of the I. Co. on the non-participating scale, & as such was not entitled to a vote at the meetings of members. His policy was made subject to the conditions of the deed of settlement. He had notice of the intended amalgamation, but had no formal notice of the completion of the amalgamation, nor was his policy indorsed by the E. Co. He, however, paid the premiums & took receipts in the name of the E. Co. for fifteen years, after which both cos. were ordered to be wound up, & came under the European Assurance Society Arbitration Acts:—Held: (1) there was no obligation on the I. Co. to see that the assets transferred to the E. Co. were appropriated for the payment of the claims on the I. Co.; (2) the amalgamation, being intra vires, was binding on the policy-holders; (3) even if it had not been binding on the policy-holders generally, C. was bound by his conduct, & had accepted the liability of the E. (2) Semble: the holders of policies in such a society are not liable to contribute to the payment of any debts; & all that can be done in the winding up is, after payment of the costs, to distribute the funds of the society among the policy-holders in proportion to the amount of their respective claims.

(3) When a co., resp. to a winding-up petition, disputes the validity of petitioner's debt, it must adduce on the hearing, such evidence as will show the ct. that there is a question to be tried. If it fail to do this, a winding-up order ought to be made.

Two petitions having been presented by policy-holders for the winding up of a mutual life assurance society, the society admitted their insolvency, & a winding-up order was made on the second petition, on the ground that the validity of first petitioner's debt was disputed. But liberty was given to first petitioner to apply for the costs of her petition, if her claim should be ultimately established. She appealed, & before the appeal came on for hearing a committee of policy-holders was formed, who desired that the ct. should exercise the power given to it by sect. 22 of the above Act, of reducing the amount of the contracts of the society instead of making a winding-up order.—Held: (1) this power could not be exercised so long as the winding-up order remained, & the order ought to be discharged; a meeting of the policy-holders summoned in order to ascertain their wishes, & the further hearing of the appeal adjourned until after the meeting should have been held.—Re GREAT BRITAIN MUTUAL LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY (1880), 16 Ch. 7553. Policy-holders whose debts less than £50.]—A petition was presented by two policy-holders to wind up compulsorily an insurance co., which was being wound up voluntarily, containing charges of false representations & insolvency:—Held: (1) where a co. was being wound up voluntarily it was unnecessary to consider whether a prima facie case was stated, nor to order security for costs under Assurance Companies Act, 1870 (c. 61), ; (2) policy-holders might present a petition under the above Act, although their debts did not amount to £50 ; (3) a statement that under the circumstances the co. was “admittedly insolvent” was a sufficient statement that it could not pay its debts ; (4) the allegations of false representations, & the appointment of the secretary as provisional liquidator, were sufficient to render it just & equitable to make a winding-up order ; (5) upon demurrer to a petition, counsel for petitioner must open his case.—Re BRITISH ALLIANCE ASSURANCE CORPN. (1878), 9 Ch. 7555. Necessity for establishing prima facie case before leave to present petition granted—Inability to meet claims unlikely to arise for many years.]—A prima facie case of insolvency within Life Assurance Companies Act, 1870 (c. 61), will not be considered as made out, simply because the co. has not at present the means of meeting all the claims which might be brought against it. It is necessary to consider that such claims might not arise for many years, & that new shares might be issued or new capital brought in.—Re LONDON & MANCHESTER INDUSTRIAL ASSOCN. (1875), 1 Ch. The insolvency which is to be the ground of a winding-up order under that sect. is insolvency in the ordinary sense, that is, inability to meet the current demands of creditors.—Re NATIONAL FUNDS ASSURANCE CO., LTD. (1876), 24 W. R. 1066 ;

He contributed to the losses of other members, & his own ship having been injured he made a claim in respect of it, but before anything had been paid, the assocn. was ordered to be wound up:—Held: under 35 Geo. 3, c. 63, no agreement for insurance of ships can be valid unless duly stamped according to that Act, therefore there was no evidence of a binding mutual contract for insurance having been entered into, & S. was not a contributory.—Re LONDON MARINE

7565. ——— Holder whose liability compromised by payment to secretary—Money not paid over by secretary.—By the rules of a mutual insurance assocn. it was provided that the members should, severally, not jointly or in partnership, & each in proportion to the amount of his own insurance, insure the ships of the other members for a year certain, & so on from year to year, unless notice to the contrary should be given; & that this & the other rules should be read with the policy, & be as binding on all parties as if the same were actually therein inserted. The affairs of the assocn. were to be managed by a committee; & all moneys of the assocn. were to be kept in their name at a bankers'. All sums to be paid by the assocn. to a suffering member were to be ascertained & settled by the committee, & to be drawn for on the members at two months' date. Defaulting members were to be liable to a deduction on the amounts of their policies; but were nevertheless to be liable to contribute to all losses occurring during the continuance of their policies. In case of loss, the owner of the lost ship was to remain a member of the assocn. for a period, if not already fulfilled, of six months; in case of sale, his liability was to cease from the date of the transfer. A person desirous of insuring his ship used to send a written application to the secretary, authorising him to insure the ship, & to underwrite all policies of insurance upon all ships that might from time to time be approved by the committee, & undertaking to accept & pay all drafts for losses & contributions that should be drawn, or ordered to be paid, by the committee. Upon this application being accepted, appct. became a member. Generally he executed a power of attorney, whereby the executing parties empowered the secretary to recover & receive from all persons liable to pay or to contribute the same all sums which were or should become due to the executing parties, or any of them, or to the assocn. collectively. The assocn. was never incorporated or registered. Upon its being wound up, there were placed on the list of contributories members who had settled accounts with the secretary, & received from him a receipt in full of all demands; members who had sustained losses, & afterwards sold their vessels; members who had sustained losses, & were claimants for costs; & members who were claimants for losses. The official liquidator proposed to make a call for the purpose of satisfying claims by suffering members on account of sums which had been received by the secretary, & not paid over by him; claims by suffering members on account of sums not yet paid to the secretary; outside debts; & costs of the winding up. On adjourned summons:—Held: (1) the propriety of a winding-up order, as applicable to an assocn. of this kind, could not, on this proceeding, be called in question; (2) the winding-up order did not displace or alter the terms of the contract between the parties; (3) the liability of each member of the assocn. extended only to the payment of such proportions as the rules prescribed of the various losses that occurred during the subsistence of his policy; (4) payment to the secretary discharged the paying member to the extent of such payment; (5) outside creditors were creditors, not of the assocn., nor of the members collectively, but of the persons individually who ordered the particular goods or services; (6) the costs were to be borne by payers & receivers pro rata according to the amounts to be paid or received by them respectively.—Re LONDON MARINE INSURANCE ASSOCN., ANDREWS' & ALEXANDER'S CASE, CHATT'S CASE, COOK'S CASE, CREW'S CASE (1869), L. By the rules, each insurer became liable to contribute to the losses of any other insurer in certain proportions. In pursuance of the authority given by B. & Co., a duly stamped policy was issued to them, which, however, contained no reference to the rules:—Held: the letter, although not stamped, was admissible in evidence, & B. & Co. were contributories.—Re ALBERT AVERAGE ASSOCN., BLYTH & CO.'S CASE (1872), L. 7567. ——— Participating policy-holders.—An unlimited assurance co. was formed upon the mutual principle for granting assurances upon lives with or without participation in profits with a capital stated by the memorandum of assocn. to be divided between shareholders. The arts. of assocn. provided that the co. should at first consist of two classes of members, namely, shareholders, so long as there should be any shareholders, & assurance members, defined to mean policy-holders with participation in profits & registered as members of the co.; & when the shareholders should be paid off under the scheme provided for, then the co. was to consist of assurance members only, who were entitled to equal powers of electing & of becoming directors; but no person to be entitled to be registered in respect of any policy until he should have signed an agreement to become a member. The payment of a premium was to entitle a policy-holder, if registered, to be a member. W. signed a proposal in May, 1873, for a policy with profits, which was to be the basis of the policy, & thereby she agreed to execute the arts. of assocn. when required. The policy recited the proposal, & that W. had agreed to become a member upon the basis of that contract, & that the policy was to be subject to the arts. of assocn. Premiums were regularly paid till the co. was wound up in 1878, but W.'s name was not entered on the register:—Held: (1) by the terms of the proposal which engrafted the arts. of assocn., & by signing the policy, & by the payment of premiums, W. had acceded to the arts. & had agreed to become an assurance member of the co.; (2) the ct. had power to rectify the omission upon the register of the co., & to place her name thereon & on the list of contributories; (3) there was nothing in 1862 Act, or in the memorandum of assocn., which precluded the introduction by the arts. of two classes of members, viz., shareholders, & assurance members not holding shares.—Re ALBION ASSURANCE SOCIETY, WINSTONE'S CASE

The shareholders were to have £6 per cent. on their paid-up calls, & every three years the profits were to be calculated, & one-fourth paid to the shareholders, & the other three-fourths carried to the assurance fund & appropriated by way of bonus to the policies of the participating policy-holders who had paid five years' premium. The co. was wound up before the shareholders had been paid off, & the participating policy-holders were declared by the ct. to be contributories:—Held: (1) although the participating policy-holders were members & contributories under the special terms of the arts., they could not be called upon to contribute until the shareholders had been exhausted; (2) the presumption of law that in the absence of express stipulation partners must share losses in the same proportion as they share profits, did not apply to such a case, the assured members having no direct participation in profits.—*Re ALBION LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY (1880), 16 Ch. Its arts. provided that the co. should consist of the several persons who for the time being should have insured or should have agreed to insure in the co.; that every person who insured with the co. should as from the date of such insurance be deemed to have been a member of the co., & every such person should be deemed to have ceased to be a member so soon as he should be no longer insured in the co.; that each member for the time being of the directors should "ex officio be a member of the co."; that the first directors should be the subscribers of the memorandum, but that directors should not "necessarily be members other than ex officio members." Then followed usual provisions for the election of directors at annual general meetings of the co., one third of the directorate for the time being retiring in rotation every year, but being eligible for re-election. Four of the original directors were signatories to the memorandum, & from time to time at annual general meetings of the co. retired in rotation from the directorate & were re-elected, & were directors when the co. went into liquidation. Their names never were on the register of members & they never insured with the co., but they represented limited cos. whose names were on the register & who insured with the co. The liquidator placed on the list of contributories the four directors in their character of directors, & also the cos. they represented, as members liable to contribute to the assets of the co.:—Held: (1) the four directors were not liable as such to contribute as members to the assets of the co. & were therefore entitled to have their names removed from the list; (2) when a person, whose name has been placed on the list of contributories in a particular character, successfully applies to have his name removed from the list in that character, it is not open to the liquidator, on the same application, to contend that he is entitled to retain the name of the appct. on the list in another character.—*Re PREMIER UNDERWRITING ASSOCN., LTD. Calls were subsequently made upon the shares, the notice of such calls being sent to the transferees of H. who were treated as the holders of the shares. In 1861 A. A. & B. became registered members of the co. in Oct. 1866. The general objects of the co. were to insure against loss by fire, & to effect insurances on lives. The general objects of the E. arts. contained no express power to amalgamate with another co. By an agreement between the S. Co. & the E. Co., the S. Co. agreed to transfer its business to the E. Co. on the terms that the shareholders in the S. Co. should receive shares in the E. Co. in exchange for their shares in the S. Co. The agreement was approved by the shareholders of the S. Co., at a general meeting, & a deed of transfer was executed by the co. & sent to the E. Co., but before its execution by the E. Co. had been completed according to the formalities of Scottish law, a petition was presented under which the E. Co. was wound up. D., a shareholder & director of the S. In 1860, for the purpose of carrying out an arrangement for the transfer of the business of the co. to, & an amalgamation with, the B. N. Co., a large majority of the shareholders in the B. C. Co. agreed to sell their shares to a trustee for the B. N. Co., & R., a shareholder in the B. C. Co., executed a transfer of his shares to the trustee in consideration of £250, which was in fact paid out of the transferred assets of the B. C. Co., though there was no evidence to show that R. knew from what source the money was derived. The transfer was registered in the proprietor's ledger of the B. C. Co. on the day of its execution, but was not enrolled till 1865, after the execution of a deed transferring all the assets of the B. C. Co. to the B. N. Co. The B. C. There was provision enabling two general meetings to alter & extend the objects of the asscn., & enabling an extraordinary general meeting to acquire the business of any other asscn. of a similar nature. The co. passed a resolution to acquire the business of the B. C. Asscn., which was a co. of similar objects, with a capital divided into £50 shares, on which £5 per share had been paid up. The deed of settlement of the B. C. Asscn. contained no power to transfer its business, so the purchase was completed by certain trustees on behalf of the B. N. 7594. Liability to policy-holders limited—Participating & non-participating policies issued.]—

An assurance society granted policies both in the participating & non-participating form. The former class stipulated that the funds & property of the society should, subject to the deed of settlement, be liable to pay the sum assured, with such further sum as should, pursuant to the rules of the society, be appropriated by way of bonus or addition, with a proviso declaring that the funds of the society should alone be liable, & negating personal liability. The latter class stipulated that the funds & property of the society should, subject to the deed, be liable to pay the sum assured, with a proviso that the funds of the society, by the deed applicable to the payment of policies, should alone, subject to prior claims thereon, pursuant to the deed, be liable, & negating personal liability.

The deed provided that the actuary should estimate the amount of profits, that this estimate might be rejected or reduced by a meeting of shareholders, & that six-tenths of the divisible profits so ascertained should be apportioned by the actuary, as he thought, fair, among the participating policy-holders:—Held: (1) such 7595. Whether policy-holders entitled to have assets marshalled—So as to entitle policy-holders to participate in proceeds—Of subsequent call made for benefit of general creditors.]—(1) The S. F. Insurance Co. issued policies, providing that the capital stock & funds of the co. should be liable to make good the damage by fire sustained by the insured, & should alone be liable for all demands under the policies, & that the shareholders should not in any event be liable in respect of any claim upon the co. beyond the amount of their interest in the capital stock of the co. at the time when such claim might arise. The co. was wound up, & it having been held that the policies did not create such a charge upon the stock & funds of the co. as to give the policy-holders any claim upon its assets in preference to the general creditors, calls to the amount of the whole nominal capital were made, & the proceeds were distributed amongst the policy-holders & general creditors pari passu. A further call was made under the winding up, & the official manager proposed to divide the proceeds amongst the general creditors, to the exclusion of the policy-holders. The policy-holders contended that the proceeds of this call must be marshalled, & so much must be recouped to the previous fund as would enable the policy-holders to receive on the whole an equal dividend with the general creditors:—Held: the doctrine of marshalling did not apply, & the proceeds of the further call must be distributed amongst the general creditors only.

(2) An additional call was, however, directed to be made for the purpose of providing for the general costs of the winding up, leaving the capital stock & funds to bear only the cost of their realisation.—Re STATE FIRE INSURANCE CO. (1865), 4 New Rep. 458; 34 L. J. Ch. 436; 10 Jur. N. S. 1015.

Not more than £49,000 out of the £100,000 was ever subscribed for. The life having dropped, the assured claimed the sum payable under the policy; & an order having been made for winding up the co., a claim for the amount was carried in & disallowed, upon which the assured sued the official manager at law, & obtained judgment, the jury finding that there was sufficient property of the co. applicable to pay the demand:—Held: by the special contract contained in the policy, the liability of the individual shareholders was effectually limited to the amount remaining unpaid on their respective shares, & they could not be made further liable either on the ground that the policy contained an engagement that the property of the co. should be applied in due course in payment of the sum assured by the policy & that the judgment established the existence of capital sufficient to pay it, or on the ground that the policy contained an untrue representation that the capital was £100,000, which representation the persons making it were bound to make good; or on the ground that the official manager represented the shareholders in the action.

An application by the assured for leave under Joint-Stock Companies Winding up Amendment Act, 1857 (c. 78), s. 7, to issue execution or take proceedings against an individual shareholder, who had paid in full upon his shares, in respect of the amount the assured had recovered in an action on the policy against the official manager of the society, was refused with costs, the ct. being of opinion that the terms of the policy precluded the assured from any remedy at law against an individual shareholder; that, even if, upon the construction of the co.'s deed of settlement, the policy was in this respect less favourable to the assured than the deed required, that circumstance could not be insisted upon for the benefit of the assured, his rights being defined by the contract into which he had actually entered; & that, assuming the mention made in the policy of the capital stock of £100,000 to be equivalent to a representation that the society's capital actually amounted to £100,000 & to be a fraud on the part of the directors, the capital subscribed for at the date of the policy not exceeding £44,000 that circumstance would not entitle the assured to have execution against an individual shareholder.—Re ATHENÆUM SOCIETY & PRINCE OF WALES SOCIETY, DURHAM'S CASE (1858), 4 K. & J. 517; 32 L. In 1847 an insurance co. was completely registered, & policies granted by it, in which policies a proviso limiting the responsibility of shareholders to the amount of their shares was inserted. The shares were fixed by the co.'s deed at 20,000 at £25 each, & provision was made by the deed for the mode in which the calls from time to time should be made. A. subscribed for 1,000 shares, & executed the deed. In May, 1848, the co. was declared insolvent, under 1844 Act, it having been previously determined by the Ct. of Q. B. that A. was not individually liable to the claims of the policy-holders. The policy-holders proved their claims under the bkpcy. In Dec. 1850, an order to wind up the co. was made, & the names of A. & twelve others who had executed the deed were placed on the list of contributories. To discharge the debts proved against the co. the master made a call upon the contributories of £25 per share, the amount agreed to be subscribed. In Feb. 1868, the ship, with A. on board, was lost at sea. The loss of the ship was reported to the assocn., & it appeared from entries in the minute books that the money due upon the policy was raised by order of the committee, but retained by the secretary until a personal representative to A. had been appointed. The co. was ordered to be wound up in Jan. 1870, & A.'s widow obtained letters of administration to him in Dec. 1871. The claim on an annuity contract is to be estimated at the then present value of the annuity according to certain tables. With regard to policies, the then present value of the reversion in the sum assured is to be ascertained according to certain tables & the then present value of the future annual premiums, taking into consideration the pure premiums only, & the difference between these two sums is to be the value of the claim on a policy. In no case is there to be a re-examination of the life assured.—Re ALBERT LIFE ASSURANCE CO., LANCASTER'S CASE (1871), L. R. 14 Eq. 72, n.; 16 Sol. Jo. 103.

In Apr. & June, 1887, the deft. obtained two loans of £570 & £600 respectively from pltfs. upon mtge. of the policies. Deft. continued to pay to pltfs. the premiums upon the policies down to May 7, 1888; but the moneys assured by the policies were never paid to him. In July, 1889, a winding-up order was made. In Apr. 1890, an arrangement under the Joint-Stock Companies Act, 1870 (c. 104), was entered into between pltf. co. & the Sun Life Assurance co., whereby it was provided that the policies of pltf. co. should be transferred to the Sun co., & that the holders of policies in pltf. co. should, in full satisfaction of all claims upon pltfs., accept certain reduced payments from the Sun co. It was also provided that if the co. was indebted to a shareholder, the directors should pay him as if he was not a shareholder:—Held: on the winding up of the co., the shareholders, who were creditors of the co., were entitled to be paid in full like other creditors, by means of a call on the shareholders, they being debited with the call in respect of their own shares, & if any of the shareholders could not pay the call, the deficiency must be made up by the others.

(2) The co. granted policies of assurance, by the terms of which the assured had no claim against the shareholders beyond the amount unpaid on their shares. Under the winding up, the assets of the co., including the full amount payable on the shares, were applied in paying the policy-holders & the general creditors pro rata. It was decided that the balance remaining due to the general creditors, & the costs of the winding up, must be raised by a call on the shareholders. At the time of the winding up of the society, which happened in 1869, £9 per share of the subscribed capital remained uncalled up, & in 1870, a call of this £9 per share was made. In 1873, a further call of £12 per share was made, it having been ascertained that a call to that amount would, with the £9 per share, pay the debts of the society. Compromises were entered into by the liquidator with certain of the contributories who were unable to pay the calls in full:—Held: where the compromise was for £9 per share or less, the whole of the sum received by way of compromise was to be carried to the account of policy-holders, & where the sum received by way of compromise amounted to more than £9 per share, then a sum equivalent to £9 per share was to be carried to the account of the policy-holders, & the residue was to be applied to payment of the general creditors of the society.—Re INTERNATIONAL LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY (1877), 47 L. The co. was ordered to be wound up, & the assets of the co., including the full amount payable on the shares, were applied in paying the policy-holders & the general creditors pro rata; & the balance due to the general creditors was paid by additional calls on the shareholders:—Held: the costs of calling up the unpaid capital, as well as the general costs of the winding up, must be borne wholly by the shareholders, & no part was payable out of the limited fund applicable to the claims of the policy-holders.—*Re AGRICULTURIST CATTLE INSURANCE CO., Ex p. 7633. ———.]—In the case of an insurance co. in liquidation whose assets are limited as regards policy-holders & unlimited as regards other creditors, 1862 Act, s. 38 (6), is only intended to protect the contributories as against the claims of the policy-holders, & does not affect the liability of contributories who have not compromised their liabilities, under 1862 Act, s. 160, to pay the whole of the costs of the liquidation, although the whole of the nominal share capital has been called up. The deed of settlement of an insurance co. registered in 1854 under 1814 Act, provided that every policy issued by the co. should contain a proviso limiting the claims of the policy-holder to the amount of the share capital, but left the liabilities of the shareholders in other respects unlimited. All the policies issued by the co. contained the required proviso; in 1868 the co. was ordered to be wound up. During the liquidation the whole of the nominal share capital was called up, & several of the contributories compromised their liabilities by agreements with the liquidator in manner provided by 1862 Act, s. 160. The liquidator having, for the purpose of raising a fund for the payment of the past & future costs of the liquidation, made a further call on those contributories who had not compromised:—Held: those contributories were not entitled to require that the amounts received under the compromise should be marshalled between the liability for costs & the liability under policies; & the contributories who had not compromised alone remained liable for the costs of the liquidation.—Re ACCIDENTAL DEATH INSURANCE CO. (1878), 7 Ch. W., a shareholder in the S. Co., had been its solr. since its incorporation until 1872, & had large claims for bills of costs against the co. In 1873 W. filed a bill against the S. Co., stating that the co. could not pay its debts, & that the assets were in danger of being squandered, & prayed that it might be wound up by order of the ct., & a receiver appointed :—Held : on demurrer, the S. 7657. Discretion of court—Assets unsaleable.]—A co. or fraternity of free fishermen existed from time immemorial within the manor of F., all the members of which were admitted tenants of the manor, & took an oath of homage to the lord. No grant to the co. as a corpn. was in existence, but from numerous ancient documents it appeared that the co. had the exclusive right of dredging for oysters & taking other kinds of fish within the manor, for which it paid a rent of £1 3s. 4d. to the lord. By an Act passed in 1840 it was recognised as a co. in the nature of a prescriptive corpn., & it was recited that the members had time out of mind dredged oysters exclusive of all other persons, & that the fishery was of great benefit to the public ; it was thereby enacted that the co. might exercise all the powers then vested in it, & fresh powers of raising money & charging the profits of the fishery by way of mtge. were given it, the form of mtge. containing no power of sale. Rules were laid down for the management of the co., but it was provided that nothing in the Act should be construed to incorporate the co. The co. made bye-laws for the regulation of the dredging of oysters, & subject to these bye-laws, the privilege of dredging & fishing was enjoyed by the members for their own benefit. A petition having been brought by a creditor for winding up the co. :—Held : the co. was a corpn. in which the exclusive right of fishing within the manor was vested ; but the corpn. held the right on a condition or trust for the individual members ; & if the co. was wound up this right of fishing could not be sold by the liquidator, & therefore the winding-up order would be useless. The ct. accordingly refused to make any order for winding up.—Re FREE FISHERMEN OF FAVERSHAM (CO. OR FRATERNITY OF) (1887), 36 Ch. D. 329 ; 57 L. J. Ch. 187 ; 57 L. T. 577 ; 3 T. L. R. 797, C. A.

co. was to be incorporated, appcts. for shares could not be made liable before the incorporation of the co., & that their money must therefore be returned in full if the undertaking should not be proceeded with. It further stated that a moiety of the shares had been subscribed for in Germany, & ten per cent. paid thereon, which was required by the German law before the incorporation of a co., & it invited subscriptions for the remaining moiety. On May 20 a large order for advertisements was given at the temporary London office of the inchoate co. to R., as advertising agent, by the secretary in the presence of the principal promoter of the co. The remaining moiety of the shares was allotted in England, & ten per cent. paid thereon. But it having turned out subsequently that the first moiety of the shares had not, in fact, been subscribed for in Germany, nor the requisite percentage paid thereon, the co. was never incorporated.

Upon a petition by R. stating these facts, & praying that the Imperial Anglo-German Bank might be wound up by the ct.:—Held: the Imperial Anglo-German Bank, not having been incorporated, never came into existence, & could not be wound up.

7669. — Who are "members."]—By a special Act of Parliament, passed in 1882, eight persons were incorporated into a co., & were made first directors thereof, "to continue in office until the first ordinary meeting held after the passing of the Act." The co. was not registered under 1862 Act. No ordinary meeting of the co. was ever held; & in 1887, an action was brought against the co. to recover certain penalties payable under the Act. While the action was pending the eight first directors held meetings at which they allotted to themselves their qualifying shares, paid a call thereon, & applied the money in payment to one of them of preliminary expenses which under the Act were payable by the co., but which he had paid or was liable to pay. Five of them then transferred their shares to another of them in consideration of money paid to the transferee. Judgment was given against the co. in the action, & plffs. presented a petition for the winding up of the co.:—Held: the special Act imposed upon the eight persons incorporated thereby the statutory obligation of continuing directors & members of the co. until the first ordinary meeting, & no such meeting having been held, such eight persons still continued members of the co., & consequently the ct. had jurisdiction to make a winding-up order.

7674. Inability to pay debts—Distinction between demands by outside creditors & creditors also being shareholders.—The provision of 1862 Act, s. 199, that an unregistered co. neglecting for the space of three weeks after demand in writing to pay a debt shall be deemed unable to pay its debts, does not apply to the case of a building society where the debt is due to a withdrawing member in respect of a share which he has given notice to withdraw.

In considering that Act, I make a great distinction between what I call an outside creditor, & a creditor who is a shareholder in the co., & I do not think that sect. 199 in that Act, when it gave a power to a creditor to call upon a co. to pay him, or if not to admit that they were insolvent, was intended to apply to any case where one member of the co. called upon the directors to pay him in respect of some rule of the society itself. If this application had been made by an outside creditor of the co.—if the co., for instance, had applied to A. B., a cabinet maker, holding no shares in the co., to make a certain number of tables & chairs for the co., & had refused to pay him, then unquestionably, in my opinion, he might come, under clause 199, & serve the co. with a notice to pay him the amount they owed him, & that if they did not pay it he should present a petition against them. But I do not think that this applies to the case of a person who is a shareholder of the co., & who therefore applies under sect. 13, which only enables those persons to be paid who have applied, & to be paid in rotation (LORD ROMILLY, M.R.).—Re PLANET BENEFIT BUILDING & INVESTMENT SOCIETY (1872), L. (2) After the making of this note the society was registered under the Industrial & Provident Societies Act, 1862 (c. 87), & after action brought, an order was obtained for winding it up under the 1862 Act, & proceedings under that order were taken in the county ct. Sect. 204, which provides that “an unregistered company shall not, except in the event of its being wound up, be deemed to be a co. under the Act,” does not prevent such application of sect. 85 to unregistered cos., although no order to wind up has been made, if a petition to wind up is pending. In such a case the ct. has a discretion whether it will stay execution, & if, after presentation of the petition, the co. has allowed judgment to be signed without taking the objection that a winding-up petition is pending, the ct. will not interfere to prevent the creditor from issuing execution.—*RUDOW v. SUB-SECT. 1.—IN GENERAL.

7695. Nature of cost-book company—Whether partnership.]—Defts. & others met for the purpose of forming a co. for working a mine on the cost-book principle, the concern to consist of 60,000 shares, of which 15,000 were to be appropriated to the owner of the mine, 33,750 to A., B., & C., & the remainder allotted to other parties in proportion to certain capital subscribed by them, 1,125 being allotted to deft., for which he paid £100 : & it was at that meeting resolved, amongst other things, that the requisite capital to work the mine for the first six months should be found by A., B., & C. The same resolution also stated that the mine had been purchased of the owner for the sum of £1,000 in cash, & £15,000 to be paid in cash or shares at the end of six months, should it be deemed desirable by the adventurers to continue operations, such payment of £15,000, or surrender of the mine to the owner, being optional by the adventurers :—Held : by this arrangement, each adventurer became a partner in the concern from the commencement, & liable as such for goods supplied for the working of the mine.—PEEL v. THOMAS (1855) 15 C. B. 714 ; 3 C. L. R. 397 ; 24 L. J. C. P. 86 ; 24 L. T. O. S. 259 ; 139 E. R. 606.

7696. ———.]—A shareholder in a cost-book mining co. filed his bill against the managing committee & against a creditor of the co., to restrain an action at law brought against him by the creditor at the instigation of the managing committee. The bill also asked for an account as to the amount of pltf.'s liability to the co. The ct. granted an injunction to restrain the action by the creditor, but dismissed the bill as against the managing committee, on the ground that as the co. was a simple partnership, formed under no Act of Parliament, it was necessary, in order to have an account, that all the members should be made parties to the bill.—SIRLEY v. MINTON (1857), 27 L. J. Ch. 53 ; 5 W. R. 575.

Annotation :—Refd. Escott v. Gray (1878), 47 L. J. Q. B. 606.

7697. ——— Resembles joint-stock company—Effect of entry of new partner.]—In an action against an individual shareholder for coals sold & delivered to a cost-book mining co. there was general evidence that coals had been delivered :—Held : the monthly cost sheets sent in by pltf. to the purser of the mine, & by him laid before the managing committee & passed by them, were evidence, as against deft., of the quality & value of the coals so delivered.

The last new shareholder joined the co. in 1865, & in 1866 the purser made payments to pltf. for coals :—Held : pltf. had a right to appropriate these payments to the items in his account anterior to 1866.

A partnership to carry on a mine on the cost-book principle is in the nature of a joint-stock co. ; it has been recognised to be such by various decisions & Acts of Parliament & it is not a new partnership on the entry of a new member who merely comes in the place of an old one & puts his money into the common fund to be employed in the ordinary course of business. . . . The intent of those who enter such an assocn. is that the money should go into the common fund to be applied in the ordinary course & that old debts should be paid (MONTAGUE SMITH, J.).—*GEAKE v. n. Directors' fees.]—A Mining Co., conducted upon the cost-book principle, the cost-book rules contained no proviso entitling the directors to fees or payments ; but they from time to time retained sums as remuneration for their personal services. At a general meeting of the co., accounts were submitted & passed. These accounts, under the head of “Cost & merchants' bills,” included the amounts so retained by the directors. They were specifically entered in the cost-book of the co., & could have been discovered by any shareholder on reference to such book :—Held : the directors had no right to retain such sums in the absence of a special rule entitling them to remuneration ; & that they were bound to repay same on the application of the official manager.—Re KNOCKATRILLANE COPPER MINING Co., Ex p. KINSALE (LORD) (1857), 10 Ir. Jur. 216.—IR.

30,000 shares of £1 each, to be conducted upon the cost-book principle. The directors passed rules, by one of which the co. was to be considered as constituted, & the directors to be at liberty to commence business so soon as one-third of the shares should have been subscribed; & by another, that no person should be recognised as an adventurer in or entitled to any benefit from the co. until he should have signed the rules, & be duly registered in the cost-book as an adventurer. H. having seen the prospectus, but not the rules, applied verbally & paid for & received certificates of shares in the co. The certificates stated that the shares were to be held subject to the rules of the co. The co. failed. H., a year after he received the certificates, brought an action to recover his money, & the action was compromised:—Held: (1) the certificates were notice of the rules; & although H., assuming him not to have had previous notice, would have been allowed, perhaps, a reasonable locus poenitentiae to return the certificates, still, having retained them, & not having brought his action for a year, he must be taken to have acquiesced in & be bound by the rules; (2) although H. had not signed the rules, still, having applied & paid for & accepted the certificates of shares, he had authorised the co. to register his name in the cost-book without his signing the rules; the contract was complete, & he was a “contributory”; (3) rules peculiar to the cost-book system must be proved.—Re GREAT CAMBRIAN MINING & QUARRYING CO., HAWKINS’ CASE (1856), 2 K. & J. 253; 25 L. The scrip certificates of allotment were then sent to him, “to be held subject to the rules of the co.” The rules & regulations of the co. were not entered up in their books till after R. received the scrip certificates. From his receipt of the certificates, until May, 1855, when an order was made for winding up the co., R. neither signed any books, rules or regulations, nor received any notice of the proceedings of the co.:—Held: (1) R. was a contributory; (2) where a party agreed to take shares in a proposed co., & accepted & paid for them & then received the scrip certificates of allotment, he did, in fact, authorise the co. to sign their books on his behalf; (3) where a party has applied for shares in a co. on the faith of a particular prospectus, & there was afterwards any substantial variation in or departure from that original prospectus or scheme of the co., the party so applying for shares was discharged from any further liability in respect of his application; (4) the ct. could not take judicial notice of the cost-book principle.—Re GREAT CAMBRIAN MINING & QUARRYING CO., RICHARDSON’S CASE (1856), 27 L. 7705. Salary due to purser—& money incurred in working mine.—WEEKES v. SNELL (1854), 23 L. T. O. S. 224, N. P.

7706. Calls in arrears—Right of shareholders to empower purser to sue for.—Shareholders in a cost-book mining co. cannot, by agreement amongst themselves “that calls in arrear shall be considered to be debts due from defaulting shareholders to the purser,” empower him to recover such calls from such shareholders in an action at law.—*HYBART v. 7707. — Action by creditor—Collusive action by company to enforce call.—A creditor of a cost-book mining co. will not be allowed to bring an action against a shareholder of the co. for the purpose of enforcing a call, & therefore if the action be not really an action by the creditor, but a collusive action by the co., it will be stayed.—ESCOTT v. GRAY (1878), 47 L. J. Q. B. 606; 39 L. T. 121, D. C.

7708. — Judgment against shareholder—Right of purser to present bankruptcy petition.—By Stannaries Act, 1869 (c. 19), s. 2, the term purser means the purser for the time being of a co., & if there is no purser then the secretary for the time being.

The secretary of a cost-book mining co., having recovered a judgment against a shareholder for unpaid calls under sect. 13 of above Act, presented a petition in bkpey. in his own name against the judgment debtor, stating that he petitioned “as secretary for & on behalf of all the shareholders” in the co.:—Held: he was not entitled to petition, but the co. must be the petitioning creditors.—*Re NANCE, Ex p. 7709. Money lent to company for carrying on mine—Money paid to threatening creditors of company.—The manager & principal director of a mining co., under the authority of a minute at a general meeting, provided the money for carrying on a mine of the co., & other purposes of the co., until these sums reached nearly £5,000, when he stopped, & presented this petition. He had procured the money for the above purpose on his own acceptance, some of which he had also given to creditors of the co., who had threatened to sue the co., & were now threatening him upon his separate acceptance:—Held: that such acceptance being bonâ fide given, & the proceeds applied for the purposes of the co., entitled petitioner to sue for contribution. Although the petitioner might have had the same remedy by bill, the ct. would, in the exercise of its discretion, make an order on petition under the Winding-up Acts, although presented by only a single shareholder. The costs of the winding-up order, although such order be made accordingly to the prayer of the petition, may ultimately be thrown on petitioner.—*Re COURT GRANGE SILVER-LEAD MINING CO., Ex p. B. Liability to Third Parties.

7710. General rule.—(1) Where a mining co. was formed, the capital to be £30,000 in 3,000 shares of £10 each; & 2,000 shares only were actually subscribed for, of which deft. took 100 :—Held : letters subsequently written by deft. to the directors, requiring them to call a meeting for the purpose of changing a director, were evidence to go to the jury to show that he authorised the directors to proceed in the management of the concern with the smaller amount of capital, so as to render him liable for the price of articles supplied for the use of the mines, on the order of the directors.

(2) The members of a mining co. have authority by law, in the absence of any proof of more limited authority, to bind each other on dealings of credit, for the purpose of working the mines, if that appear to be necessary or usual in the management of mines.—*TREDWEN v. 7711. Effect of statement in prospectus—That company should not deal on credit.—Necessary goods were furnished, according to the usual course in such concerns, to the order of an agent of directors, appointed to carry on a scrip mine, in Cornwall, for the benefit of shareholders :—Held : a shareholder who had paid sums of money towards & interfered in working the mine, was a complete partner with the directors, & liable for the goods supplied, & an agreement made by him with the directors, that they should not deal on credit, of which the party who supplied the goods knew nothing, did not exempt him from such liability.—*HAWKEN v. A. in writing, & in conversation, acknowledges himself to be a shareholder & receives money from B. as treasurer, on account of supposed profits, but no deed is executed, nor is there an assignment of any interest in the mine from the lessee thereof :—Held : A. is not liable for supplies furnished the mine, unless furnished on his credit.—*VICE v. The deed by which the co. was formed, was dated Nov. 1, 1833, & it provided, that the directors should have the power of creating & issuing new shares from time to time, & that the shares should be assignable. Bills of exchange having been drawn on the co. by their agent in America, which they required funds to meet, an agreement, dated Dec. 24, 1835, was entered into by three of the directors with pltf. for borrowing the sum of £5,800 from them, which sum was accordingly advanced by pltf. In an action by them against certain of the shareholders, of whom A. was one, to recover the sum so advanced :—Held : the fact of A. having, on Dec. 17, 1835, attended a special general meeting of the co., at which resolutions were passed relating to the sale of certain of the co.'s mines, in order to provide for the payment of the bills, was sufficient evidence to go to the jury, to fix him with liability as a shareholder, though A. did not sign the deed, nor was he proved to be the proprietor of any shares, or to have attended any other meeting, or to have done any other act in connexion with the co.—*HARRISON v. Deft. never did in terms declare his option to accept the shares; but he went down the mine, made inquiries, & obtained reports as to the condition & prospects of the mine, & as to the cost of an engine to be used there, & on one occasion assisted in paying the miners' wages; he also permitted the captain of the mine, without contradiction, to represent him as a capitalist from London who had a large interest in the mine, & intended to work it vigorously.

In an action by a person who had supplied goods to the mine upon the faith of representation by the captain that the mine was being worked by a person of substance whose name he was not authorised to give:—Held: the above was evidence from which the jury were warranted in inferring that deft. was a partner, although his name was never mentioned, personal identification being sufficient.—MARTYN v. 7723. ——— Verbal transfer—Notice of transfer given to other shareholders.—In an action by a creditor for goods supplied to a mine, conducted upon the cost-book principle against deft. as a shareholder, it appeared that the goods had been ordered by the superintendent after deft. had verbally agreed to transfer his shares to another partner, & had withdrawn from the partnership, into which he had originally entered by verbal agreement only. The judge told the jury, that if before the goods were ordered deft. had agreed by word of mouth to transfer his shares to another shareholder, who had agreed to take them, or if he had given notice to the rest of the shareholders that he relinquished his shares to them, they had no longer any authority to pledge his credit:—Held: no misdirection.—NORTHEY v. settlement of an unincorporated mining co., the capital of the co. was to be £50,000, & it was provided that the affairs & business of the co. should be under the sole & entire control of the directors. The deed empowered the directors, if they thought it desirable, to create new shares by vote at a special general meeting. A. In General.

7732. Not within Mortmain Acts.]—Mines being vested in trustees for the purposes of the undertaking generally, & not in trust for individual shareholders, & the interest of these latter being limited to the profits derived from working these mines:—Held: the shares in a co. for working such mines conducted on the cost-book principle were not within Statute of Mortmain, 1736 (c. 36).—*HAYTER v. B. Allotment.

7733. Right of allottee to recover price—All shares not subscribed for.]—There is nothing in the cost-book principle which deprives allottees of shares in a mining co. formed under the cost-book system of their right, as in other cos., to recover back the money paid for shares in cases, where the whole of the shares have not been subscribed for.

Defts., being directors of a mining co. conducted on the cost-book principle, issued a prospectus stating the capital as £12,000, divided into 12,000 shares. Pltf. applied for shares, had fifty allotted to him, & paid £50 upon them to L. & Co., the bankers of the co. Only 1,435 shares were subscribed for, & the mine & effects thereat were shortly afterwards sold, & the concern abandoned. The banking account with L. & Co. was kept in the names of five of defts. The prospectus described L. & Co. as the bankers of the co., as also did the cost-book rules, by which all payments were directed to be made to them. Pltf. having brought his action to recover back the money he had so paid for shares as for money had & received to his use:—Held: he was entitled to recover, & the prospectus & cost-book rules & regulations were evidence against defts. that “money for shares might be properly paid to the bankers named in the prospectus & in the rules & regulations as the agents of the directors.”—JOHNSON v. GOSLETT (1857), 3 C. B. N. S. 569; 27 L. J. C. P. 122; 31 L. T. O. S. 35; 4 Jur. N. S. 50; 6 W. R. 127; 140 E. R. 863, Ex. Ch.; affg. (1856), 18 C. B. 728.

7734. Right of allottee to recover deposit—Misrepresentation in prospectus—That lease of mine obtained.]—It is no defence to a bill seeking the return of a deposit on mining shares, accepted on the faith of a lease mentioned in the prospectus, but which proved never to have been obtained, to say that such cos. in Cornwall are understood to be on the cost-book system & that according to that system a share means only a share in such interest as the promoter may acquire.—*CHESTER v. 7735. Right of member to recover purchase-price—Misrepresentation.]—The prospectus of a cost-book co. stated that if adequate capital was not subscribed, all moneys received for shares would be returned. Adequate capital was not in fact subscribed. Pltf. lent £500 upon the security of shares, & bought others, & on the face of all the certificates it was stated that the deposit was paid. Bill to recover back the moneys so lent & paid by pltf. dismissed.—ROBSON v. DEVON (EARL) (1857), 30 L. T. O. S. 225; 4 Jur. N. S. 245; 6 W. R. 203, L. C. & L. JJ.

C. Contract for Sale of Shares.

7736. Whether sale of interest in land—Within Statute of Frauds, s. 4.]—A contract to sell shares in a mining co. conducted on the cost-book principle, such shares being “shares of & in the engines, tools, etc., together with all dividends & advantages to be derived therefrom,” is not a contract or sale of any interest in land within the above sect., & therefore requires no memorandum in writing to bind the party.—WATSON v. SPRATLEY (1854), 10 Exch. 222; 2 C. L. R. 1434; 24 L. J. Ex. 53; 24 L. T. O. S. 79; 2 W. R. 627; 156 E. R. 424.

from his name to that of the transferee, subject to the rules, but leaving a blank for the name of the transferee, to be filled up by the holder of the document, which also contained at the foot an agreement on the part of the transferee to accept the shares subject to the rules, with a blank also left for the name of the party so agreeing. Deft. did not cause the shares to be registered in his name; & pltf. in consequence of his name being continued in the cost-book as the owner, was compelled to pay some subsequent calls:—Held: (1) there was no legal obligation on deft. to cause the shares to be registered in his name as the owner; (2) there was an implied obligation on him to indemnify pltf. against calls made during the time when he was virtually & potentially the owner of the shares; (3) a transfer of shares in a cost-book mine need not be stamped; (4) a contract for the sale of shares in a cost-book mine is not necessarily a contract for an interest in land, within the above sect.—*WALKER v. The inability of a pltf. to restore certain shares which have been forfeited for non-payment of calls since his bill was filed, does not deprive him of his right to have the sale of such shares & others to himself set aside.

The form was printed & contained a notice that no transfer was valid or complete unless entered in the cost-book & acknowledged by the purser. 7757. — After call made—But before payment of call.]—(1) By a rule of a joint-stock co., carried on on the cost-book principle, it was provided, that a shareholder might relinquish his shares, provided he should have paid his proportion of the costs & liabilities then incurred by the co., & thereupon such shareholder should cease to be affected by any liability, & become entitled to his share of the then assets of the co.

On Jan. 2 a call was made on the shareholders, payable on Jan. 28. E. on Jan. 27 gave notice of relinquishment of his shares without paying the call:—Held: he was at liberty to do so.

(2) If the calls were not paid within twenty-eight days after notice, the shares were to be forfeited. E. not having paid the call on the shares relinquished, & the forfeiture having been subsequently confirmed by the co.:—Held: he ought not to be put upon the list of contributories in respect of those relinquished shares.—Re MIXON COPPER MINING CO., EDWARDS' CASE (1860), 1 L. 7758. Right of relinquishing member—To share of assets.]—A shareholder in a Cornish mine worked on the cost-book system, relinquished his shares in July, 1868, & paid his share of the expenses up to his retirement. In Aug. 1869, an order for winding up the co. was made, & the retired shareholder claimed to prove as a creditor for the value of his share of the stock & plant. The assets were insufficient to pay the creditors of the mine. It having been found by a jury that, according to the custom of Cornwall, an adventurer in a cost-book mine, upon relinquishing his shares & discharging his proportion of the liabilities of the co. at that date, is entitled to be paid his share of the then value of the stock & plant, & that such share is due to him immediately, & payable within two years, the proof was admitted.—Re PROSPER UNITED MINING CO., Ex p. PALMER (1872), 7 Ch. App. 286; 26 L. T. 374; 20 W. R. 323, L. J.J.

7759. ——— Mode of valuation.]—In a co. formed on the cost-book system the practice had been for a shareholder to be at liberty to retire on the terms that if the co. was solvent he received from the co. a sum of money equal to his ratable proportion of the excess of the assets above the liabilities, but if the co. was insolvent he paid to the co. his ratable proportion of the excess of the liabilities above the assets. In every case in which a shareholder had retired when the liabilities were in excess of the assets the purser in calculating the value of the assets had entered all the arrears of calls as good debts, & the shareholder retired on paying only his proportionate part of the excess of the liabilities over the assets according to the number of shares, without regard to the solvency or insolvency of the other shareholders. C. gave notice to retire in Nov. 1879, but no account was made out showing what he was to pay. In Mar. 1880, an order was made to wind up the co. The liquidator, in 1882, made out an account showing what C. was to pay, & in estimating the assets omitted all arrears of calls owing by insolvent shareholders, & then calculated C.'s contribution by dividing the excess of liabilities over assets ratably among C. & the other solvent shareholders:—Held: (1) the fact that on all previous occasions the assets had been reckoned without any allowance for the insolvency of persons owing arrears of calls, & the contribution of the retiring shareholder ascertained without reference to the insolvency of any of the continuing shareholders, was not sufficient evidence of an agreement among the shareholders that the contribution of a retiring shareholder should be calculated on that footing; (2) The course of practice followed by an officer of a co. was not so strong evidence of an agreement sanctioning that practice as a course of practice in an ordinary partnership of few members; (3) C. was entitled to have the assets of the co. valued on the footing of its being a going concern, which it was when he gave notice of retirement, & the solvency of the persons who owed calls, & of the continuing shareholders, must be taken as matters stood at the date of the notice of retirement, & not at the time when the account was made out.—Re FRANK MILLS MINING CO. (1883), 23 Ch. F. Forfeiture.

7760. For non-payment of calls—Validity.]—In mines worked on the cost-book system there is no custom to forfeit shares for non-payment of calls, without special stipulation.

A., B. & C. joined in a mining adventure on the cost-book principle, as recognised in Devonshire & Cornwall. A. fell into arrear with his calls. Notice was given him of a meeting to declare his shares forfeited. The meeting was held, but instead of his shares being declared forfeited, a resolution was passed granting him an extension of time, "such extended time to cease on," etc.

No payment was made & no further notice was given; but a fortnight after the extended time had expired the shares were declared forfeited:—Held: such declaration of forfeiture was invalid.—*CLARKE & CHAPMAN v. 7762. ——— Action to set aside forfeiture—Laches.]—At a meeting of the partners in a cost-book mine held in 1874, it was stated that the mine was £2,003 in debt, & a call of £25 was made upon each of the six shares in the mine. Two of the partners did not pay this call, & were in arrear for other calls. At subsequent meetings in June, 1874, the shares of these partners were declared to be forfeited. These two partners took no steps as to the mine until July, 1879, when they made a claim, & in Sept. 1880, they brought an action, alleging that the shares had not been regularly forfeited, & claiming to be still partners. It appeared that the mine was in debt in 1878:—Held: even assuming the shares not to have been regularly forfeited, plffs., under the circumstances, could not, after lying-by for more than six years, successfully assert their claim to be partners.—*RULE v. 7764. ——— Rights of—Recovery of money lent for purpose of mine—Release.]—Pltf. A., the purser of a mine, in order to carry it on, raised money by the deposit of a promissory note, made in his favour by seven of the shareholders, & which two other shareholders had refused to sign, & applied the money so raised in paying the workmen. At a subsequent meeting of the shareholders & creditors, an assignment of the mine, in order to sell it, & pay the debts, was resolved upon, & A. then claimed to be admitted as a creditor for money which he had raised on a note of hand to pay the workmen. A deed of assignment was accordingly executed, to which all the adventurers were parties of the first part, & the several persons whose names were thereunto subscribed, as creditors of the adventurers, for supplies to & debts incurred by them in respect of the same mine, to the amounts set opposite their respective names, of the second part. The deed, after reciting that the shareholders had in the prosecution of the mine incurred debts thereon with the persons parties thereto of the second part, contained a conveyance in trust for those creditors, & a provision that no action should be brought by any of the persons parties thereto of the second part, against any of the persons parties thereto of the first part, for the recovery of any debts due or owing upon the mine, or in anywise relative thereto; & that if any such action was brought, the deed might be pleaded as a release. A. executed the deed, the amount of the note & interest thereon being placed against his name. To an action brought by A. upon the note against the seven persons who signed it, they pleaded the deed as a release, averring that A. signed it as a creditor of the parties thereto of the first part, in respect of the causes of action in the declaration mentioned, which allegation was traversed by the replication:—Held: A. must be held to have signed the deed in respect of his claim for the advance of the money raised upon the note, & applied for the use of the mine, & not in respect of his claim upon the note itself, which therefore was not released, & consequently the plea was not proved.—*LANYON v. SUB-SECT. 5.—LEGAL PROCEEDINGS BY AND AGAINST COST-BOOK COMPANIES.

7770. Action against co-partners—Parties.]—The bill alleged, that M. being entitled to a mining lease, divided it into a hundred shares, of which pltf. became entitled to two, & other parties to nineteen shares; that M., with the concurrence of the other parties, to whom he had accounted, but unknown to pltf., sold & conveyed the mining lease to A., B., & C., for forming a new co., & in trust for new shareholders, & that he received the consideration paid by A., B., & C., one half in money, & the other half in shares in the new adventure, & which shares were transferable by the delivery of the certificates. The bill stated, that M. still possessed shares & certificates, & insisted that pltf. had a right either to adopt or reject the contract with A., B., & C., & either to receive his share of the consideration paid, or to have his original two-hundredths made good, out of the interest then possessed by M. in the new adventure. On demurrer:—Held: A., B., & C., & the other shareholders, were not necessary parties; but the bill might be sustained against M. alone.—MARE v. MALACHY (1836), 1 My. & Cr. 559; 5 L. J. The bkpt.'s shares were disposed of accordingly, the assignee & the old shareholders having agreed to take some of them; H. & T. to take another jointly; & certain other persons, the remainder. Afterwards it was agreed that the shares in the mine should be altered to 54th shares. The decree was then obtained, & the mine sold & re-purchased as had been arranged. H. & T. then agreed to sever their share. The creditors having discovered the circumstances under which the bkpt.'s shares had been disposed of, the assignee was removed, & pltf. appointed in his place. Pltf. filed a bill against H. alone, alleging that H. & all the other shareholders had notice of the circumstances before mentioned, & praying that H. might transfer her share to him, & account for & pay to him the profits thereof, & that a receiver might be appointed of the profits of the mine:—Held: "the profits of the mine" must be taken to mean the profits of the share sought to be recovered; & none of the other shareholders were necessary parties to the bill.—*TURNER v. 7782. Inability to pay debts.]—Two mining cos. agreed to amalgamate upon certain terms, one of which was, that one co. should pay to the other £1,600, & should also provide working materials of the value of £1,600 for the mines of the other. This agreement was afterwards modified by a new agreement, which provided for the security by promissory notes of the debts due from one co. to the other. These promissory notes were not given, & there was a conflict of evidence as to whether the debt from one co. to the other was ever in fact paid; but the amalgamated co. carried on business & made calls, which were partly paid. No profits were obtained from the mines, & at a meeting in Sept. it was proposed that the co. should be wound up. This was approved by the majority of shareholders present, but negatived on the votes being taken, because one of the dissentients voted in respect of about 17,000 shares. The co. then ceased to carry on business, & actions were brought against some of the directors in respect of the co.'s debts. Of these actions due notice was given to the co., but they did not provide for them in any way. The landlord of one of the mines had also proceeded to recover the rent. On a petition for a winding-up order being presented:—Held: these circumstances brought the case within the winding up Acts; & the order was made accordingly.—Re PENNANT & CRAIGWEN CONSOLIDATED LEAD MINING Co. (1851), 18 L. The secretary of a co. signed the books for some shares, & admitted the receipt or control of scrip certificates for others on account of a third party. The secretary alleged that he had not signed the books in respect of the certificates: & that, although the other party had signed the books of the co. for his shares, he had never received any of them:—Held: there was a contract between the secretary & the co., & under the circumstances of the case, the secretary was liable as a contributory in respect of some of the shares for which he had signed the books, & for the amount of shares represented by the scrip certificates so received by him.—*Re GREAT CAMBRIAN MINING & QUARRYING Co., Ex p. 7787. Transferee—Under void transfer.]—In 1851, the co. had called up & expended all the capital contemplated by the deed, viz. £10 per share. The co. had been established in 1849, professedly on the cost-book principle, with monthly meetings, three directors, one to retire annually, & no new member to be admitted until approved by a board of directors. After 1851 no new directors were appointed. In Mar. 1852, the co. being indebted to S., one of the shareholders, in about £1,000, a meeting was called & held some time in spring or summer of that year, at which all the adventurers attended. It was then resolved that the whole authority of the board of directors should be handed over to the secretary, to be exercised under the supervision of S. alone, who was to furnish all moneys necessary to work the mine, to try & redeem what had been already lost. Previously to this meeting, viz. in 1851, P. one of the shareholders, being indebted to De C. placed in deposit with him ten shares as a security. After the meeting, P., without informing De C. of the change of circumstances in the co., offered to relinquish the ten shares to De C. in part payment. In Dec. 1852, De C. having put inquiries to the secretary, which were satisfactorily answered, agreed in writing to take these shares on the same terms as P. held them. In Apr. 1853, De C. endeavoured to sell the shares in question to other parties, & with that view applied to be admitted on the register as a transferee. This was at first refused, but ultimately assented to, but no such registration ever took place. The next meeting of the co. did not take place till 1854, when it appeared that the loss for which the co. was liable to S. amounted by this time to nearly £5,000. In 1856 S. alone presented his petition to have the co. wound up, on which an order was made accordingly:—Held: De C. was not liable to be placed on the list of contributories.—*Re COURT GRANGE SILVER MINING CO., Ex p. An order having been subsequently made for winding up the commr. placed B.'s name on the list of contributories:—Held: B.'s name ought never to have been on the register of shareholders, & ought to be removed from it under the power given by 1866 Act, s. 25, of amending the register, & it ought also to be removed from the list of contributories.

7796. For what amount.—A mining co. was formed upon the cost-book principle. In Dec. 1865, calls were made on the shareholders, which H. & J., two of the shareholders, failed to pay. In Feb. 1866, G. who was a creditor of the co. for a considerable sum, at the instigation of the co. commenced an action against H. for the debt due by the co. The co. were desirous by means of this action to compel H. to pay his calls. When the action came on for trial, & a jury had been sworn, it was arranged that a verdict should be found against H. for the amount of calls due from him & costs, & this having been done, judgment was entered up against H. for the amount of the verdict. In May, 1866, G., at the instigation of the co., brought a similar action against J. The sum claimed in this action included a part of the debt claimed in the action against H. as well as a debt subsequently incurred by the co. At the trial of this second action the jury found a verdict for pltf. for a sum which was afterwards raised by the ct. to £787. Before judgment could be entered up J. petitioned to wind up the co., & a winding-up order was made, & also an order to stay proceedings in the action by G. against J. After the action against J. various sums were paid by the co. to G. These sums exceeded the £787, but the evidence showed that the intention of the co. in paying them was to apply them in discharge of the debt due to G. before the action against H. On the footing of such an appropriation a balance remained due from the co. to G., & he carried in a claim in the winding up for that balance:—Held: the claim was properly admitted, the co. having a right to attribute the payments made by them to H. to the earlier debt.—*Re WHEAL LUDCOTT & WREY CONSOLS MINES CO., Ex p. 7798. To order inspection of company's books & documents—Winding-up petition pending—Nature of shareholder's right of inspection.—The practice of the Stannaries Ct. is the same as that of the High Ct. of Justice, that the mere fact of a winding-up petition is not enough to justify an order for inspection of books. But if grounds are shown, the petition may properly be ordered to stand over to allow the petitioner to enforce his right as a shareholder to inspection. The right of inspection under the Stannaries Act, 1855 (c. 32), s. 22, is personal to the shareholder & does not extend to his solrs. or agents.—Re WEST DEVON GREAT CONSOLS MINE (1884), 27 Ch. A. Courts exercising Jurisdiction.

See, now, 1908 Act, s. 131 (4).

7802. "Company"—Partnership of two persons.—A partnership of two persons formed to work metalliferous mines in Cornwall is a "co." within the meaning of that term in the Stannaries Act, 1887 (c. 43), ss. 2, 28, & is by Partnership Act, 1890 (c. 39), s. 1 (2), excluded from the provisions of that Act; & by Stannaries Ct. Where, therefore, & co. was formed to purchase mines in "Cornwall or elsewhere in England," & contracted to purchase a right to have a lease of a mine in Cornwall, but never acquired the lease or began to work the mine:—Held: the High Ct. of Ch. had jurisdiction to make a winding-up order.—Re SILVER VALLEY MINES (1881), 18 Ch. What is company formed for public purposes.—The Crystal Palace Co., originally incorporated by a deed of settlement in 1852, was to acquire the Great Exhibition building in Hyde Park, & remove & erect the same on land purchased for the purpose at Sydenham. The objects & business of the co. were, inter alia, the advancement of the arts & sciences, & the cultivation of a refined taste among all classes of the community. Subsequently the co. was registered under Cos. Acts & issued debentures:—Held: the co. was not a co. formed for public purposes.—SAUNDERS v. BEVAN (1912), 107 L. T. 70; 28 T. L. R. 518; 56 Sol. Deft. excepted to the declaration as being bad on various grounds, & called in question, if not the existence of the co., at least the existence of any subscription list & the authority of the co. to take the steps taken by them to carry into effect the objects of their charter:—Held: in such a case when the legislature passes an Act to control & regulate such a co. it is generally beyond the province of the cts. to deny to the statutory provisions their plain effect merely on the ground that these do not seem reconcilable with either public or private claims, & it was impossible to hold the present corpn. at an end for non-user & they were entitled to an extended time to finish the construction of their roads & the stock subscribed therefore was not extinguished for non-user.—CITY OF TORONTO & LAKE HURON RY. CO. v. CROOKSHANK (1847), 4 U. C. R. 309.—CAN.

The order was accordingly made, & the bills were taxed; but before the taxing master had issued his certificate of taxation a petition was presented, & an order was made for the winding up of the co., & thereupon the directors moved for an injunction to restrain the parliamentary agents from taking any proceedings against them:—Held: the submission to pay was a personal undertaking, & the injunction was refused without costs, as they might get reimbursed by applying under the order for winding up for payment of the sum so paid as a debt paid for the co.—Re SUDLOW & KINGDOM (1850), 12 Beav. 527; 16 L. LONDON, WORCESTER & SOUTH WALES RY. Co.* (1867), 17 L. T. 68.

7824. Agreement by company to pay on capital being raised—Issue of part only of authorised capital.]—A co. was being promoted for the building of a railway, & for the purchase, in connection therewith, of a certain canal. The promoters & a firm of solrs. came to an agreement, afterwards adopted by the co., by which the solrs. consented to give their services gratis in the event of the application to Parliament failing, or the capital not being raised, but in the event of these two conditions being fulfilled, they were to be paid the customary professional charges for work done. An Act of Parliament was obtained incorporating the co., & providing for the transfer to it of the canal, & authorising the construction of the railway. The capital was not to exceed £8,000,000, & the co. was authorised to resolve that the canal undertaking & capital necessary for it should be a separate undertaking with a separate capital. This course was adopted by the co., & the canal capital fixed at £1,250,000. This amount was raised, but the rest of the capital of the co. was not raised. In an action by the solrs. to recover the customary professional charges, for work done by them:—Held: the raising of the canal capital was not a raising of "the capital," & the conditions of the contract made between the promoters & the solrs. not having been fulfilled, the solrs. were not entitled to succeed in the action.—*NICHOLS v. By 1845 Act, s. 65, the money raised by the co. was to be applied first in payment of such costs:—Held: (1) Stat. Limitations did not run against creditors in respect of such costs until the co. had assets to meet the claims; (2) the remedy given by the special Act was in addition to, & not in substitution for the right given by 1845 Act to payment out of the assets of the co.—Re KENSINGTON STATION ACT (1875), L. 7830. Not acting directly for company.]—The special Act incorporating a tramway co. provided that the costs, charges, & expenses of & incident to the preparing, applying for, obtaining & passing of the Act should be paid by the co. The Act was obtained by a parliamentary agent, who was employed by S., a person who had taken an active part in the promotion of the co., but who was not mentioned in the Bill or in the Act, & who never became a member of the co. After the co. was incorporated the parliamentary agent, either of his own accord or upon instructions from S., procured for the tramway co. another Act, which contained a similar provision as to the payment of the costs, charges & expenses of obtaining it. The seal of the co. was affixed to the petition for this second Act, but without authority. The co. never had any board of directors or body of shareholders capable of entering into a binding contract or of exercising any of the statutory powers, & it was ordered to be wound up shortly after the passing of the second Act:—Held: the parliamentary agent was not entitled to prove against the co. in the winding up in respect of the costs, charges, & expenses of either of the Acts.

Those persons only who do work directly for a co. in process of formation, without being employed by any one else for hire or reward, are entitled to look to the co. when formed, for payment of the costs & expenses of the work of which the co. had got the benefit, & those persons who are employed by any one else to do the work for hire or reward must look to the person who employed them.—*Re SKEGNESS & ST. 7831. ——— Party agreeing with promoters to pay all costs of obtaining Act.]—A clause in a private Act of Parliament, in terms imposing a duty not relating to the public interest, does not invalidate a previous agreement not to exact its performance, made in view of the passing of the Act by the person to whom the duty would otherwise, by the terms of the Act, be due, with the persons subjected to it, or with other persons on their behalf.

Pltf. had agreed with the promoters of a railway Bill, to bear the costs of obtaining & passing it. The Bill was passed, & contained the usual clause, directing payment by the co. of the costs of obtaining & passing it. To an action for his costs, the co. pleaded, equitably, the previous agreement:—Held: a good plea.—SAVIN v. HOYLAKE RY. CO. (1865), L. R. 1 Exch. 9; 4 H. & C. 67; 35 L. J. Ex. 52; 13 L. 7832. ——— Promoter promising subscribers that no liability should be incurred.]—A solr. who was promoting a railway co. induced various persons to sign the subscription contract, by an assurance that they should incur no liability if the line was not made. Some of these persons were provisional directors. The Act was obtained, & contained the usual clause that the preliminary expenses should be paid by the co. The line was not made. The undertaking was abandoned, & the co. ordered to be wound up. The solr. carried in a claim as creditor for professional services in obtaining the passing of the Act. This claim was opposed by some of the contributories, on the ground of the above assurances:—Held: the solr. was entitled to prove, for that the assurances made by him could only operate as a contract to indemnify the individuals to whom they were made, & did not exonerate the co. in its corporate capacity.—*Re BRAMPTON & LONGTOWN RY. An Act of Parliament was obtained authorising the construction of two only, the other four being abandoned, & the special Act provided that the expenses, costs & charges of obtaining & passing the Act, & incidental & preparatory thereto, should be paid by the co.:—Held: the costs incurred in relation to the abandoned railways were to be regarded as costs incidental & preparatory to the obtaining of the Act, & were properly payable by the incorporated co.—Re TILLEARD (1863), 3 De G. 7834. ——— Promise to pay money—On withdrawal of landowner's opposition.]—Pltf., whose land was affected by a Bill in Parliament for a railway & canal undertaking promoted by deft. co. in 1883, agreed to withdraw his opposition on an undertaking being signed by their solrs. that his costs should be paid out of the first capital raised by the co. & that a protecting clause in his favour should be inserted in the Bill. By the Act obtained by them in 1882, defts. were authorised to raise the capital for the railway & canal undertaking, & were further empowered to take steps for making the canal undertaking a separate undertaking with separate capital. In 1883 they obtained an Act authorising them to raise separate capital for the canal co., in which the protecting clause to pltf. was inserted. Out of the whole amount of the capital raised for the canal undertaking only one-fifth had been obtained before the passing of the Act of 1883:—Held: as there had been a surplus capital which, when raised, had not been appropriated to the canal co., the directors, after paying the expenses properly applicable to canal purposes, could use such surplus in any other way not contrary to the Act, including the payment of pltf.'s costs, & though the undertaking given by the solrs. would not have bound them, whether there had or had not been any money which could have been applied to the payment of such costs, it was under the circumstances, binding on them, but the action could not be maintained against the co. as the undertaking had not been a contract by them.—*ALLAN v. After the passing of the Act the directors of the co., when formed, ratified the contract, but having doubts whether, under the Lands Clauses Act, 1845 (c. 18), the landowner was entitled to the money personally, they covenanted by deed to pay interest upon the amount, which was to be retained by the co. or paid into ct. A separate agreement stipulated for the quantity of land to be taken for the railway, & the amount to be paid by the co.:—Held: the original contract & the contract by the directors after the formation of the co. to pay a sum of money for countenance & support previously given in procuring the Act, were ultra vires of the co., & could not be enforced against the co. as payment of expenses of obtaining the Act, under 1845 Act, s. 65, or otherwise.

The doctrine laid down in *Edwards v. Notices—Advertisement of—No evidence that newspaper circulated in district of company’s principal place of business—Validity of meeting of which notice advertised in such newspaper.]—Debt for calls. Plea, that the call was not made by any persons having authority on behalf of the co. to make it. By Swansea Dock Act, 1847 (c. cxxiii.), certain persons were named as directors, who subsequently resolved that the principal place of business should be Swansea. On Oct. 5, at a meeting of some of the directors held in London, it having been then resolved to call an extraordinary general meeting of the co. to be held in London on Oct. 20, a notice was, on Oct. 5, inserted in the Sun newspaper, published & circulated in London on that day, & subsequently published in other newspapers, calling a meeting of the co. in London on Oct. 20. At the meeting held on Oct. 20, the directors appointed in July were discharged, others being appointed. By 1845 Act, ss. 71 & 138, fourteen days’ notice of all public meetings is to be given by advertisement in a paper circulating in the district of the co.’s principal place of business. There was no evidence to show that the Sun newspaper of Oct. 5 ever reached Swansea. On Oct. 21, 1847, & Jan. 31, 1848, meetings of shareholders were held at Swansea, when the number of directors was reduced to nine, & on Feb. 10, 1848, three of those directors made the call in question:—Held: as it was not proved that the Sun newspaper of Oct. 5 reached Swansea, the notice was bad, & the meeting of Oct. 20, which discharged the directors by whom the call was afterwards made, was invalid, & the call was good.—*SWANSEA DOCK CO. v. —By 1845 Act, s. 135, any writ may be served on a co. by being left at or sent by post to the office of the co., or by being given to the secretary, or, if there is no secretary, to a director. The secretary of a co. sued the co., served the writ on a director, & signed judgment against the co. in default of appearance. The co. had no office:—Held: the service was invalid, & the judgment ought to be set aside.—LAWRENSEN v. DUBLIN METROPOLITAN JUNCTION RY. CO. (1877), 37 L. T. 32, C. A.

SUB-SECT. 1.—INCREASE.

7839. What constitutes—Conversion of stock.]—Under a special Act of Parliament, which contained a recital that it was expedient that certain debenture stock of an incorporated co. where the liability was limited by Act of Parliament, should be converted into first preference stock, the said debenture stock was cancelled, & an amount of first preference stock was created:—Held: this first preference stock was an increase of the nominal share capital of the co. within Customs & Inland Revenue Act, 1889 (c. 7), s. 17, & the co. were bound to deliver a statement of the same to the Commrs. of Inland Revenue, as provided by that sect.—A.-G. v. MILFORD DOCKS CO. (1893), 69 L. T. 453; 57 J. P. 598; 9 T. L. R. 586; 37 Sol. Jo. 652, D. C.

7840. ——— Stock of larger amount—Bearing lower rate of interest.]—By the special Act of a railway co. the existing preference stock of the co. was cancelled & a new preference stock was created, to a larger amount & bearing a smaller dividend, the new stock being allotted so that each holder of the old stock received an amount of the new which gave him an equivalent dividend. The existing ordinary stock was cancelled & a new ordinary stock was created of twice the amount of the old, one half being preferred ordinary, the other half deferred ordinary stock, each holder of the old stock receiving as much of each kind of the new as he held of the old ordinary stock:—Held: in each case the increase so authorised by the Act was “an increase of the amount of the nominal share capital” of the co. within Stamp Act, 1891 (c. 39), s. 113, & the stamp duty imposed by that sect. was payable in respect of it.—*MIDLAND RY. 7841. — Consolidation of stock—Value increased.—By defts.' private Act certain existing stock yielding rates of interest was consolidated & converted into one stock of an increased nominal value yielding a uniform rate of interest; & by sect. 6 (2) the co. was given power to create stock to the value of £437,500 in lieu of stock to the value of £175,000 which the co. had power to create prior to the passing of the Act, & that sub-sect. contained the following proviso: “Except to the extent of the increase in this sub-sect. provided for, nothing in this Act shall be construed as authorising any increase of nominal share capital of the co.”:—Held: notwithstanding the proviso in the sub-sect., there had been an increase in the nominal share capital of the co. within Stamp Act, 1891 (c. 39), s. 113, & stamp duty was payable thereon.—A.-G. v. GAS LIGHT & COKE CO. (1902), 19 T. L. R. 12, C. A.

7842. — Amalgamation of capital.—The G. Ry. Co. was incorporated by an Act of Parliament in 1899 with a capital of £2,400,000, & duly paid the duty thereon under the Stamp Act, 1891 (c. 39). The B. Ry. Co. was incorporated by an Act of 1897 with a capital of £600,000, & duly paid the duty thereon under the Act of 1891. By an Act of 1902 all the powers, rights, privileges, liabilities, & immunities of the G. Ry. Co., were transferred to the B. Ry. Co., & the G. Ry. Co. was dissolved:—Held: by the transfer there was an increase of the amount of nominal share capital of the B. Co. authorised by the Act of 1902 to the extent of £2,400,000, & the duty thereon must be paid by the B. Ry. Co. under Stamp Act, 1891 (c. 39).—*GREAT NORTHERN, PICCADILLY & BROMPTON RY. CO. v. 7843. — Mistake in description—Liability of company & officers.—The L. Ry. Co. had power under its Acts to issue £100,000 preference shares & a large amount of ordinary shares. By an Act passed in 1864, it was amalgamated, together with other cos., with the C. Co., at which time it had issued £85,000 preference shares, which were to rank as No. 1 preference stock, & £60,000 ordinary shares, which were to rank as No. 2 preference stock, & power was reserved by the Act to the C. Co. to raise any capital which any of the amalgamated cos. had power to raise before the amalgamation. The directors under a bonâ fide belief that they had power to raise the remaining £15,000 preference shares of the L. Co., & to make them rank with the £85,000 No. 1 preference stock, issued £150,000 preference stock, & described them in the certificates, which were signed by the directors & the secretary, as “No. 1 preference stock,” & some of this stock was purchased by plts. A scheme was filed in Ch. for arranging the affairs of the C. Co., & it was decided by the ct. that the new stock was not No. 1 preference stock, but ranked below both it & No. 2 preference stock. On a bill being filed by plts., alleging that they had been deceived by the form in which the stock had been issued & the certificates made, & praying that the co., the directors, & secretary might be held responsible for the misrepresentation:—Held: plts. had not been deceived by any misrepresentation of fact, but there had been a common misconception of law.—*EAGLESFIELD v. 7844. Ascertainment of amount of increase—Whether amount authorised or actual amount raised—Stamp Act, 1891 (c. 39), s. 113.—By the Caledonian Ry. Act, 1890 (c. cxxxv.), a holder of the ordinary stock of that railway could require the co. to convert the whole or any part of such stock into preferred converted ordinary stock & deferred converted ordinary stock, & to issue to him an amount of preferred & deferred converted ordinary stock each equal to the amount of ordinary stock so converted. By the Caledonian Ry. Act, 1898 (c. clxxxviii.), the Act of 1890 was made to apply to all the ordinary stock of the co. issued under any past or future Act of Parliament. By the Caledonian Ry. Act, 1899 (c. ccxv.), the co. was authorised to raise £906,000 additional capital by the issue at their option of new ordinary shares or stock, or new preference shares or stock. The railway co. delivered the statement required by the above sect. as to £906,000, but the Crown claimed that as this could, under the co.'s private Acts, be converted into stock or shares of the nominal value of £1,812,000, the latter was the amount of nominal capital authorised, & that stamp duty was payable on that amount:—Held: £1,812,000 was the increased amount of the nominal share capital authorised within the sect., & stamp duty was payable on that basis.—A.-G. v. CALEDONIAN RY. CO. (1911), 105 L. T. 184; 27 T. L. R. 559, C. A.

7845. Effect of—Company authorised to raise capital for separate undertaking—Whether new capital part of original capital—& applicable to original purposes of company.—A railway co. having power under separate Acts of Parliament to make & purchase certain branch railways in connection with their main line were for those purposes respectively authorised to raise the requisite capital by the creation of new stock. Having issued script certificates accordingly, but being about to apply the money subscribed in respect thereof to the prosecution of works on their original line, a holder of such script filed his bill on behalf of himself, & all the other proprietors of such script, against the co. & its directors, praying an injunction to restrain the co. & the directors from employing any money which had been subscribed in respect of the new stock towards the completion of the original line, or otherwise than in the completion of the works for which the money was subscribed:—Held: overruling demurrers of the co. & directors for want of equity & want of parties, (1) upon the construction of the Acts of Parliament creating the new stock, the capital raised by the script was not to be considered as identical with or part of the original capital of the co., & the holders of the script had a clear equity to keep the co. in the application of the money raised to those purposes for which it was advanced; (2) pltf., as owner of such script, had a right in that character to file his bill clear of any objection to which such bill might have been open had he merely been a member of the co.; (3) a holder of script by purchase is invested with all the rights of the original subscriber.—*BAGSHAW v. 7846. In payment of costs of promoting Bill in Parliament—To alter rights of shareholders.]—(1) In a railway co. there were two classes of shareholders. A general meeting authorised the directors to apply to Parliament for an Act, which would very materially alter the existing rights & interests of the two classes inter se:—Held: such an application was not a breach of trust or duty, & to hold otherwise would be applying too strictly to a railway co. the principles admitted to be applicable to private partnerships, resting on private contracts unconnected with public duties & interests, & capable of dissolution.

(3) Upon the application of a shareholder of one of such two classes, for an injunction to restrain the application to Parliament, & the use of the corporate seal & the application of the corporate funds for that purpose, the ct. refused to restrain the application to Parliament, or the use of the corporate seal for that purpose, but restrained the application of the funds & moneys of the co. towards the payment of the costs.—*STEVENS v. 7847. — To vary original object of company.]—(1) Parliament having created a co. the power rests in Parliament to vary its constitution, or to control or to annihilate it; & it is not the function of a ct. of equity to decide on the propriety of an application to Parliament to vary the original object contemplated by the Act. Such an application is not illegal if it be pursued by legal means. But it appearing in a suit by certain shareholders that a co. had resolved to use its funds, & to pledge its credit, & to make contracts, for the purpose of such an application to Parliament:—Held: such appropriation of funds & pledges & contracts were illegal; &, at the instance of the shareholders, an injunction was granted restraining the appropriation of funds, the pledging of the co.'s credit, & the entering into contracts in support of such an application to Parliament; the ct. declined to restrain the co. from introducing or soliciting such Bill, or using the name & seal of the co. for those purposes.

(2) Certain of the directors of a railway co. acting on the nomination of another railway co. which was interested in certain shares in it, & which nominated those directors by virtue of the Act constituting the co., were excluded, by a resolution of the board of directors, from the meetings of the directors, & the majority delegated all the powers of the board to a managing committee:—Held: although in such a body the majority binds the minority, yet it is essential to the validity of their acts that the voice of the minority should have been heard; & such exclusion of directors was restrained.

(3) A railway co. was beneficially entitled to certain shares in another railway co., which, under the authority of the Act constituting the latter co., were vested in trustees for the former. The former co. filed a bill against the directors & certain shareholders of the latter, & against the trustees of their own shares, complaining that certain dispositions of the trust funds & contracts, which were in contemplation, were illegal; & praying for an account & relief against the directors, & an injunction to restrain such disposition of funds & contracts:—Held: as the equitable title of ptfs. was executed, they, making their trustees defts., could sustain their suit, & were not precluded from suing by 1845 Act, s. 20, which exonerates cos. from seeing to the execution of any trusts affecting shares.—*GREAT WESTERN RY. On motion by another co. holding preference shares of deft. co. to continue an interim injunction restraining such payment:—Held: the capital of the co. could only be applied for the purpose of the undertaking mentioned in the particular Act, & the directors could not indemnify themselves out of the capital of the co. under 1845 Act, s. 100, the costs & expenses incurred in promotion of the Bill.—*CALEDONIAN RY. 7849. Infant.]—To a declaration in debt for calls, charging debt. as the holder of shares under a railway Act incorporated with 1845 Act, it is no answer to plead that debt., when he became indebted, was an infant; or that debt. is sued as the registered holder of shares, that when he became so registered he was an infant, & that he has not, since he attained his age, been registered anew, or ratified the original registration, or held the shares except as such registered holder as before mentioned; for by the express wording of 1845 Act, an infant is liable for calls; at all events, if he is sued after obtaining his age & still holds the shares, for such holding is a ratification.—CORK & BANDON RY. CO. v. CAZENOVE (1847), 10 Q. B. 935; 9 L. T. O. S. 313; 11 Jur. 802; 116 E. R. 355.

7850. —.]—To an action for calls on railway shares, debt. pleaded that at the time of the making of the calls he was an infant; & also, that at the time he became the holder of the shares he was an infant:—Held: the pleas were bad, it not appearing that he became a shareholder by contract, & avoided it.—LEEDS & THIRSK RY. 7851. Repudiation of contract—During infancy.]—Debt for calls on railway shares. Plea, that debt. became the holder of the shares by reason of his having contracted & subscribed for them, & not otherwise; & that, at the time of his so contracting & subscribing, & also at the time of making the calls, he was an infant; that, while he was an infant, he repudiated the contract & subscription, & gave notice to pltf. that he held the shares at their disposal:—Held: a good prima facie bar; & if debt., after he became of age, disaffirmed his repudiation, or if he became liable by enjoyment of the profits, those facts should be replied.

The words “every person who shall have subscribed” [1845 Act, s. 8] mean every person who shall have “contracted to subscribe.” The law is never to be construed so as to affect with liability to a contract persons incapable of contracting; the liability imposed by this statute cannot apply to such of the subscribers as are lunatics, infants, or femes covertas (PARKE, B.).—NEWRY & ENNISKILLEN RY. 7852. Within reasonable time after becoming of age.]—A plea of infancy to an action for railway calls should allege that the infant repudiated the contract within a reasonable time after he became of full age.—DUBLIN & WICKLOW RY. CO. v. BLACK (1852), 8 Exch. 181; 7 Ry. & Can. Cas. 434; 22 L. J. Ex. 94; 20 L. T. O. S. 70; 155 E. R. 1310.

7853. —.]—To a declaration for railway calls debt. pleaded, that, at the time when he first became the holder of the shares, & at the time of his making the contracts by force of which the debts, causes of action, & liabilities in the declaration mentioned accrued to pltf. & were incurred by debt., & at the time of his making & entering into the contracts by force of which pltf. claim to be entitled by law to make the call upon debt., as in the declaration alleged, debt. was an infant within the age of 21 years. Replication, that debt., at the time when he first became the holder of the shares, & at the time of his making the contracts in the plea mentioned, was of the full age of 21 years. It appeared at the trial, that debt. was the purchaser of the shares in question whilst he was an infant, & that, after he was of full age, a call was made:—Held: the term “contract” meant the contract by which debt. became a shareholder, & not the obligation to pay the calls under 1845 Act, s. 21, & the plea was proved by evidence of his infancy, at the time of the transfer to him of the shares.

Qu.: whether the word “contract,” being so construed, the plea was an answer to the action.—BIRKENHEAD, LANCASHIRE & CHESHIRE JUNCTION RY. CO. v. PILCHER (1850), 5 Exch. 24; 6 Ry. & Can. 7854. —.]—Where nothing but the simple fact of infancy is pleaded to an action for railway calls against a purchaser who has been registered, & thereby become a shareholder in a permanent character, the interest continuing to be vested in the infant, & the subsequent obligation to pay, such a plea is insufficient. Where, to a declaration for railway calls, debt. pleaded, that, at the time when he first became the holder of the shares, & at the time of his making the contracts by force of which the debts, causes of action, & liabilities in the declaration mentioned accrued to pltf. & were incurred by debt., & at the time of his making & entering into the contracts by force of which pltf. claim to be entitled by law to make the call upon debt., as in the declaration alleged, debt. was an infant within the age of 21 years: to which pltf. replied that debt., at the time when he first became the holder of the shares, & at the time of his making the contracts in the plea mentioned, was of the full age of 21 years; upon which issue was joined, & a verdict entered for the debt.:—Held: pltf. were entitled to judgment non obstante veredicto.—NORTH WESTERN RY. SUB-SECT. 2.—WHAT CONSTITUTES.

7856. Subscriber—Not registered as shareholder—Nor receiving share certificate.]—(1) By a railway Act, 6 Will. 4, c. lxxix., s. 129, it is provided that all persons who have subscribed, or who shall hereafter subscribe to the undertaking, shall pay such sums as shall from time to time be called for, & that in case of default it shall be lawful for the co. to sue for & to recover the same. Sect. 130 empowers the directors to make calls from the subscribers to, & proprietors of, the undertaking for the time being, & if any owner or proprietor shall neglect to pay his ratable proportion it shall be lawful for the co. to sue for & recover the same. Sect. 125 provides that the co. shall from time to time enter in a book the names, etc., of the several persons who shall be or become entitled to shares in the undertaking, & shall deliver a certificate thereof to every such proprietor on demand, which shall be evidence of his title to the shares. A deft. had subscribed the parliamentary contract, but was not registered in the book as a proprietor:—Held: the words “subscriber” & “proprietor” are synonymous in the Act, & therefore deft. was liable as a subscriber in an action brought against him for calls made on the proprietors of the undertaking.

(2) Sect. 118 of above Act enacts, that the proceedings of the meetings shall be entered in a book, & shall be signed by the chairman of such respective meetings, & shall be allowed to be read in evidence in all cts., etc.:—Held: the signature of the minutes of a previous meeting by the chairman at the subsequent one was a sufficient compliance with the Act.—WEST LONDON RY. CO. v. BERNARD (1843), 3 Q. B. 873; 3 Ry. & Can. Cas. 649; 1 Dav. & Mer. 397; 13 L. J. Q. B. 68; 2 L. T. O. S. 187; 8 Jur. 144; 114 E. R. 743.

7857. — To new company—Amalgamation not completed.]—A co. for making a railway from D. to M. was incorporated by 8 & 9 Vict. c. cxix., under the name of M. G. W. Ry. Co. of Ireland. Some of its directors provisionally registered another co. for making a railway from M. to G., to be called “The G. & M. J. Ry. Co.” Three months afterwards this name was altered at the registration office to “The M. G. W. Ry. Co. of Ireland (extension from M. to G.).” Most of the directors of the two cos. were the same. L. applied for & received scrip certificates in the extension co., & paid deposits thereon, & received receipts headed with the altered name, & signed the shareholders’ agreement & parliamentary contract. The M. G. W. presented, in its own name & under its corporate seal, a petition to Parliament for an Act to make a railway from M. to G., undertaking, at its own expense, to make the railway. The Act which was passed upon this petition, 9 & 10 Vict. c. ccxxiv, only gave authority to make the railway from M. to A., or but a part of the distance. The directors had power under the Act to raise the necessary sums by contributions among themselves or by the admission of other parties. The additional capital required for the extension was directed to form “part of the general & original capital of the co.”; & the provisions of the recited Act, 8 & 9 Vict. c. cxix, were to extend to & be read with the new Act. The expression “The Co.,” in the new Act, was declared to mean the M. G. W. Co. In Sept. 1846, at a meeting of the directors of the M. G. W. Co., a resolution was passed stating on what terms the holders of the extension scrip should be entitled to certificates in the joint co., & another resolution approving of & confirming those terms. At that meeting the seal of the M. G. W. Co. was affixed to the shareholders’ book, which, however, did not then contain the names of the shareholders in the extension line. The latter were added in Mar. 1847, when one of them, that of deft., was inserted. Three calls were made; the first was dated previous to the insertion of the extension subscribers in the shareholders’ book, the two others after that insertion. An action was brought for these calls:—Held: (1) the Act did not amalgamate the two cos.; & even if the directors possessed a power of amalgamation, the resolution of Sept. 1846, was not an exercise of that power so as to render deft. liable to an action for any one of the calls at the suit of the M. G. W. Co.; (2) the list of registered shareholders, although it might be proved not to have been a faithful register, was prima facie evidence that the contributory therein named was a shareholder, which fact, however, might be displaced by other evidence.—MIDLAND GREAT WESTERN RY. CO. OF IRELAND v. LEECH (1852), 3 H. L. Cas. 872; 10 E. R. 348; sub nom. MIDLAND GREAT WESTERN RY. CO. OF IRELAND v. LEECH, SAME v. JOHNSON, SAME v. EDMOND, 20 L. T. O. S. 297, H. L. 7858. — Holding & transferring in promoting company.]—Where, in an act of calls, it appeared that deft. had signed the subscribers’ deed of a registered coal mine & co., for 50 shares of a certain amount in a capital, & afterwards signed the parliamentary contract upon an application for an Act empowering the co. to make the railway, the original deed authorising such application, for 50 shares of a different amount in a different amount of capital, & numbered differently on the registry of the railway co., although no separate capital was ever raised or intended to be raised for the railway, the deposits being paid out of the original capital, & no railway co. scrip was issued, & though there was virtually only one direction, with one set of officers, & one office, & one common seal, & deft. had only paid one sum of money, & received scrip for one set of shares, at the time of signing the original deed, & he had sold those shares before the call, describing them by certain numbers, different from those for which he had signed the parliamentary contract:—Held: there were, by virtue of the deeds & the Act of Parliament, separate cos., with separate shares & separate liabilities thereon; deft. had only transferred the shares in the registered co., & he was liable to calls on the shares in the parliamentary co.—LOUGHOR COAL & RY. CO. v. WILLIAMS (1854), 3 C. L. R. 158; 24 L. T. O. S. 116.

7859. — Not signing parliamentary contract or subscribers’ agreement.]—Deft. by letter requested the provisional committee to allot to him one hundred shares in a proposed railway co. In answer he received the following letter: “Sir, The provisional committee having allotted to you fifty shares of £20 each in this undertaking, I am instructed to request that you will pay a deposit upon them of £1 10s. per share, on or before the 30th inst., to one of the following bankers, etc.

PART IX. SECT. 6, SUB-SECT. 2.
q. Name inserted in Act & list of subscribers without authority.]—A person named in the Act of incorporation & in the list of subscribers, who never authorised his name to be used, or held any shares in the co., ceases to be a member thereof after the first meeting to organise the co.—PORTLAND & LANCASTER STEAM FERRY CO. v. PRATT (1850), 7 N. B. R. (2 All.) 17.—CAN.

I beg also to inform you that scrip certificates for the above number of shares will be delivered to you in exchange for this letter, & the banker's receipt for the deposit after the execution of the parliamentary contract, & subscribers' agreement which will lie for your signature at this office on & after the 30th inst." A the foot of the letter was the following memorandum: "The shares allotted to you will be considered forfeited, if the deposit be not paid within the period specified above, & the parliamentary contract & subscribers' agreement must be signed on or before Aug. 20, 1845." Deft. paid the deposit, but did not sign the parliamentary contract or subscribers' agreement. The co. was afterwards incorporated, & deft.'s name was placed on the sealed register of shareholders. In an action for calls:—Held: deft. was not a shareholder, & the above circumstances were an answer to the prima facie case arising from the production of the register containing deft.'s name.—*WATERFORD, WEXFORD, WICKLOW & DUBLIN RY. 7860. — — —.]—In an action for calls, it being necessary to prove notice to deft. of an alteration in the scheme, evidence that notices were sent by post to all the names & addresses upon the list of allottees, which comprised deft.'s:—Held: sufficient prima facie proof of the notice; but it appearing that deft. had not executed the deed, he was not liable.—CARMARTHEN RY. CO. v. WRIGHT (1858), 1 F. & F. 282, N. P.

7861. — — — Part only of proposed works authorised—Alteration of amount & division of proposed capital.]—The subscribers' agreement of a proposed co. stated that it was formed for making a railway to be called the G. & K. Ry., & to commence at K. & terminate at G., the capital to be one million in shares of £25 each. The deed empowered the directors to abandon the undertaking, or any part thereof & also to make application to Parliament for an Act for any of the purposes aforesaid; also to fix upon, & from time to time to alter or vary the termini, route, course, or line of the railway; & to determine whether & how far, & to what extent the undertaking should be carried into effect & deferred or abandoned; & in case any Act should authorise the construction of a part thereof, to make in any subsequent session application for the construction of the remainder. Deft. executed the deed as a subscriber for 150 shares, & paid the deposit of £1 10s. per share. The directors applied to Parliament & 9 & 10 Vict. c. cclx incorporated the co. by the name of the K. & G. S. & W. Ry. Co., for making a railway from K. to G., the capital of the co. to be £225,000, in 11,250 shares of £20 each. After the Act passed deft. was placed on the register of shareholders as a subscriber for fifty shares of £20 each:—Held: (1) deft. was a shareholder in the incorporated co., & liable as such to execution on a judgment recovered by a creditor against the co.; (2) sect. 36 of 1845 Act, which enables execution to issue "against any of the shareholders," if the execution against the property or effects of the co. proves ineffectual, means shareholders at the time of the sheriff's return of nulla bona.—*NIXON v. Prior to the passing of the railway Act, defts. & others signed a document, whereby they agreed on the passing of the Act for the construction of the railway to subscribe for the number of shares of £10 each placed opposite their respective names, defts.' number being fifty. The Act passed in 1865; in 1866 an allotment of shares was made to defts., but no notice was given to them; & soon afterwards the proceedings of the co. were suspended. Defts.' names were placed on the register of shareholders, & in Apr. 1868, the register was re-sealed, defts.' names being then on it for fifty specific shares; but no notice of this registration was given to defts. Calls having been soon after made, defts. repudiated all liability as shareholders:—Held: under the agreement defts. were "subscribers" to the undertaking within the railway Act, & had been rightly put on the register, & were "shareholders within 1845 Act, s. 8, & liable to pay calls.

receiving share certificate.]—By an Act passed for the reincorporation of the N. & E. Ry. Co., it was provided that all persons & corporations who, on the day of the passing of the Act, were shareholders in the N. & E. Co. were thereby reincorporated by the name of the N. & A. Co. It was also provided that, to complete the title, every person holding shares in the N. & E. Co. should be deemed to hold a share in the N. & A. Co. to be called a deferred share; & should be entitled to receive within one month after the passing of the Act, on demand, a certificate for such deferred share, upon presenting the proper certificate:—Held: a shareholder in the N. & E. Co., who, since the passing of the Act, had not become registered as a shareholder of the N. & A. Co., & who had not obtained a certificate of shares, was not thereby disqualified from maintaining a suit against the directors of the N. & A. Co.—SPACKMAN v. LATTIMORE (1860), 3 Giff. 16; 4 L. After the allotment, the co. sent him scrip certificates, transferable by delivery, with a statement that the allottee or bearer would be entitled to exchange them for share certificates. Pltf. sold his right to the shares to a purchaser, & delivered him the scrip certificates, but executed no transfer of the shares. The purchaser gave notice to the co. of the sale, & paid some calls on the shares. The co. afterwards made other calls, & demanded payment from pltf., & ultimately brought an action against him for them. Pltf. filed his bill to restrain the action:—Held: the shares did not pass by the delivery of the scrip certificates, & pltf. was not discharged from his liability as a shareholder.

(2) By the private Act of a joint-stock co., it was provided that it should not be lawful for the co. to issue any share, nor should any share vest in the person accepting the same until one-fifth of the amount of the share had been paid up:—Held: notwithstanding this proviso, a shareholder who had not paid one-fifth of the amount of the shares which had been allotted to him, was liable for payment of calls.—*MC EUEN v. 7868. Holder of scrip certificates to bearer.]—The prospectus of a railway co., issued after its incorporation, stated the capital as £255,000, in 5,100 provisional scrip certificates to bearer, of £50 each, £1 to be paid on application, & £4 on allotment; & that, “on registration of the scrip, of which due notice will be given, the certificates for £50 will be divided into five shares of £10 each.” On the application of A., scrip certificates were allotted to him, which he shortly afterwards, without taking any steps to convert them into shares, sold in the market. These scrip certificates, together with many others which had been in like manner parted with by their allottees, were repurchased, on behalf of the co., by agents of the directors, & more than two years afterwards were entered upon the register as shares, each scrip certificate representing five shares, in the names of A. & the other allottees:—Held: A. was under no obligation to convert the scrip certificates into shares, & on selling them in the market, as he was entitled to do under the terms of his contract, he was relieved from all liability, & could not be retained on the register as the holder of the shares represented by these scrip certificates.—*EUSTACE v. These resolutions were published in the public papers, & in pursuance of them an instalment of 10s. per share was returned & received by the several shareholders, & the certificates of the shares bore an indorsement to that effect, signed by the co.’s secretary. Subsequent to this return being made, & after the time allowed for the compulsory purchase of land by the co. had expired, W. became the purchaser of five shares from one of the shareholders who had agreed to the above resolutions & had received the instalment of 10s. per share in respect of the said five shares, & a deed of transfer of the same was duly executed. This deed W. delivered with the certificates of the shares to the secretary of the co., & required him to register the same in the manner provided by the 1845 Act, s. 15, which the secretary refused to do:—Held: W. was not entitled to a writ of mandamus to compel the registering of such transfer deed under the sect.; as one of the public he had no right whatever to the writ, & the circumstances under which he had become a purchaser of the shares showed that he was not proceeding bonâ fide for the purpose of enforcing the rights of a shareholder.—*R. v. A vacancy subsequently occurred in the situation of engineer to the comrs. for the improvement of the river W., & A. became a candidate. B. wrote to C., introducing D. as a candidate, & C., having written to B., informing him that another person had succeeded in obtaining the appointment, B. wrote an answer to C., reflecting on the conduct of A. whilst in the situation of engineer to the railway co. There was a subsequent election, at which A. was unsuccessful in consequence of this letter having been shown. It appeared that B. & C. were both shareholders in the railway co., & that B. managed C.'s affairs in the railway. B. had not been applied to for his opinion, & the letter, containing the libel, was written after the termination of one election, & before the other was in contemplation:—Held: in an action by A. against B. for the libel, the letter was not a privileged communication.—*BROOKS v. 7878. Original director—No qualification shares allotted—No register formed.]—Sect. 36 of 1845 Act is governed by sect. 3 of that Act, & consequently a member of a co. may be a "shareholder" within the former sect. although no shares have been allotted to him & no register has been formed.

A special Act formed four promoters into a co., & made them directors till the first ordinary meeting of shareholders, & provided that each director should hold not less than thirty shares. There never was any such meeting, no register of members was ever drawn up, & no shares were ever allotted. The Act embodied an agreement which bound the co. to pay pltf. a certain sum of money:—Held: in respect of the co.'s debt to pltf., each promoter was liable under a sci. fa. as a shareholder to the extent of thirty shares.

By 1845 Act, ss. 85, 86, no one shall be capable of being a director unless he holds the prescribed number of shares, & if he ceases to hold that number of shares, he ceases to be a director, but these provisions apply only to elected directors & not to directors named in a special Act (JESSEL, M.R.).—*PORTAL v. The Act provided that the qualification of directors should be fifty shares of £10 each, & that the directors named in the Act should continue in office till the first ordinary meeting of the co. T. never acted as a director, & another director was appointed in his place. A. acted as director for a time & then resigned, & his place on the board was informally filled up. No shares were allotted to either of the directors, & the whole of the share capital of the co. was placed in other hands. A register of shareholders of the co. was drawn up, in which the names of ment of defence raised an objection in point of law to the whole claim, that the tramway co. was not within the Act, as not being a "railway" co.:—Held: the tramway was a "railway" within the Act, & pltf. succeeded on the point of law.—*EDISON GENERAL ELECTRIC CO. v. 7880. —.]—A railway co. was incorporated by a special Act of Parliament, passed on Aug. 18, 1882. In sect. 4 of the Act deft. was described as a promoter of the undertaking, & in sect. 30 as one of the first directors of the co., who should continue in office until the first ordinary meeting held after the passing of the Act. Sect. 28 required that the qualification of a director should be the possession in his own right of not less than one hundred shares in the co. Deft. attended one board meeting, & on Dec. 23, 1882, sent in his resignation as director to the board, which was accepted by them in the following week. Deft. took no other part in the affairs of the co. Deft. never had any shares allotted to him, nor was any register of shares kept. No shares were ever taken up by the public, & the object of the co. failing, an abandonment Act was obtained & passed in Aug. 1885. The claim of pltf. was for services rendered by him as a surveyor & engineer in relation to & before the formation of the co. Pltf. brought his action against the co., obtained judgment by default, & issued a writ of fi. fa. against the co. The sheriff's return to the writ was nulla bona. Pltf. then applied to the High Ct. for leave to issue execution against deft. personally under 1845 Act, s. 36:—Held: as the resignation by deft. was bonâ fide, it was a surrender of his inchoate right to take shares, & operated to divest him of any liability attaching to the holding of shares; & leave to issue execution against him must be refused.—MAMMATT v. BRETT (1886), 54 L. T. 165.

(c) Grounds for Granting or Refusing.

7881. General rule—Discretion of court.—A sci. fa. may issue at the suit of a judgment creditor of a co., subject to 1845 Act, s. 36, against a shareholder. Qu. whether that is the sole remedy. When it is proved to the satisfaction of the ct., upon the motion for such sci. fa., that an execution has been issued against the co., & that it has been unproductive, the issuing of the sci. fa. is still a matter of discretion with the ct.

Where a co. was established for making a railway in Ireland, although no proceedings had been taken to procure satisfaction in Ireland, & the affidavits did not expressly negative the existence of property there, the ct. granted a rule for a sci. fa.

against a director who had stated at a meeting of the co. in London, that in consequence of the shareholders not paying the calls, the directors had no funds to meet the claims against them, one of the claims being the judgment obtained by pltf.—*DEVEREUX v. 7883. —.]—The discretion of the ct. in granting or refusing a sci. fa. against a shareholder under 1845 Act, s. 36, is to be a judicial discretion exercised according to the known rules of law. A vague suggestion of fraud, or that Parliament was imposed upon by false recitals in the special Act, will not, where a fair prima facie case is made out by pltf., induce the ct. to withhold the writ; but the party will be left to plead to the sci. fa. any defence, legal or equitable, which he may have.—*LEE v. not paid up. It appeared that the co. was in process of being wound up; & that, though it had no property against which execution could issue, a considerable sum stood to the credit of the official manager:—Held: the existence of funds which might ultimately, under the Winding up Acts, be made available for the payment of the debt was not a bar to the proceeding under the sect., & the ct. would not, in the exercise of its discretion, refuse to interfere.—*MACKENZIE v. SECT. 7.—THE REGISTER OF MEMBERS.

SUB-SECT. 1.—IN GENERAL.

7913. Time for making & sealing.]—The time within which by 1845 Act, s. 9, a register of shareholders is to be made & sealed, is merely directory; & a register containing the several particulars required by the Act, & bonâ fide intended to be a register, may be valid, though sealed at a subsequent period. A party may be liable as a shareholder for calls, under sect. 27, although the register may not have been made & sealed within the time prescribed by sect. 9.—WOLVERHAMPTON NEW WATERWORKS CO. v. HAWKSFORD (1861), 11 C. B. N. S. 456; 31 L. J. C. P. 184; 5 L. T. 618; 8 Jur. N. S. 844; 10 W. R. 153; 142 E. R. 874, Ex. Ch.

7915. Form—Amalgamation of several companies into one.]—MANCHESTER RY. CO. v. BLINKHORN (1849), 14 L. T. O. S. 131.

7916. —.]—(1) It is no plea in bar to an action for calls that the co., after bringing their action, have, under the power of their Acts of Parliament, forfeited & cancelled the shares, & issued new shares in lieu thereof, & by that means have supplied the deficient capital, but in the event of new shares being issued, the ct. will stay proceedings on debt's paying the portion of the debt & costs beyond the value of the new shares. There is no substantial difference, as far as the shareholder's liability for calls is concerned, between the forfeiture & the cancellation of the shares in respect of which the calls are sued for.

(2) Where a co. for convenience keep their register of shareholders in several volumes, it is a sufficient compliance with 1845 Act, s. 9, that the last volume of the series be authenticated with the common seal of the co. Semble: the last volume need not contain a recapitulation of the contents of the prior volumes.

A meeting of a committee of directors was adjourned, & a minute of the adjourned meeting only was signed by the chairman of both meetings, but subsequent minutes treated both as one meeting, & a witness proved that he was present at both, & that they were one continuous meeting:—Held: (3) the unsigned minute was admissible in evidence of what took place the first day; (4) what then took place could also be proved by the witness who was present.—INGLIS v. GREAT NORTHERN RY. CO. (1852), 19 L. T. O. S. 149; 16 Jur. 895; 1 Macq. 112, H. L.

7917. Mode of keeping—Necessity for strict compliance with statutory provisions.]—The Companies Clauses Consolidation (Scotland) Act, 1845 (c. 17), s. 9, requires, in the same terms as 1845 Act, a book to be kept, containing, in alphabetical order the names of the shareholders, with the number of the shares to which such shareholders shall be respectively entitled, distinguishing each share by its number, & the amount of the subscriptions paid on such shares. Sect. 29 of the former Act makes such book primâ facie evidence of a person being a shareholder, & of the number & amount of his shares:—Held: (1) as this was an exceptional privilege in favour of the co., the provisions of the former Act with respect to the mode of keeping the book must be strictly complied with; (2) an entry in the book, describing A. as possessed of a certain number of shares, numbered from one given number to another given number, & stating a gross amount as paid upon these shares, was a sufficient compliance with those provisions, so as to render the book admissible in evidence.

(3) The former Act requires that a book, to be called the "Register of Shareholders" shall be kept. The book actually kept was marked "Register of Proprietors":—Held: this variation in the title did not prevent it from being given in evidence.—BAIN v. WHITEHAVEN & FURNESS JUNCTION RY. CO. (1850), 3 H. L. Cas. 1; 10 E. R. 1, H. L.

7918. —.]—1845 Act, s. 8, enacts that a person shall be deemed a shareholder "who shall have subscribed, etc., & whose name shall have been entered on the register of shareholders hereinafter mentioned:" sect. 9 prescribes the mode of making & keeping the register & (inter alia) that it shall "distinguish each share by its number:"—Held: sect. 8 was complied with, although the register did not show the distinguishing numbers of debt's shares, it being proved, aliunde, that the shares were in fact numbered. Semble, the provisions in sect. 9, as to the mode of keeping the register are directory only, except with reference to the use of the register as primâ facie evidence under sect. 28. Pltf.'s special Act provided, "that the co. should not issue any shares created under the authority of this Act, nor should any share vest in the person accepting the same, until one-fifth of the amount of the share was paid up":—Held: the word "issue" referred to the issuing of certificates of shares, & the word "vest" to the vesting of shares so as to be property & capable of transfer; but that the sect. did not make the payment of one-fifth a condition precedent to the liability as a shareholder of the person accepting the share.

In an action for calls, brought by a co. incorporated under 1845 Act, debts' names were upon the register of shareholders kept under the 9th sect. of the Act, & it was proved that they had executed the subscription contract, & that their shares were distinguished by specific numbers, in accordance with sect. 6 of the Act. The register did not, however, contain the numbers by which the shares were distinguished:—Held: the omission so as to distinguish the shares in the register did not prevent the company from recovering.

Semble: if the register had been relied on under sect. 28 of the Act as primâ facie evidence that debts. were shareholders, & no other evidence had been given of their liability, the co. could not have succeeded, as there would then have been no proof that the shares were distinguished by numbers, in accordance with sect. 6.—*EAST GLOUCESTERSHIRE RY. SUB-SECT. 2.—AS EVIDENCE.

7921. General rule.]—By 51 Geo. 3, c. lx, the register book of the B. C. Co. is evidence, in an action brought by them for calls, of deft.'s being proprietor of the number of shares affixed to his name.—BRISTOL CANAL CO. v. AMOS (1813), 1 M. & S. 569; 105 E. R. 212.

7922. —.]—In an action by a railway co. for calls, pltf. produced a sealed register containing the name of deft. as the holder of certain shares. They also gave evidence of his handwriting to a letter, requesting the secretary of the co. to register his shares. The secretary stated that that letter was his only authority for placing deft.'s name on the register; & deft. then gave the strongest evidence that the letter was not in his handwriting. The learned judge then told the jury that the sealed register of shares was made by 1845 Act, s. 28. primâ facie evidence that the persons named therein were shareholders; & that the question for them was whether that primâ facie evidence had been rebutted; & that though deft. had disproved his writing the letter, they might not be satisfied that he had not authorised some one else to write it:—Held: no misdirection.

As to the first call I cannot help thinking that the effect of the Acts was this, that any call previous to the amalgamation was to be considered as a call upon a share in the new co., & if so it necessarily follows that the right to the call is vested in the new co. & that the new co. may sue assuming that they have created new shares & done what was necessary to give them the right (PATTESON, J.).—MANCHESTER, SHEFFIELD & LINCOLNSHIRE RY. Co., the book of shares, under the seal of the co., shall be primâ facie evidence that a party is proprietor of shares. A call was made in Oct. 1836, & the book of shares, which contained the name of deft. as a shareholder, was made up before the end of Sept. 1836, from claims sent in by different parties, but the seal was not affixed to it till Nov. 1836:—Held: this book was no evidence that

7925. — To all entries.]—A railway Act, 6 & 7 Will. 4, c. civ, s. 145, directed that the co. should cause "the names of the several corps., & the names & additions of the several persons who shall then be or who shall from time to time thereafter become entitled to shares in the said undertaking, with the number of shares they are respectively entitled to, & the amount of the subscriptions paid thereon, & also the proper number by which every share shall be distinguished to be fairly & distinctly entered in a book to be kept by the said co., & after such entry made to cause their common seal to be affixed thereto." By sect. 147 the co. was also required to keep a book containing "a true account of the place of abode of the several proprietors of the said undertaking." By sect. 152, in any action to be brought by the co. against any proprietor for the time being of any share in the said undertaking, to recover money due in respect of any call, it was enacted that, "in order to prove that deft. was a proprietor of such share in the said undertaking as alleged, the production of the book in which the said co. is by this Act directed to enter & keep the names & additions of the several proprietors from time to time of shares in the said undertaking, with the number of shares they are respectively entitled to, & of the places of abode of the several proprietors of the said undertaking, & of the several persons & corps. who shall from time to time become proprietors thereof, or be entitled to shares therein, shall be primâ facie evidence that such deft. is a proprietor, & of the number & amount of his shares therein":—Held: (1) the book referred to in sect. 152 was the book which the co. were directed to keep by sect. 145; (2) a book kept by them which was intended to be kept under the provisions of the last-mentioned clause, containing the names & additions of all persons whom the co. supposed to be the persons entitled to shares, together with the numbers of those shares, though not in all cases the amount of subscription paid thereon, & also the proper number by which each share was distinguished, & which book was sealed from time to time by the common seal of the co., was a sufficient compliance with the Act, so as to render the book admissible in evidence, notwithstanding the book contained the names of persons not entitled to shares, & omitted those of others who were, & although there were some entries to which no seal had ever been affixed; (3) the primâ facie evidence of deft. being a proprietor, established by the production of the book, was not rebutted by proof that a third party was the original subscriber in respect of the shares in question, & the shares had not been conveyed to deft. by deed as required by sect. 155 of the Act.—LONDON GRAND JUNCTION RY. 7926. Register not kept in strict compliance with statutory provisions—Number of shares omitted.]—By 6 Will 4, c. xxix, s. 84, it is provided that in an action for calls, in order to prove that deft. was a proprietor of such shares in the undertaking as alleged, the production of the book in which the secretary of the co. is directed to enter & keep a list of the names, etc. of the several proprietors of shares, with the number of shares they are respectively entitled to hold, shall be prima facie evidence that such deft. is a proprietor, & of the number or amount of his shares therein. Sect. 89 requires the co. from time to time to cause the names, etc., of the persons from time to time entitled to shares, with the number of their shares & amount of subscriptions paid thereon, & the proper number by which every such share shall be distinguished, to be entered in a book to be kept by the secretary:—Held: (1) the provision as to the making the entries was only directory, & an omission or irregularity in the entries in the book, relating to other shareholders, did not render the book inadmissible against deft., as being the book kept under the act; (2) it was not necessary that the entries should be made by the secretary's hand.

Sect. 63 directs, that the orders & proceedings of every meeting of the co. shall be entered in a book to be kept for that purpose, & shall be signed by the chairman at such meeting: & when so entered & signed, as also the minutes or entries hereinafter provided to be kept, shall be deemed original order & proceedings, & shall be allowed to be read in evidence in all cts. etc., without proof of such meeting having been duly convened, or of the persons making or entering such orders, etc., being proprietors or directors of the co. Sect. 75 provides that the directors shall keep a regular minute & entry of the orders & proceedings at every meeting of directors, which shall be signed by the chairman at each respective meeting:—Held: (3) the signature of the minutes by the chairman of the meeting, when presiding at the subsequent meeting, was sufficient; (4) the terms "directors" & "court of directors" were equivalent, so that the calls might be made by a ct. of directors, & a general meeting was not necessary for that purpose.

Sect. 84, giving the form of declarations for calls, & the proofs necessary, provides that the co. shall recover what shall appear due, including interest at £5 per cent.:—Held: (5) it was not necessary to inset a count for interest, which might be added by the jury to the debt claimed for the calls.—SOUTHAMPTON DOCK CO. v. 7934. ———.]—A railway Act enacted that the co. should, at a meeting, & from time to time afterwards, enter in a book, to be kept by them, the names & additions of the persons who should then be, or should thereafter from time to time become, entitled to shares, & the number of shares held, & the amount of subscription paid by each. Power was given to the co. to make calls, & recover the amount by action; & in actions for calls, the book was to be prima facie evidence that the party registered therein was a proprietor, & of the number & amount of his shares. The Act also empowered proprietors to sell their shares; the conveyance to be in a certain written or printed form, & stamped, & a memorial thereof to be entered; & till such entry the seller was to remain liable for calls, & the buyer have no right to profits.

Before the passing of the Act, A. & B. became respectively possessed of scrip certificates of certain shares which had belonged to subscribers. The certificates stated respectively that the holders, having signed the parliamentary contract required by the standing orders, & agreed to pay all calls, were the proprietors of shares, etc. After the passing of the Act, the co. advertised for holders of scrip to bring it in to be registered. A. & B. brought in their certificates accordingly; & the shares were registered in their respective names. No memorial of a sale to either was ever entered. A. afterwards attended a half-yearly meeting of the co.; & B. paid a call on his shares. In actions against A. & B. for calls:—Held: (1) the want of a memorial did not prevent A. or B. from being liable as a proprietor; (2) the book, containing the requisite particulars as to A. & B., was evidence against them, though it did not contain the names of all the original subscribers.—LONDON GRAND JUNCTION RY. The secretary notified to B. the allotment of the shares, & B. wrote in reply accepting them:—Held: the sealed register only, is, by sect. 28 of the above Act, made prima facie evidence of a party being a shareholder; here it was no evidence against T., who was not individually named in it; & there was no proof that T. agreed to accept the shares allotted to him & his co-trustees.—*BIRKENHEAD, LANCASHIRE & CHESHIRE JUNCTION RY. SUB-SECT. 4.—RECTIFICATION.

7950. By company—Grounds for rectifying.]—By the Acts of Parliament incorporating & regulating debts., a railway co., they were required to keep a register of the proprietors of stock in the co.; each proprietor was empowered to transfer his stock by a prescribed form of transfer, executed by the transferor & the transferee; & each transfer was to be registered by debts., the transferee to take no interest until such registration. A judgment obtained by debts. against M., a widow, in May, 1857, being still unsatisfied, she in the following Oct. furnished a married woman, D., with money to buy stock for her in debts.' co. On Oct. 14, D. bought the stock, & took & signed a transfer of it, which was in due form, in the name of W., widow. Debts. registered this transfer, & transferred the stock into that name. On Aug. 29, 1858, D., by M.'s directions, resold the stock in the name of W. Pltfs. then purchased it bond fide, & in the belief that D.'s name was W., & that she was a widow. A formal transfer from D., by that name & description, to pltfs. was, on Sept. 10, 1858, registered by debts., & the stock transferred into pltfs.' names. D. paid over to M. the money received from pltfs. for the stock. Both in the original purchase & in the resale, D. acted without her husband's knowledge or intervention, & in collusion with & for the sole benefit of M., in order to prevent debts. from satisfying their judgment. Debts. believed both transactions to be bond fide, & that D. was the person whom she represented herself to be. On Sept. 6, 1858, M., who had not then received from D. the money paid by pltfs. for the stock, petitioned the Insolvent Ct., & the next day that ct. made a vesting order. On Sept. 17, 1858, defts. first discovered the real state of facts. On Oct. 21, 1858, they cancelled the entry in their books of the transfer of the stock to pltfs., & transferred the stock into the name of M.'s assignee appointed by the Insolvent Ct. Thereupon pltfs. brought this action, in which they claimed a mandamus to defts. to register the transfer to them, & to enter their names as proprietors of the stock. On a case stated, after writ & without pleadings, setting out the above facts:—Held: pltfs. were entitled to be replaced on the register, no fraud on their part being shown, & they having a title, whether legal or merely equitable was immaterial, to the stock; their names, having been once placed by defts. on the register, were not removable therefrom at the mere will of defts., but only on proof, of which there was none, of a better title in some other person.—*WARD v. There was no other power in the Act to issue preference shares. The co. filed a scheme of arrangement with their creditors under Railway Companies Act 1867 (c. 127), s. 6, to which they obtained the assent of the debentureholders, & also of the ordinary shareholders, including the holders of preferred & deferred half shares, at an extraordinary general meeting:—Held: the holders of preferred half shares did not form a class of preference shareholders whose

7956. Share certificates—Nature of—Mere admission that shares registered in name of holder.—

(1) A certificate of shares is merely a solemn affirmation under the seal of the co. that a certain amount of stock stands in the name of the individual mentioned in the certificate. (2) It is the duty of a person receiving, as an equitable mtge. of railway stock, the certificates of the shares thereof, to inquire what is the real position of the person pretending to mortgage it, for if such person has only the legal title by having the certificates in his possession, but is, in truth, merely the trustee for another, the equitable mtgee. will be unable to enforce his claim in opposition to the original cestui que trust.—H., a banker, was the banker of a railway co., he was also one of its directors. Under certain business arrangements of the co. he was entrusted with the possession of certificates which represented shares, & those shares he held as trustee for the co.; he converted the shares; the conversion was noticed; he gave an explanation, replaced the shares, & continued to hold the certificates as before, & stood on the register as the apparent owner of them. He borrowed money of R., & deposited the certificates with R., who held them for some time, & died without having taken any step to be registered as the owner of the shares. R.'s widow & extrix. applied to be registered as the owner; her application was refused. She moved for a mandamus to compel registration:—Held: this was the ordinary case of a trustee abusing his trust; if R. had made proper inquiries he would have found that H. was only a trustee; negligence sufficient to affect their equitable title could not be imputed to the directors & the co., & consequently, the equitable title of R. could not prevail against the earlier equitable title of the co.

7957. ——— Primâ facie evidence of title only.]—A certificate of shares is only primâ facie evidence that the holder is entitled to the same, and a co. is justified in refusing to place either of two rival claimants upon the register of shareholders unless he shows that he has a good & sufficient title to the shares; & where a co. has issued certificates to two persons in respect of the same shares, neither of whom has been registered as holder thereof under the Cos. Acts, a prerogative mandamus will not lie to compel the co. to register the person to whom the second certificates were issued. Share certificates will not operate as an estoppel where one of two rival claimants seeks by a prerogative mandamus to compel the co. to place his name on the register.—R. v. CHARNWOOD FOREST RY. 7961. ——— Whether option to exchange scrip for shares exercised.]—Pltf. applied for scrip in a co., the prospectus of which stated that on registration of the scrip, of which due notice would be given, the £50 scrip certificates would be divided into shares of £10 each. One hundred scrip certificates were allotted to pltf., & he paid the deposit thereon. The co. afterwards brought an action against him for money due on calls in respect of 500 shares, to which he pleaded that he was not a shareholder. He afterwards attended a meeting of the co., & signed proxy-papers for votes at another meeting. His name had been placed on the register as a holder of 500 shares, but no notice of this was given to him until long afterwards:—Held: pltf. was entitled to have his name removed from the register of the shareholders. Qu.: whether he could, as against creditors of the company, have contended that he was not a shareholder.

I think that the only thing I have to consider in this case is the position of pltf. with the co. First, did he originally, & by his application, enter into a contract to take shares? Secondly, if no such contract was then entered into, has his subsequent conduct been such as to create a contract, so that we must thenceforth be treated as a member of the co. The original contract was simply a contract which would entitle the holder of a scrip certificate at some future period to apply for shares, & this was the privilege for which he paid his deposits, subjecting himself to no liability (LORD HATHERLEY, C.).—McILWRAITH v. DUBLIN TRUNK CONNECTING RY. CO. (1871), 7 Ch. App. 134; 41 L. J. Ch. 262; 25 L. T. 776; 20 W. R. 156, L. C.

Agreement to issue—Under ultra vires scheme—Power of court to restrain.]—(1) Where a railway co. enter into an agreement with another co., part of which is legal, but part ultra vires, without the assistance of Parliament, a ct. of equity will declare such an agreement illegal where the purpose is to work out something illegal. There is nothing, however, primâ facie illegal in a small co. agreeing with a great co. to amalgamate with & hand over all its property to it, & apply to Parliament to carry that out.

(2) Where railway cos., by their directors, agree to do acts which they have power to do as well as others which they have not power to do, a ct. of equity will restrain them by injunction from acting on the agreement at all.

(3) A ct. of equity will not restrain railway directors from acting as such, because it is in the power of the shareholders to prevent them so doing, & might seriously interfere with the business of the co.

(4) Where, under an agreement between railway cos., part of which is ultra vires, it is proposed to issue shares to a nominee of one co., a ct. of equity will restrain such issue because it is part of an illegal scheme.—HATTERSLEY v. 7966. Acquiescence in allotment—By shareholder—What amounts to.]—By an agreement, dated July, 1847, A., for the considerations therein-after mentioned, agreed with an incorporated railway co. to take certain shares & to pay £4 per share in respect thereof on or before Aug. 15, 1847, & so soon as £15 per share should have been paid on the shares, & the co. was in a position legally to do so, it should deliver to A. mtge-debentures of the railway co., bearing interest, for the sum of £24,675, being at the rate of £5 per share. This agreement was duly confirmed by the co. & A.'s name was, in consequence of it, & without any other authority, entered in the register of shareholders, & he had notice of such entry & register on such authority, & confirmed & ratified the same & assented thereto. A. was elected & acted as a director of the co. after the making the agreement, & his name remained on the register as the person entitled to these shares, until a call was, in Dec. 1847, duly made upon them, of which he had due notice. In an action against A. to recover the call, the register of shareholders, duly authenticated, & containing an entry of A.'s name as a shareholder, was produced at the trial. On a special verdict finding these facts:—Held: A. was liable as a registered shareholder to the call.—WEST CORNWALL RY. CO. v. MOWATT (1850), 15 Q. B. 521; 19 L. J. Q. B. 478; 15 L. T. O. B. Issue of New Shares.

7967. Offer to existing shareholders—Time for acceptance.]—A railway co. having resolved, on July 25, to create a certain number of new shares, gave, at the same time, an option to every registered proprietor to take a certain number of those shares, provided he declared such option on or before Aug. 10 following. One of the registered proprietors, who was resident at N. was not apprised of the resolutions until Aug. 12. But on that day he wrote to the secretary to the co. declaring his option to take his proportion of the new shares:—Held: the time fixed by the resolutions was final, & consequently, pltf.'s declaration was too late.—PEARSON v. LONDON & CROYDON RY. CO. (1845), 14 Sim. 541; 4 Ry. & Can. Cas. 62; 14 L. J. Ch. 412; 9 Jur. 341; 60 E. R. 468.

7968. ———.]—A railway co. resolved to raise a sum of money upon loan notes, payable at the end of five years, bearing interest at £5 per cent in the meantime, with an option to the holders to convert them, at the expiration of three years, into shares of the co., at a certain rate per share, under the powers of an Act of Parliament, to be applied for as early as possible; & the co. advertised for tenders accordingly, one-half of the loan to be paid to the co. when the tenders should be accepted, Feb. 1842, one-quarter on or before Apr. 15, & the other quarter on or before July 15 following. The loan was made by various persons, to whom, on the payment of the last instalment, July, 1842, loan notes were delivered, promising to pay the sums expressed therein on Feb. 15, 1847, with an indorsement thereon referring to the resolution, & intimating that in pursuance thereof application was intended to be made to Parliament for an Act, under the terms of which the bearer would be entitled, on Feb. 15, 1845, provided previous notice was given, to convert the loan notes into shares, at the price mentioned in the resolution. An Act was afterwards obtained, enabling the co., for the purposes therein mentioned, to issue new shares of such amount, & to be appropriated & disposed of in such manner, for such prices, & by such ways & means, as by the order of a meeting of the co. should be determined. By a meeting of the co., subsequently held, it was resolved that the new shares authorised by the Act should be raised & allotted to & amongst the holders of loan notes, in the manner & upon the terms directed by the Act:—Held: (1) the effect of the Act, & the subsequent resolution of the co., was not to allot the new shares amongst all the loan note-holders unconditionally, but only as they had acquired a right to such allotment by virtue of their antecedent contract; (2) the term of five years, at the end of which the notes were to be paid off, must be reckoned from Feb. 1842, when the first instalment of the loan was advanced; & the three years, during which the holders were to have the option of converting the notes into shares, must be reckoned from the same time; (3) from the nature of the property which was the subject of the option, time was of the essence of the contract; (4) the indorsement on the loan notes did not enlarge the time of the option by continuing it until limited by an Act of Parliament or otherwise.

Qu.: whether the co. had power to restrict the option by requiring notice before Feb. 15, 1845, the end of the three years, or whether the loan note-holders accepting the notes with the indorsement expressing that restriction, without objection or protest, would be bound thereby.—CAMPBELL v. LONDON & BRIGHTON RY. CO. (1846), 5 Hare, 519; 4 Ry. & Can. Cas. 475; 8 L. T. O. S. 184; 11 Jur. 651; 67 E. R. 1017.

C. Issuing of Shares at a Discount.

7969. Validity—Fully paid-up stock.]—A co. regulated by 1845 Act & Companies Clauses Act, 1863 (c. 118), may, in the absence of any special prohibition, issue fully-paid capital stock at a discount; & a co. empowered to raise or borrow money on debentures, whether such co. be regulated by the Cos. Clauses Consolidation Acts or by the 1862 & 1867 Acts, may, in the absence of any special prohibition, issue debentures at a discount.

The authorities, such as Re Compagnie Generale de Bellegarde, Campbell's Case, No. 5006, ante, which show that debentures can be issued at a discount, are as applicable to cos. governed by the Cos. Clauses Consolidation Acts as to cos. governed by the 1862 Act, to which those decisions more particularly relate.

7975. Must be made equally—On all shares—Shares held by directors as trustees for company.]—The directors of a joint-stock co., in order to procure their Act of Parliament, subscribed for a large number of shares, & signed a declaration that they held them in trust for the co., but did not pay the deposit on, or register them. Afterwards, at a special general meeting of the co., it was resolved that the trust should be annulled, & the shares transferred to the secretary, to be held by him at the disposal of the board. The directors then proceeded to make calls on the registered shares :—Held : (1) the said directors were primarily liable in respect of the shares subscribed for in trust for the co., as any other trustee would be, although they might be entitled to indemnity from their cestuis que trust ; (2) they were not relieved from such liability by the proceeding taken to annul the trust & transfer the shares ; (3) it was the duty of the directors to make the calls in respect of all such shares, equally with the calls on the registered shares ; & the ct. would compel the directors to put all the shareholders on an equal footing according to their proportions, with respect to the calls to be made upon them ; (4) a suit for restraining the directors from declaring pltf.'s shares forfeited was well framed by pltf. on behalf of himself & all other members not defts., against those parties as defts., who subscribed for the additional shares.—PRESTON v. GRAND COLLIER DOCK CO. Sect. 22 of 1845 Act, empowered the co. to make calls. Sect. 90 authorised the directors to exercise all the powers of the co. except as to matters directed by that & the special Act to be transacted by a general meeting of the co. Neither 1845 Act nor the special Act directed calls to be made at a general meeting of the co. The special Act directed that three months at least should be the interval between successive calls. After the formation of the co., the shares were altered to £20 each. The directors, on Jan. 11, passed a resolution for a call to be paid on Feb. 15, & on May 8 a resolution for a second call to be paid on June 19 :—Held: in an action against a shareholder to recover the amount of these calls, (1) the calls were not illegal, by reason of the shares having been altered to £20 ; (2) it was competent for the directors to make a call ; (3) an interval of three months had elapsed between the two calls pursuant to the Act.

(4) The term call is susceptible of three meanings. It may mean either the resolution itself, or the time of its notification, or the time when the money is made payable. 7987. — Must comply with constitution of company.]—By Act of Parliament, authorising a joint-stock co. to raise £80,000 in shares of £25 each, the directors were empowered to make such calls for money on the subscribers to the undertaking as they should from time to time find necessary for the purpose of carrying on the same, but no such call should exceed £10 per cent, & one month at least should intervene between the calls. The directors brought an action against one of the subscribers for the amount of two calls made on his shares, on the same day, & that subscriber brought a counter action against the directors for the value of his shares as at a certain period, on the ground that they had, without his consent, engaged in speculations foreign to the co.'s undertaking, & at last abandoned that undertaking & united themselves with another co. Both actions were referred to an arbitrator under an order of ct. ; & he found, (a) that the directors were entitled to decree for the amount of the two calls, with interest ; (b) that the subscriber was entitled to decree for a certain sum as the ascertained price of his shares, which sum, under deduction of what was awarded for the calls, he was entitled to recover from the co. on surrendering or transferring his shares to them, or to any person they might direct :—Held: the award was bad, inasmuch as finding (a) for the amount of two calls made in one day was contrary to the Act of incorporation, which required the distance of a month at least between two calls, & finding (b) was not final & conclusive, but held the subscriber entitled to recover the sum awarded to him upon condition only of transferring his shares.—BAILLIE v. 7989. Resolution by directors—To make call prospectively—Validity.]—(1) A railway Act empowered the directors of a railway co. to make such calls from the proprietors, on their respective shares, as they from time to time should find necessary, so that no call should exceed £10 on each share, & that there should be an interval of three calendar months between each successive call, & 21 days' notice should be given of every such call by advertisement, in the local newspapers ; & the proprietors were thereby required to pay the calls on their shares to such person, at such time, at such place, & in such manner, as the directors should from time to time direct or appoint. The directors made a resolution for a call, specifying therein the amount of the call, & the day of payment, but not the place where, or the person to whom, the payment was to be made ; but a notice of that call, subsequently inserted in the local newspapers, according to the directions of the Act, specified all those matters. In an action for the amount of such call against a party who was a proprietor at the date of the resolution, of the notice, & of the day appointed for payment, it not appearing also that there was any change in the directory during that interval : Held: the directors might fix the time, place & manner of payments after the original resolution had been made, & by a distinct act, & the call was properly made.

(2) By another resolution, made on Mar. 13 the directors resolved that a call of £5 should be made on Mar. 30 inst., to be paid on May 1 :—Held:

for the payment of each separate instalment & it was not sufficient merely to give thirty days' notice for the payment of each instalment on separate days ; (2) one call made without sufficient notice would not vitiate subsequent calls.—ST. JOHN BRIDGE CO. v. WOODWARD (1840), 1 Kerr, 29.—CAN.

c. Irregularity in incorporation.]—An instrument under the Road Act, 12 Vict. c. 84, was signed by deft. & others for the formation of a road co.,

the call was not invalid because the resolution was prospective.

(3) Some of the directors by whom the resolutions for the calls were made, were members of a banking co., who were the bankers & treasurers of the railway co., & as such received & gave receipts for calls, & paid cheques drawn by the directors, etc. Sect. 150 of above Act enacted, that no person concerned or interested in any contract with the co. should be capable of being chosen a director, & that if any director should directly or indirectly be concerned in any contract with the co., he should thereupon be immediately, & was thereby, discharged from the direction:—Held: that this sect. applied only to contracts made with the co. in prosecution of its enterprise, & did not disqualify the directors above mentioned.

(4) Sect. 159 directed that the orders & proceedings of the directors should be entered in a book, & signed by the chairman of the meeting, & enacted, that when so entered & signed, they should be deemed originals, & be read in evidence without proof of the persons making or entering them being directors, or of the signature of the chairman:—Held: a book of proceedings, purporting to be signed "W. S., deputy-chairman," was evidence per se, without proof that W. S. was in fact deputy-chairman, or as such presided at the meeting.

(5) A transfer of railway shares from an original subscriber to the undertaking, made before the formation of a register of proprietors pursuant to the Act, but after the passing of the Act of Parliament, is good, although the transferor be never registered as a proprietor.

Where the Act required such transfer to be by deed, & a transfer of shares was executed by the seller with a blank for the purchaser's name, & stating the consideration untruly, but the purchaser afterwards signed & transmitted to the co., in pursuance of the act, a proxy paper describing him as the proprietor of the shares:—Held: in an action by the co. against him for calls on such shares, that he was precluded from disputing the validity of the transfer.—*SHEFFIELD, ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE & MANCHESTER RY. Place of payment & payee omitted Included in notice.—The directors of a railway co. were empowered by an Act of Parliament to make calls, the aggregate amount not to exceed £100, & no call to exceed £10 upon each share, & an interval of three calendar months was to elapse between the days of payment of each call. It also required that 21 days' notice should be given of every call, by advertisement in certain newspapers, & enacted that all money so called for

should be paid to such persons, at such times & places, as in the said notice should be appointed. A resolution of the directors was made for a call of £8 per share; but the resolution, although it mentioned the period within which the call was to be paid, did not specify the place where, or person to whom the payment was to be made. The notice of that call, inserted in the local newspapers, according to the directions of the Act specified the time & place of payment & the persons to whom payment was to be made:—Held: (1) the publication of the notice must be assumed to be the act of the directors; (2) the call was properly made.—*GREAT NORTH OF ENGLAND RY. Sect. 148 enacts, that in an action for calls, it shall only be necessary to prove that deft. was a proprietor of the shares & had notice of the calls, & that the production of the books above referred to shall be prima facie evidence of deft. being such proprietor. Sect. 155 gives a form for the transfer of shares, & directs that the co. shall enter in some book to be kept for that purpose a memorial of such transfer, & indorse the entry of such memorial on the deed of transfer; & that until such memorial is made, the seller shall remain liable for calls. In an action against a shareholder for calls:—Held: (1) it was not necessary that the resolution for making such calls should specify either time or place of payment; (2) the production of the sealed register of shareholders containing deft.'s name as proprietor of the shares in question, was not sufficient prima facie evidence of deft. being proprietor of such shares; (3) a deed of transfer of certain shares to the deft., which had been executed by the vendor to one H. as purchaser, & upon which transfer the consideration was paid, & which was afterwards altered by having the name of H. struck out, & the name of deft. inserted, & in that state re-executed by the vendor without being re-stamped, was void; (4) it was no objection to a deed of transfer of shares that there was no proof of any entry of a memorial pursuant to sect. 155; (5) in order to show proprietorship under sect. 142, it was incumbent on the co. to produce as well the book required to be kept by sect. 140, as that required by sect. 142; but provided the name & addition of deft. are properly described, it will be no objection to the sufficiency of the evidence that the additions of other proprietors are omitted.—*LONDON & BRIGHTON RY. deft. agreeing to take three shares. The directors named met on May 27, 1850, & called in four instalments, each of 10 per cent on each share. The 6 per cent required by the statute was at the same meeting paid by the promissory note of the directors to the treasurer, who then signed a receipt for the money, & afterwards registered the instrument. By Nov. 20, 1850, the treasurer had received, by means of the call, a sum equal to the

6 per cent, & he then destroyed the note. On Jan. 13, 1854, another call was made, payable by six instalments; & this action was brought for the four instalments of the first call, & the first three instalments due on the second:—

PART IX. SECT. 8, SUB-SECT. 5.—E. (a).

e. Form of action.—Pltfs. were incorporated by Provincial Act, 27 Vict. c. 43, for the purpose of constructing a railway, the capital stock to be two millions of dollars, & the co. to proceed to locate & complete the road as soon as $50,000 of the stock were paid in. The directors were authorised to make equal assessments on the shares from time to time, as they might deem necessary, to be paid to the treasurer, & in case any subscriber for stock neglected to pay the assessment on his shares for 30 days after notice, the directors might order his shares to be sold at auction, & in case of any deficiency, he should be accountable to the co. for the balance. By Act 32, Vict. c. 54, to amend the Act of Incorporation, after reciting that it was doubtful whether the subscribers for shares were legally liable to pay assessments unless the whole amount of the capital stock has been subscribed for, & $50,000 paid in, & also, whether the notices of assessments had been given in accordance with the Act of Incorporation, it was enacted: 1. That the subscribers for stock should be liable in the same manner & to the same extent as if the whole capital stock had been fully subscribed, & as if the $50,000 had been paid in, in the manner directed by the Act of

stated, that deft., before the commencement of the suit, to wit, on Mar. 6, 1838, being the proprietor of divers, to wit, fifty shares in the undertaking, was, & deft., before & at the commencement of the suit, was & still is indebted to the co. in the sum of £250, for a call of £5 upon each of the said shares, etc., whereby & by reason of the said sum of £250 being & remaining wholly unpaid, deft. still is indebted to pltfs. in the same, & an action hath accrued, etc. Plea, stating that the deft., before Apr. 9, 1838, when the said call was payable, had disposed of all his said shares to one T. & had transferred them to him, according to the provisions of the Act. Upon special demurrer:—Held: (1) the plea was bad, as an argumentative denial that deft. ever was indebted; (2) the declaration was good in substance, under sect. 98 of the Aylesbury Railway Act, 6 Will. 4, c. xxxvii.—*AYLESBURY RY. (2) The evidence given as to the notices were left to the jury, & they held it to be sufficient. 8031. What must be proved—General rule.—(1) By 1845 Act, s. 16, the transfer of shares is prohibited after a call has been made until the call is paid:—Held: a call is made within that sect. as soon as the directors of the co. have come to a formal resolution that a call be made.

(2) Under 1845 Act, s. 27, the co., in an action for calls, must prove three things, & it need prove no more; first, that deft. was a holder of shares at the time of making the calls; secondly, that such calls were made; thirdly, that due notice of the making of the calls was given. If the Incorporation, & as if all assessments on the shares, & the notices given thereof, had been made & given according to the Act. 2. That to entitle the co. to recover against any stockholder, two months' notice of the assessment should be published in a newspaper, & after the expiration of that time, the co. should be entitled "to sue for, recover, & receive from any stockholder the amount due for unpaid subscribed stock in the same manner as if the calls for assessment had been regularly made" in accordance with the requirements of the Act of Incorporation:—Held: an 8033. —.]—In order to prove the service of a notice of a call, pltf. proved that it was the duty of C. to fill up the printed notices & direct them to the shareholders; that on the day of the call he had received instructions to send out such notices; that he had been seen in the act of making out such notices, & putting them into a basket ready to be posted, & that he had at that time a list in his hand. It was proved that all the letters in the basket were posted. C. was dead at the time of the trial, but a list, containing the name of the deft. was produced in his hand-writing, with an indorsement by him "letters sent out":—Held: this list so indorsed was admissible, as it might reasonably be inferred that it was a contemporaneous entry.—EASTERN UNION RY. CO. v. SYMONDS (1850), 5 Exch. 237; 6 Ry. & Can. Cas. 578; 19 L. J. Ex. 287; 155 E. R. 101.

8034. Discovery—Inspection of books—When granted.—Where, by a railway Act, a power to inspect all books relating to the co. is given to the shareholders, at any general or special meeting, which meetings are required to be holden at intervals not greater than six months, this ct. will not order that a shareholder who has not availed himself of that privilege, & against whom an action for calls has been brought, shall be permitted to inspect the books, & make extracts from them; especially where it appears that the object is to discover what defence can be set up, & not how any particular defence should be placed upon the record.

Semble: taking out a summons before a judge at chambers for such an inspection, is sufficient to show that there has been a demand of inspection from the directors, & a refusal.—BIRMINGHAM, BRISTOL & THAMES JUNCTION RY. CO. v. WHITE (1841), 1 Q. B. 282; 2 Ry. & Can. Cas. 863; 4 Per. & Dav. 649; 10 L. J. Q. B. 121; 5 J. P. 528; 5 Jur. 800; 113 E. R. 1139.

(2) In an action for calls by a public co., pltf. was allowed to interrogate deft. as to "whether & when he received from A. B. any writing relating to his becoming a director or shareholder, & what had become of it, & when & where he last saw it," the description of the writing being nothing more than was necessary for its identification.—WOLVER-

(b) Defences.

8037. General rule.—By the terms of a railway Act, the directors were entitled to recover for calls in arrear, upon proving that deft. was a proprietor, & that notice of calls was given according to the Act, unless deft. should prove that he had paid the full amount of his subscription. Deft. having pleaded to an action for calls, that he was not indebted, & was not a proprietor, the ct. refused to allow him to add pleas that due notice of the calls was not given; that no time or place was appointed for payment; that the calls were made for purposes other than those warranted by the Act; that they were made after deviations in the line; & that fewer shares were allotted than the Act required.—LONDON & BRIGHTON RY. CO. v. WILSON (1839), 6 Bing. N. C. 135; 1 Ry. & Can. Cas. 530; 8 Scott, 347; 9 L. J. C. P. 122; 133 E. R. 53.

8038. —.]—By the South Eastern Railway Act, 6 & 7 Will. 4, c. lxxv., no proprietor can act or vote as a director till his calls are paid; & four directors are a quorum. The directors have power, from time to time, to make calls, giving certain notice, which the shareholders are to pay, with interest from the day appointed for payment to the actual payment. In case of neglect of payment, the co. may sue in debt, etc., or the directors may declare the shares forfeited, of which forfeiture no advantage shall be taken until notice has been given to the shareholder, & the declaration of forfeiture has been confirmed by a meeting held three months at least after such notice. In any action to recover the money, it is sufficient, by the statute, to declare that deft. being proprietor, is indebted to the co. in the sum in arrear, for a call or so many calls, etc., on a share belonging to deft., whereby an action hath accrued, etc., without setting forth the special matter; & on the trial it is only necessary to prove that deft. was proprietor at the time of making the call, & that the call was in fact made & the notice given, without proving the appointment of the directors who made the calls, or any other matter whatsoever; & the co. is thereupon entitled to recover what appears due, including interest, unless it appears that the call is for more per share, or is made payable earlier, or that more calls have been made than the Act permits, or that notice of the calls has not been given. The co. having declared in debt for calls & interest thereon in the general form given by the Act, the ct., under 4 Ann. c. 16, s. 4, allowed deft. to plead the following pleas: (a) nunquam indeditatus; (b) that deft. was not proprietor modo et formâ; (c) that the shares have been declared forfeited, & the steps directed by the Act taken thereon. But struck out the following: (d) that there were not present, when the calls were made, four directors who had paid their calls; (e) that there was no notice of the 8039. Misrecital in special Act—Defendant estopped by conduct from alleging.—An Act of Parliament, 6 Geo. 4, c. xxx., to enable a co. to form a railway, prescribed the form of action against the proprietors for calls, & enacted, that it should only be necessary to prove that deft. was a proprietor, & that the calls had been made in pursuance of the Act; it also recited, that a sum of money had been subscribed by the proprietors, under a contract binding their heirs; whereas, in fact, the sum had not been subscribed, & no contract under seal had been executed by the proprietors:—Held: a deft. who, with a knowledge of the misrecital, had paid previous calls, & acted as a proprietor, was estopped from questioning the validity of the act, upon the ground of the misrecital; & it was not incumbent upon plffs. to show that deft. had executed a contract under seal, in order to prove that he was a proprietor within the Act.—*CROMFORD RY. 8042. Forfeiture & cancellation.—By a railroad Act it was enacted that in an action for calls it should be sufficient for the co. to prove that deft. was a proprietor of shares at the time of the calls for which the action is brought. The ct. refused to allow deft. in such an action to plead, in addition to never indebted, & not a proprietor, that he had forfeited his shares before the calls in question were made; or, that he had forfeited his shares & ceased to be proprietor after the calls & before action.—*LONDON & BRIGHTON RY. 8045. Statutes of Limitation—Civil Procedure Act, 1833 (c. 42), s. 3.—An action for calls, under 1845 Act is an action upon a specialty. A railway co. brought such action against one of the shareholders & declared in the form given by sect. 26 of 1845 Act. Deft. pleaded that the action was upon contracts without specialty & that the alleged causes of action did not accrue within six years before the suit:—Held: on demurrer, the plea was bad, & the action was within Civil Procedure Act, 1833 (c. 42), s. 3, & might be brought within 20 years after the cause of action & the allegation in the plea that the action was upon contracts without specialty, was a false allegation of matter of law, & therefore immaterial.—*CORK & BANDON RY. A. The Right to Transfer.

8047. Original subscriber—Never registered as shareholder.—SHEFFIELD, ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE & MANCHESTER RY. CO. v. WOODCOCK, No. 7989, ante.

8048. Transfers changing original intention & prospects of company.—A majority of the shareholders in the E. & C. Ry. Co. passed a resolution in favour of leasing their railway to the T. V. Co., which was worked upon the narrow-gauge principle. A majority of the directors of the E. & C. Co., being desirous of leasing the line to the B. & E. Co., upon the broad-gauge principle, refused to carry out the wishes of the co., & retained possession of the common seal. The minority of the directors, who concurred with the shareholders, filed a bill in the name of the co. for an injunction against the majority directors, to restrain them from leasing the railway to the B. & E. Co., & from opening the line upon the broad-gauge. The injunction was granted.

A motion was then made to dissolve the injunction, on the ground that the majority against the opening of the railway upon the broad-gauge principle had been obtained by an improper sale of shares to the S. W. Ry. Co.:—Held: the ct. could not interfere to prevent the shareholders from disposing of their interest in any legal manner, although such transfer of interest might entirely change the original intention & prospects of the co.—*EXETER & CREDITON RY. 8053. Voluntary conveyance for nominal consideration.]—The holder of shares in a railway co., whose Act incorporated the 1845 Act, conveyed the shares, along with much other property, by deed, in consideration of 10s. & the natural love & affection which he bore to his sister C., to a trustee in trust for her:—Held: this conveyance, though not a sale, was a transfer within the meaning of 1845 Act, ss. 14, 15, 16, & not a transmission within ss. 18, 19.—*COPELAND v. (b) Mode of Transfer.

8055. Necessity for deed.]—The Brighton Railway Act, 1 Vict. c. cxix., s. 155, requires the conveyance of shares to be by writing, duly stamped, to be under the hands & seals of both parties. The clause afterwards calls the instrument “deed or conveyance,” & a “deed of sale or transfer”:—Held: this conveyance must, in order to satisfy the statute, be by deed; & therefore an instrument of transfer of shares, executed by the proprietor of such shares, with the name of the purchaser in blank, & handed over by him to pltf., by whom, on the sale of such shares to deft., deft.’s name was inserted as the purchaser, was void.—*HIBBLEWHITE v. 8056. — Transfer of railway stock belonging to lunatic—Into name of Accountant-General.]—The stock of a railway co., though transferable only by deed under 1845 Act, is included in the description of “stock” as defined by the Lunacy Regulation Act, 1853 (c. 70), & an order may therefore be made under sect. 140 of the latter Act for the transfer into the name of the Accountant-General of stock of that description belonging to a lunatic.—Re IVES (1863), 3 De G. 8057. Necessity for compliance with statutory form—Right of company to refuse to register deed differing from statutory form.]—A co. incorporated under an Act containing clauses to the same effect as 1845 Act, were called upon to register a memorial of a deed conveying much other property, & also some shares in the co., by way of mtge. They refused to do so, on the ground that the deed was not to the like effect with the statutable form of transfer given by the Act:—Held: they were justified in refusing to register the deed, as it differed from the simple statutable form of conveyance.—R. v. GENERAL CEMETERY CO. (1856), 6 E. & B. 415; 25 L. J. Q. B. 342; 27 L. T. O. S. 123; 119 E. R. 920; sub nom. Re GENERAL CEMETERY CO., 2 Jur. N. S. 972.

8058. — True consideration not stated.]—The sole exor. & residuary legatee of the surviving trustee of a marriage settlement was the registered holder of a sum of stock of a co. regulated by 1845 Act, which was part of the trust fund. He deposited with a bank as security for an advance the stock certificate, a loan note undertaking to execute a proper assignment when required, & a blank transfer executed by himself. This transfer was not stamped & was expressed to be in consideration of 5s. The bank, who had no notice of the trust, subsequently inserted their own name in the blank transfer & executed it; but the deed was not redelivered by the borrower, nor executed in his presence, nor by his authority under seal. The transfer was duly registered by the co., of which the bank informed the borrower:—Held: (1) the transfer was not the deed of the borrower & did not pass the legal title to the stock; (2) although the bank were not affected with notice of the breach of trust, their title must be postponed to the prior equitable title of the persons interested under the trust. Semble: the fact that the blank transfer was not stamped & did not state the true consideration would not in itself have invalidated the deed, the provisions on that subject in the Act being merely directory.—POWELL v. 8061. Necessity for delivery of transfer to secretary.—It is essential to the legal efficacy of a transfer of stock or shares of a co. under 1845 Act, that the deed of transfer should be delivered to the secretary of a co., & be kept by him in accordance with sect. 15.

Where, therefore, a deed of transfer of stock was delivered to the secretary of a co. for registration, but was returned by him unregistered to the transferor, on the ground that it was improperly stamped & dated, & was unaccompanied by the stock certificate, & the stock remained standing in the name of the transferor:—Held: as the deed of transfer had not been delivered to the secretary as required by sect. 15, the legal title to the stock had not vested in the transferee.—NANNEY v. MORGAN (1887), 37 Ch. D. 346; 57 L. J. Ch. 311; 58 L. T. 238; 36 W. R. 677; 4 T. L. R. 129, C. A.

8063. — — — — —.]—When, under 1845 Act, s. 18, the names of exors. of a deceased shareholder in a co. are placed on the register of shareholders in respect of shares which belonged to their testator, they become joint shareholders in their individual capacity, although they may be described as exors. in the register; & consequently the shares can only be transferred by means of a transfer executed by all of them. Application having been made to a co. to register a transfer of stock, the co. sent a letter giving notice of it to the holder of the stock on the register, & stating that, unless they heard from her to the contrary, the stock would be transferred in their books. She did not answer the letter, & the co. subsequently registered the transfer. Her signature to the transfer being a forgery, she brought an action against the co. claiming to have her name replaced on the register as holder of the stock:—Held: she was not estopped from alleging that the transfer was invalid, & was entitled to the relief claimed.—BARTON v. An original subscriber parted with certain shares to deft., but the forms prescribed by the Act were not followed. giving pltf. notice, bought the same number of shares at an advance in price, & charged pltf. with the difference, which pltf. paid & then sued deft. for the amount:—Held: (1) pltf. was authorised to sell registered shares only; (2) inasmuch as no valid transfer could be made except by deed under 1845 Act, s. 14, R. was bound to have tendered a deed of transfer before he could have recovered against pltf., & not having done so, pltf. made the payment to him in his own wrong; (3) the above-mentioned letter did not amount to a refusal to complete the contract so as to dispense with a tender of a deed of transfer.—*BOWLBY v. The certificates tendered by pltf. neither contained their names as original proprietors, nor showed any indorsement to them as transferees, but were in the names of third parties:—Held: such certificates were insufficient, as not showing a title to convey in the party conveying.—*HARE v. that the deed of sale should be kept by the co., & that the secretary or clerk should enter in a book a memorial of the transfer. An entry of a transfer appeared in the book, with a memorial dated Apr. 7:—Held: this was sufficient evidence of the time of transfer, so as to make deft. a proprietor from that date, without any evidence to show when the entry was in fact made.

(2) In an action for two calls, it appeared that twenty-one days' notice of them was required by the Act; which also provided, that if any proprietor "for the time being" should not pay his ratable proportion, he should also pay interest, etc. The Act also provided, that upon the trial of an action for calls, it should only be necessary to prove that deft. at the time of making such respective calls was the proprietor of a share in the undertaking. Notice of the first call was given upon Mar. 6, to be payable on Apr. 9 of the second, on June 23, to be payable on July 23:—Held: deft., having become a proprietor on Apr. 7 was liable only to the second call.—*AYLESBURY RY. On Oct. 14, a call was made upon the shares. On Nov. 1, pltf. applied to defts. for a name to be inserted in the deed of transfer, which, by the custom of the share market, was to be prepared by the vendors. Defts. refused to give a name, & subsequently, on a tender of the shares being made, declined to accept them. Sect. 16 of 1845 Act prohibits a shareholder from transferring his share until he shall have paid all calls due upon his share. Pltfs. had not paid all the calls due upon the shares:—Held: in an action against defts. for the price of the shares, pltfs. were entitled to the verdict on the issue raised on the plea that they were not ready & willing to transfer the shares, as they were in a condition, by paying the calls, to make a valid transfer.

Certain stock of a railway co. was standing in the books of the co. in the names of two persons, T. & B. B., by a transfer executed by himself, & to which he forged the signature of T., transferred the stock to a third person, whose name was substituted upon the register for the names of B. & T. 8083. — When cause of action arises.—One of two exors. at various periods, some of which were more than six years before the commencement of the action, forged his co-exor.'s signature to transfers of stock, which were duly registered. He applied the proceeds of the transfers to his own purposes, but continued to pay the amounts of the dividends to the persons entitled. The other exor., on discovery of the fraud, informed the railway co. that the transfers were invalid, & demanded that the stock should be registered in the names of herself & another, who had been appointed trustees of the will. The railway co. declined to accede to this request, & the present action was brought that the co. might be ordered to register pltfs. as owners of the stock:—Held: (1) Stat. Limitations was no defence to the action, as time did not begin to run until there was a complete cause of action, & there was no such cause of action until the refusal of the railway co. to register the stock in the names of pltfs.; (2) one of the co-exors. could not transfer stock registered in the names of both; (3) the transfers were not good as to one moiety of the stock; (4) though the fraudulent exor. was estopped by his own action from denying the validity of the transfers, such estoppel did not affect his innocent co-exor.; (5) the innocent exor. had in equity a sufficient interest in the stock to enable her to sue against her fraudulent co-exor. & the railway co.—BARTON v. NORTH STAFFORDSHIRE RY. CO. (1888), 38 Ch. D. 458; 57 L. J. Ch. 800; 58 L. T. 549; 36 W. R. 754; 4 T. L. R. 403.

Pltf., the owner of railway shares in two cos., took certificates from the cos., for which he gave receipts. In so doing he gave his address, in one instance, at the office of a banking co., in the other at a club. He deposited the certificates with the manager of the bank for safe custody. The manager fraudulently sold the shares, & forged the name of pltf. to transfer deeds of the shares. The cos. wrote to the pltf. informing him of the transfers; & receiving in one instance no answer & in the other an answer purporting to come from pltf., but in reality forged by the manager, registered the transfer. On bill against one of the cos. & the purchaser, praying that the purchaser might be decreed to deliver up the certificate to pltf. that the co. might be decreed to cancel the alleged transfer, & the entry of it in their books, to deliver to pltf. a stock certificate, & pay the dividend then due, & all future dividends:—Held: (1) pltf. was entitled to the relief prayed, but without prejudice to any question at Law or in Equity between the co-defts.; (2) the negligence or mistaken confidence of pltf. disentitled him to costs against either deft.—JOHNSTON v. RENTON, JOHNSTON v. PARSEY (1870), L. R. 9 Eq. 181; 39 L. J. Ch. 390; 22 L. T. 90; 18 W. R. 284.

banking co., who undertook to receive the dividends for a small commission. On receiving the certificates from the railway cos., J. gave his address in one instance at the office of the bank, & in the other at a club. The manager of the bank, who had the key of the safe where the certificates were kept, fraudulently sold the shares, & forged the names of J. to the transfer. The cos. wrote to J., informing him of the transfers, & receiving, in one instance, no answer, & in another in answer to J.'s name forged by the manager, registered the transfer. J. afterwards, on discovery of the fraud, brought suits against the two cos. & the transferees of the shares, in which he recovered the shares, but the ct. gave him no costs. The banking co. being wound up, J. claimed to prove against the co. for the amount of his costs in the suits which had been occasioned by their negligence:—Held: the banking co. were bailees for reward of the certificates, & they had been guilty of culpable negligence in keeping them; (2) the loss of the costs was too remote a consequence of the negligence of the co. for them to be held liable for it.—Re UNITED SERVICE CO., JOHNSTON'S CLAIM (1871), 6 Ch. 8088. Position of transferee—Alteration of transfer—Transferor's initials added without authority—Transferee ignorant of facts.]—(1) Railway stock was purchased for pltf. & paid for by him. By a mistake of the broker, the transfer was executed by the vendor to a wrong transferee. The name of the transferee was afterwards struck out, & pltf.'s name interlined, the initials of the vendor being placed, without his authority, opposite to the correction. The transfer so altered was executed by pltf. & registered by the co., in ignorance of the fact that the initials were not written by the vendor. The vendor made no claim to the stock, & pltf. afterwards instituted a suit on behalf of all the shareholders to set aside a traffic agreement between the co. & certain other railways. The co., after the institution of the suit, being informed by the vendor that the initials were not in his handwriting, retransferred the stock into the name of the vendor, & pleaded that pltf. was not a shareholder:—Held: pltf. was not a shareholder, & had no interest to entitle him to maintain the suit, & this would have been so, even if the co. had abstained from striking his name off the register; & the bill was dismissed accordingly.

(2) The purchase of shares in a co., for the purpose of instituting a suit to restrain the carrying out of an agreement alleged to be illegal, is not maintenance, or anything savouring of maintenance.—HARE v. LONDON & NORTH-WESTERN RY. CO. (1860), John. 722; 2 L. T. 229; 8 W. R. 352; 70 E. R. 610.

8089. Rights of company—Rectification of register—Whether estopped by issue of certificate.]—C., pltf. in the second action, had been since 1875 the proprietor of certain stock in the L. & S.-W. Ry. Co. P., the confidential clerk of C., feloniously got possession of a certificate for £1,000 of the stock & sold that amount. Subsequently he forged C.'s name to the transfer, & forwarded it, together with the certificate, to the brokers of W., pltf. in the first action, who had purchased the stock from T., a member of the Stock Exchange. The brokers forwarded the transfer & the certificate to the co. for registration. The co. thereupon wrote to C. at his usual address, inquiring if the transfer were correct. The letter was intercepted by P., who replied in a way which appeared not quite satisfactory. The co. forwarded a second letter, which was also intercepted by P., who gave the co. an explanation, with which they were satisfied, & they immediately sent a new certificate to Major W.'s brokers. The fraud was subsequently discovered, & now W. sought to recover from the co. on the ground that (inter alia) he was entitled to rely upon the certificate of registration, which the co. were estopped from questioning, as he, W., relying upon it had so prejudicially altered his position as to bring the case within the authorities upon estoppel. Pltf. in the second case sought to have his name replaced in the books of the co. as the owner of the stock:—Held: (1) the co. having issued the certificate without any want of care & bonâ fide were not estopped from contesting its validity; (2) the judgment must be for defts. in the first action, & for pltf. in the second action with costs.—WATERHOUSE v. LONDON & SOUTH-WESTERN RY. CO., COATES v. SAME (1879), 41 L. T. 553; 44 J. P. 154.

8090. Practice—Action by original shareholder against company—Service of transferee under Ord. 16, r. 48.]—In giving leave to a deft. to serve notice of claim for contribution or indemnity on a third party the ct. will not consider whether the claim is a valid one, but only whether the claim is bonâ fide & whether if established, it will result in contribution or indemnity. Pltf., who was the owner of stock in a public co. registered in her name, ascertained that it had been transferred to F., by virtue as she alleged of a forged transfer. She brought an action against the co. to have her name reinstated in the books of the co. The co. obtained leave to serve F. with a claim for indemnity:—Held: leave to serve F. was rightly given.—CARSHORE v. NORTH EASTERN RY. CO. (1885), 29 Ch. D. 344; 54 L. J. Ch. 760; 52 L. 8091. Right of transferee to defend action.]—An action was brought against a railway co. to compel them to retransfer stock which pltf. alleged to have been transferred out of their names by means of forged transfer deeds. The transferees were not made parties, but the co., under Ord. 16, r. 48, served them with third party notices, claiming indemnity. The co., in their defence, set up all the grounds of defence that could be relied on against pltf.'s claim. Some of the third parties desired to defend, & the judge gave them liberty to appear at the trial, & take such part as the judge should direct. Two of them appealed from this Ord., asking that they might be at liberty to deliver a defence, appear at the trial, & put in evidence, & cross-examine pltf.'s witnesses:—Held: the third parties were not, under the old practice, necessary parties to the action & as the co. had raised all proper grounds of defence, & was bonâ fide defending the action, the order gave the third parties all reasonable protection, & the appeal must be dismissed, for while on the one hand the ct. ought to take care that the third parties had full opportunity of seeing that the questions in the cause were fairly tried, it ought, on the other hand, to take care that pl'tfs. were not embarrassed & put to expense by unnecessarily allowing persons, who were not necessary parties to the action, to take all the same steps as if they had been made defts.—*BAR-TON v. H. Transfers to Avoid Liability.

Compare Part III., Sect. 23, sub-sect. 13, ante.

8092. Validity.—A solr., who was a shareholder in an incorporated co., knowing it to be in difficulties, transferred his shares to his farm bailiff, a man without property. The transfer purported to be made for £50, but no such sum was ever paid, nor had transferee ever agreed to pay any sum. The transferor admitted that he had made the transfer to get rid of his liability, & had asked transferee to take the shares off his hands. He also stated that he had informed transferee, who had no other advice, that the co. was in difficulties; that the shares were worthless; & that a liability might attach to the ownership. The transferee stated that he had never looked upon himself as owner; that he had always considered that the shares were merely put into his name to serve some purpose of transferor's, & that he had always understood that he should be indemnified. The co. having been ordered to be wound up, transferor, as solr. of transferee, but without communication with him, made an offer to contribute a sum towards the debts of the co. to escape all further liability. He admitted that this sum was to have come out of his own pocket:—Held: the transfer must be held to have been merely colorable, & transferor was a contributory.—*Re ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH CO. A shareholder in the railway borrowed money on a deposit of the certificate of his shares, with assignments executed by him, but with the name of the transferee left in blank, & the blanks were not filled up before the shareholder became bkpt:—Held: the depositary had a lien on the shares, & the lien extended to sums paid by him in respect of calls.—*Re BOULT & ADDISON, Ex p. He borrowed money of a client on a deposit of the certificates of the shares, but no further notice of the deposit was given to the co. On the solr. becoming bkpt:—Held: the shares were in his order & disposition with the consent of the client. The knowledge, the notice which S. had, was not knowledge on his part, or notice to him in his character of secretary or joint secretary, or otherwise than in his character of shareholder only, by reason exclusively of his dealing or attempted dealing in that character, with the merely equitable title of his shares. I think that the directors were not bound by that knowledge or notice, & that they were at full liberty & had the power, legally, equitably & safely, at any time between the deposit & the bkpcy., at any time between the memorandum & the bkpcy., to permit any transfer by S. of his shares to any person (KNIGHT BRUCE, L.J.).—*Re SKETCHLEY, Ex p. A. & B., being intimate friends, the latter advanced to the former several sums of money. The last of these advances was made on July 23, 1829, on which day A. delivered to B. an order upon the secretary of the co. to transfer A.'s ten shares into B.'s name. B. did not at that time make use of the order, & A. continued to act as director until his death, in May, 1832. A.'s affairs being insolvent, & a suit having been instituted for the administration of his assets, B. then served the order of transfer on the secretary, & presented his petition in the suit, claiming an equitable lien on A.'s ten shares for the amount of his advances, with interest:—Held: these circumstances were not sufficient to show an intention to create a lien on the shares; & consequently, B.'s claim was rejected.

Mortgagee of shares in a co. must give notice of his incumbrance to the secretary, or his lien will be lost, as against a subsequent purchaser for valuable consideration without notice: Where the qualification of a party to act as a director of a co., consists of his being the proprietor of a certain number of shares, the qualification will not be lost by a mortgage of those shares.—*CUMMING v. 8105. Validity—Forfeiture not in prescribed form—Power of directors to accept.]—The directors of a railway co. agreed to accept a forfeiture or relinquishment of certain shares, held by pltf., who was at that time a director & he accordingly executed a deed poll relinquishing & transferring such shares to the co., but the forms prescribed by the Act for giving effect to a declaration or forfeiture, or for a purchase of shares by the co., were not observed. Several calls were afterwards made, without any claim upon pltf. in respect of such shares. An action being subsequently brought against pltf., for the arrears of calls upon such shares, the bill was filed, & the common injunction obtained:—Held: the injunction could only be continued on the terms of pltf. suffering judgment in the action, & paying the money into ct.

To actions of debt for the amount of calls, debt. pleaded, that before the calls were made, the directors declared the shares in question to be forfeited, but did not go on to say, that the forfeiture had been confirmed by the co. In an action for calls, it was proved that the co. gave notice to the debt., that if the calls were not paid by a certain day, the shares would be declared forfeited. The calls were not paid, & deft. afterwards tendered his vote at a meeting of proprietors, when it was rejected; but the forfeiture was never confirmed by a meeting of the co.:—Held: (1) deft. could not avail himself of this state of facts as a defence to the action, on the ground of not being a proprietor, as the forfeiture does not attach till sanctioned by a meeting of proprietors; (2) the register book, though irregularly kept in not containing the amount of the subscriptions paid on the shares, was prima facie evidence that deft. was a proprietor.—BIRMINGHAM, BRISTOL & THAMES JUNCTION RY. SUB-SECT. 1.—APPOINTMENT.

8114. Number to be appointed—Specified in private Act—Whether imperative or directory only.—By a private Act, the business of a co. thereby incorporated was to be carried on by twelve directors; five of whom were to be a quorum. There were provisions in the Act, as to the election of new directors in case of death, etc. The directors were authorised to make calls, & in case of non-payment, the co. had power to sue. An action having been brought for calls, deft. in March suffered judgment by default. In Trinity term following he applied to set aside the judgment, upon the ground that at the time the calls were made, there were only seven directors; & that he had only lately learnt that fact:—Held: the enactment as to the number of directors was only directory: Semble: the application was made too late.—THAMES HAVEN DOCK & RY. CO. v. ROSE (1842), 4 Man. & G. 552; 2 Dowl. N. S. 104; 3 Ry. & Can. Cas. 177; 5 Scott, N. R. 524; 12 L. J. C. P. 90; 134 E. R. 227.

8115. — — — — —.—In an action for calls deft. applied to set aside the proceedings, upon the ground that the co. was virtually extinct, & that the parties who had instituted the action had no authority to do so:—Held: (1) the application was too late, it appearing that deft. had known all the facts for a long time; (2) as such parties had been for some time acting as directors, the ct. would not, upon summary application, inquire into the validity of their appointment; although it was provided, by the act incorporating the co., that at the trial it should only be necessary to prove certain matters, without proving the appointment of the directors.—THAMES HAVEN DOCK & RY. I. co. was to act as bankers for W. co., & all moneys received by W. co. were to be paid to I. co., which co. was to render a monthly account of all moneys paid by it by direction & on account of W. co., & W. co. was to repay such moneys, together with a commission of 35 per cent thereon. Both cos. came to a winding up before the contemplated works were commenced. But I. co. received £72,000 from W. co., & paid £50,000 to the order of this co. for the purchase of land:—Held: (1) I. co. was not entitled to the commission of 35 per cent on the £50,000 paid to the order of W. co.; for the whole deed was void, W. co. having no power to allow another co. to nominate its directors; (2) the provision as to paying interest on the paid-up capital was illegal, was equivalent to a paying of dividends out of capital, & I. co. was not entitled to recover from W. co. the amount of interest it had actually paid to W. shareholders under that provision.—JAMES v. 8118. — — — Sole remaining director.—A light railway co. was incorporated by an order which was confirmed by the Board of Trade under the Light Railways Act, 1896 (c. 48). The order incorporated 1845 Act, & provided that the number of directors should be five, but that it might be varied so as not to be less than three, & that there should be a share qualification for directors, & that a quorum of a meeting of the directors, should be three, but that if the number of the directors was reduced to three the quorum should be two.

Sect. 9.—Directors : Sub-sects. 1, 2, 3 & 4.]

Three persons were named in the order as the first directors together with two other persons to be nominated by them. These latter were never nominated, but the number of directors was properly reduced to three, & the three named directors were continued in office. Two of them subsequently ceased to be directors. The sole remaining director thereupon purported to appoint two other persons to be directors who had not the necessary qualification as shareholders at the time of their appointment. At the same meeting or subsequently on the same day the necessary qualification shares were duly allotted to the newly appointed directors, all the parties honestly believing that it was sufficient that, if contemporaneously with, although in point of time immediately after, the appointment the qualifying shares were obtained:—Held: having regard to 1845 Act, s. 3, the only remaining director could exercise the powers conferred on the remaining directors by sect. 89 of the Act, & could validly elect new directors to fill up the vacancy caused by the retirement of his two colleagues; but that as he could only appoint persons who had the requisite qualification as shareholders at the time of appointment, the subsequent obtaining of the qualification shares did not validate the purported appointment of the two new directors.

Provisions like 1845 Act, s. 99, are to be construed broadly as between cos. & their members as between cos. & outsiders.—CHANNEL COLLIERIES TRUST, LTD. v. DOVER, ST. MARGARET'S & MARTIN MILL LIGHT RY. CO., [1914] 2 Ch. 506; 84 L. J. Ch. 28; 111 L. T. 1051; 30 T. L. R. 647; 21 Mans. 328, C. A.

8120. Necessity for holding qualification shares.]—A railway co.'s Act fixed the directors' qualification at fifty shares, & incorporated 1845 Act. B. was appointed a director before the first general meeting in place of one of the directors named in the Act who had died. B. accepted & acted in the office, but never took any shares:—Held: (1) 1845 Act makes the holding the specified number of shares a condition precedent to election; (2) B.'s appointment was therefore absolutely void, & he could not be made a contributory.—*Re ELHAM VALLEY RY. 8123. — — —.]—In 1846, L. lent a sum of money to P. to enable him to purchase the requisite amount of shares in two public cos. to qualify him for the office of director in each, & P. assigned the shares in both cos. in which he had become director to L., as a security for the loan. The qualification for the office of director in one of the cos., which was constituted by Act of Parliament, would have been lost by the disposal or reduction of the amount of that qualification, & the provisions of the deed by which the other co. was constituted required that its directors should be possessed of or entitled to the requisite amount of shares in their own right. In June, 1854, P. signed a declaration of insolvency, upon which he was adjudicated bkpt., the shares then standing in his name, but five days previously, L. gave notice to the directors of both cos. of the assignment to him. At the time of his bkpcy. P. was actually a director of one of the cos., & out of office by rotation in the other, in which he probably would have been re-elected:—Held; the shares in neither co. were in the possession, order, or disposition of P. at the time of his bkpcy., with the consent of the true owner.—*Re PEARSE, Ex p. Sect. 86 enacts, that, "if any of the directors at any time subsequently to his election accept or continue to hold any other office or place of trust or profit under the co., or be either directly or indirectly concerned in any contract with the co., or participate in any manner in the profits of any work to be done for the co., the office of such director shall become vacant, & thenceforth he shall cease from voting or acting as a director":—Held: these sections incapacitate a party contracting with a co. from becoming, or continuing, a director, but do not avoid the contract.—*FOSTER v. 8126. — — —.]—By a provisional agreement made between two cos. for the sale of the undertaking of the one to the other, the purchasing co. agreed to pay, in addition to the sum payable to the selling co., a substantial sum to the directors of the selling co. as compensation for loss of office, & the agreement was made conditional upon its adoption by the shareholders of the selling co. The notice convening the meeting of shareholders to consider the agreement described it simply as an agreement for the sale of the undertaking. The selling co. was governed by 1845 Act:—Held: (1) the provision in favour of the directors did not render the agreement ultra vires, but, (2) the notice, by reason of its omission to refer to this provision, did not fairly disclose the purpose for which the meeting was convened, & did not comply with sect. 71 of above Act: Semble: if the money payable under this agreement to the directors was a bonus to them in consideration of their facilitating the contract, the agreement would not be binding upon a dissentient shareholder.

The consequences of a director being interested in a contract with the co. are as follows: First, there is the statutory consequence that he ceases to hold office; &, secondly, there is what I may call the general legal consequence, that he cannot enforce, as against the co., any contract which he has entered into with that personal interest. But to say that a contract between two co.'s is to be treated as invalid & beyond the power of one of the co.'s because one of the directors is interested in it, is a proposition which I have never heard advanced before, & which appears to me to be entirely unsound.—*KAYE v. SUB-SECT. 3.—REMUNERATION.

8127. Right to remuneration—No provision in special Act—Company empowered to make bye-laws under seal—Resolution not under seal that remuneration be allowed.]—A co. was incorporated by Act of Parliament, which provided that eighteen shareholders should be directors, & as such should use the common seal & manage the affairs of the co. The co. was empowered to make bye-laws under seal for its government, & for regulating the proceedings of the directors, officers, servants, etc. At a meeting of the co. a resolution was passed, not under seal, that a remuneration should be allowed to every director for his attendance on courts, committees, etc., viz. one guinea for each time:—Held: a director who had attended courts, etc., could not maintain an action for payments according to the above resolution, for that it was not a bye-law within the statute, nor a contract to pay the directors or any of them for their attendances, & the directors could not be considered as servants to the co., &, as such, entitled to remuneration for their labour according to its value.—*DUNSTON v. 8128. — Necessity for resolution of general meeting.]—A director is not allowed to make any profits from the business of the co. while he is director, or to receive any other remuneration for his services, professional or otherwise, than such as the resolution of a general meeting shall have sanctioned: Semble: where a resolution of a general meeting authorises directors to remunerate one of their number for his services to the co., & they award a sum to him accordingly, the confirmation of the award by the next subsequent general meeting is not dispensed with, especially if the award is not made till long after the resolution.—NORTH EASTERN RY. CO. v. JACKSON (1870), 19 W. R. 198.

8129. What remuneration justifiable—Remuneration for past services—Company in liquidation.]—Remuneration of directors for past services, & compensation to meritorious officials on dismissal (both of which are gratuitous payments), are justifiable, provided that they are likely to conduce to the advantage of a co. in the future. Therefore, to justify any such payments, the co. must be a going concern.

Where, a co. had ceased to exist as a profit-making co., & only continued for the purpose of regulating their internal affairs, of winding up the same, & distributing when received the sums which had been fixed by arbn. as the purchase-money for their undertaking:—Held: (1) it was not within the power of the directors themselves, or of a general meeting of the co., to pass a resolution voting remuneration to the directors for their past services prior to the transfer of the undertaking, & compensation to officials who had been discharged in consequence of such transfer; (2) the co. could in general meeting vote a reasonable sum for remuneration for services during the winding up: Semble: a resolution voting the distribution of a sum of money, first in paying certain expenses properly payable thereout, the amount of which can only be estimated, & the balance among the directors by way of remuneration, even though remuneration is properly payable, is bad.

The resolution should take the form of a vote of a sum not exceeding an ascertained amount to be paid out of the balance.—HUTTON v. WEST CORK RY. CO. (1883), 23 Ch. D. 651; 52 L. J. Ch. 689; 49 L. T. 420; 31 W. R. 827, C. A.

8132. ———.]—The shareholders of a railway co., at a general meeting, passed a resolution, by which they placed a large number of shares at the disposal of the directors, who, as a body, did not interfere with the management of the co., but allowed H., their chairman, to exercise a supreme control over the co. & its affairs. The shares were then placed in the share register in the name of H. at the end of the names of shareholders, & he caused numbers of the shares to be transferred into the names of divers persons, & through different brokers sold them in the market at considerable premiums:—Held: the office of director is a place of trust: unambiguous expressions alone could confer upon them any special power; a resolution to place shares at the disposal of the directors, without more, did not render them irresponsible; they were bound to give explanations to the shareholders, & could not derive any personal or pecuniary advantage from the mode of dealing with the shares; a suggestion of the application of money for secret purposes will not exonerate directors from accounting, nor can any person in a fiduciary position retain any remuneration for his services; an acquiescence in the acts of directors cannot be raised by a production of the share register books at meetings of the co., & consequently, H. must account for the shares disposed of, & pay the costs, up to the hearing, of resisting the account.—YORK & NORTH MIDLAND RY. It appeared that the aggrieved shareholders had not previously applied for redress to the co. or to the general meetings of the shareholders:—Held: suit was incompetent, & a shareholder who is aggrieved must first proceed against the co., whose servants the directors are, unless there is collusion alleged, or the thing complained of was ultra vires of the co. as well as of the directors.—ORR v. No ordinary meeting of the co. was held within six months after passing of Act in Aug. 1876. P. resigned his office as director in May, 1877, & received a cheque for £26 5s. for his services. In Feb. 1878, P. was for the first time placed on the register for twenty shares, & notice of this was sent to him. On Feb. 4, a call of £2 a share was made on all shareholders, including P., who resisted the call on the ground that he was not a shareholder, having never applied for any shares, that he had never attended any director's meetings since the Act was passed, & that he had resigned his office as director & therewith his inchoate right to shares:—Held: P. was liable in respect of these twenty qualification shares & must pay the call; the resignation of the office of director did not imply the surrender of the director's qualification shares.—*NORTH & SOUTH WOOLWICH SUBWAY CO. v. He was from time to time present at the sealing of the register, on which his name was entered as the holder of twenty paid-up shares. He also received notices of calls due on these shares, but he took no notice of the applications. He also concurred in a report, which spoke of him as eligible for election as director. of procuring an Act of incorporation, subscribed for a large additional number of shares, in the undertaking, & signed a declaration that they held them in trust for the co., but did not pay the deposit on or register them. Subsequently, at a special general meeting of the co., it was resolved that the trust should be annulled, & the shares transferred to the secretary, to be held by him at the disposal of the co., & this resolution was confirmed at a subsequent meeting of the directors. The directors made calls on the registered shares, & proceeded to enforce payment of them:—Held: (1) the directors were liable in respect of the deposit, & all calls to be made on such additional shares, & the same must be considered as bonâ fide subscriptions; (2) they could not be considered as exonerated from such liability by the proceeding taken to annul the trust, & transfer the shares.—*MANGLES v. 8147. Defunct company—Liability account for surplus.]—Suit by a preference shareholder in a railway co., with three classes of shareholders, on behalf of himself & all other shareholders, against the directors, alleging that the undertaking had some years previously been sold to another co., from whom a sum of stock had been received by way of consideration more than sufficient to pay the liabilities of the co., & that the functions of the co. had ceased; & praying an account against the directors, that the surplus might be divided among the shareholders, & the co. wound up:—Held: the directors were liable to account for the funds remaining in their hands, & pltf. was entitled to a decree, subject to the shareholders whose interests were different from pltf.'s being represented before the ct.—*CRAMER v. The directors are answerable for an act done by their superintendent & engineer, under a general authority to manage the works, though they are personally ignorant of the particular plan adopted, & though such plan be a departure from the original & understood method, which the directors had no reason to suppose was discontinued.—*R. v. (2) The act required the shareholders to pay " to the treasurer ":—Held: an order of the trustees to pay into a certain bank, " to the account of P. M., treasurer," was sufficient.

(3) The act provided, that " in all cases where it might be necessary for the trustees to give any notice in writing to any person whatever under the provisions of the act," such notice should be signed in a particular manner:—Held: in an action against a shareholder for calls, the declaration averring that deft. had had " due notice " of such calls, to wit, " by notice in writing signed," etc., in the manner pointed out by the act, it was necessary to prove a notice signed in the manner so pointed out, although the act did not contain any express provision that notice in writing of calls should be given to shareholders.

(4) The Act provided that, where any notice was to be given by the trustees, such notice should be in writing or in print, signed by three or more of the trustees or their clerk or clerks for the time being by their order:—Held: a notice signed with the names of the clerks to the trustees, but signed in fact not by such clerks but by a clerk employed by them was insufficient.

(5) Semble: (COLERIDGE, J.) a signature by one of two joint clerks to the trustees in the name of the two was sufficient.—MILES v. BOUGH (1842), 3 Q. B. 845; 3 Ry. & Can. Cas. 668; 3 Gal. & Dav. 119; 12 L. J. Q. B. 74; 7 Jur. 81; 114 E. R. 732.

SECT. 10.—OTHER OFFICERS.

8162. Who are—Consulting engineer.]—A bill was filed by a former officer of a railway co. to obtain distribution of a sum of money which had been set apart for the compensation of the officers of the co., on its amalgamation with another co.

An inquiry was directed at chambers, and the chief clerk found that pltf. was an "officer" of the co., at an average salary of £500 a year, although at the actual time of the amalgamation he only held the appointment of consulting engineer, at an annual retaining fee of £100, & in arriving at this result the chief clerk took into consideration pltf.'s former engagement of traffic manager. The chief clerk submitted to the ct. what shares the persons entitled were to take. The other parties appealed from the decision of the chief clerk, as to the right of pltf. to participate in the fund:—Held: pltf. was an officer of the co., & the shares of the parties entitled to share must be determined on the principle of annuities, having regard to their several ages, & the amount of their salaries.—BRUFF v. COBBOLD (1874), 30 L. T. 597.

8163. Authority of—Secretary—To bind company by admission—Letters promising payment for work.]—In an action upon an agreement to do work for a railway co. to the satisfaction of a sub-committee & of the general board of directors, letters written by the secretary promising payment:—Held: admissible evidence to prove that the work had been so done.—BUSH v. WEISS (1846), 8 L. T. O. S. 137.

8164. ——— To bind directors.]—Where a director of a railway co. was present when the secretary was proposed & appointed, the letters of such secretary will not be evidence to bind that director, without showing in some way his authority to act; & such secretary having made an entry in the minute book of the co., there being no names attached to such entry, or even the signature of the chairman to it:—Held: such entry was not evidence against the directors.

A secretary has no authority generally to make contracts or to make communications to bind the co. for which he is supposed to be acting (PATTE-SON, J.).—RENNIE v. WYNN (1849), 4 Exch. 691; 19 L. J. Ex. 2; 14 L. T. O. S. 225; 154 E. R. 1392.

8165. ——— To make binding contract.]—A contract made by the secretary of a co. on behalf of the co. is not binding on them unless authorised by the directors or committee; & such contract should be by deed, under the seal of the co., & signed by the directors as required by the Act of Parliament.—WILLIAMS v. CHESTER & HOLYHEAD RY. CO. (1851), 17 L. T. O. S. 269; 15 Jur. 828.

8166. ——— Submission to arbitration.]—COLLINS v. SOUTH STAFFORDSHIRE RY. CO., No. 8357, post.

8167. ——— Solicitor—To defend or refer action.]—A writ having issued in an action of debt against an incorporated railway co., defts.' attorney consented to a judge's order referring to arbn. "the claims of pltf. in the action." Pltf. claimed, before the arbitrator, a sum for extra work occasioned by defts.' breach of covenant. The arbitrator entertained this claim, though objected to, & awarded pltf. a sum in respect of it. The ct., having refused to set aside the award:—Held: (1) if the matter in dispute were not within the jurisdiction of the arbitrator, defts. should have applied to the ct. to revoke the submission; but not having done so, & pltf. having set up this matter as "a claim in the action," & the arbitrator having so decided in respect of it, his award was binding, however erroneous; (2) the submission was valid, though the attorney had no authority, under seal, to defend or refer the cause.—FAVIELL v. 8168. Liability of—Treasurer—Submitting to reference to arbitration on promissory note—Company authorised to sue & be sued by treasurer.]—A co. were authorised by statute to sue & be sued by their treasurer, but he was not to be liable in his own person or goods by reason of his being deft. in any such action; & all costs incurred by him in prosecuting or defending any action for the co. were to be defrayed out of the moneys applicable to the purposes of the Act. Two actions between the treasurer & G., in one of which the treasurer was pltf., & in the other deft., were referred to an arbitrator, who awarded against the treasurer in both, with costs. The costs & damages being unpaid, & an attachment being moved for against the treasurer:—Held: he had not rendered himself personally liable by submitting to an order of reference; & the ct. refused an attachment, but ordered a mandamus to the treasurer & directors to pay the sums awarded.—CORPE v. GLYN (1832), 3 B. & Ad. 801; 1 L. J. K. B. 272; 110 E. R. 294.

& of the order of an arbitrator, the secretary of a co. refused to produce, before the arbitrator, numerous books & papers of the co., which pltf.'s attorney swore to be material to his case:—Held: the secretary, being in the position of a servant, was justified in obeying the orders of his masters not to produce the documents, & a rule to attach him for contempt discharged.—*CROWTHER v. 8171. Remuneration of—Secretary—Right to recover by action—No determination in general meetings.—Under 1845 Act, s. 91, the determination as to the remuneration of the secretary of a co. is to be exercised only at a general meeting. But it is no answer to an action by a secretary for his salary, that no determination as to such salary had ever been exercised at any general meeting of the co.—*BILL v. DARENTH VALLEY RY. 8173. Security of surety for due performance of duty—Discharge of surety—Amalgamation of companies.—Debt on bond given by deft. & another to the L. & C. Ry. Co. as sureties for the due performance by G. of his duties as clerk. The condition of the bond was, that if G. should render to the L. & C. Ry. Co., or to the committee for managing the London terminus of the L. & C., L. & B., & S. E. Rys. a true account of all the receipts & payments of him as such clerk, & also should pay to the L. & C. Ry. Co., or to the committee, all sums as he should receive on account of the co. or committee, then the obligation to be void. Deft. pleaded, thirdly, the bond was made before the passing of the railway Act to consolidate the L. & B. & L. & C. Ry. Cos., & that the action was commenced afterwards, & that the L. & C. Ry. Co. thereby became dissolved; fourthly, that from the making of the bond up to the time of the passing of the said Act, G. rendered to the L. & C. Ry. Co. an account of all receipts & payments, & paid all sums received by him as such clerk:—Held: (1) third plea was bad, & was no defence to the action, inasmuch as the new co. was the same as the two old ones with additional powers, & the amalgamation of the cos. did not affect the responsibilities of deft. or G.; (2) fourth plea was also bad, for not alleging a payment to the committee of the moneys received by G. on account of the three cos.—*LONDON, BRIGHTON & SOUTH COAST RY. Whilst the service continued, that co. & another railway co. were dissolved, & united into one co. by a statute; which provided that all bonds, etc., made or entered into with, in favour of, or by the dissolved cos. should "be & remain as good, valid, & effectual in favour of & against & with reference to the new co., & might be proceeded on & enforced in the same manner, to all intents & purposes, as if the last-mentioned co. had been a party to & executed the same, or had been named or referred to therein instead of the persons, co., or party actually named therein respectively":—Held: deft. was liable for breaches of the bond committed by the clerk after the union of the two cos.—EASTERN UNION RY. CO. v. COCHRANE (1853), 9 Exch. 197; 7 Ry. & Can. Cas. 792; 2 C. L. R. 292; 23 L. J. Ex. 61; 22 L. T. O. S. 104; 17 Jur. 1103; 2 W. R. 43; 156 E. R. 84.

8175. — Change in mode of remuneration.—In Jan. 1851, deft., as surety, executed a bond to a railway co., which, after reciting that the co. had agreed to appoint L. as their clerk or agent, for the purpose of selling coal, at a yearly salary of £100, was conditioned for the due accounting by L. of all moneys received by him for the use of the co. L. performed the duties of such clerk or agent at the above salary, until May, 1851, when it was agreed between L. & the co. to substitute for such salary a commission of 6d. per ton on all coal for which he should obtain orders. From that time L. was paid for his services by such commission, which amounted to a larger sum than the fixed salary. In 1852, L. was indebted to the co. for sums which he did not pay over; & the co. having sued deft. on the bond:—Held: (1) the bond was valid, although the co. had no power to deal in coal; (2) the condition of the bond was restrained by the recital, so that deft., as surety, only undertook to be responsible for the faithful conduct of L. whilst he continued clerk at such fixed salary, & consequently deft. was not liable after the change in the mode of remuneration.—*NORTH WESTERN RY. 8181. Voting by proxy—Payment of stamps & postage—Out of company's funds.]—A controversy had been going on for some years between the directors of a ry. co. & a body of shareholders with reference to questions of policy affecting the management of the co.; previously to the half-yearly general meetings the directors sent to each shareholder a circular setting out the facts & the views of the directors & asking the support of the shareholders at the meeting; with this was enclosed a stamped proxy paper containing the names of three of the directors as proxies, with a stamped cover for return. The expenses of printing, posting, & stamping these documents was paid for out of the funds of the co. In an action by the shareholders to restrain the co. & the directors from using the funds of the co. in paying expenses thus incurred:—Held: it was the duty of the directors to inform the shareholders of the facts, of their policy, & the reasons why they considered that this policy should be maintained & supported by the shareholders, & they were justified in trying to influence & secure votes for this purpose, & accordingly, expenses which had been bonâ fide incurred in the interest of the co. were properly payable out of the funds of the co.—*PEEL v. 8182. As evidence—Against stranger—Member contracting with company.]—A co. was, by its incorporating Act, required to keep books for the inspection of every member:—Held: the books were not evidence for the co. against a stranger, in order to prove, that the provisions of the Act had not been complied with.

The principle upon which partnership books are evidence against all the partners, is, that they are kept by themselves, or by their servants under their authority. Therefore, as the clerk of the co., when once appointed, is under the control of no individual member, a proprietor entering into a contract with the co. is to be deemed a stranger, & cannot be affected by any entry made under the order of the whole body.—*HILL v. 8185. Inspection of—Grounds for granting.]—By 1845 Act, s. 115, the directors are ordered to keep full & true accounts of all sums of money expended on behalf of the co. By sect. 119 the directors are required to appoint a book-keeper to enter the accounts in books to be kept for the purpose, & every such book-keeper shall permit any shareholder to inspect such books & take copies & extracts therefrom.

Under above provisions a shareholder is not entitled to inspection of the books of a public co. unless he satisfies the ct. that he requires such an inspection for a bonâ fide purpose & not out of mere idle curiosity. SUB-SECT. 5.—DIVIDENDS.

A. In General.

8190. Meaning.]—By a railway co.'s Act, after reciting that the co. had issued certain "preference shares," on the terms of the holders thereof being entitled to "fixed preferential dividends thereon, payable out of the revenues of the co.," at certain rates in the Act mentioned, it was enacted, that the income of the co., from time to time applicable to the payment of interest on moneys borrowed & dividends on shares, should be applied, first, in payment of the interest, from time to time accruing, on mtges. & bonds ; next, in payment of the preferential dividends on the several classes of preference shares, in the order in the Act specified ; & lastly, in payment ratably of dividends on original shares. The contracts upon which the preference shares had been issued & taken up, irregular in themselves but rendered valid by the Act, were to the effect that such preference shares should be entitled, some to a dividend at a certain given rate per cent for a given number of years, & at a lower given rate in perpetuity thereafter ; others to a given rate per cent without restriction as to time ; & others at a given rate per cent for a term certain, & thereafter until such time as they were redeemed by the co. :—Held : coupling the enacting part of the Act with the recitals in its preamble, & having regard to the contracts upon which the shares were issued, the holders of such preference shares were entitled, according to their priorities inter se, to arrears of former dividends before any dividend could be paid to the holders of ordinary shares ; for the word "dividend" is not, ex vi termini, restricted to profits accruing during any given period ; & here, the consequences of so restricting it would be to enable the holders of ordinary shares so to arrange the declaration of their dividends as to prevent the holders of preference shares from deriving any of the advantages for which they had stipulated.—CRAWFORD v. NORTH EASTERN RY. CO. (1856), 3 K. & J. 723 ; 3 Jur. N. S. 1093 ; 69 E. R. 1301.

8191. —.]—(1) Preference shares in a railway co. were issued under the provisions of an Act of Parliament authorising the co. to guarantee the payment of dividends thereon at a fixed rate in preference to the payment thereof on the ordinary shares of the co. The resolution for issuing them provided that they should bear "£5 per cent interest or preference dividend in perpetuity." Other preference shares were issued under an Act of Parliament providing that the holders should be entitled to dividends thereon at a given rate "in preference to the payment of dividends on the ordinary shares" :—Held : if the profits at any period of distribution were insufficient to pay in full the dividends due to the preference shareholders, the arrears must be paid out of subsequent profits.

(2) A subsequent Act of Parliament directed the profits of a particular half-year to be applied in replacing a loss sustained by the co., & directed the surplus, if any, to be applied, so far as it would extend, in paying the preference shareholders their dividends for that half-year :—Held : this Act did not take away their claim against the subsequent profits, & the right given them by the latter direction was cumulative & not substitutionary.

(3) The word "dividend," if we look to its derivation, means obviously the fund to be divided, not the share of any particular partner or person in that fund, & strict language would require us to speak not of the dividend which each shareholder is entitled to receive, but of his aliquot portion of the dividend. In construing the clauses in these Acts which give to certain shareholders in preference to others rights to dividends we must construe the word "dividend" in a secondary sense & not according to its strict original meaning.

The word "dividend" carries no spell with it. Applicable to various subjects it is not intelligible without knowing the matter to which it is meant as referring; & of course, where there is a context, it is liable to be affected by that context. But defts.' gloss upon it seems to me arbitrary & fanciful. The word, as used in the places in which we have now to deal with it, means, I apprehend, share of profits. Nor can I discover any necessity, authority, or reason for limiting & restricting the effect of the word "preference" as defts. require it to be. The expression where we have to construe it seems to me correctly used in a large & general sense as between or amongst the stockholders & shareholders in respect of time & profits (LORD CRANWORTH, C.).—HENRY v. 8192. Out of what funds payable—Out of profits—How computed—What deductions permissible.]

—A co. was authorised by some Acts of Parliament to create new shares "having preference in payment of dividends," & by others to create new shares, "& to guarantee dividends or interest" not exceeding a stated rate per annum. The co. created five sorts of preferential shares, some with a "preferential dividend out of working profits," others with "preferential dividends," & others with a "preferential interest or dividend," but giving to one class only a right to their arrears:—Held: (1) all the preference shareholders were entitled to have the deficiencies of their dividends or interest in one year made up in the succeeding years, in priority to any payment to the ordinary shareholders, but without interest; (2) in ascertaining the profits of a railway co., for the purpose of making a dividend, all the debts incurred for steam-engines, rails, completing stations, & the like, must be deducted, but not the money raised under the borrowing powers.—CORY v. LONDON-DERRY & ENNISKILLEN RY. CO. (1860), 29 Beav. 263; 30 L. J. Ch. 290; 4 L. T. 131; 7 Jur. N. S. 508; 9 W. R. 301; 54 E. R. 628.

8193. ——— Whether fund profits or capital.]—A railway co. whose original line was constructed & at work, obtained powers & money for the construction of an extension line, the shareholders in which were not to have more than 6 per cent for the first three years, & afterwards were to have their shares amalgamated with the ordinary stock of the co. The directors had in former half-years charged to capital one-half of the office expenses, & also a sum representing interest on debentures issued for lines in construction; they had also paid interest on the extension share capital out of a sum of money paid by contractors as interest in respect of unfinished lines; & a dividend on the ordinary stock had been declared accordingly:—Held: (1) whether the half of the office expenses was or was not rightly charged to capital, no interlocutory injunction could be granted on that ground, inasmuch as the balance carried over to the next half-year on the revenue account was much larger than the sum so charged; (2) it was doubtful whether interest on debentures issued for lines in construction could be charged to capital; (3) it was doubtful whether it was right to pay interest on the extension capital out of the money received from the contractors; (4) the questions were not concluded by the certificate of the auditors under Railway Companies Act, 1867 (c. 127), s. 30; (5) these were not merely matters of internal management, & the ct. would interfere in such cases if the directors were acting ultra vires, & the questions were of such importance & doubt that the injunction must be continued till the hearing.

Pltf. had bought his shares a short time before the bill was filed, & to enable him to file the bill:—

Held: (6) he was not for that reason, or for the reason that these charges had been acquiesced in by the shareholders on former occasions, prevented from obtaining an interlocutory injunction.

8194. ——— ——— ——— ———.]—A railway co. entered into a contract for the construction of an extension of the railway. The contractors were bound to complete the extension by Dec. 31, 1867, & until completion, to pay to the directors of the co. interest on so much of the extension capital as should from time to time be called & paid up; but if any delay in delivering possession of the land to the contractors should render it impracticable to complete the extension by the time appointed, such allowance was to be made to the contractors as should be equivalent to the interest payable by them for the period of the delay so occasioned. The co.'s Acts prohibited the payment of dividends out of capital. A subsequent Act enacted that all moneys paid by the contractors in respect of non-completion should be carried to revenue account & be applicable to the payment of dividends on the extension capital. The extension was not completed by Dec. 31, 1868, & accordingly the contractors paid to the directors £42,600 in respect of the half-year ending on that day; but the directors, admitting that the delay was attributable to the co.'s default in delivering possession of the land, had repaid or were about to repay, this sum to the contractors out of capital:—Held: the £42,600 was not really "moneys paid by the contractors in respect of non-completion," & that to apply this sum in payment of dividends would be a violation of the statutory prohibitions against paying dividends out of capital.—SALISBURY v. METROPOLITAN RY. CO. (1869), 38 L. J. Ch. 249; 20 L. T. 72.

8197. Conjectural value of surplus lands.—Where the directors of a co. paid dividend out of the capital moneys of the co. they were held to be personally liable for the amount so paid.

A co. were possessed of surplus lands of the alleged value of £1,200,000 which sum, if invested at 5 per cent would procure an annual income of £60,000. The net rental of such lands was about £28,000. The directors paid a dividend, not according to the actual income received from the surplus lands, but according to the conjectural one of £60,000. On a bill filed by a deferred shareholder who had not participated in such dividend:—Held: the payment of such dividend was ultra vires, & the directors were personally liable to make good the sums so paid, without prejudice to any right they might have to recover the same from the shareholders.—SALISBURY v. METROPOLITAN RY. Co. (1870), 22 L. T. 839.

8198. Question of internal management.—After the creation of the original shares in a railway co., a further capital was raised in half-shares, upon which a resolution of the directors guaranteed interest at £6 per cent for ten years. On a motion by a holder of original shares, to restrain the co. from paying any interest or dividends on the half-shares out of the profits of capital subsequently created, in preference to the interest or dividends on the original shares, & from paying any preferential interest or dividends on the half-shares, while any of the floating or unsecured debt of the co. was unpaid, except out of the clear profits of the current half year—the co. entered into an undertaking not to make such payments, unless under the authority of Parliament, until the hearing or further order. By a subsequent Act of Parliament it was enacted, that it should be lawful for the co. to commute the guarantee attached to the half-shares into any other guarantee or privilege, perpetual or terminable, which should be agreed upon by four-fifths of the shareholders of the co. at meetings, after notice, as therein mentioned. The directors thereupon proposed to commute the guarantee into an annual payment for each half-share in perpetuity. Upon a motion to restrain the co. from in any manner acting on or giving effect to the proposed scheme for the commutation of the guarantee, or from declaring or paying any commuted or other dividend on the original or half-shares, while any of the unsecured debt remained due, & except out of the clear profits of the current half-year, & so far as such profits should be sufficient after payment of such debt, & upon a cross-motion, to discharge the undertaking:—Held: (1) the Act of Parliament authorising the commutation did not take the case out of the undertaking; & therefore, the undertaking was binding until the hearing of the cause, or the further order of the ct.; (2) the undertaking was not an agreement which bound defts. to do nothing in the matter, the subject of the injunction, except under the order of the ct., or unless the ct. should be of opinion that what they proposed to do was proper to be done; but was in the nature of an injunction obtained without argument, & which defts. might apply to discharge; (3) upon the construction of the resolution, the holders of half-shares were entitled to the guaranteed £6 per cent out of any funds of the co. which could be lawfully so applied, & therefore out of future profits, before any dividend could be payable upon the whole shares; (4) independently of the construction of the resolution, the Act of Parliament having authorised a commutation of the guarantee, & the commutation having received the consent required by the Act, the co. might lawfully carry it into effect; (5) the principles which apply to partnerships composed of a limited number of persons, apply to such cos.; & the majority of the partners in a partnership of a limited number, constituted with similar provisions as to profits, could overrule the minority, upon the question, whether profits should be divided while debts of the partnership were unprovided for; (6) the manner in which profits were to be ascertained & divided was a question of internal management, & within the power of the co. to direct.—STEVENS v. SOUTH DEVON RY. Co. (1851), 9 Hare, 313; 7 Ry. & Can. Cas. 629; 21 L. J. Ch. 816; 68 E. R. 524.

8199. Dividends on money raised for works—Pending completion.—A co. incorporated by Act of Parliament being already in possession of works constructed by means of capital raised by the issue of shares, obtained by a later Act power to raise more capital for the construction of additional works. These works were of a peculiar kind, & could not be constructed by means of contracts taken in the usual way, but required that the co. should find the plant & employ workmen to act as directed by their engineer. The capital for the works was raised by the exercise of borrowing powers & by preference shares, the holders of which had certain options to convert them into ordinary shares:—Held: the co. were entitled to add to the capital required for the construction of the works the amount of the interest or dividends on the loans or shares by means of which it was raised until the completion of the works.—BARDWELL v. SHEFFIELD WATERWORKS Co. (1872), L. R. 14 Eq. 517; 41 L. J. Ch. 700; 20 W. R. 939.

8200. Capital assets generally—Meaning of “capital stock” in 1845 Act, s. 121.—The compensation payable to debt. assn. for the compulsory acquisition of its gas undertakings in various German towns by the German Govt. during the War resulted in the realisation by the assn. of a very considerable profit upon the book value of those undertakings, some of which profit, after writing down various assets of the assn., the directors proposed to treat as profit available for paying a dividend to the members. Debt. assn. was a co. incorporated & regulated by a series of special Acts which incorporated the Cos. Clauses Consolidation Acts, & had from time to time in exercise of the powers conferred by these Acts issued debenture-stock. No interest on the debenture stock was in arrear. The proposed distribution involved no reduction of capital, & the paid-up capital of the assocn. was intact. Pltf., who was both a member & a holder of debenture stock of the assocn., sought to restrain the payment of the proposed dividend:—Held: (1) the debenture-stock did not constitute a specific charge upon the German property, & no interest being in arrear, there was no debt due to the debenture stockholders, & pltf. as a stockholder had no right to interfere with the ownership, possession or dominion of the assocn. as the statutory owners & managers; (2) pltf. as a member of the assocn. could not impeach the legality of the proposed distribution, because: (a) a co. registered under the Joint Stock Cos. Acts could, in the absence of special provision to the contrary, distribute a realised profit on its capital assets, & for the present purpose, there was no substantial distinction between a co. registered under those Acts & a co. to which the Cos. Clauses Consolidation Acts applied; (b) in the present case the assocn. having power under a special Act to sell any part of its undertaking & having adopted the sale of its German undertaking, that was a "transaction" within 1845 Act, s. 116, which, in the circumstances, conferred upon the assocn. power to distribute the realised profit by way of dividend amongst its members.

In sect. 121 of above Act the prohibition against making any dividend whereby the "capital stock" of the co. will be reduced, refers not to capital assets generally, but to the paid-up capital of the co.—CROSS v. IMPERIAL CONTINENTAL GAS ASSOCN., [1923] 2 Ch. 553; 93 L. J. Ch. 49; 129 L. T. 558; 39 T. L. R. 470.

8201. At what time payable—Whether before undertaking completed—Provision in special Act.]—An Act of Parliament, which authorised the transfer of a particular portion of a projected railway from one railway co. to another, enacted, that if that portion of the railway was not completed within three years from such transfer, it should not be lawful for the railway co. to pay any dividend until the whole should be completed. That portion was not completed within the three years:—Held: (1) the co. were prohibited from paying any dividend on any of their shares, & not merely upon the capital embarked in that particular portion of their undertaking; (2) one shareholder might sue on behalf of himself & other shareholders to restrain the payment of any future dividend; & that, notwithstanding he had received interest on his shares since the expiration of the three years, he being then ignorant of the enactment in question; (3) pltf., being holder of some shares of a particular class which were not entitled at present to participate in any dividend, was not entitled, on a bill so framed, to an injunction to restrain the payment of a dividend already declared, the other shareholders who were interested in those dividends not being parties to the record or represented.

8202. —.]—A railway Act in effect enacted that if the W. line was not open for traffic within three years from Aug. 1853, or even if the rest of the P. line should be open within five years from that date, then & from thenceforth it should not be lawful for the co. to declare or pay any dividend on the ordinary or unguaranteed capital until such works had been completed. The time for completing the W. line had expired without its being finished, & no portion of the P. line was yet made. The co. were under terms to apply to Parliament for extended powers, & had applied for them. But they had also applied for power to make a new line, which was not identical with the original W. line. On a motion for an injunction to restrain them from now declaring any dividend on the unguaranteed or ordinary capital, until they had complied with the provisions of their Act:—Held: they must be conditionally restrained until the hearing or further order.—ALLEN v. TALBOT (1858), 30 L. T. O. S. 316.

8203. ——— No provision in special Act.]—The M. Ry. & Canal Co. obtained several Acts of Parliament for improving their existing canal & railways, & for making a new railway, but from want of funds they failed to complete the whole of the works within the time specified by their Acts. Upon a bill filed by a shareholder to restrain the co. from making a dividend out of the income arising from that portion of the property which was worked:—Held: the jurisdiction of the ct. had been usefully exercised in cases arising from a combination of illegal acts, breaches of contract with the public or the shareholders, & erroneous acts which shareholders could not rectify; it could not safely be laid down that in no case ought joint-stock cos. to be allowed to divide any profits or receive any tolls until all their works were complete; it was necessary to distinguish between the duty which the governing body had to perform to the public & to the shareholders; the ct. did not attempt to direct the performance of all the duties which a governing body owed to the shareholders, but left shareholders to enforce the duties to themselves arising out of internal arrangement; it was imprudent to treat income as profit while the works & the contract with the public were incomplete; the ct. had not jurisdiction to interfere, on the ground that this was a violation of a duty to the public, & because the misapplication of income was the subject of internal regulations; & the demurrer was allowed, but without costs.—*BROWNE v. 8205. Effect of declaration.]—Where a co. declares a dividend on its shares, a debt immediately becomes payable to each shareholder in respect of his dividend for which he can sue at law, & Stat. The declaration does not make the co. a trustee of the dividend for the shareholder, & an entry of the liability in the co.'s books—at any rate when no special part of its assets is set aside as representing the dividend & no notice of the entry is given to the shareholder—does not take the case out of the statute.—Re SEVERN & WYE &

8206. Mode of payment—Issue of preference shares—Validity.]—(1) A ry. co. had power to raise additional capital by the issue of shares, & to allot to them a preferential dividend, it being enacted that dividends should not be paid out of any moneys received for the shares, & that no share should be issued until one-fifth of the amount had been paid. The revenue of the co. during a particular half-year was sufficient to pay a dividend, after providing for all charges properly payable out of revenue, but, owing to the refusal of creditors of the co. to give time, the revenue was absorbed in payment of sums properly chargeable to capital. In these circumstances the co. in general meeting sanctioned a plan for offering to each shareholder, at par, preference shares to an amount equal to the dividend which would have been payable to him if the revenue had not been diverted for capital purposes. These shares were saleable, but only at a considerable discount. A shareholder filed his bill, on behalf of himself & the section of shareholders to which he belonged, to restrain the issue of shares for the above purpose, to have those already issued cancelled & to restrain the payment of dividends on them:—Held: the scheme was ultra vires, for, assuming that the shares could lawfully be issued at a discount, an issue under this scheme being in reality an issue at a discount, & assuming that owing to the diversion of the revenue to capital purposes they could lawfully be treated as assets for payment of a dividend, each shareholder who was not willing to accept an allotment of them in specie had a right to insist that the proceeds of the whole should be applied ratably in payment of a dividend to all the shareholders.

(2) An individual member of a corpn. may maintain a bill in his own name, without suing on behalf of other persons as well as himself to restrain the corpn. from doing an act which is ultra vires:—Held: those shareholders who had accepted the shares offered to them according to the above scheme were sufficiently represented for the purpose of these proceedings by one of the directors who had accepted such shares, & had them registered in his name:—Semble: the ct. would grant no relief affecting the rights of absent shareholders.—*HOOLE v. 8207. Power of directors to decide—How power exercised.]—The certificates of certain stocks of deft. co. contained on the back a clause stating that "dividends are payable by warrants which will be sent by post to the proprietor's registered address." The report of the directors for the half-year ending Dec. 31, 1908, which was sent to the proprietors, also contained a notice that "the dividend warrants will be payable on Feb. 16, 1909, & will be sent by post to the proprietors on the previous day." The half-yearly general meeting of the proprietors was held on

Feb. 12, when the proprietors passed a resolution declaring dividends on the various stocks of the co. In pursuance of this resolution a dividend warrant was sent on Feb. 15, by post to the registered address of pltf., who was the proprietor of three classes of stock in the deft. co., but failed to reach him. Pltf. immediately gave notice to the co., who stopped payment of the warrant. The warrant contained at the foot the following note: "This warrant must be signed by the person to whom it is made payable & presented for payment through a banker. It will not be honoured after three months from date of issue unless specially endorsed for payment by the secretary." The warrant never was presented for payment, & after three months had elapsed pltf. requested deft. co. to issue to him a duplicate warrant. The co. agreed to do so provided he would sign an indemnity, which he refused to do. Pltf. then brought this action to recover the amount of the dividend:—Held: (1) the directors had power under 1845 Act, ss. 90 & 91, to decide within reasonable limits in what manner the dividends should be paid, & by the notice on the stock certificate & on the report they had so decided; (2) the proprietors had by their resolution decided in effect that the dividends should be paid in mode prescribed by the directors; (3) the obligation of the co. to pay the dividend was discharged by the sending of the dividend warrant by post to pltf., who must be taken to have requested payment of the dividend in that manner.—*THAIRLWALL v. No demand was made by the board upon the co. in respect of the deficiency, until 1870, when an application was made, & subsequently an action was brought by the board against the co. for an aggregate sum representing the deficiencies arising in the receipts of the board from 1847 to 1858, during which time dividends had been paid by the co. The co. filed their bill charging wilful default, & praying an account against the board on that footing, & also a declaration that the board were debarred from enforcing their claim for deficiencies previously to 1870:—Held: the co. were not bound before declaring their own dividend to inquire of the board whether they had any claim against them in respect of the deficient income, & the board were debarred by their own laches from enforcing any claim prior to 1858, & the ct., being satisfied as to the wilful default, directed an account on that footing from 1858.—*SOUTHAMPTON DOCK CO. v. B. Preference Dividends.

8211. When cumulative.]—A railway co. issued certificates of preference stock purporting to carry "interest" at £6 per cent per annum in perpetuity. Afterwards they obtained an Act of Parliament, which, after reciting that preference stock had been created, whereby priority was assigned in the payment of "dividends" to the extent of £6 per cent. per annum, enacted, that the railway co. should pay "dividends" to the holders of such stock at the rate aforesaid, before they should pay any dividend to the holders of any other shares in the co. By a subsequent Act the co. was empowered to issue other shares called "debenture-shares" bearing "interest" at £5 per cent per annum, & was directed to apply the annual profits in payment (1) of interest on mtges.; (2) of interest on the debenture-shares; (3) of the "interest or dividend" on the guaranteed or preference shares & the arrears of such interest or dividends; & (4) as therein mentioned.

A subsequent Act referred to the preference shares as bearing "a preferential interest or dividend":—Held: the provision as to payment of "dividends" in the first-mentioned Act must be construed with reference to recital in it & to the subsequent Acts, & did not mean a share of current profits merely, but entitled the holders of the preference shares to resort to a subsequent division of profits to make their dividend up to £6 per cent. Semble: the recital alone, having regard to the purport of the certificates, would have been sufficient to give this meaning to the word "dividend."

N. Ry. Co. to require each share to be converted into two half-shares, whereof the one-half which should be so fully paid up should be denominated deferred half-share, & the other half of such share should be denominated guaranteed half-share; & thenceforth in respect of each whole share so divided, the whole of the interest & dividends which would in each year have accrued should be applied in or towards payment, in the first place, of interest or dividend after the rate of £6 per cent per annum on the amount paid upon the half-share so denominated "guaranteed" & the remainder, if any, should alone be payable to the half-share so denominated "deferred," provided that the co. should not pay any other or greater amount of interest or dividend upon the two half-shares than was for the time being paid on each undivided share:—Held: the holders of guaranteed half-shares were entitled to be paid their £6 per cent in each year not only out of the dividends accruing in that year but out of all subsequent dividends; &, therefore, if in any year the dividends were more than sufficient to pay £6 per cent on the guaranteed half-shares, the surplus must be applied in payment in the first place of all arrears due on those half-shares in respect of past deficiencies before any dividend could be declared on the deferred half-shares.

(2) The holders of the guaranteed half-shares having in a former year acquiesced in the declaration of a dividend on the deferred half-shares whilst there was an arrear of dividend due on the guaranteed half-shares:—Held: although they had precluded themselves from making any claim in respect of those particular arrears, they had not thereby renounced their rights in respect of subsequent arrears.—*MATTHEWS v. It now appearing that the profits of the railway would not, for the first time, suffice for the payment of £5 per cent on the preference & ordinary stock with a surplus:—Held: the ordinary shareholders were entitled to arrears of interest out of the surplus, & that it was not till such arrears had been paid that it could be said that a dividend of "the same amount" had been paid on the ordinary capital so as to entitle the preference shareholders to participate in the surplus under the resolution.—*ALLEN v. In the case of one of these shareholders, he assigned his shares to a trustee for the B. co., receiving the consideration money out of the assets of the A. co., though there was no evidence that this was known to him. By a private Act of Parliament transfers of shares in the A. co. were to be enrolled in Chancery, but the transfer of these shares was not enrolled until four years after the transfer, when the A. co. ceased to carry on business. Eight years afterwards an order was made for winding up the A. co., which had large liabilities, but no assets except such as could be obtained by calling up the shares, & it was held in the winding up that the claims of the policy-holders in the A. co. continued in force against that co.:—Held: (1) the case of this shareholder was to be considered by itself, & without reference to the effect which the decision might have upon the general winding up; (2) there was nothing unlawful, & no breach of trust in the arrangement between the two co.'s so as to make the transfer of the shares invalid; (3) the subsequent enrolment of the transfer was sufficient; (4) this shareholder was not a contributory in the winding up of the A. co.—Re EUROPEAN ASSURANCE SOCIETY ARBITRATION ACTS, RIVINGTON'S gas co. which previously supplied gas to the borough, & which had compulsory powers for the purpose within the borough, commenced supplying gas to an adjoining township, in which another gas co. already existed having similar powers within the township. The gas co. of the township having filed a bill against the corpn. to restrain them from supplying gas within the township, & alleging, as a personal injury which entitled them to maintain their suit, that the corpn. had contracted to supply gas to a particular manufactory within the township which otherwise they must have supplied, & that they had thereby been deprived of the profits arising from the supply of gas to the manufactory, & that great loss would be sustained by them:—Held: on demurrer, the injury alleged was not such as entitled plffs. to maintain the suit.—PUDSEY COAL GAS CO. v. The bill, filed on Sept. 22, stated that pltf., on Sept. 17, became aware of resolutions passed on Sept. 12, under which the preference shares were to be offered to the shareholders on Sept. 23; but the bill did not otherwise show that pltf. had not the means of procuring a suit to be instituted in the name of the corpn.:—Held: on the demurrers of the corpn. & of the directors to the bill, these demurrers could not be overruled, consistently with the principles stated in, or to be extracted from, Mozley v. Defts. were incorporated by an Act of Parliament, sect. 1 of which enacted that certain persons should be united into a co. for making & maintaining a certain railway & other works by the Act authorised, according to the provisions & regulations thereafter mentioned, & for that purpose should be one body corporate by the name & style of "The E. C. R. Co.," & should have perpetual succession, & a common seal. Sect. 3 empowered the co. to raise a sum of money "for making & maintaining the said railway, & other works authorised by the Act." Sect. 5 directed that the money so raised should be expended in & towards making & maintaining the said railway & other works, & in otherwise carrying the Act into execution. By subsequent sects. it was provided that the profits, after defraying the expenses of making, maintaining, & working the railway, were to be accounted for & divided amongst the proprietors of the undertaking:—Held: it was not competent to the directors to enter into a contract with another railway co., to take a lease of their line, & to pay the costs incurred by them in the soliciting & promoting of Bills in Parliament for the extension & improvement of such other line of railway, even though such extension & improvement would benefit their own co.; & such contract, if entered into, was illegal & void, & could not be enforced in a ct. of law.—*EAST ANGLIAN RYS. 8302. ———.]—The S. E. Ry. Co. was incorporated for the purpose of making & maintaining that railway, with power to raise money for the purposes of the Act. The projectors of an intended Dover & Deal, etc., railway had contemplated bringing a bill before Parliament for the establishment of such railway, but were in doubt as to proceeding. M., a person interested, & having influence, in the S. E. Ry. Co., undertook that, if the projectors of the Dover, etc., railway would proceed in endeavouring to obtain their Act, & if successful, would hand over their scheme to the S. E. Ry. Co., that co., if the bill were rejected, would insure them against loss by such rejection, & would pay their parliamentary expenses. No clause in the co.'s Act empowered them so to apply their funds. The bill was proceeded with, & rejected by Parliament. In an action against M. on the above contract, the declaration alleging that the S. E. Ry. Co. did not insure, etc., & did not pay the Parliamentary expenses:—Held: the stipulation by M. was a promise that the co. should do an act which was illegal & contravened public policy & a public statute, & an action did not lie against M. upon such promise.—*MACGREGOR v. of the provisional committee of the railway co. should pay down, or procure to be paid down, the sum of £10,000, to be held upon trust, until the railway Act should be obtained, in taking transfers of the bonds or mtges. of the canal cos., & the remaining amount of the purchase-money, within certain stated times, amounting altogether to £50,000; it was also further declared, that the purchase-money should be provided by the thereunder signed six members of the provisional committee out of their own monies, or they should procure the same to be paid as aforesaid, so that the canal cos. should not be affected by any special trusts or liabilities which might attach to the paid-up capital of the railway co. This agreement was executed by the six, on behalf of the railway co., & by persons specially appointed by the canal cos. Three of the six provisional committeemen signed a cheque for the £10,000, & with the concurrence of the other three handed it to a trustee for the canal cos., & the money was paid by the trustees of the railway co., which co. was ordered to be wound up, & the master authorised one of the shareholders to file a bill against the canal cos. for the recovery of the £10,000:—Held: the agreement was unauthorised, & one which could not be entered into without the sanction of Parliament; the £10,000 was trust money of the railway co., & not the private monies of the six provisional committeemen; the canal cos., receiving the cheque as they did, & receiving the money for the cheque from the bankers of the railway co., took the £10,000 impressed with a trust, & with notice of its being trust money, & were therefore bound to refund it.—*BRYSON v. 8306. Company authorised to subscribe towards undertaking.—In July, 1890, pl'tfs. contracted with the R. Co. for the sale of certain stock in the W. co. The real purchaser, however, was the M. co., & the money was paid by that co. in two sums, the larger on Aug. 5 & the smaller on Oct. 10, 1890. These payments were then ultra vires. But by their Act of 1891 they were authorised to subscribe towards the undertaking of the W. Co., & to hold shares therein, & a resolution authorising the M. Co. to subscribe was agreed to the day after the Act passed. The books of the M. Co. did not accurately represent the facts. The writ was issued on Aug. 6, 1896, claiming against three of the directors repayment to the co. of these sums:—Held: (1) the purchase was not a subscription within the Act of 1891, & was therefore ultra vires; (2) as to the larger sum, the writ not having been issued within six years & no fraud being alleged, Stat. Limitations afforded a good defence; (3) as to the smaller sum, the evidence showed that pl'tfs. had purchased shares to enable them to bring the action, & they were aware of the purchase by the M. Co. before Oct. 1890, & under the circumstances, the action ought to have been brought by the co. & not by pl'tfs.—WHITWAM v. WATKIN (1898), 78 L. T. 188; 14 T. L. R. 288.

8307. — Power to draw, accept or indorse bills of exchange.—It is not competent to a co. incorporated in the usual way for the formation & working of a railway, to draw, accept, or indorse bills of exchange; & the question is properly raised by a plea denying the acceptance, though the acceptance was given by order of the directors & under the common seal of the co.—*BATEMAN v. 8308. — Power to prosecute action—Not instituted by company.—A railway co. has no power to expend its funds in the prosecution of a suit not instituted by it, & a ct. of equity will, at the instance of a shareholder, restrain it from doing so, without going into the question whether or not the suit is proper, or for the benefit of the co.—*KERNAGHAN v. SUB-SECT. 3.—EXERCISE OF POWERS.

8309. Within what time exercisable—No time for completion specified.—A co. were empowered by an Act of Parliament to make a canal within certain limits, without specifying any time within which it was to be completed:—Held: no limitation as to time could be assigned to the powers conferred, by an intendment that they were to be exercised within a reasonable time, & consequently the works might be resumed at any period.—THICKNESSE v. LANCASTER CANAL CO. (1838), 4 M. & W. 472; 1 Horn & H. 365; 8 L. J. Ex. 49; 3 Jur. 11; 150 E. R. 1515.

8310. — Time for completion specified—Completion of works after expiration—Whether ultra vires.—(1) An incorporated railway co., having powers within a fixed time to complete a branch line, commenced, but afterwards, by a vote of the proprietary, suspended for a time, the works. Before their powers expired, the works, on a resolution of the shareholders, were resumed, & actively prosecuted. After the lapse of nearly a year, the powers having then expired, & the branch railway still being unfinished, two shareholders, on behalf of themselves & the other shareholders, filed a bill to restrain the further prosecution of the works. On a motion for an injunction:—Held: pl'tfs., having been aware of the intention to construct the line, & not having applied with diligence, the ct. would not grant the injunction.

(2) A shareholder, who had acquiesced in the re-commencement of the works, afterwards sold his shares to a purchaser, who objected to the further prosecution of the works:—Held: the purchaser was bound by the acquiescence of his vendor.

(3) Semble: where it is established that, on pretence of serving the interests of one co., a member of a rival co. procures shares in order to oppose the co. into which he has intruded, the ct., at the instance of such shareholder, will not ordinarily interfere.

(4) Seemle: the mere expiration of the Parliamentary period for the completion of a railway begun before the powers expired is not enough to stamp with illegality the proceeding to complete such railway.—FHOOKS v. SOUTH WESTERN RY. CO. (1853), 1 Sm. & G. 142; 21 L. T. O. S. 55; 17 Jur. 365; 1 W. R. 175; 65 E. R. 62.

If the co. have, before the expiration of the five years, lawfully acquired the right to use the land, & if they are incorporated for the purpose of making the railway, they can make it under their common law powers notwithstanding the expiration of the five years.—*MIDLAND RY. 8314. — — — — — Concurrent remedy of indictment for nuisance.]—A public co. who have obtained an Act of Parliament for executing great public works, are bound to fulfil all the duties thrown upon them, & a writ of mandamus will lie to compel the performance of the works; & it makes no difference that the breach of contract causes a public nuisance, which may be prosecuted by indictment.—R. v. BRISTOL DOCK CO. (1841), 2 Q. B. 64; 2 Ry. & Can. Cas. 599; 1 Gal. & Dav. 286; 10 L. J. Q. B. 346; 5 J. P. 546; 6 Jur. 216; 114 E. R. 27.

8315. — — — — — Work completed.]—Where an Act of Parliament empowers a co. to execute works, & prescribes the manner in which they shall be done, a party wishing to enforce the proper execution by mandamus must, after the work is completed, specifically require the co. to perform those things which, according to his view, the Act enjoins. Unless such demand be made after completion of the work, & compliance be refused, in terms or virtually, a mandamus will not be granted, though the statute has been palpably disobeyed, & though it assigned a limited time for the performance, which time has elapsed.

Complaint made while the work is proceeding, though a proper precaution, does not excuse the omission of a specific demand after the completion.—R. v. BRISTOL & EXETER RY. CO. (1843), 4 Q. landowner, being a peer of Parliament, entered into an agreement with the projectors of a railway, stipulating, among other things, that they should take certain portions of his land, & pay him certain specified sums for the same, & by way of compensation for permanent injury to his mansion & estate; that they should execute certain works of utility & ornament on his property & make & maintain a station adjoining or near to a particular road, at which all trains passing along the railway should stop for the accommodation of passengers, & for the receiving & unloading of goods, luggage, carriages & horses; with a provision that the landowner should withdraw his opposition to the bill of the projectors, & co-operate with them & use his best endeavours to prevent the bill of a rival co. from passing into a law; but that, if the bill of the rival co. should pass, then the first-mentioned co. should pay pltf. certain sums for the land the rival co. might take, & recover from the latter & pay to the first-mentioned co. the largest amount of price & compensation which could be obtained; & a provision that either of the parties might determine the agreement by notice to the other if the bill of the first-mentioned co. should not pass within six months; & a further provision, that, if the two projected cos. should be amalgamated, the amalgamated co. should pay certain sums to pltf. as purchase-money & compensation; & that the covenants & agreements concerning the purchase & taking of land, not making deviations without pltf.'s consent, & the making & maintaining such station, & all other the covenants & agreements therein-before contained on the part of the first-mentioned co., so far as the same should be applicable, should be performed by the amalgamated cos. By an Act, passed within six months, the subscribers to the two projected cos. were incorporated in one body, & authorised to make certain of the projected lines of railway; & it was enacted, that the shareholders of each co. should be entitled in certain rates or proportions to the shares of the united co.:—Held: notwithstanding the bill of the first-mentioned co. did not pass, the agreement could not be determined by a notice given by the projectors who were parties to the agreement, or by the amalgamated body.

(2) The amalgamated co. having then taken the land referred to in the agreement, & paid for it the price thereby stipulated, & having in a suit in equity brought against them by the landowner, claimed the benefit of the agreement, he filed his bill for a specific performance of his contract with the projectors of the first-mentioned co., & moved for an injunction to restrain the incorporated co. from permitting any of their trains to pass a certain station near the road mentioned in the agreement without stopping thereat for the accommodation of passengers, etc.:—Held: the union & incorporation of the shareholders of the two cos. in one body, & the consolidation of their several shares under the Act of Parliament, constituted an amalgamation within the meaning of the agreement.

(3) The decision in the case of Edwards v. Grand Junction Ry. Co., No. 8317, ante, did not proceed on the principle that the incorporated co. was bound by the contract of a party acting as an agent for them prior to their corporate existence, but on the principle that the ct. would not allow them to exercise powers acquired by means of such contract without carrying it into full effect; & in the absence of any adoption of the contract of such a party by the incorporated co., or of any attempt to exercise the powers thereby acquired or of any part performance, the ct. might refuse to enforce specific performance of such a contract against the incorporated co.; but if they adopt or avail themselves of the contract, or exercise the powers acquired by its means, the ct. will, in that case, not only negatively but positively, interpose & compel the performance by them of every portion of the contract.—LINDSEY (EARL) v. GREAT NORTHERN RY. CO. (1853), 10 Hare, 664; 22 L. J. Ch. 995; 17 Jur. 522; 1 W. R. 257; 68 E. R. 1094.

8319. —.]—The provisional directors of a railway co., for the purposes of the co., took a lease of offices for a term of 21 years, determinable at the end of seven or fourteen years: & the trustees of the co. executed such lease by their direction. A subscribers' agreement was executed, but the co. was afterwards dissolved. The co. being ordered to be wound up, one of the trustees claimed to be repaid the sums he had paid on account of rent since the dissolution of the co.:—Held: the co. at large were not liable.

Not only do I think that a contract of this description was in its nature improper—not using that word offensively—towards the co. at large, the directors being aware of the uncertain & provisional position in which they stood, but it seems to me to have been absolutely prohibited by the subscribers' agreement or the Act of Parliament, or both (KNIGHT BRUCE, V.-C.).—Re NORTH LONDON JUNCTION RY. r. — Contract with provisional directors — Before flotation.] — Seven persons, deft. being one, were incorporated as the A. & T. Ry. Co., with power to obtain a certain amount of stock. As soon as it was obtained, a meeting of the stockholders was to be called to organise the co. These seven, acting as provisional directors, passed a resolution authorising R. to retain counsel to prosecute a suit in chancery on their behalf, & on the same day

It is ultra vires of a corp'n. established for the purpose of making a railway, to enter into a covenant to pay a large sum of money to a man for not opposing the passing of the co.'s bill in Parliament. P. was a landowner, a railway co. was projected, & for the intended railway some of his land would be required. He threatened to oppose the Bill. The projectors entered into an agreement with him, that "in case the co. shall obtain an Act of incorporation, the co. shall pay to P. £1,000 for all lands required by the co. for the due making of the railway, & £4,000 for residential injury to the estate & hall of P.," that a tunnel should be constructed in a particular manner through a part of his property, & that a passenger station should be made, etc.; P. withdrew his opposition, & the bill passed: the railway was not made nor were the lands required:—Held: this was not a contract which on the mere passing of the bill entitled P. to claim from the co. payment of the money.—*PRESTON v. 8321. — Contract not embodied in company's Act.]—The magistrates of H. agreed with the provisional committee of the projected C. railway co., to allow the co. to lay their line of rails along the streets of H., to allow the co. to take certain ground of the burgh without payment, & themselves to apply for an Act of Parliament, to extend their harbour, & to charge on the harbour dues £3,000 to be lent to them by the co. On the other hand, the committee bound the co. to pay all the past & future expenses of enlarging the harbour, & of applying for the Harbour Act, & that £3,000 only of such moneys should form a charge on the harbour & dues. The magistrates of H. duly obtained their Harbour Act. The committee also obtained their Railway Act, but the said agreement was not incorporated in or noticed by the latter Act. The co. never made the branch line to the harbour of H. for which they obtained powers, & declined to carry out the agreement:—Held: the magistrates were not entitled to specific performance, for it would be ultra vires of the co. to make a harbour, there being no power given to them for that purpose by their Act: the doctrine developed in Edwards v. Grand Junction Railway Co., No. 8317, ante, & afterwards followed in many subsequent cases is contrary to sound principle & is not supported by authority; the true rule is, that the co. are not bound by the contracts of the projectors, unless such contracts are embodied in the Act of Parliament.—*CALEDONIAN & DUMBARTONSHIRE JUNCTION CO. v. J., acting as the solr. & secretary of a projected railway co., by the authority of the promoters, & by means of a cheque signed by two of them, obtained from pltf. an advance of £500, to be applied in payment of parliamentary fees, upon an agreement expressing that it was "to be repaid out of the calls on shares." An Act authorising the construction of the railway passed, the promoters being named therein as the first directors; & at a meeting subsequently held the directors passed a resolution that the acts of J. should be adopted & confirmed. No shares were allotted or calls made, & the undertaking was not proceeded with:—Held: the advance was made upon the personal responsibility of those who signed the cheque, & the subsequent adoption of their acts by the directors did not alter their position.—*SCOTT v. 8329. Effect of 1845 Act, s. 97—General rule.]—(1) The above sect., which points out in what manner the powers of directors to contract may be lawfully exercised, while enacting that all contracts made according to its provisions shall be binding, does not enact that contracts otherwise entered into shall not be binding; the Act being affirmative, it takes away none of the existing rights & remedies, & does not deprive the ct. of any equity or jurisdiction which it previously possessed.

(2) Where directors of a co. have power to make a contract, they must necessarily have the power also of ratifying a contract to the like effect made on their behalf; &, having ratified it, they can the less repudiate it where they have given possession under the contract.

Pltf. having by letters entered into a contract with the manager of a co. for the purchase of lands, a branch line of railway in accordance with the terms laid down by the co.'s servants, plant & machinery were removed to the purchased lands by the co., & pltf. was let into possession:—Held: although the manager had at the outset no authority to make the contract at all, these subsequent acts of the directors had made it binding upon them.—WILSON v. 8331. — — — Work done for company.]—A public co. incorporated by Act of Parliament entered into a contract under seal with pltf. for the execution of certain works, according to the terms of a specification, which also contained provisions for work. He entered upon the work under the superintendence of the co.'s engineer, & with his approbation: executed certain works not coming within the provisions of the contract under seal. The work being finished pltf. made a claim upon the co. to a large amount, & subsequently the directors paid him a sum, but not an account. By above sect. the directors are empowered to make parol contracts, without the same being reduced into writing, where such contracts would, if entered into between private persons, be valid; &, by sect. 98, the directors are bound to enter minutes of such contracts in a book, & by one of the clauses of the special Act of the co., three directors constitute a quorum:—Held: in an action for the extra work, the mere fact of the work being done was not sufficient, in the absence of any order of directors, or anything from which a parol contract could be inferred, such as would bind the co.; & there was no evidence for the jury of liability on the part of defts.—HOMERSHAM v. 8332. — — — Acceptance & user of goods.]—A clerk to an engineer of defts., a railway co. agreed with pltf. for the purchase from him of some railway sleepers on certain special terms. a view of obviating bonâ fide opposition on the part of pltfs. to defts.' Act. Dismissed on the ground that there was no agreement under seal, or signed by two of the directors of the railway co. as required by above sect., notwithstanding pltfs. had, upon the faith of the agreement, withdrawn their opposition, & had further performed their part of the agreement, by obtaining an Act authorising the sale & purchase of the canal, & notwithstanding other circumstances tending to show part-performance, & a bonâ fide intention by both parties to complete.

By the Act authorising the sale & purchase of the canal, defts. were "authorised & required," with consent of three-fifths of the proprietors present at a special meeting, "to purchase the canal upon such terms & conditions as shall be or may have been agreed upon between the said cos." The proprietors present at a special meeting, duly held & called in every respect as required by the Act, passed an unanimous resolution—afterwards communicated to pltfs.—authorising the directors to purchase the canal for £12,000, upon such terms & conditions as to them should seem meet:—Held: the Act not referring to the previous imperfect agreement, did not give validity thereto; notwithstanding the meeting had been held, & the requisite consent of the proprietors obtained, the co. were not bound by the words "authorised & required to purchase," inasmuch as the purchase was to be subject to such terms & conditions as should be agreed upon "between the said cos."; the proprietors having referred it to their directors to settle such terms & conditions, the latter could only do so in the mode prescribed by above sect., viz. by an agreement signed by two at least of their number.—LEOMINSTER CANAL NAVIGATION CO. v. SHREWSBURY & HEREFORD RY. CO. (1857), 3 K. & J. 654; 26 L. J. Ch. 764; 29 L. T. O. S. 342; 3 Jur. N. S. 930; 5 W. R. 868; 69 E. R. 1272.

8335. Rescission of contract—Made by majority of shareholders—By persons afterwards becoming shareholders & constituting majority.—The G. W. Ry. Co. entered into an agreement with two other cos., A. & B.—which agreement was sanctioned by three-fifths of the then shareholders of the A. & B. cos.—to purchase their lines, under a power of sale contained in their Acts; & it was a term of that agreement that the A. & B. cos. should apply to Parliament for powers to amalgamate their lines, & that the directors of the G. W. Ry. should have certain powers as to the manner of making the lines & controlling the expenditure. In consequence of the transfer of shares to persons not favourable to this agreement, resolutions were afterwards passed, by which it appeared that it was the desire of the majority of the then shareholders of the A. & B. cos. to repudiate the agreement with the G. W. Co., & they refused to make the application to Parliament, & to oppose it if made by the directors pursuant to the agreement. The G. W. Ry. Co. then filed a bill for the specific performance of the agreement, & at the same time applied for an injunction to restrain the dissentient shareholders of the A. & B. cos. from entering into any agreement with any other co., or doing any act in violation of their original agreement:—Held: (1)

there was a sufficient case shown by the bill to support it against a demurrer for want of equity; (2) an agreement to apply to Parliament for powers to do something, not included in a particular Act, is such an agreement as the ct. will recognise to the extent of compelling the parties to keep matters in statu quo until the application to Parliament be made; (3) an agreement, not in itself invalid, made by the majority of the shareholders, cannot be rescinded by resolutions passed by persons afterwards becoming shareholders, although they may then constitute the majority.—*GREAT WESTERN RY. 8336. Cheque drawn by directors—In fraud of company—Not purporting to be drawn on behalf of company.—A., B., & C., three directors of a railway co., in fraud of the co., drew a cheque upon the co.'s bankers in favour of one of their body. This cheque, though bearing the stamp usually impressed upon documents issued by the co., & countersigned by the secretary, did not upon the face of it purport to be drawn on behalf of the co., nor did the drawers describe themselves therein as directors:—Held: the co. were not liable for the amount of a bonâ fide holder for value.—*SERRELL v. 8337. Presentment delayed at request of chairman.—A railway co. had entered into an agreement with a landowner for the purchase of land A. They found that they did not at the time require this land, but required immediately land B., belonging to the same landowner. He consented to sell them B. if they would at the same time pay for A. The finance committee of the co. drew a cheque for the price of A. & another for the price of B., & left the chairman to make the best arrangement he could with the landowner. The agent of the landowner received both cheques, upon an agreement that the cheque for B. should not be presented for a week, to give time for the completion of a more formal agreement as to the purchase of A. than that which had been executed. The preparation of the agreement having been delayed beyond the week, communications took place between the chairman of the finance committee—who was one of the drawers of the cheque—and the landowner's solr., in which the former desired that the cheque might continue to be retained, as the agreement was not completed. It appeared that the fact of the cheque being outstanding had been the subject of discussion in the finance committee, & had been considered by them unsatisfactory. Before the execution of the agreement, & before the presentation of the cheque, the bank failed on which it was drawn, & in which the chairman was a partner:—Held: whether the chairman, in desiring the presentation of the cheque to be delayed, was acting ultra vires or not, his act was sanctioned by the committee & bound the co., & the co., & not the landowner, must bear the loss.

8338. Contract made with provisional directors Before flotation—Failure of flotation.]—A railway co. being incorporated by Act of Parliament to construct a railway, the original directors entered into a contract with a promoter to float the co. The promoter appointed a provisional board, by whom a contract was entered into, in the name of the co., with a contractor for the construction of the railway. The promoter did not float the co., & the agreement with him fell through, the capital being raised from another source:—Held: the contract for the construction of the railway was entered into by persons wholly unauthorised to act as directors of the co., & judgment must be given for debts.—SHARPE v. BRIGHTON & DYKE RY. CO. (1884), 1 T. L. R. 28.

8354. Against directors—Parties—Whether company or shareholder.]—A bill was filed by a shareholder in a waterworks co., incorporated by Act of Parliament, on behalf of himself & the other shareholders, except defts., against the co., the directors, & the promoters of a rival bill in Parliament, withdrawn in the session of 1874, alleging that the withdrawal of such bill was the result of a corrupt agreement between the directors & the promoters; that the directors had paid to the promoters, out of the funds of the co., the sum of £5,500 in pursuance of the agreement; that the promoters well knew that that sum was paid out of the funds of the co., & the directors had no authority to pay it; & that no resolution was ever passed at any meeting of the shareholders authorising or confirming such payments; & charging that the sum of £5,500 was illegally paid out of the funds of the co. to the promoters, with notice that the same was so paid to them illegally & by a breach of trust, & that they concurred therein; & praying a declaration that the agreement & the payment of the £5,500 was not binding on the co.; that an account might be taken of the moneys so paid, & that the directors & promoters might repay the same, with interest:—Held: on demurrer, the bill could not be sustained, for the co. were the proper pltf. in a suit to bring back the fund, & it was not alleged that they refused to institute a suit, or that there was anything to prevent their doing so.

amalgamating the C. & G. Ry. Cos. provided that, with a view to the proper division of profits in manner therein mentioned between the shareholders of the two cos., the auditors of the G. Co. should determine what portion of the general charges, arising in respect of the C. line, was to be charged against the revenues of each co., provided that in estimating the revenue of the C. Co. the fares charged by the G. Co. in respect of traffic passing partly over the C. line & partly over any other line belonging to the G. Co., should be apportioned according to the mileage traversed. The Act further provided that in case of differences between the shareholders of the C. Co. & the G. Co., affecting the interests of the shareholders of the C. Co., they might require a general meeting to be held, & upon the attendance of a certain proportion of shareholders might elect, or require to be appointed, two arbitrators, & that all questions in difference should be referred to such arbitrators or their umpire, whose decision should be final. A dispute having arisen between some of the C. shareholders & the G. Co. regarding the amount of deductions to be made from the revenue of the C. Co. in respect of the B. line, the running powers over which were vested jointly in the G. & the L. Co.'s, but which, the C. shareholders contended, must for the purpose of the accounts be treated as belonging to the G. Co., two of the C. Co.'s shareholders filed a bill for the purpose of determining the principle upon which the accounts were to be taken:—Held: the question being merely one of account as being two classes of shareholders, for the determination of which the Act of Parliament had provided sufficient machinery by means of arbitration, the ct. would not interfere, & the bill was dismissed with costs.—*YOOL v. A dispute as to the price to be paid for his shares having arisen between a shareholder & a co. not a railway co., & the arbitrators having neglected to appoint an umpire:—Held: the case was within Common Law Procedure Act, 1854 (c. 125), s. 12, & a judge could therefore, appoint an umpire under that sect.—Re ANGLO ITALIAN BANK & DE ROSAZ (1867), L. (1) A railway co., after exhausting their Parliamentary borrowing powers, issued bonds in the form known as Lloyd's bonds—viz., an acknowledgment of debt & a covenant to pay with interest on a future day—partly to a contractor & partly to persons who supplied a Parliamentary deposit. At the time of the issue the co. was promoting or contemplating a bill, which was ultimately passed, to enable them to raise further share & loan capital:—Held: these facts would not justify the ct. in declaring the bonds illegal.

Afterwards, the directors of the co., without the sanction of a general meeting, as required by 1845 Act, s. 39, re-issued debentures to such an amount as, with the existing debentures, did not exceed the statutory powers of the co.:—Held: (1) the debenture issued to W. was void ab initio; (2) the judgment creditors, since they had been actually paid, could not be treated as trustees for all the debenture-holders; & sect. 39 of the Act is merely discretionary & for the protection of the co., & not of creditors; (3) the debentures issued by the directors subsequently to the payment of the judgment creditors not having been in excess of the co.'s borrowing powers, were valid so far as they were issued for good consideration.—*FOUNTAIN v. 8362. — Representation that further borrowing valid—Personal liability of directors.]—Defts., directors of a dock co., having fully exercised their power of issuing debentures under their Act, & with knowledge of this fact, authorised the issue of a debenture-bond to plffs., & having received £2,250 in payment for it, applied such moneys in road being given within the scope of the powers conferred upon the co. to "alienate, sell, or dispose of" lands for the purpose of constructing & work-extinction of a guarantee on which they had become personally liable for an advance made to their co. Pltfs. finding that the debenture-bond was worthless, brought an action against defts. to recover the amount paid by them for it:—Held: defts. were liable for the whole amount paid for the debenture, on the ground that the document itself contained representations that they had had power to issue a bond which would be valid & binding on the co.—ARNOLD v. ARMISTAGE (1885), 1 T. L. R. 670.

8363. ———.]—A docks co. were empowered by their special Acts to issue debenture-stock to a fixed amount. Between Apr. 1881 & 1883 various transactions took place between the secretary of the docks co. & the London agents of pltfs. in respect of advances by pltfs. to the co., the usual arrangement being that pltfs. should take a bill of exchange drawn upon the co. by the contractors of the co., & also certificates of debenture-stock, accompanied by a letter from the secretary to the effect that the certificates were a collateral security. The advances were renewed from time to time, & finally consolidated by an agreement of Oct. 20, 1882 made in consideration of a further advance. Some of these certificates were indorsed by G., one of the directors of the docks co., to the effect that the stock represented thereby was within the statutory limit. In Jan. 1883, it came to the knowledge of the docks co. that there had been an over-issue of debenture-stock since Jan. 1881, & that the co. was insolvent. A special Act was obtained under which an arbitrator was appointed to settle the claims arising out of the condition of the co. Under that Act certain classes of debenture-stock were authorised to be issued. Stock under one of these classes was awarded & issued to pltfs. in respect of their loan & interest. The stock was admitted to be worthless, & pltfs. brought an action for damages against the directors & the secretary:—Held: pltfs. advanced their money on the faith of the warranty contained in the indorsements on the certificates by G., & were, therefore, entitled to damages against him. The measure of such damages was the difference between the values of the certificates as delivered, & those which ought to have been delivered, which in this case was the whole amount advanced by pltfs. The issue of debenture-stock by way of collateral security was not ultra vires Cos. Clauses Act, 1863 (c. 118), s. 22.—WHITEHAVEN JOINT STOCK BANKING CO. v. REED (1886), 54 L. T. 360; 2 T. L. 8364. On what securities—Company empowered to issue bonds & debentures.]—(1) The G. railway co. had by their original statute of incorporation no power given to borrow money, but a subsequent statute gave power to borrow money from time to time for maintaining & working their railroad, to pledge the lands, tolls, & revenues for due payment thereof, & to make bonds or debentures for securing the repayment of any sums so borrowed in certain terms:—Held: the securities on which the co. had power to borrow were not restricted to bonds or debentures; a statute having passed to legalise a loan of money already illegally made by the G. co. to another co., it became as lawful to apply the funds of the G. co. for that other co. as for maintaining the G. co.'s own railway.

(2) A statute legalised a loan already made of £250,000 by the G. co. to another co., & also authorised the G. co. to use its funds by loan or otherwise to facilitate access to other railways, provided no such expenditure should be incurred unless sanctioned by a vote of two-thirds of the G. shareholders:—Held: a bank, in advancing money to the directors of the G. co., was bound to ascertain for itself, at its own risk, whether the loan was authorised by the G. shareholders, & had no right to assume that the G. directors must have authority to borrow.—COMMERCIAL BANK OF CANADA v. GREAT WESTERN RY. CO. OF CANADA (1865), 3 Moo. P. C. C. N. S. 295; 13 L. T. 105; 16 E. R. 112, P. C.

8365. By issue of Lloyd's bonds—Right of holder to sue on bond.]—A railway co. were empowered by their special Act to raise a capital of £555,000, & to raise by mtge. any further sum not exceeding £185,000; but no part of such further sum was to be raised until the whole of the capital had been subscribed for & one-half paid up. Part only of the capital was subscribed for; but the co., being in want of money, determined to borrow £10,000 to enable them to pay debts due to the contractor, engineer, solrs., & for land, & also to meet a claim made by C. for travelling expenses & loss of time. The directors applied to their bankers, & obtained the sum required on the security of the joint & several promissory note of C., the then chairman of the co., & of B., one of the directors. B. having been compelled to pay the money, brought an action against C. for contribution. The board of directors resolved that, "in order to discharge the liability of the chairman in the action of B. against him, the secretary be authorised to seal Lloyd's bonds to the extent of," etc. Bonds were accordingly sealed with the common seal of the co., by each of which the co. "acknowledge that they stand indebted to C. in the sum of £1,000 for money due & owing from the said co. to the said C.; & the said co., for themselves, their successors & assigns, hereby covenant with the said C., his exors., & administrators, to pay to him, his exors., administrators or assigns, the said sum of £1,000," etc. These bonds were delivered to C. & he assigned them to one D. to secure money advanced by him, & with which money the action brought by B. against C. was settled. Subsequently, the directors resolved that the bonds should be redeemed, & that the expenses incurred by the chairman should be paid by the co. out of the first moneys in their hands. In an action brought by C. upon one of these bonds:—Held: taking into consideration Railway Regulation Act, 1844 (c. 85), 1845 Act, & the special Act, the bond was illegal, & he could not recover.

As to the point whether the prohibition against borrowing extends to the overdrawing by the co. of the account at their bankers to a small extent for the immediate necessities of the co.; I think the right answer is, that if a co. were permitted to overdraw to a small amount there is no reason why they should not do so to any extent to which their credit would reach (CROMPTON, J.).—*CHAMBERS v. 8370. By issue of debentures & debenture-stock—Issue before half capital paid up—Contrary to special Act.]—By a railway Act, power was given to the directors to borrow money upon debentures, when all the shares should be allotted & half the capital paid up. The co. having a great number of shares unallotted, contracted to sell them to debt. at a discount of £5 per share, & upon payment by debt. of the whole sum agreed upon, the co. were to deliver debentures to the amount of £5 per share to debt., payable three years after date, provided they were in a position legally to do so. At the time of the contract, much less than half the capital had been paid up:—Held: the contract could not be enforced.—WEST CORNWALL RY. CO. v. MOWATT (1848), 17 L. J. Ch. 366; 12 Jur. 407.

SUB-SECT. 2.—SUBJECT-MATTER OF INSTRUMENT OF CHARGE.

8374. "Undertaking"—Meaning.]—(1) The A. ry. co., incorporated by a local Act, being also a land co., transferred by agreement, together with the undertaking, all its property, lands, rights, & appurtenances to the B. ry. co., also incorporated—such agreement being confirmed by a private Act of the Imperial Parliament. The B. ry. co. having borrowed money, issued debentures to secure the same; these were termed mtge. debentures, the principal & interest thereon being secured on the undertaking, & all moneys to arise from the sale of the lands of the co., all future calls on shareholders, & all tolls & sums of money which should become due with the plant & rolling-stock, & with power of entry & possession of the same, on failure by the co. of payment of principal & interest as therein specified, with a proviso that nothing therein contained should be held to limit the power of sale or appropriation by the co. of any of the lands of the co., nor constitute a charge on the same. These bonds were not registered:—Held: (1) such debentures did not constitute a charge in the nature of an equitable mtge. on the lands of the co., so as to give the holders of such debentures a right to restrain the sale of the lands by judgment creditors of the co., or any title to the proceeds of the lands when sold; (2) as judgment creditors under an execution take the precise interest, & no more, which the debtor possesses in the property seized, the sale being a sale by the law, & not by the co., such judgment creditors took the lands subject to any incumbrances, legal or equitable, that they were subject to in the hands of the co.

(2) A transfer of the "undertaking" of a railway does not prima facie include the lands of the co.—WICKHAM v. NEW BRUNSWICK & CANADA RY. CO. (1865), L. R. 1 P. C. 64; 3 Moo. P. C. C. N. S. 416; 35 L. J. P. C. 6; 14 L. T. 311; 12 Jur. N. S. 34; 14 W. R. 251; 16 E. R. 158, P. C.

8375. —.].—(1) A mtge. debenture made by a railway co. in the form given in 1845 Act, Sched. C., does not give the debenture-holder a specific charge upon the surplus lands of the co., or the proceeds of the sale of them, so as to entitle him to an order for a receiver of the sale moneys or interim rents. The "undertaking" of a railway co. which is pledged in such a mtge., is the going concern created by the Act, which cannot be broken up or interfered with by the mtgee.: the "sums of money" are moneys ejusdem generis as the tolls, & are the earnings of the undertaking, which may be made available to satisfy the mtge. A railway co. may give a specific charge on the moneys to arise from the sale of its surplus lands for a debt due to the contractors who have constructed the works.

No other person was empowered to take tolls. The Act likewise authorised them to borrow money, & to assign & charge "the property of the said undertaking, & the rates, tolls, & other sums arising or to arise by virtue of this Act," as security. It gave a form of mtge., by which the co. were to assign "the said undertaking, & all & singular the rates, tools, & other sums arising," etc. Mtgees. were to be entitled, one with the other, to their proportions of the said rates, tolls, & sums & premises, according to the sums advanced, without preference by reason of priority in date of mtge., etc. Parties holding mtges. were not on that account to be deemed shareholders:—Held: by such mtge. the mtgee. did not acquire title to the land, & he could not bring 8383. Call made but not payable.]—Defts. signed judgment against a railway co. on Feb. 9, 1866, & on July 31, obtained a garnishee order nisi under the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854 (c. 125), whereby it was ordered that all debts due & owing or accruing due from P., a shareholder in the co., should be attached to answer the judgment. On May 12, pltfs.—the contractors for the line—received from the co.'s engineer a certificate in the form agreed on by the co., that £96,200 was due to them for work done & materials supplied under the arts. of agreement, one of the clauses of which authorised the engineer from time to time to "ascertain the extent & value of the works then executed & the materials then provided for the works by the contractors." Of this a sum of £11,000 represented materials provided for, but not actually affixed to, the line. On June 4, 1866, the co. issued to pltfs. paid-up shares to the amount of £52,200 in part-satisfaction of the sum so certified to be due. On June 11, they made a call of £5 per share, payable on July 14; & on July 13, they, by a deed reciting that they were indebted to pltfs. in £40,000, assigned the call to them by way of security, with a power of sale at any time after Oct. 13. Before the garnishee order was made absolute, pltfs. claimed from P. £1,000, being the amount of the call due upon 200 shares held by him; & the judge directed an issue, to try the validity of the assignment. P. had no actual notice of the assignment, but he was present as a director at the board meetings at which it was resolved that the assignment should be made:—Held: it was competent to the co.'s engineer to certify for "materials"; the co. might properly assign the call as security for a bona fide debt, though the time for payment of the call had not yet arrived; the assignment was not rendered invalid by the power of sale, inasmuch as the exercise of that power might be restrained by injunction, or that part of the deed rejected; &, if notice were necessary in such a case—which the ct. inclined to think it was not—P. had such knowledge of the assignment as amounted to notice.—*PICKERING v. W. Ry. Co. scheduled to the Wye Valley Railway Act, 1866 (c. cclvii.), & confirmed & made binding upon the cos. parties thereto by sect. 53 of that statute. Clause 11 of the agreement provided that the interest on the bonds & debentures of deft. co. not exceeding £76,600 should be a first charge on the gross receipts, & should be paid thereout by the G. W. Ry. Co., & should be repaid to that co. by deft. co. out of its proportion of the divisible receipts from time to time; & that in case of any deficiency of such proportion in any half-year the amount of such deficiency should be a charge on any moneys payable by the G. W. Ry. Co. to deft. co. in any subsequent half-year. Deft. co. sought to apply out of gross traffic receipts moneys required for the purpose of discharging certain outgoings which were absolutely necessary in connection with the branches or subsidiary works of deft. co.'s undertaking:—Held: pltf.'s charge had absolute priority over the claim made by deft. co.—*PROFFITT v. At the same time three of the directors guaranteed to the wagon co. the payment of the rent. The wagon co. brought an action against the railway co. & the sureties for non-payment of rent due:—Held: the transaction was not a borrowing of money, but a bona fide sale & hiring of the rolling-stock, & was valid both against the railway co. & the sureties.

Resps. received from the B. co. an invoice for the wagons & a receipt for the £743, & from the owner of the wagons a receipt for the £257. At the same time resps. leased the wagons to the B. co. for three years, at a yearly rent payable quarterly & calculated to replace the

£1,000 with seven per cent interest, upon the terms that if all the payments were duly made the B. co. should have the option of purchasing the wagons at the end of the lease for a nominal sum, & that if the rent was not duly paid after demand resps. should be entitled to re-possess & enjoy the wagons as in their former estate, & that the agreement should thereupon cease & determine. The B. co. having made default in payment of the rent, resps. claimed the wagons from a railway co. into whose possession they had come, but were resisted on the ground that the transaction was void under Bills of Sale Acts, 1878 (c. 31), & 1882 (c. 43), the documents not being in the form prescribed by those Acts for bills of sale:—Held: the transaction was in fact a purchase by resps., & was not a mtge. by the B. co. or a security for the payment of money.—MANCHESTER, SHEFFIELD & LINCOLNSHIRE RY. These deeds were not in the form given by the Act, nor were they registered:—Held: as the property assigned by these deeds was not such property as that contemplated by sect. 39 of the first Act, but was property to which the trustees were entitled independently of the Act, therefore the trustees had an absolute control over it; & the mtges. in question were valid.—*McCORMICK v. 8397. Resolution for issue passed at insufficiently attended meeting.]—Where a co. has power to issue legally transferable securities an irregularity in the issue cannot be set up against even the original holder if he has a right to presume omnia rite acta. If such securities be legally transferable such an irregularity & a fortiori any equity against the original holder, cannot be asserted by the co. against a bonâ fide transferee for value without notice. Nor can such an equity be set up against an equitable transferee, whether the securities were transferable at law or not, if by the original conduct of the co. in issuing the securities or by their subsequent dealing with the transferee he has a superior equity. If the original conduct of the co. in issuing debentures was such that the public were justified in treating it as a representation that they were legally transferable, there would be an equity on the part of any person who had agreed for value to take a transfer of these debentures to restrain the co. from pleading their invalidity, although that might be a defence at law to an action by the transferor.

A co. having, subject to the conditions in 1845 Act, the power of borrowing, issued, after resolutions passed at a meeting at which an insufficient number of shareholders were present, debentures to the contractor, P., who was present at the meeting & knew of the irregularities of the co. P. transferred some of the debentures to Y., a sub-contractor, for a nominal consideration, & some to C. for value. Y. had a bill against P., & R. discounted it & took as security a deposit of some of the debentures which had been registered in the name of P. These debentures were not transferred to R. & the transfer to Y. was not registered.

T. took a transfer of other debentures from Y. for a nominal consideration which had not been registered in the name of P., but the transfer to Y. had been registered, & T. alleged that he gave value to Y. Registration of the transfer to T. was refused. He brought an action against the co. for payment & for registration, but it was stopped by the winding up. C. had a transfer for full value & registered:—Held: (1) C. had a valid claim to be paid his debentures, & the co. were estopped from setting up the irregularity in the issue of them; (2) R. & T. must be treated as equitable transferees only, but without reason to suspect any irregularity in the issue, & they could be allowed to recover only such a sum as each of them might be able to prove he bonâ fide advanced upon the securities which he received.—Re ROMFORD CANAL CO., POCOCK'S CLAIM, TRICKETT'S CLAIM, CAREW'S CLAIM (1883), 24 Ch. 8401. Estoppel of company from setting up illegality of issue—As against bonâ fide transferee for value.]—A body corporate, having issued debentures, which are assignable, & purport to have been executed pursuant to powers conferred by statute, is estopped from alleging against an innocent assignee for value that the debentures have been issued illegally & in contravention of the statutory powers; & the assignee may by action of mandamus compel the body corporate to apply its funds to liquidate the interest due on the debentures, as required by their Act of incorporation.

Commissioners were incorporated by statute for the purpose of improving the town of H., & were empowered to levy rates, & to borrow money. For securing the payment of the loans made to them, they were authorised to issue in a prescribed form debentures, bearing interest & capable of assignment. A person being a commissioner was forbidden under a penalty to accept any contract for carrying out the objects of the statute. The commissioners bought bricks for the purposes of the Act from H., a commissioner; & in order to provide for payment of the bricks they executed & delivered to him debentures in the prescribed form, which were duly registered as required by the Act. H. assigned them to pl'tfs. for value without notice of the circumstances under which they were issued. The commissioners having made default in payment of the interest due upon the debentures:—Held: assuming the transaction to have been illegal, as the commissioners had issued the debentures, knowing that they might be assigned, they were estopped from alleging that the debentures had been illegally issued; & pl'tfs. were entitled to maintain an action of mandamus to compel the commissioners to apply their funds in payment of the interest.—*WEBB v. On motion, by consent, a receiver was appointed. While the receiver was in possession, a simple contract creditor of the co. sued out execution & levied upon the goods of the co., & refused to withdraw after notice of the order for a receiver. Upon motion to commit the sheriff for contempt:—Held: it was no answer to the motion to show that the order for a receiver ought not to have been granted; & the sheriff was ordered to withdraw & pay the costs, but without prejudice to any application by the execution creditor to be heard pro interesse suo, or otherwise.

On petition by execution creditor, the ct., on the ground that pl'tf. had no equity for a receiver, ordered that the receiver should keep sufficient goods within the bailiwick for one month, & that the execution creditor should be at liberty to levy after that time, unless in the mean time security was given for the debt, etc., to await the order of the ct.

The rolling stock was at the end of that period, the payments having been duly made, to become the property of the co. The co. gave to the contractors collateral security for the payment of these instalments. Immediately before the date of this agreement the co. had sold the same rolling-stock which was comprised therein to the contractors, & had received from them £25,000. Subsequently a receiver & manager of the co.'s undertaking was appointed on the petition of a judgment creditor, & the rolling stock contractors brought in a claim for the balance of the rent due to them under the agreement of Apr. 1889. It was contended, on behalf of the debenture-stock holders that the agreement was not a bona fide hire-&-purchase agreement, but was in fact a borrowing by the co.:—Held: (1) a debenture-stock holder, attending the proceedings, was entitled to be heard on

B. Priorities.

8409. As between lenders inter se.] — FRIPP v. BRIDGWATER & TAUNTON CANAL & STOLFORD RAILWAY & HARBOUR CO., No. 8436, post.

8410. —.]—In an Act of Parliament granting fresh borrowing powers to a railway co., a reservation of the rights & priorities of “existing mtges.” will not, in the absence of express words to that effect, be construed so as to include mtges. created in renewal of, or substitution for, mtges. existing at the date of the Act.—ROBINSON v. CAMBRIAN RYS. CO., JONES v. CAMBRIAN RYS. CO. (1869), 17 W. R. 441.

8411. — Different issues of debenture-stock.]—By the Cornwall Minerals Railway Act, 1873 (c. clxii.), a railway co. was empowered to borrow on mtge. to the extent of £250,000, & to issue debenture-stock subject to the provisions of the Companies Clauses Act, 1863 (c. 118), Part III., but notwithstanding anything therein contained, the interest of all debenture-stock, at any time created by the co., was to rank pari passu with the interest of all mtges. “at any time granted by the co.” & should have priority over all principal money secured by such mtges. By a later Act of 1875, the co. were empowered to raise additional capital; & after providing that the principal secured by all mtges. granted by the co. before the passing of the Act, should have priority over the principal secured by all mtges. granted by virtue of that Act, the co. was empowered to issue debenture-stock subject to the provisions of the Companies Clauses Act, 1863 (c. 118), but the interest of all debenture-stock created & issued at any time after the passing of that Act was to rank pari passu with the interest of all mtges. granted after the passing of that Act & should have priority over all principal moneys secured by such mtges.

By another Act of 1877 power to raise a further sum by the issue of debenture-stock under provisions similar to those in the Act of 1875 was given to the co.

The co. granted mtges. & issued debenture-stock under the powers of the Act of 1873 before the passing of the Act of 1875. They also issued further debenture-stock under the powers of the Act of 1873 after the passing of the Act of 1875, but before the passing of the Act of 1877. They also issued further debenture-stock under the powers of the Act of 1873 after the passing of the Act of 1877; & also issued debenture-stock under the powers of the Acts of 1875 & 1877 after the passing of the Act of 1877.

The co. being unable to pay the interest on all these mtges. & debenture-stock in full, a receiver of the undertaking was appointed by the ct., & a special case settled for ascertaining the priorities:—Held: (1) notwithstanding the words “at any time” in the Act of 1873 the enactment therein contained applied only to the mtge. debt & debenture-stock for which provision was made by that Act; (2) upon the true construction of the several Acts of 1873, 1875 & 1877, the order of priority of the interest on the mtges. & debenture-stocks was as follows: (a) the interest on the mtges. & debenture-stocks granted & issued under the powers of the Act of 1873 previously to the passing of the Act of 1875; (b) the interest on the debenture-stock issued under the Act of 1873 after the passing of the Act of 1875, but before the Act of 1877; (c) the interest on the debenture-stock created under any of the Acts, after the passing of the Act of 1877; (3) the principal of mtges. for the time being due had priority of payment next after the interest of the debenture-stock issued before the passing of the Act of 1875.—FENTON v. HARRISON (1883), 8 App. Cas. 780; 49 L. T. 372, II L.; affg. S. C. sub nom. HARRISON v. CORNWALL MINERALS RY. CO. (1881), 18 Ch. D. 334; 51 L. J. Ch. 98; 45 L. T. 498, C. A.

The co. exercised such borrowing powers by the creation of debenture-stock. Subsequently to such creation the co. alternately issued debenture-stock & bonds. The income was insufficient to pay the interest on the debenture-stock & bonds:—Held: the special Act in effect substituted the time of the passing of that Act for the time of creation of the debenture-stock—the time specified in Companies Clauses Act, 1863 (c. 118), s. 24—as the period for determining in what order the stock was to rank, & also the interest on all mtges. or bonds subsisting at the time of the passing of the special Act had priority over the interest on debenture-stock granted by virtue of that Act, & the interest on bonds granted after the passing of that Act ranked pari passu

The co. made several mtges. of the rates, tolls, & dues under the Act; one of the mtgees., on behalf of himself & all others, obtained the appointment of a receiver of the co.'s rates, tolls, & dues, who was ordered to pay thereout the expenses of carrying on the co.'s business, & then the interest on the said mtges., & to pay the balance into ct. in the cause. A judgment creditor of the co. presented a petition in the cause before the hearing, praying that he might be at liberty to sue out & execute a fi. fa & elegit against the goods & lands respectively of the co.:—Held: he might execute a fi. fa., but all he could take under the elegit would be such right in the lands as the co. had, namely, subject to the mtges. & to the right of user of the canal by the public, & subject also to the powers of management of the co.—*POTTS v. C. Remedies.

(a) Action.

8421. When action lies—Action of covenant.]—A canal co. were authorised by statute to raise money by an instrument under their common seal, upon the security of the undertaking, rates, duties, etc., by way of mtge., so as that all who advanced money should be creditors in equal degree, & no preference be given to any, in respect to the priority of advancing their money or the dates of their securities. It was provided in the deed-poll, given in pursuance of the statute, by which money advanced by pltf. to the co. was secured, that the interest should be paid half-yearly. The assets of the co. not being sufficient to discharge all their debts:—Held: an action of covenant against the co. for arrears of interest was not maintainable; pltf.'s remedy being against the undertaking, rates, duties, etc., under the statute.—PONTET v. BASINGSTOKE CANAL CO. (1837), 3 Bing. N. C. 433; 3 Hodg. 46; 4 Scott, 182; 6 L. J. C. P. 177; 132 E. R. 477.

8422. — Effect of provisions of special Act.]—7 & 8 Vict. c. lxxxv., "for making a railway from Colchester to Ipswich," empowered the co. to borrow money on mtge. Sect. 49 enacted, "That the co. may, if they think proper, fix a period for the repayment of the money so borrowed, with the interest thereof; & in such case the co. shall cause such period to be inserted in the mtge. deed or bond, & upon the expiration of such period the principal sum together with the arrears of interest thereon, 'shall be paid' to the party entitled to such mtge. or bond." By sect. 50, if no time was fixed in the mtge. deed for repayment, the mtgee. might at the expiration of twelve months, demand payment of the principal & interest, upon giving six months' previous notice; & the co. might at all times pay off the money borrowed upon giving the like notice. By sect. 51, if such interest remained unpaid for thirty days after it became due, & demand thereof made in writing, the mtgee. might either sue for the interest so in arrear by action of debt, or require the appointment of a receiver. By sect. 52, if such principal & interest were not paid within six months after the same became payable, & after demand thereof in writing, the mtgee. might sue for the same in any ct. of law or equity, or, if his debt amounted to a certain sum, require the appointment of a receiver. Pltf. lent to defts. £1,000 upon the security of a debenture—in the form given in a schedule to 7 & 8 Vict. c. lxxxv.—which provided that the principal was "to be repaid on Jan. 1, 1851":—Held: (1) where a corpn. is created for certain purposes, with power to sue & be sued, to borrow money for the completion of those purposes, & to secure the repayment of such money by an instrument which on its face imports a covenant for repayment; if money be so borrowed & so secured, an action primâ facie may be maintained against the corpn. on breach of the covenant; (2) in this case such right of action was not taken away or affected by 7 & 8 Vict. c. lxxxv., since sects. 51 & 52 of that Act did not give a right of action but merely recognised it as already existing, & provided an additional remedy by the appointment of a receiver.—*EASTERN UNION RY. within which no action or suit was allowed to be commenced without leave, except in respect of liabilities contracted after the passing of the Act, with certain specified exceptions:—Held: the debenture-stock so issued was within the protection of the Act, & the holders were not entitled without leave to institute a suit for the purpose of obtaining payment of interest in arrear.—*LONDON FINANCIAL ASSOCN. v. 8430. ———.]—By a canal co.'s Act, the proprietors were empowered to borrow on the credit of the undertaking & to assign the property & rates as a security for the sum borrowed, in a form which fixed no date for the repayment of the principal. It was declared that there should be no priority by reason of date or otherwise amongst the debenture-holders; & that every holder of a debenture might transfer the same according to a form specified. It was further provided, that the interest due on the moneys so borrowed should be paid in preference to any dividend to shareholders. By a subsequent Act, further borrowing powers were given to the co., & it was provided that all persons to whom mtges. should be made under that Act should be entitled to the co.'s rates & property in proportion to the "interest" of the sums for which such mtges. should be executed:—Held: the holder of a debenture of the specified form was entitled, upon non-payment by the co., after six months' notice of the principal money secured by the debenture, to a receiver; although there was not, & never had been, any arrear of interest; & although some of the debenture-holders refused, & others might not be able, to consent to be paid off.—*HOPKINS v. 8436. Effect of appointment—Position of receiver—Agent of company.]—Where there is an express provision in Acts of Parliament to the effect that no mtgee. of a co. is to have any benefit out of the tolls & rates, except that he is to be paid without any preference by reason of priority of date, there are strong reasons for holding that any mtgee. who finds that others are being paid, without having taken possession, in priority & in preference to himself—there being no covenant to pay by the co., & the only fund being that formed by the tolls, rates & duties—might be entitled to file a bill to restrain payment of the other mtgees. in preference to himself, & to have himself & them put upon an equality; & that without being obliged to ask the ct. for a receiver or putting himself in possession of the mortgaged property. Where the whole of the mtgees., or some or one or more of them on behalf of the others of them, put themselves in possession of the property, a co-mtgee. who does not acquiesce in the proceedings—& he need not do so—may, under the Acts say, as between him & the co., & the receivers of the tolls, that he had a right to look upon the receivers as agents of the co.; & that the co-mtgees. are entitled to share pari passu. Where therefore a pltf., a second mtgee., subject to the above principles filed a bill for an account on behalf of himself alone against his co-mtgees. & others as agents of the co., but failed to establish his case as to the agency, his bill was dismissed as to that, but he was held entitled to an account.—Frupp v. Bridgwater & Taunton Canal & Stolford Railway & Harbour Co. (1857), 29 L. T. O. S. 176.

G., a debenture-holder under another Act, recovered judgment, issued an elegit, & gave notice to the tenants to pay their rents to him. An order directing G. to withdraw the notices, & restraining him from all interference having been made:—Held: the order must be discharged, on the ground that the lands in which G. was interested were not covered by the order for a receiver, which could extend only to the lands, etc. in which pltfs. were interested.—*Gardiner v. 8438. ——— Judgment creditor also debenture-holder.]—After the appointment of a receiver of a railway undertaking, made in a suit in behalf of debenture-holders, a debenture-holder recovered judgment at law, & petitioned for leave to issue execution:—Held: petitioner was not entitled to issue execution otherwise than as a trustee for himself & all other debenture-holders entitled by the special Acts to be paid pari passu with himself; but an inquiry was directed whether it would be for the benefit of the debenture-holders that any proceeding should be taken by the receiver for the purpose of making the judgment available for them.—*Bowen v. The co. had entered into possession of the lands, but had not paid the purchase-money. Debenture-holders of the co. who were not parties to the Crown's suit, afterwards obtained, in another, the appointment of a receiver over the lands. The Crown then presented a petition, praying an order to be put in possession of the lands, notwithstanding the appointment of the receiver:—Held: as the Crown had not obtained any declaration of lien, & even if it had, as the debenture-holders were not parties to the Crown suit, the petition must be dismissed.—*A.-G. v. a long time unpaid, appointed a receiver of the tolls, rates & duties, & of the estate of the co.

A receiver was appointed by the ct. of the rates, tolls, duties & other property of a canal & railway co., incorporated by Act of Parliament, notwithstanding that the Act of incorporation provided that a committee of twelve of the proprietors should be elected at every annual general meeting to manage the affairs of the co.

A receiver of the rates, tools, duties & other property of the co., appointed by the ct. at the suit of a mtgee. whose interest was long in arrear, notwithstanding the Act of incorporation gave the mtgee. in such a case the specific remedy of applying to & obtaining the appointment by two justices of the peace of a receiver of such rates, tolls & duties. until the interest in arrear & the costs & charges should be satisfied, accompanied by a provision that the Act should be without prejudice to any remedies which such mtgee. might have either in law or equity.

It is no objection to the appointment of a receiver over the property of a co. whose business is in the nature of a trade that the application is made by one of several mtgees. who, according to the terms of their mtges., have the legal estate in the property; nor is it any objection that the co. has duties to perform, the neglect of which might subject them to indictment, for the order of the ct. always gives the parties liberty to apply, whereby any such consequence may be averted.

A receiver appointed at the suit of a mtgee. having a charge of £10,000 forming about a ninth of the entire mtge. debt of the co., although the other eight-ninths of mtgees. did not concur in the application.

Subsequently at the instance of the county council, 8447. ——— Water company.] — Conveyancing Act, 1881 (c. 41), s. 19, conferring on a mtgee., where the mtge. is by deed, a power of sale, does not apply to the debentures of a joint-stock co.

By a provisional order under Gas & Water Works Facilities Act, 1870 (c. 70), authorising a waterworks undertaking, two individuals, " & the survivor of them & the exors. or administrators of such survivor, their or his assigns " were declared to be the " undertakers " for the purposes of the order, & power was conferred on the undertakers to acquire lands by agreement—but not compulsorily—to construct waterworks, & to supply water to the inhabitants of a district & charge rates for such supply; the amount of the capital of the undertaking was specified, & the amount of all moneys borrowed by the undertakers & " secured by mtge. of the undertaking," was not at any time to exceed a specified sum. The undertaking was assigned to a limited co. formed for that purpose, & the co. issued debentures whereby they " charged " their undertaking lands, works, property & effects—both present & future—with repayment of the money borrowed, the charge being expressed to be a floating security not hindering any sale, exchange, or lease of the lands, or the receipt or payment of any moneys, or any other dealings in the course of the business of the co., but attaching to all the property for the time being, whether real or personal, of the co. By a subsequent provisional order further powers were conferred on the co. & they only were recognised as undertakers for the purposes of that order. The co. afterwards made default in payment of the principal moneys secured by the debentures on the day named therein for payment. In an action by debenture-holders claiming—amongst other relief—a sale of the undertaking & property comprised in the debentures as a going concern, & the appointment of a manager until sale:—Held: (1) the waterworks undertaking being for a public purpose & not a mere private undertaking, the principle of the decision in Gardner v. London, Chatham, & Dover Ry., No. 8375, ante, was applicable; (2) the debentures did not confer upon the holders of them a power to sell the undertaking, & the ct. ought not to direct a sale of the undertaking or the appointment of a manager.—BLAKER v. HERTS & ESSEX

Pltfs. suing on behalf of a class should specify that class as accurately as possible. For instance, where, in an action brought by a debenture-holder suing on behalf of himself & all other the holders of debentures in a limited co. which had been dissolved & reincorporated by a special Act under the name of deft. co., pltf. was described in the title of the action as suing “on behalf of himself & other the holders of the debentures of deft. co. & its predecessors in title”:—Held: this description was too vague & required amendment.—*MARSHALL v. 8452. When winding up ordered—Dock company.—(1) The exception from the power to wind up unregistered cos. given by 1862 Act, s. 199, of railway cos. incorporated by Act of Parliament, applies only to cos. whose principal object is the construction of a railway; & therefore a co. whose principal object is the construction of docks is not brought within the exception by reason of having power also to make a branch railway for purposes connected with the docks.

(2) Where, in an Act of Parliament incorporating a co., it is stated that the construction of the works authorised by the Act is of public advantage, the ct. will be reluctant to make an order to wind up the co., unless it is shown that there is no other process by which its difficulties can be overcome.

Debenture-holders of a co. being empowered by Act of Parliament to enforce the payment of principal & interest by the appointment of a receiver:—Held: until a receiver had been actually appointed, & had failed to obtain payment, the ct. would not, at the instance of debenture-holders, order the co. to be wound up.—Re EXMOUTH DOCKS CO. (1873), L. A debenture-holder, who had brought an action to enforce his security, & had obtained the appointment of a receiver, presented a petition to wind up the co.:—Held: the exercise of his remedy as a debenture-holder did not deprive him of his right as an ordinary creditor to present a winding-up petition, & he was entitled to the order.—Re PORTSMOUTH BOROUGH (KINGSTON, FRATTON & SOUTHSEA) TRAMWAYS CO., [1892] 2 Ch. 362; 61 L. 8457. In respect of what period payable—Failure to redeem principal—Continuance after date of redemption.]—The G. W. Ry. Co. issued to pltfs. debentures in the following form:—"We, the G. W. Ry. Co., in consideration of £1,000 to us paid by P. & G., do assign unto them the said undertaking, & all the estate, etc., to hold the same until the said sum of £1,000, together with interest for the same after the rate of £5 for every £100 for a year, payable as hereinafter mentioned, shall be fully paid. It is hereby stipulated that the said principal sum of £1,000 shall be payable & paid on Jan. 15, 1844, & that in the meantime the said co. shall, in respect of interest as aforesaid on the said principal sum, pay to the bearer of the coupons or interest warrants hereunto annexed, the several sums mentioned in such warrant respectively," etc. In Jan. 1844, the interest due on the bonds up to Jan. 15, 1844, was paid to pltfs. The co. did not then pay, nor did pltfs. require, the principal, nor did the co. give to pltfs. notice that they were ready to pay it:—Held: these debentures continued to carry interest from Jan. 15, 1844, until payment.

This is substantially a mtge., & the practice in such cases invariably is, to give interest by way of damages. If defts. wish for the future not to pay interest, they must have the money ready at their banker's, & give notice to their creditors of their being ready to pay them; strictly, they must tender the money (PARKE, B.).—PRICE v. GREAT WESTERN RY. The co. & directors demurred to the bill, & the demurrer was allowed.

It is no ground for relief in equity, at the suit of a shareholder against the co., that the charter from the Crown or the grant to the co. from a private person has been obtained by misrepresentation to the Crown or to such grantor. It is for the Crown or the grantor, if either should complain of the fraud & misrepresentation, to take proceedings to set aside the charter or the grant.

8486. Whether consistent with prior subscription contract.]—The subscription contract of a projected banking co., after reciting that the capital was agreed to consist of £1,000,000, with power to increase it to £3,000,000, & that application had been made to the Crown for a charter, nominated certain persons directors until the charter should be obtained, with power for them to arrange the terms of the charter in such manner as they should think necessary in compliance with the requisition of the government, & to narrow or extend the objects of the co. as might be necessary. When the charter should have been sealed, the directors were empowered to prepare a deed of settlement & to call for a first instalment from the subscribers, & to declare a forfeiture of the shares of any subscribers who did not execute such deed of settlement. A charter was obtained incorporating the co., with a capital of £644,000, & power to increase it to £1,000,000 with the consent of the Lords of the Treasury. A call was made & a deed of settlement prepared reciting the charter, the call & its payment by the parties to the deed of settlement:—Held: (1) the power of the directors was not terminated on the grant of the charter; (2) the charter was not inconsistent with the subscription contract; (3) the call was properly made; (4) the deed of settlement was binding on the subscribers to the subscription contract; but (5) as the deed of settlement made the payment of the call a requisite preliminary, & the subscription contract did not make non-payment of the call a ground for forfeiture, the directors could not declare a forfeiture for non-execution of the deed of settlement.

The directors executed the subscribers' contract, but the number of shares taken by each was omitted to be set opposite to their respective names:—Held: the qualification [of fifty shares] required by the subscribers' contract did not apply to directors appointed by the deed of settlement.—*NORMAN v. execution of the deed prepared in conformity with the provisions in the royal charter you will be entitled to fifty share certificates of the co.” Deft. paid the deposit on the shares; the royal charter was afterwards granted & the deed prepared & executed by many of the shareholders, but not by deft. Deft. subsequently paid several calls, but refused to pay the calls now sued for. The deed required the shares to be numbered in succession, beginning with one, & each share to be distinguished by its separate number, & a register of shareholders to be kept. In the register the names of the shareholders were entered, deft.'s among them, but against his name in the column for the number of shares was a blank:—Held: deft. not having executed the deed was not liable for the calls under & by virtue of the deed as alleged in the declaration.—*IRISH PEAT CO. v. (2) A mandamus will not be issued to a trading corp'n. to receive the vote of a member at meetings of the corp'n.

The writ of mandamus is the proper remedy, where there is a legal right, & the law affords no other sufficient legal remedy. Appct. fails to show a legal right to be upon any register of shareholders. There is nothing in the charter of the co., in any Act of Parliament, or in any bye-law requiring that there should be any such register. If there be any such in existence, it must be a mere list or memorandum of names kept by some officer of the co. for his own convenience, or that of the Ct. of Assistants. If appct. have a right to vote at the meetings of the co. in a particular way, that is a legal right, for the invasion of which there is a legal remedy by action; but it is not matter for a mandamus (LORD CAMPBELL, C.J.).—R. v. COPPER MINERS OF ENGLAND CO. (1850), 16 L. T. O. S. 148.

8489. — — — — —.]—A co. was incorporated by royal charter, which required that provision should be made in the deed of settlement for the due registration of shareholders; the deed accordingly provided that the directors of the co. should cause a register of shareholders to be regularly kept, & that the personal representatives of a deceased shareholder should be entitled to be registered as the owners of the deceased's shares on performing certain conditions. Pltf., being the administrator of a deceased shareholder, & having performed the conditions, brought an action for damages against the co. for not registering him as a shareholder, & also claimed in his declaration, under Common Law Procedure Act, 1854 (c. 125), s. 68, a mandamus to the co. to register him:—Held: this was a case in which, before the Act, a mandamus would have been granted, & pltf. was therefore entitled to claim it under the Act.

year a general meeting at a particular time. Special general meetings might also be called, of which notice was to be given by advertisement. No business was to be transacted at any special general meeting besides the business for which it was called. By the cos.' Act—6 Geo. 4 (c. 39), s. 14—no advantage was to be taken of the forfeiture of shares, unless the same should be declared to be forfeited at some general or special general meeting. A meeting, after the time named in the charter for the annual general meeting, was called by advertisement "to receive the annual report; to declare the forfeiture of certain shares, etc., & on other business; & the co. thereby further gave notice that the said general meeting was made special for the purpose of electing directors":—Held: such meeting was competent, as a special general meeting, to declare the shares forfeited.

By the same sect. of the Act no advantage was to be taken of the forfeiture of any shares until after thirty days' notice should have been given to the owner or owners thereof. By sect. 12, in cases where the holder of any share should become bkpt., etc., an affidavit should be made & delivered to the clerk of the co. that he may register, etc., & until such affidavit should have been delivered, ~~no such person should be entitled to sell or assign such share or to claim any dividend.~~ R., the proprietor of shares, having become bkpt. in 1847, his assignees took no steps to procure their names to be placed on the register till 1853. Calls were made of which the assignees had notice. In 1851 the shares were declared forfeited by the co. Notice of such forfeiture was served upon the bkpt., his name being at the time on the register as owner of the shares:—Held: such notice was properly served upon the bkpt.—*GRAHAM v. 8507. Winding up—Jurisdiction of court to order.]—(1) In the charter of a co. incorporated by royal charter in 1851 there was a provision that, "on the winding up of the affairs of the corp., all & every the proprietors for the time being of any interest or shares in the capital thereof shall be liable to contribute to the payment of the debts & liabilities of the corp." to the extent therein mentioned. The charter also contained provisions for winding the corp. up in the event of a loss of a certain amount of the capital, or in the event of the charter being revoked. At the date of the grant of the charter, cos. incorporated by royal charter could be wound up under statutory powers:—Held: the expression "winding up of the affairs of the corp." applied to a winding up under the statutory powers for the time being in force.

8508. Effect of dissolution—On distribution of assets—Division of profits not in accordance with charter.]—Upon the dissolution of a chartered co. the distribution of its assets among the shareholders must be regulated by a consideration of the entire contract inter se, created as well by the dealings of the co. as by the terms of their charter & Acts of Parliament.

The charter of a co., after recognising the fact that £100,000 had been subscribed as the co.'s capital by paid-up shares of £25 each & that £200,000 more was to be raised, declared that the capital of the co. should be £300,000, in shares of £25 each, of which at least two-thirds should be paid up within twelve months from the date thereof, but that the charter should be in full force notwithstanding the remaining one-third should not have been paid up; & it provided that the proprietors, before or after any call, might pay money in advance upon their shares, & that the co. should pay interest upon the moneys so paid in advance, & that every shareholder should be entitled to the "profits & advantages" attending the capital in proportion to the number of shares held by him. By the deed of settlement it was provided that the concurrence of three-fourths of the shareholders should be necessary to enable the directors to make calls. The co. afterwards raised an additional £100,000 by 8000, £25 shares, on which only £12 10s. was paid. They divided profits in proportion to the amount actually paid. On the dissolution of the co.:—Held: the assets were divisible on the same principle, & the shareholders who had paid up £25 per share were not entitled to have £12 10s. per share first paid to them, nor were they entitled to be paid interest, on that sum.—*SOMES v. SECT. 1.—DEFINITION OF FOREIGN COMPANY.

8509. What is a foreign company—Company registered under English Companies Acts—Business carried on abroad—Members foreigners.]—A co. was formed having for its object business connected with land generally, but particularly with land situated abroad; all its directors & registered shareholders were foreigners; all its meetings were held abroad & all its operations related to foreign land & were carried on wholly abroad. It was, however, registered under 1862 Act, & had its registered office in Westminster, where its register of shareholders was kept under the charge of an agent.

There was nothing in the memorandum or arts. of assocn. inconsistent with the management of the co. being in England, but rather they seemed

The general meetings of the co. were, by the arts. of assocn., held in London, but the affairs of the co. were under the control of a council which met at the co.'s office in Paris. By the deed of transfer, which was in the English language & in English form, the co. were to pay the income from the securities to the donor during his life, & after his death to apply them for the benefit of Russian Jews. The securities at the death of the donor were still, for the most part, foreign securities situate abroad:—Held: the co. was an English co., & as the trusts of the deed would have to be enforced in an English ct., succession duty & estate duty were payable under the Succession Duty Act, 1853 (c. 51) & the Finance Act, 1894 (c. 30), on the death of the donor, upon the principal value of the securities.—*A.-G. v. The trust co. was appointed exor. of B.'s will, & took upon itself the administration of the estate passing by the will. Shortly afterwards, the trust co. was declared insolvent, & an order was made for its winding-up. It was found that the trust co. was indebted to the B. estate in a sum of more than $2,000; & this action was brought by the A.-G., upon the bond given by debts., to recover the amount of the penalty, with a view to satisfying the claim of the B. estate, as a creditor of the trust co.:—Held: debts. were not in a position to raise the defence that the bond was illegal & void because the provisions of the Loan & Trusts Corpns. Act, requiring a co. incorporated by or under a statute of Canada to obtain registration in Ontario & a licence from the provincial authorities, were ultra vires of the Ontario Legislature; for, when the trust co. acquiesced in the requirements of the provincial authorities, & procured the bond, the co. either recognised the right as existing, or, regarding it as doubtful, decided not to dispute it. If the trust co. relied on the powers conferred upon it by its Act of Incorporation, it in the most formal manner decided to supplement them by obtaining the added powers afforded by registration under the provincial statute. Even where principals are not bound, sureties may still be liable. Whether the provincial Act was or was not ultra vires, no defect or illegality was established in regard to the bond itself; & there was no evidence that the trust co. had not power to give the security.—A.-G. k. ————.]—Effect on liability in winding up.—A mtge. was given by the N. L. Co., to secure a certain bond issue, the trustee under the mtge. deed was a foreign corp'n., not having a licence to do business within the province of New Brunswick, as required by Cons. St. N. B. 1903, c. 18, & therefore, under the provisions of the provincial Act, 5 Edw. VII., c. 28, was unable to take or hold property in New Brunswick. After the bonds were issued & the mtge. executed, the N. L. Co. went into liquidation, & a liquidator was appointed under the provisions of the Winding-up Act (R. S. C. 1906, c. 144):—Held: while the mtge. deed was not effectual to convey to the foreign corp'n. the property it was intended or purported, to convey, yet, inasmuch as it was clear upon the face of the bonds that the bondholders acquired the bonds under an agreement that they were to be secured by a mtge. upon the property of the N. L. Co. the bondholders (who were not responsible for the failure of the co. to appoint a competent trustee), were entitled in equity as against the co. & its liquidator, to a first charge, as security for the payment of such bonds, upon all the property of the co., specified as intended to be so charged in the bonds themselves & in the ineffectual mtge. deed.—HARRISON v. NEPISQUIT LUMBER CO. (1911), 11 E. L. R. 314.—CAN.

His course of business was to receive applications for insurance addressed to the co., which he would forward to B., an insurance broker in Boston. The latter would send the application to the co., when, if it was accepted, a policy would be delivered to him, & the premium charged against him at the time. The policy was then forwarded by B. to A., who would deliver it to the assured taking the premium note direct to himself, & sending to B. his own note for nine-tenths of the amount (the balance being kept for commissions):—Held: this was an indirect carrying on of insurance in the province by the co., contrary to the Act of Assembly, 19 Vict. cap. 45.—JONES v. The co. had an office in Toronto, over which their name was affixed, with a superintendent, cashier, & a number of stenographers, to which all money collected in this province were forwarded, & from there remitted to the head office; while the bound lesson books, etc., for convenience of passage through the customs, were sent from the head office to Toronto, & after the payment of the duties were forwarded by the postmaster to the students. Salaries were paid by the cashier at Toronto out of the moneys in his hands:—Held: pltfs. were carrying on business in Ontario within the meaning of the Act, so as to necessitate their taking out a licence, & their omission to do so precluded them from maintaining an action for the recovery of money claimed to be due from one of the enrolled students.—INTERNATIONAL TEXT BOOK CO. v. (1) To a declaration by a railway co. for calls made pursuant to Colonial Acts, which provided that no calls should in any one year exceed a prescribed amount, deft. pleaded that the directors made more calls for money, & to a greater amount than were prescribed by the Acts; & that the call sued upon was a call made in excess of the calls by the Acts empowered to be made. Pltf. replied that the calls in the plea mentioned, other than the call sued for, were not authorised by the Acts, & were therefore void; & that the call sued for was not a call made in excess of the calls empowered to be made, if the void calls were not reckoned as calls empowered to be made; & that deft. did not pay the void calls, or any part thereof, nor were the same, or any part thereof, paid on the shares in respect of which deft. was sued:—Held: the replication did not answer the plea, inasmuch as it was consistent with the plea that the co. had treated the unauthorised calls as valid, & received the greater part of the money in respect of them.

(2) As against the co., as long as the call remains on their proceedings, & not withdrawn or notice given that they do not mean to enforce, it is subject to this difficulty, that is to say, that against all persons claiming under the call:—Per Lord, C.B.—*WELLAND RY. 8520. Liability to stamp duty—Stamp Act, 1891 (c. 39), s. 82—Marketable security—Promissory notes secured by bonds.]—An American railway co., as security for a temporary loan, handed through their agents in England to the lender an instrument which stated that for value received they promised to pay twelve months after date to the order of themselves the amount named in it. It also contained a statement that it was one of a series & was secured by a deposit of gold bonds which (or a sufficient amount of their proceeds) were to be held in trust for the benefit of the holders of the instruments. The instruments were dealt in upon the Stock Exchange, but were not officially quoted there:—Held: the instrument was not a mere promissory note, but that as it contained a contract that the holder should be entitled to the benefit of the security it was a marketable security within Stamp Act, 1891 (c. 39), s. 82 (1) (b), & was chargeable with stamp duty as such.—*BROWN, SHIPLEY & CO. v. 8522. — — — — — Whether bonds “issued” & “offered for subscription”—Substitution of bonds on reconstruction.]—A scheme for the re-organisation of an American railway co. was prepared, by which it was proposed that an executive committee should be formed in America to carry out the scheme, that a new co. should be formed in America to take over the undertaking of the old co., & that the new co. should issue new bonds in order to take up the bonds of the old co. & provide further capital for the new co.

The English holders of bonds of the old co. were invited by circular to accept the scheme & to deposit their bonds with named depositaries in London, in exchange for which they would subsequently receive bonds of the proposed new co.

The scheme was carried out. The new co. executed & delivered to the appointed trustee in America the stipulated number of new bearer bonds, which were duly certified by the trustee & then handed to the executive committee.

The executive committee had full power to deal with any of the new bonds, by sale, pledge, or otherwise, for the purposes of the scheme & for the uses of the new company in its discretion & without accountability to the new co.

The new bonds in question were forwarded by the executive committee to the depositaries in London, by whom they were handed to the persons who had deposited bonds of the old co.:—Held: the new bonds given to the holders of old bonds in England were neither “issued” nor “offered for subscription” in England within Stamp Act, 1891 (c. 39), s. 82.—*BROWN v. A. Jurisdiction.

8523. Action by company—Extinct under English law.]—In 1914 a Russian bank had its head office in Petrograd & a branch office in London, the manager of which was authorised by a power of attorney to transact business for & bring actions in the name of the bank. By the direction of the Petrograd office the London branch deposited with a London bank certain Brazilian & Chinese Govt. bonds to be held to the order & on account of a French bank as security for a banker's credit opened by the French bank for the benefit of the Russian bank. In & after 1918 the Russian Republic by various decrees & orders nationalised banking in Russia by taking over the assets, share capital & management of all private banks & vesting them in a State Bank, then in a People's Bank, & ultimately in a govt. department. Subsequently the manager of the London branch of the original Russian bank agreed with the French bank to pay off the amount due to the French bank on the banker's credit in return for the bonds. The amount was paid, but the French bank refused to release the bonds. In an action brought in the name of the Russian bank by the manager of the London branch against the French bank & the London bank for the return of the bonds & damages for their detention:—Held: (ATKIN, L.J., diss.) (1) in consequence of the decrees & orders of the Russian Republic the Russian bank had ceased to exist, & with its extinction the authority of the manager of the London branch to bring the action in the bank's name had lapsed; (2) defts. were not precluded by estoppel or otherwise from relying on this absence of authority as a defence to the action.—*RUSSIAN COMMERCIAL & INDUSTRIAL BANK v. 8524. — But still recognised under foreign laws.]—Pltf. bank was incorporated in 1869 according to the law of Russia. It had a branch in Paris. Deft. was a customer of the Paris branch, & under the terms of a special contract made with that branch in France he had financial dealings with the bank previously to the commencement of the Russian revolution in 1917, the result of which was that he was largely indebted to the bank. By decrees of the Soviet Govt. of Russia made in 1917 & 1918 all private banks in Russia, including pltf. bank, were extinguished & ceased to exist. The Soviet Govt. is recognised by this country, but the French Govt. refuses to recognise it or the validity of its decrees. In 1920 the officials who continued to carry on the business of the Paris branch sued the deft. in this country in the name of pltf. bank to recover the amount of his debt:—Held: as, according to the decision in Russian Commercial & Industrial Bank v. Comptoir d'Escompte de Mulhouse, No. 8523, ante, pltf. bank had ceased to exist, the action could not be maintained notwithstanding that by the law of France, the country where the contract was made, the action would have been maintainable there.—*BANQUE INTERNATIONALE DE COMMERCE DE PETROGRAD v. 8526. — To restrain application to foreign legislature.]—A co. was formed in California for purposes connected with land in that country, but nearly all the shareholders were resident in England. A resolution was passed at a meeting of English shareholders, authorising the trustees to take steps for increasing the preference shares to an extent not allowed by the existing constitution of the co. It appearing that there was no intention to create preference shares, except with the sanction of the Californian legislature:—Held: an injunction ought not to be granted to restrain the co. from acting on the resolution, for the ct. will not in general restrain parties from applying to the legislature, whether of this or of a foreign country.—BILL v. SIERRA NEVADA, ETC. CO. (1859), 1 De G. F. & J. 177; 29 L. J. Ch. 176; 1 L. T. 256; 6 Jur. N. S. 184; 8 W. R. 205; 45 E. R. 326, L. J.

8527. By stranger—On contract made & broken abroad.]—A banking corpn., incorporated under a colonial ordinance, had an agency in London, where they held themselves out as carrying on business. The corpn. was sued by pltf. abroad in respect of a contract made abroad, & alleged to have been broken abroad, the writ being served on the manager of the agency in London:—Held: defts. were liable to be sued in this jurisdiction.—*LHONEX, LIMON & CO. v. l. —.]—A foreign corpn., not registered under the provisions of the Foreign Companies Ordinance, cannot maintain an action or institute proceedings unless it be shown by such corpn. that the contract in respect of which such action is brought arose by an order given to a traveller in the province or by correspondence, & that the corpn. have not in the province any place of business.—Re NELSON FORD LUMBER CO. (1908), 8 W. m. Action against company.]—If a foreign corpn., having a branch office in N. S. W., carries on business there in such a way as to be resident for the purposes of service of process then such corpn. can be properly sued in N. S. W. for every cause of action arising there on which a home corpn. may be sued.—GREAT COBAR COPPER MINING CO. v. COMPTOIR D'ESCOMPTE DE PARIS (1889), 10 N. S. W. L. R. 55; 5 N. S. W. N. 100.—AUS.

IMPERIAL MARINE & TRANSPORT INSURANCE CO.* (1902), 2 S. R. N. S. W. 257; 19 N. S. W. N. 177.—AUS.

o. — By administrator of deceased servant.]—Defts., a foreign co., had a place of business in Victoria, where it carried on a trading business, although its principal place of business & head office, where meetings were held, were in England. Pltf., as administrator appointed by the ct. here, to the estate of deceased servant of the co., served a writ on one of the co.'s managers at Victoria. On an application to have the writ set aside:—Held: as by the co.'s rules the power to appoint, pay & dismiss, was with the English office, & as, by agreement, deceased's account was kept at that office, & the balance due him from time to time was payable there, the English office must be regarded as the domicile of the co., & the co. could not be sued here by pltf. as administrator of deceased.—*WILSON v. 8528. Action by shareholder against directors—Misapplication of funds.—A bill having been filed by a shareholder in an Irish railway, on behalf of himself & all other shareholders, except defts., to restrain the improper payment by defts. of the moneys of the railway co.:—Held: notwithstanding one only of defts. was permanently resident in England, & all the others in Ireland, & the books & papers of the co. were in Ireland, an order of the ct., directing service of a subpœna to appear & answer pltf.'s bill on the railway co. in Ireland, was valid & proper.—LEWIS v. 8529. ——— Company never registered.—A prospectus was issued by the promoters of an undertaking for the establishment of a co. in France as a société en commandite. A number of shares having been taken, the statutes of the co. were drawn up in the French language, & executed in France by the shareholders, most of them English subjects, by which the co. was constituted a société en commandite, with limited liability, & conseil de surveillance & gérant, or manager, appointed. The co. never was registered. A bill was filed by some of the shareholders against the members of the conseil de surveillance & others, charging misapplication of the property of the co., & praying for an account, & for the removal of the conseil de surveillance & of the gérant, & the appointment of others to act in their stead:—Held: defts. having obtained money on representations that they were enabled to act according to the scheme of the intended assocn., & acquired property on the faith of those representations, the ct. would secure the money & property for the benefit of those persons for whom they had undertaken to apply it, although it might be impossible to carry out the purposes for which the money was originally subscribed.

Semble: The want of registration does not make a co. illegal as between the shareholders & the promoters, whose duty it was to register it.—BUTT v. MONTEAUX (1854), 1 K. & J. 98; 3 Eq. Rep. 190; 24 L. J. Ch. 99; 24 L. T. O. S. 106; 3 W. R. 82; 69 E. R. 385.

q. ———.]—A foreign co. was not incorporated in the T. where it had not chosen to be sued but where it possessed immovable property. It was registered & had its head office & board of directors abroad:—Held: in the absence of any arrest to found jurisdiction, the ct. had no jurisdiction to entertain a suit against such co.—HAYDON & Co.'s TRUSTEE v. 8530. Parties—Directors personally liable under foreign law.—A bill stated that pltf. entered into certain contracts with D. for the repair, etc., of the steamship Great Eastern, & that those contracts were afterwards transferred by D. to deft. société, a French co., with limited liability, having offices in France & England. The bill further alleged that, according to the law of France, directors of cos. were personally liable for debts incurred by their cos. unless certain provisions & requisites were complied with, & that in this case those requisites had not been complied with, & it was prayed that certain goods on board the Great Eastern, upon which the pltf. had a lien under the terms of their contract, might be sold, & the proceeds applied towards payment of the pltf.'s claim; & if the assets of the co. should be insufficient, the directors might be declared personally liable to make good the deficiency.

On demurrer for want of equity by E., one of the directors:—Held: (1) the allegations were sufficient to show that E. was a director at the time the contracts were entered into; (2) the directors were personally liable under the French law; (3) the ct. had the power of taking the accounts of the co., inasmuch as it had an office in England; (4) E. was a proper party to the taking of such accounts & to the sale of the goods.—BOWER v. 8532. Effect of foreign liquidation—On contract with English company.—A contract for delivery & acceptance of certain quantities of copper was made between a co. whose registered office was in the United Kingdom, & a co. incorporated under decrees & arts. of assocn. according to the law of France, with their principal office in Paris & having no place of business in the United Kingdom. Subsequently the French co. was declared to be in judicial liquidation under the direction & supervision of the Tribunal of Commerce of the Seine:—Held: the judicial liquidation in France did not revoke the contract.—THARSIS SULPHUR & COPPER CO., LTD. v. 8533. Receiver appointed in English proceedings—Before liquidation abroad—Receiver not discharged.]—Defts., a French co., being indebted to pltfs. in a sum of £42,000, allowed judgment to go against them by default on Apr. 1889. On Apr. 8 a receiver was appointed in England of the property, then in this country, the subject of the action, in which defts. had an interest. On Apr. 15 defts. were declared by a French ct. to be in liquidation, & a liquidator was appointed. By French law the appointment of a liquidator dates back ten days earlier than the date of his appointment:—Held: the appointment of a liquidator in France could not be held to relate back so as to override the appointment by English law of a receiver of property situate in England.—MASON & BARRY, LTD. v. 8534. ——— Right of creditors to prove in foreign liquidation.]—Defts. having on Apr. 4, 1889, obtained a judgment against the Société des Métaux, a receivership order was made on Apr. 8, appointing a person to receive the interest of the Société in certain copper & pay the proceeds towards satisfying the judgment. On Apr. 15 the Société, a French co., was placed in judicial liquidation, & pltfs. were appointed liquidators. On May 11 defts. proved in the liquidation in Paris & were admitted.

the sale of the partnership property, which was situated in Canada, & after appointment of a receiver in England of the estate in England & Canada, filed a bill in this ct. for like purpose, & this ct. appointed the agent of the receiver, receiver here; after which it appeared that the co. went into liquidation, the liquidator being the same person as had been appointed receiver in England. Pltf., after an amendment of his bill stating these proceedings, moved for a decree in the terms of the prayer of the bill; but the ct. refused to make such a decree until it was shown what the position of matters was in England, & the steps about to be taken there, so as to avoid any conflict between the two cts., & mould the order here to give the appropriate relief, without interfering with the steps which were being taken in England for the same object.—LOUTH v. Certain Irish contributories had failed to pay the amount of the call. c. Effect of foreign liquidation—On jurisdiction of local court—When company formed under foreign jurisdiction.]—The Winding-up Act, R. S. C. 1906, c. 144, applies to all cos. carrying on business in Canada. The jurisdiction of the ct. to wind up a co. is not taken away or defeated by the fact that a winding-up order has already been made in a foreign country—even in the country of the co.'s origin. As soon as a winding-up order is made, the provisions of Dominion Statute apply, & control the entire situation.—Re BREAKWATER CO. (1914), 33 O. L. R. 65; 7 O. W. N. 572.—CAN.

8535. Effect of foreign liquidation—On jurisdiction of English court.]—Re MATHESON BROTHERS, LTD., No. 8542, post.

8536. ———.]—A colonial co., having a branch office in England, was being wound up voluntarily in the colony, subject to the vision of the ct. Upon a creditor's petition presented for the compulsory winding up of the co. in England, it was arranged between the co. & the co. that the English manager should be appointed the attorney of the colonial liquidator, & that the petition should stand over generally upon the undertaking of the co. not to remove the English assets without the leave of the ct., &

may be needed to enable the co. to pursue some of the special objects for which it has been formed. Under a winding-up order made by the Ct. of Ch. under the above Act, the real & personal assets in N.Z. of an English co. are effectually bound. Therefore, where the leave of the Ct. of Ch. has not been obtained to bring or prosecute an action in the colony against a co. after a winding-up order has been made, the ct. will, on motion, stay the proceedings.—BANK OF OTAGO v. COMMERCIAL BANK OF NEW ZEALAND, Mac. 233.—N.Z.

e. ——— On execution levied by local judgment creditor—Stay of execution.]—Where the ct. grants recognition to foreign liquidator, under a foreign scheme of voluntary liquidation, it will stay execution by a local creditor who with knowledge of the facts has proceeded to obtain judgment against the co.—Re AFRICAN FARMS, LTD., [1906] T. S. 373.—S. AF.

f. Principal administration — In country under whose law company formed—When assets not all under same jurisdiction.]—In the administration of the affairs of an insolvent co. which has assets & liabilities in different jurisdictions, the English law requires, that subject to any positive local law, the assets of the co. are to be treated in such manner as to provide for the equal treatment of all creditors, irrespective of the place where their debts were contracted or their proofs made. The country or colony under whose law a co. is first formed is to be deemed the domicile of the co., & the administration of the affairs of the co. in that country or colony is to be deemed the principal administration, & all administrations of the affairs of the co. under other jurisdictions are to be deemed ancillary administrations.—Re SHAW (A.) & CO., LTD., Ex p. MACKENZIE (1897), 8 Q. L. J. 93.—AUS.

g. Jurisdiction to make order—When execution levied by foreign judgment creditor.]—The S. Co., incorporated in Victoria, for some time carried on salvaging operations in Tasmania, but meeting with no success to give notice to petitioner of any action which might be thereafter commenced against the co. The judge refused to sanction this arrangement, & made a compulsory order on the ground that this course was for the interest of all parties, but limited the powers of the official receiver to the collection of the English assets, & the settling the list of English creditors, & intimated that some limitation ought to be placed upon his remuneration:—Held: (1) the question being one of convenience, there was no sufficient ground for interfering with the discretion of the ct. below; (2) the liquidator's remuneration must be limited to a percentage on the assets of the co. recovered in England.—Re FEDERAL BANK OF AUSTRALIA, LTD. (1893), 62 L. 8540. Branch offices in England.]—The ct. will not interfere under the winding-up Acts, where there are judicial grounds for holding it not expedient to do so. A joint-stock banking co. established in India, having correspondents & liabilities in this country, suspended payment in India, & proceedings had been taken there by arrangement between certain shareholders in the co. & some of the creditors, in pursuance of which others of the shareholders were sued, who refused to contribute to the payment of the debts according to an assessment unequally made. A shareholder who was thus sued petitioned to have the affairs of the co. wound up under the winding-up Acts; but the ct., presuming on the whole against the expediency of its interfering, declined to make the order, leaving those concerned to their ordinary remedies.—*Re UNION BANK OF CALCUTTA, Ex p. It was therein stated that the affairs of the co. would be conducted by a board of directors in London, where the co. had an office, assisted by a committee in Madrid. 8542. — English assets—English liabilities.]—The ct. has jurisdiction under 1862 Act, s. 199, to wind up an unregistered joint-stock co., formed, & having its principal place of business in New Zealand, but having a branch office, agent, assets, & liabilities in England. The pendency of a foreign liquidation does not affect the jurisdiction of the ct. to make a winding-up order, in respect of the co. under such liquidation, although the ct. will as a matter of international comity have regard to the order of the foreign ct. It being alleged that proceedings to wind up the co. were pending in New Zealand, the ct., in order to secure the English assets until proceedings should be taken by the New Zealand liquidators to make them available for the English creditors pari passu discontinued them & went into voluntary liquidation in Victoria. While the operations were being carried on in Tasmania, the co. had no office there. Two Tasmanian creditors obtained judgments against the co., & caused the Tasmanian assets of the co., a stranded ship & gear, to be seized under a writ of fi. fa. A Victorian creditor filed a petition for winding up the co. under Foreign Companies Acts & obtained, ex parte, an order restraining the execution creditors from further proceeding with the execution & directing the bailiff to withdraw from possession. The execution creditors applied to the ct. to rescind this order & subsequently opposed the winding-up petition on the ground that the ct. had no jurisdiction to make a winding-up order:—Held: in the circumstances the ct. had jurisdiction to entertain the petition; & the co. should be wound up, & also the restraining order should not be disturbed.—*Re SONGVAAR, ETC. h. Liquidator — Appointed under foreign jurisdiction—Necessity for recognition — When security required.]—Where a foreign co. under liquidation abroad, has assets in the Transvaal, the proper course is for the foreign liquidators to apply to the ct. to recognise their position & capacity in this Colony. The ct. will deal with each such application on its own merits, & if satisfied that the convenient & proper course is to avoid a double liquidation, will recognise such liquidators, but may safeguard the interests of local creditors by directing security to be lodged or otherwise.—DONALDSON v. BRITISH SOUTH AFRICAN ASPHALTE & MANUFACTURING CO., LTD., [1905] T. S. 753.—S. AF.

k. — Conditions for protection of local creditors' interests.]—When a foreign co., carrying on business in the Cape Province, goes into liquidation & a liquidator is appointed in the foreign country, the ct., in granting recognition of the foreign liquidator, will impose such conditions as may be necessary for the protection of the interests of local creditors, but cannot appoint a local liquidator to act jointly with the foreign liquidator in the liquidation of the business of the co. in the Cape Province.—Ex p. ATKEY (LONDON), LTD. (LIQUIDATOR), [1921] C. P. D. 692.—S. AF.

l. Procedure—When security for costs required.]—Sect. 287 of Companies Act, 1910, does not apply to a co. not registered in Victoria; but the ct. may, in the exercise of its general direction, order pltf. foreign co., in liquidation, to give security for costs, at all events, where it is not shown that pltf. will have sufficient assets in Victoria, when judgment is given, to satisfy costs which may be awarded to deft.—*J. 8551. Company not fully formed—No incorporation.]—In Apr. 1871, a prospectus was published of a co. to be called the Imperial Anglo-German Bank, the head office to be in Berlin, with a branch in London. The prospectus published the names of the secretary & of twelve directors, five of whom were resident in Berlin & seven, some of whom were Germans, in England. It stated that by the provisions of the German law, under which the co. was to be incorporated, appcts. for shares could not be made liable before the incorporation of the co., & that their money must therefore be returned in full if the undertaking should not be proceeded with. It further stated that a moiety of the shares had been subscribed for in Germany, & 10 per cent paid thereon, which was required by the German law before the incorporation of a co., & it invited subscriptions for the remaining moiety. On May 20, a large order for advertisements was given at the temporary London office of the inchoate co. to R., an advertising agent, by the secretary in the presence of the principal promoter of the co. The remaining moiety of the shares was allotted in England, & 10 per cent paid thereon. But it having turned out subsequently that the first moiety of the shares had not, in fact, been subscribed for in Germany, nor the requisite percentage paid thereon, the co. was never incorporated. The objects of the society were to form a fund, from which money might be advanced to enable shareholders to build or purchase a dwelling-house or other buildings, or to lend money to each other on approved personal security; five per cent. interest was to be charged on all moneys advanced by the society. The society consisted of more than twenty members, & was not registered under any statute. The society advanced a sum of money to defts., who signed promissory notes by way of security for the loan; & when T. went out of office, he indorsed the promissory notes to pltf., who succeeded him. Pltf. having sued upon the notes for the benefit of the society:—Held: the society not having been registered, was rendered illegal by 1862 Act, s. 4, it being an assocn. having "for its object the acquisition of gain," within the meaning of that enactment. Pltf. could not be in a better position than the society, & therefore could not recover upon the promissory notes.—SHAW v. BENSON (1883), 11 Q. B. D. 563; 52 L. J. Q. B. 575; 49 L. T. 651, C. A.

Acts, & advertisements were issued for creditors on which a claim was made by U. Brothers for printing & posting prospectuses. It appeared that U. Brothers were already suing the committee & others in the Q. B. Div. for payment of their debt. On a summons to disallow their claim in this action:—Held: the only ground for the claim was that the syndicate had taken the benefit of the work & therefore the claim must rest on a quantum meruit. That the doctrine did not apply where other persons were liable, & as the persons or some of them sued in the Q. B. Div. appeared to be liable, the claim in this action ought not to be allowed.—HUME v. RECORD REIGN JUBILEE SYNDICATE (1899), 80 L. T. 404.

In 1873 it made over its assets & liabilities to a limited co., which was unsuccessful, & passed a resolution for winding up. The solrs. who had acted for the unregistered co. sent in a bill consisting of costs incurred about the formation of that co., costs incurred in defending actions brought against some of the members which the solrs. were retained by the manager & committee of the co. to defend, & other costs for work done in the carrying on of the co. on the like retainer:—Held: the solrs. could not obtain an order to wind up the co., for, as the co. was illegal no legal debt arose in respect of that part of their demand which related to the formation of the co., or was immediately connected with carrying it on; & as to the rest, the solrs. could not show that they were retained on behalf of all the members except by producing a deed of settlement, which was on the face of it illegal. Qu.: whether an order can be made for winding up such an illegal assocn. on the application either of members or creditors.—Re SOUTH WALES ATLANTIC S.S. 8588. ——— Non-registration under Building Societies Act, 1874 (c. 42).]—A building society was established in 1868 under above Act, but had never been incorporated under any subsequent Act. In 1900 the society was found to be insolvent, & a petition was presented by two creditors to wind it up, & the present petitioner had knowledge of it, but that petition was subsequently withdrawn. All the undisputed creditors except the present petitioner & three others had accepted a composition, & the whole of the assets had been sold by the directors, who had contributed out of their own pockets to provide the composition. A petition was now presented by a creditor to wind up the society. Semble: although in a literal sense the society was, in the words of 1862 Act, s. 4, "formed in pursuance of some other Act of Parliament," that is, the repealed Building Societies Act, 1836, the word "formed" in that sect. means formed & having its existence recognised under the provisions "of some other Act," & therefore the society, not having been incorporated under the Building Societies Act, 1874, c. 42, was an illegal society, & consequently the ct. had no jurisdiction to make a winding-up order:—Held: the petition must be dismissed, but the society, having pleaded its own illegality as a defence, was not entitled to costs.—Re ILFRACOMBE PERMANENT MUTUAL BENEFIT BUILDING SOCIETY, [1901] 1 Ch. 102; 70 L. for ten years. On the formation of the society W. entered the name of M. as a subscriber for eight shares in the co., he himself having also eight shares. M. never executed the deed of the co. The subscriptions in respect of M.'s shares were always paid by W. At the termination of the ten years the affairs of the co. were wound up & W. claimed to participate in the proceeds of the co. in respect of the eight shares subscribed in the name of M. as well as his own. The co. had never been enrolled or registered under 1844 Act. M. claimed the proceeds in respect of his eight shares so standing in his name. W. resisted this on the ground of the illegality of the co. On a bill filed by M. for the proceeds of the eight shares:—Held: as they had been separated & ear-marked & were standing in the name of M. he was entitled to the benefit of these eight shares.—*MASON v. 8593. Power of company to alter.]—(1) By the deed of settlement of the British Iron Co., of Apr. 28, 1825, the general body of subscribers covenanted with three members of the co. to pay such instalments upon their shares as should be called for by the directors, in pursuance of the powers vested in them. Deft. having afterwards become the proprietor of several shares by indentures of assignment, executed an indenture in Mar. 1840, by which, after the death of one of the three members, he covenanted with the other two to observe & keep all the covenants in the deed of settlement, & also to pay all such instalments upon his shares as should be called for by the directors of the co., in pursuance of their powers. In July, 1840, an act for granting certain powers to the co. was passed, which enacted, "That all actions, suits, & other proceedings whatsoever, at law or in equity, for any injury or wrong done to any real or personal property of the said co., or upon or in respect of any present or future liability to the co. upon any bonds, covenants, bills of exchange, promissory notes, contracts, or agreements, which already have been, or hereafter shall be given or entered into, to or with the said co., or wherein the said co. is or shall be interested," & all proceedings in bkpcy., " & generally all other proceedings whatsoever, at law or in equity, to be commenced, instituted, or carried on by or on behalf of the said co., or wherein the said co. is or shall be concerned or interested, against any person or persons, or body or bodies politic or corporate, or others, whether such person or persons, or any of such persons, or such body or bodies politic or corporate, or any member or members thereof respectively, is or are, or shall be, or shall have been a proprietor or proprietors of the said co. or not, shall & lawfully may be commenced, made, executed, instituted, presented, & prosecuted or carried on in the name of the person who shall be the secretary of the said co. at the time when such action, etc., shall be commenced or instituted, or in the name of any one director for the time being of the said co., or in the name of any one proprietor for the time being of the said co., as the nominal pltf., pursuer, complainer, or petitioner, or as acting in any other character for or on behalf of the said co.”:—Held: an action upon the covenant of deft. for calls was properly brought in the name of the secretary, though the covenant was entered into with two members of the co.

(2) By the deed of settlement of the co., it was provided, “That the direction & management of the affairs of the co. should be confided to sixteen directors, to be chosen from among the proprietors, in the manner thereafter mentioned, & also that no business should be transacted at any meeting of directors, unless seven directors be present at the commencement of the business, & when a division takes place upon the whole or any part of the business.” By a subsequent clause, it was provided, “That for the better conduct & management of the affairs of the co., it should be lawful for a special general meeting called for the purpose, from time to time to amend, alter, or annul, either wholly or in part, all or any of the clauses of the deed, or of the existing regulations & provisions of the co., & to make any new or other regulations or provisions in lieu thereof, or in addition thereto: & such new regulations & provisions, & such amendment, alteration, or annulment, if confirmed by a subsequent special general meeting, called for the purpose, at a distance of not less than two weeks, nor more than four weeks from such preceding general meeting, shall in such case, but not till then, be binding & conclusive upon the proprietors; provided always, that such amended or altered regulations & provisions do not extend to amend, alter, or annul all or any part of the regulations & provisions established & settled by those presents, for confining the individual responsibilities of each proprietor, as between himself or herself & his or her co-proprietors, to the amount of his or her shares in the capital of the co. for the time being.” A subsequent clause also provided “that the directors of the co. should never consist of more or less than sixteen”:—Held: upon the construction of these clauses taken together, it was competent to two special general meetings, duly convened & held, to alter the number of the directors & of the quorum.

(3) By the deed of settlement it was provided, “That the capital of the co. should consist of the sum of £2,000,000 sterling, divided into 20,000 shares, of £100 each, & should be raised from among the proprietors for the time being,” in the manner therein mentioned. By resolutions subsequently passed & confirmed at meetings duly convened & holden in 1826, it was resolved, “That the capital to be raised for the purposes of the co. should no longer consist of the sum of £2,000,000 sterling, divided into 20,000 shares of £100 each, as declared by the deed of settlement, but should be limited to the sum of £1,000,000 sterling, & should be considered as divided into 20,000 shares of £50 each.” By resolutions in 1838, the resolutions of 1826 were rescinded, & the original amount of capital & shares was again restored:—Held: the amount of capital & of the shares was part of the constitution of the co., & could not be altered by the above resolutions, not being a matter within the meaning of the clause above set out relating to the conduct & management of the affairs of the co.—SMITH v. GOLDSWORTHY (1843), 4 Q. B. 430; 3 Gal. & Dav. 448; 12 L. J. Q. B. 192; 7 Jur. 389; 114 E. R. 960.

8594. Capacity—Infant.—By 3 Vict., c. lxxxvi., passed for the establishment & government of an institution called the Royal Naval School, it was provided by sect. 3, that “any person” who should pay to the treasurer of the institution the amount therein fixed should be a member of the corp. One of defts., on whose behalf the required subscription had been paid, was an infant & a pupil at the school, & voted at a meeting of the institution at which an important proposal affecting the future of the school was debated. Upon a summons raising the question whether the expression “any person” included an infant so that he could become a member of the corp. & vote at meetings:—Held: there being nothing in the above Act to show that the word “person” included an infant, & having regard to the fact that the corp. was formed for the establishment & management of a school, & that every member of the corp. was eligible for appointment to the council of the institution, the legislature could not have intended that the membership of the corp. should include minors; & the infant, therefore, was not eligible as a member.—*Re ROYAL NAVAL SCHOOL, SEYMOUR v. 8595. What constitutes — Subscriber — Paying deposit on shares—But not signing contract.—By the Thames Tunnel Act, 5 Geo. 4, c. clvi., s. 23, it was enacted, that the persons who had subscribed, or should thereafter subscribe or advance money towards making the tunnel, should pay the sums by them subscribed at the time & place & in the manner directed by the co., & in case any such subscribers should neglect to pay, the co. were empowered to sue for & recover the money. By sect. 91, reciting that the probable expenses would amount to £160,000, & that more than four-fifths part of such expenses had already been subscribed by several persons under a contract, binding them, their heirs, etc., for payment of the sums so subscribed by them, it was enacted, that the whole £160,000 should be subscribed in like manner, before the Act should be put into force:—Held: the word “subscriber” in the Act meant only those who had stipulated to pay, & not those who had paid money, & that a person whose name was inserted in the Act, & who had paid a deposit on shares, but who had not signed the contract, was not a subscriber within the Act, nor liable to be sued by the co.—*THAMES TUNNEL CO. v. Execution against members—For debts of company.]—A statute enacted that it should be lawful for pltf. to cause execution upon any judgment obtained by him in an action against the nominal deft. to be issued against all or any of the shareholders for the time being of the co., & that if such execution should be ineffectual, then it should be lawful for him to issue execution against any person who was a shareholder at the time the contract was entered into, provided that no person having ceased to be a shareholder should be liable for any debt for which he would not have been liable as a partner:—Held: the execution should issue in the first instance against those persons who were shareholders at the time it was sued out, provided they were shareholders at the time of the contract, & would have been liable to pltf., if the action had been against them, instead of the nominal deft.—BRADLEY v. EYRE (1843), 11 M. & W. 432; 1 Dow. & L. 260; 12 L. J. Ex. 450; 1 L. T. O. S. 111; 152 E. R. 873.

8599. Liability of executor—Death of shareholder before judgment obtained against company.]—A private Act of Parliament incorporated the shareholders of a joint-stock co., & provided that any judgment obtained against the co. might be enforced, after due diligence against the property of the co., against the person, property & effects of any shareholder for the time being, or any former shareholders, in his natural or individual capacity, where such former shareholder was a shareholder at the time of the making of the contract, etc., in respect of which the judgment had been obtained:—Held: an executor of a person, who was a shareholder at the time a bond was executed by the co., & continued a shareholder till his death, but died before judgment on the bond was obtained against the co., was not liable on a sci. fa. against the goods of the deceased.—*POOLE v. By the terms of their Act of Parliament resps. were not to be bound to see to the execution of any trust affecting any of their shares:—Held: they were not liable for registering a transfer of shares executed in breach of trust by the exors., although they had notice that the shares were held in common with others by the transferors as exors. for trust purposes, & had a copy of the will in their possession; & although previous transfers of others of the testator's shares contained express reference to the trusts of the will. The co. was afterwards registered under 1862 Act, & ordered to be wound up under supervision. On application by A. to have his name removed from the list of contributories:—Held: the word "issue" referred to the issue of certificates, & the word "vest" to the vesting of shares so as to become the property of the holder for all purposes; but the irregularity of issuing certificates before one-third was paid did not relieve A., the shareholder, of his liability, & A.'s name must remain upon the list of contributories.—Re WEST LONDON WHARVES & WAREHOUSES CO., LTD., PURDEY'S CASE (1868), 16 W. 8612. — Transfer to avoid liability—Validity.]—By a special Act of Parliament, passed in 1882, eight persons were incorporated into a co., & were made first directors thereof, "to continue in office until the first ordinary meeting held after the passing of the Act." The co. was not registered under 1862 Act. No ordinary meeting of the co. was ever held; & in 1887 an action was brought against the co. to recover certain penalties payable under the Act. While the action was pending the eight first directors held meetings at which they allotted to themselves their qualifying shares, paid a call thereon, & applied the money in payment to one of them of preliminary expenses which under the Act were payable by the co., but which he had paid or was liable to pay. Five of them then transferred their shares to another of them in consideration of money paid to the transferee. Judgment was given against the co. in the action, & pltf. presented a petition for the winding up of the co.:—Held: the transfers of their shares by the five directors being for the purpose of escaping their liability, were fraudulent & void, & therefore there were in fact eight members of the co., & the ct. had jurisdiction under 1862 Act, s. 199, to make a winding-up order.—Re SOUTH LONDON FISH MARKET CO. (1888), 39 Ch. 8615. — Sufficiency of service.]—By an Act incorporating a joint-stock co., the directors were empowered to make calls, giving twenty days' notice of the time & place of payment in the London Gazette & in two or more of the daily London newspapers; & it was enacted, that, if any proprietor of shares should neglect or refuse to pay his calls "during the space of three calendar months next after the time appointed for payment thereof," the person so neglecting or refusing should absolutely forfeit all his share in the capital stock of the co., & all profits & advantages thereof, to & for the use & benefit of the co.; & all shares so forfeited should or might at any time thereafter be sold at a public sale; but that "no advantage should be taken of such forfeiture of any share or shares until after thirty days' notice should have been given by the directors, under the hand of the clerk of the co., to the owner thereof, by notice in writing left at his usual or last place of abode, nor unless the same should be declared to be forfeited at some general or special general meeting of the proprietors which should be held not earlier than three calendar months next after the said forfeiture should happen." A., B., & Co. carried on business in Austin Friars, A.'s private residence being in Hyde Park Gardens. The firm stopped payment in Sept. 1847, & in Mar. 1848, the partnership was dissolved, though the office in Austin Friars was not closed for two or three years after. Upon the stoppage of the firm, A. gave up his private residence, & in May, 1849, he went to reside on the continent. Some time before May, 1852, a board was, without the knowledge of A., affixed to the office in Austin Friars, directing that letters & communications for A., B., & Co., should be left at the office of C. Before A. left England, it was the duty of the clerk at the office in Austin Friars to forward all letters addressed to A., which came there, to his residence in Hyde Park Gardens; & after A. left England, B. gave directions that letters & communications for either of the partners should be forwarded to D., who had been a member of the firm; & D. gave directions that all letters or communications for A. should be forwarded to E.; but E. had no authority to act for A. touching his private affairs. A. was the holder of 200 shares in the co. incorporated by the above-mentioned Act, & was one of the directors thereof. At a general meeting held in Mar. 1851, his shares were declared forfeited for non-payment of calls, & on May 15, 1852, a notice of the forfeiture, enclosed in an envelope addressed to A., was left with C., with a request that he would "procure the acceptance of service on behalf of A." C. believed he sent it to D., but neither of them had any recollection of having seen it: & it never reached the hands or came to the knowledge of A.:—Held: not a sufficient service of the notice, although in the deed of transfer of the shares to him, in the resolution appointing him a director of the co. & in every document signed by him in relation to the affairs of the co., he was described as "of 8 Austin Friars."—*VAN DIEMEN'S LAND CO. v. The scheme was not registered pursuant to the requirements of the Joint-Stock Companies Registration Act, 1844 (c. 110). An Act of Parliament was obtained for incorporating the co., in which was a proviso saving the rights of all parties who had entered into any agreements with the provisional trustees. The promoters filed their bill against the co. for the specific performance of the agreement, to which defts. demurred; but the same was overruled on the ground that, whatever objection there might have been before the Act was obtained on the ground that the contract was made before registration, yet, as the Act obtained, & the clause was inserted saving the right of all parties, the co. must be assumed to have waived all objections with regard to registration & cognisant of all the terms of the agreement.—BROWN v. B Rights and Liabilities of Lenders.

Compare Part IX., Sect. 4, ante.

8633. Money lent after company's borrowing powers exhausted—Subrogation to rights of repaid creditors.—The principle of equity whereby a person who makes a loan to a co. with limited borrowing powers, after those powers have been exceeded, is entitled to be subrogated to the rights of a creditor of the co. whose debt has been paid out of the loan, is not confined to debts or liabilities incurred previously to the loan, but extends to bonâ fide debts or liabilities accruing subsequently to the date of the loan.

An equitable claim, acquired by subrogation, against a co., in accordance with this principle, is itself a liability of the co. within the meaning of the principle.

W. having advanced to a co., whose borrowing powers were limited to £25,000, a larger amount than £25,000, obtained a judgment against the co. for the £25,000, & so much of the sums advanced as was employed in the payment of debts or liabilities of the co. properly payable by them :—Held: W. was not entitled to be subrogated to the rights of creditors whose debts or liabilities had been paid out of the £25,000, inasmuch as at the time the £25,000 was the money of the co., & not of W., & those debts & liabilities had not been paid by the money of W.—*WENLOCK (BARONESS) v. 8634. Priorities—As between lenders & judgment creditors.—A co. incorporated for the purpose of erecting a pier & other works, was authorised by their Act of Parliament to raise a certain capital by the issue of shares & a further sum by mtges. The co. granted mtges. of their rates, tolls, & duties in the form prescribed by the Act. Other creditors of the co. afterwards brought actions against the co., & obtained judgments, & threatened to sue out writs of elegit, & take session of the lands of the co., from which the rates, tolls, & duties were to arise. The co. then obtained an Act of Parliament, authorising them to sell their land to pay their debts. The mtges. filed a bill to restrain the judgment creditors from taking possession of the lands, & praying for a declaration that their mtges. formed the first lien on the lands of the co. A general demurrer by a judgment creditor for want of equity was allowed.—PERKINS v. DEPTFORD PIER CO. (1843), 13 Sim. 277; 12 L. J. Ch. 212; 60 E. R. 108; *sub nom. PERKINS v. 8635. Remedies—Action—When action lies—Effect of provisions of special Act.—The Herne Bay Pier Act, 6 & 7 Will. 4, c. cxii., by sect. 9, enables the co. to borrow money on bond, under their common seal, & the money is to be made payable in such manner, at such time, & at such rate of interest, as they shall think proper, & the rents & profits of the undertaking are to be a security for the money so borrowed, with interest, & all bondholders shall be equally entitled to a claim or lien on the rents & profits in proportion to the sums thereby secured, & without any preference by reason of the priority of date of any such securities, or any other account whatever :—Held: this clause did not prevent a creditor, to whom the co. had given a bond under their common seal, conditioned for the payment of the principal money at a fixed day, & interest in the meantime, from suing the co. for the penalty of that bond; the clause at the end of the sect. only applying to prevent a creditor recovering under his judgment in preference to others.—*BOLCKOW v. The co. was subsequently incorporated by statute 40 & 41 Vict. c. cxvii. & empowered to issue debentures, the debenture-stock & the interest thereon being the first charge on the undertaking & property of the co. There had been default, & a receiver & manager had been appointed in a debenture-holder's action :—Held: under its special Acts the co. had power to sell its land & undertaking, & therefore it was not a co., like a railway co., in which the public had any rights or interest, & the ct. had jurisdiction to order a sale of the undertaking & property.—*SAUNDERS v.
